YOU & YOUR CAR

Be A Saving Driver

You spend 23.8 cents a mile driving—if you have a 1983 car, drive it 15,000 miles a year, and keep it four years. That takes into account price, financing, fees, taxes, routine maintenance, fuel, oil and tires, according to a 1983 American Automobile Association study.

But driving experts say you can put a sizable dent in your car costs by following a simple routine, starting at your service station.

First, buy gasoline with just enough octane rating to prevent serious engine knock. Over-buying octane just wastes money. A modern fuel like Mobil Detergent Gasoline, by inhibiting dirt formation in your carburetor, contributes to money-saving efficiency. If you're pumping your own gasoline, don't overfill; and remember, gasoline expands on a hot day.

A spot survey of 100 cars using self-serve found 56 at least a quart low on oil, 34 needing radiator coolant, 33 with low pressure in at least one tire, 29 needing power-steering fluid, 28 low on brake fluid, 27 needing battery water—all adding to potential car costs.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Anderson visited at the Clarence Howard home last Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Verner Arveson, Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Chervestad were brunch guests at the home of Pastor and Ann Fehr last week. Roger and Ann are residing on the Doris Elsbrener farm and enjoying country living.

Upper Midwest Economy Is Not Recovering Fast

Upper Midwest and Minnesota economies have not recovered quite as robustly as the national economy so far this year, and they may not through the end of 1983. This is the conclusion of economists at the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis who studied four Upper Midwest states — Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Their report on the bank's current "Quarterly Review" says that, unlike the national economy, at midyear much of the regional economy is still lagging the depressed levels of last year. The Fed economists attribute the region's slower recovery to lingering weakness in two important industries: agriculture and mining.

The region has undoubtedly begun to recover, according to the Fed economists. The housing industry, like the nation's, is considerably stronger than a year ago. The national upturn in housing has quickly been translated into increased output and employment in the lumber industry, which is particularly important in some parts of the region. Auto sales and sales of other durable goods also have increased.

The Fed economists report that the farm sector has also improved, but not enough for most farmers' incomes to exceed the depressed levels of a year ago. For the last three years, most of the rural bankers in the Upper Midwest responding to the Fed's quarterly agricultural credit conditions survey have reported income declines among farmers in their areas.

In late June, however, 66 per cent of the respondents said that net farm earnings in their areas in the second quarter roughly matched those of a year ago. According to the Fed economists, the Payment-In-Kind program has clearly helped to stabilize farm incomes, but by itself seems inadequate to restore many farms to profitability.

This weakness in agriculture has also hurt a "considerable number" of other businesses that supply farm inputs or process farm outputs, the Fed economists say.

The region's mining industry — primarily iron and copper mining in the east and copper and energy mining in the west — remains badly depressed at midyear. Low employment levels in mining affect overall employment, and mining is much more important in this region than it is in the rest of the nation.

Due in part to depressed mining activity, Minnesota nonagricultural wage and salary employment in May was down 1.5 per cent from a year ago. Employment was down 30 per cent in the metal mining industry, 3.5 per cent in manufacturing and three per cent in the government sector. Some of Minnesota's large job declines were offset by a 1.5 per cent increase in the services industry, the only major sector in the state to show an increase.

The Fed economists' outlook for mining in the region is not encouraging. While industry analysts expect gas and oil drilling to increase somewhat in the second half of 1983, they expect it to remain well below the high levels of past years. Analysts don't expect iron mining to pick up much the rest of the year.

The Fed economists' outlook for agriculture is not encouraging either. Most area bankers responding to the Fed's late June survey thought farm income in the third quarter would just match last year's weak third-quarter level.

HINTS FOR HAPPINESS

Tips To Make Life Easier And More Enjoyable

Have you ever entered someone's home and been immediately conscious of strong odors, or the lingering reminder of strong vegetables or other disagreeable odors you couldn't quite identify? And were you mystified that your hosts seemed completely unaware of the problem?

Scientists can't really explain why, but it is a fact that different people react differently to odors and fragrances, and that if you live with an odor for awhile, it is possible that you will become sensitized and unaware of problem odors.

Intriguing information. And also worrisome to those who want their homes to convey an aura of freshness, especially when guests arrive.

Fortunately, there are numerous air fresheners available today that work quietly and efficiently to eliminate odors—even odors you're not aware of.

There are, however, a few things to keep in mind before loading up your shopping cart:

- Air fresheners come in a large variety of scents these days. And not everyone will enjoy every selection. Try them one scent at a time in the aerosol cans until you find those that please you and your family most.
- The scent you choose for the kitchen isn't always the one you want in the bedroom. That's why many people select different scents for different rooms—or different parts of the house.
- Some of the newer air fresheners are quite effective against smoke and other strong odors. Read labels to determine which is best for your own situation.
- New air fragrance products are becoming available all the time. One of the most interesting is the air freshener that doubles as a toilet tissue holder—Glade Spinfresh by Johnson Wax—working steadily as it sits holding the paper, and offering a fresh burst of fragrance whenever the roll is pulled.
- Keep air fresheners near pet boxes, in the kitchen, bathrooms and other areas where you know there is the likelihood of odors. That way, even if you don't notice the odor, the air freshener will remind you to spray.

Keep air fresheners in the kitchen, bathrooms and other areas where you know there is the likelihood of odors.

Many Elderly Deficient In Zinc Intake

Careful food choices, frugally made, could help prevent zinc deficiencies, reports the United States department of agriculture (USDA).

But the question raised by nutritionists is, "Can the elderly in the lowest 10 per cent of the income scale in the United States afford to select those foods sufficiently rich in zinc to meet their daily requirements?" Study at the Grand Forks human nutrition center in USDA's agricultural research service indicates that for most low-income persons, food choices are probably a more important determinant of zinc intake than income.

Variety meats, such as liver or beef heart, are rich sources of zinc, says medical officer Harold H. Sandstead, director of the center. Good sources also include veal and other kinds of beef, oyster, dark poultry meat, and crab. For most Americans, the major dietary source of zinc is beef.

"Zinc deficiencies may cause some instances of poor healing of wounds and poor immunity to diseases," says Sandstead. "We don't know the frequency of zinc deficiencies but our concern is based on piecing together information from several studies."

Part of that information comes from studies on interactions among dietary constituents as they affect mineral requirements. Through analysis of nutrient balance data from live-in volunteers of various ages at the center, scientists have generated an equation that estimates zinc requirements, taking protein and phosphorus intakes into account. They compared these requirements to estimates of zinc in the diets of elderly persons who participated in national nutrition surveys and calculated the retail costs of diets with reasonable amounts of zinc.

Equation estimated that 65 to 74-year-old men in the USDA nationwide food consumption survey of 1977-78, who consumed 81 grams of protein daily and 1.2 grams of phosphorus in their diets, required 10.05 milligrams (mg) of zinc. Women of the same age range in the survey who consumed 60 grams of protein and .93 grams of phosphorus required 8.49 mg of zinc.

Researchers estimated the daily retail food cost for reasonable intakes of zinc at $1.59 to $1.82 by planning menus and pricing food in a market in Grand Forks in February 1982. That was near the cost range for diets deemed nutritionally adequate by USDA and defined as thrifty and low cost food plans. For example, January 1982 food costs for the two plans were $1.79 and $2.29, respectively, for females 55 years and over. From these observations the scientists concluded that for most persons, food choices are probably a more important determinant of zinc intake than income.

About 10 per cent of the elderly living alone who participated in USDA's 1977 food consumption survey, however, spent an estimated $1.43 or less daily for food. In October of that year food in the low cost plan cost $1.66 for an elderly woman.

While the cost comparisons raise doubts about the adequacy of zinc in elderly diets, data are insufficient to determine frequency of deficiency, says Sandstead. There is some clinical and laboratory evidence of increased incidence of zinc deficiencies among the poor. For example, a University of Florida study showed that low levels of zinc in hair samples were more frequent in a low income group.

Practical purchases that low-income people could make to help provide zinc in the diet include variety meats such as liver or beef heart, says Sandstead. According to the food consumption survey persons with less than $5,000 annual income tended to do just that. They consumed about 50 per cent more variety meats than did persons with incomes more than $10,000.

While consuming variety meats may increase zinc intake substantially, Sandstead says, consuming poultry, fish, and cheese probably will tend to decrease the zinc intake because of lower zinc contents in these foods.

Sandstead says self-medication with amounts of zinc greater than the recommended dietary allowance may be unwise. Evidence of zinc toxicity has been observed in patients who have received pharmacologic amounts of zinc. He says the interplay among food and drug components that influence bioavailability of zinc needs to be characterized, especially in older persons.

ENGLISH TRAVELER Paul Stephen Miller (right) chats with Ernie Thune of Thief River Falls during a rainy day last week. Miller, who has lived out of a Volkswagen mini-van for the past 10 years and visited 34 countries, has been staying at a shop on the Thune farm south of Thief River Falls for the past couple of weeks. He plans to tour the United States until next May 10 when he returns to England. A record of his experiences has been kept in a series of journals such as the looseleaf notebook above.

English Nomad Believes All Life Is A Privilege

by Marvin Landin
Times Editor

He speaks English, Greek, German, French and about 500 words of Berber, has visited 34 countries, and for the past 10 years has lived out of a Volkswagen mini-van. He has no permanent address, no plans beyond today and no concern about his next meal or his next job. And for a few days he has been a resident of the Thief River Falls community.

Paul Stephen Miller, 48, from the Midlands of England, is a unique mixture of philosopher, anthropologist, machinist, common laborer and vagabond, compressed neatly into a tall, thin, intensely interested and immensely interesting gentleman.

His experiences include five days of prison and interrogation in Jordan while charged with being an Israeli agent and eventually deported to Syria; living two and one-half months each year for the past four years with a family in Morocco which traded its eldest daughter for 300 goats; and crossing the Sahara desert with his van where roads are nonexistent and loose sand invites "sand sticks" requiring several hours to get out.

He had had a little trouble with his van — blew a valve and damaged a piston which left him more or less stranded along the road. With just the tools he carried with him, he took out the motor, disassembled it, repaired the valve with a circle of metal cut out of a tray in his van's tiny refrigerator, put everything back together and — three days later — was ready to continue down the road. He purchased a replacement for the repaired part, but it has functioned well for 2,000 miles and he hasn't replaced it yet.

Driving north on highway 59 a few miles south of Thief River Falls, he noticed a number of large hay bales at the Ernie Thune farm and the thought occurred to him that the farmer might need some help in moving them to a barn. He stopped to inquire, was informed the hay had been sold and the buyer would remove it, but the conversation resulted in his use of Thune's shed and tools in exchange for some clean-up and repair. With no time schedule to meet, he has been around for about two weeks, always intending to leave on a tomorrow that seems to never come.

Thune, in the meantime, has been enthralled by his British visitor who is always willing to share his experiences but does so in a modest and unaffected way. Late last week we obtained the interview with one of the more impressive people we have ever met.

In this country, a person such as Miller might be referred to as a "free spirit," although in a refined and reserved version. He admits his lifestyle is totally selfish in that he need be concerned only about himself, but his activities indicate that he has

COMBINATION of philosopher, anthropoligist, machinst and vagabond, Paul Miller delights in his free lifestyle which is dictated by neither clock nor calendar. He works a few months to earn money for necessities, then travels in other countries, learning to understand the people and their cultures. "It makes me feel so privileged," he says.

Oversize Loads Cause Delays For TRF Traffic

Spectators who gathered in the rain on Thursday to watch four large chemical blending tanks pass through Thief River Falls on Highway 59, speculated on what they were. Many thought they were part of some type of government missile silo or a huge grain handling system.

Those who hung around to watch, had plenty of time to examine the tanks, as they took over an hour to pass through the city. Measuring 16 feet across and 97 feet long, the tanks spent more time standing still than moving, as wires had to be raised or disconnected in order to allow them to pass underneath. In addition, traffic had to be rerouted around intersections so that the trucks could utilize both lanes to maneuver around overhead lights and signs.

Sitting on specially designed dollies which allowed the ends of the tanks to be steered independently and lowered to avoid obstructions, the tanks still had a minimum height of 18 feet, with traffic signs being 16 feet high. With their tractor trailers, the rigs were over 128 feet long. (Average length of a semi-truck is 65 feet). Problems with the dollies early in the trip caused them to take even longer than planned, but even after they were corrected, the vehicles were only able to move about 25 mph on the highway.

Made in Holland, the tanks are primarily aluminum, and only weigh about 36,000 pounds despite their enormous size. Part of the problem with the dollies was caused by the lack of weight, since they are designed to handle up to 300 tons.

Totran, the Canadian trucking firm in charge of moving the tanks has been studying the route to be travelled since last spring, according to Ron Studer, Minnesota department of transportation right of way engineer. Originally they had

City Council Meets Tuesday

Thief River Falls city council will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, with various department heads present, for the purpose of reviewing the 1984 proposed budget. In addition, the utilities committee has recommended that council hire Terry Cork as a replacement for clerk Hazel Cloutier, who participated in the early retirement program.

Meeting To Aid Business Hurt By Crop Losses

Congressman Arlan Stangeland will sponsor a meeting this week between federal officials and disaster — stricken business owners in Pennington, Marshall and Red Lake counties.

The open meeting will be from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Thursday in the lower level conference room in the city auditorium in Thief River Falls.

"Many business owners are concerned about their applications for disaster relief," Rep. Stangeland said. "This meeting should help answer their questions."

Crop damage in the three counties in 1982 was extensive and translated into heavy economic losses for small businesses in the area.

Loans at eight per cent interest to cover 85 per cent of lost sales (up to $500,000 per firm) are available to small businesses in the three counties who can demonstrate: (1) they were in good economic shape before the 1982 disaster; (2) their substantial losses are a product of the disaster; and (3) they cannot obtain loans elsewhere.

Dick Nash (SBA's disaster relief director) and Celso Moreno (SBA director for Minnesota) will attend Thursday's meeting. Although Congressman Stangeland will be in Washington during the meeting, he will be represented by two of his key staff people.

"Farmers in this area have lost nearly $200 million because of crop damage in the past four years," Congressman Stangeland said. "That disaster has been echoed on Main street. I hope these loans will help farmers and businesses in the area to get back on their feet."

Business owners who would like a private meeting with Mash and Moreno are asked to call Congressman Stangeland's toll-free number: 1-800-432-3770.

Varied Progress Made In Area School Negotiations

While negotiations between the Thief River Falls school board and the District 564 teachers will move to the point of mediation October 6, the effort to develop agreement on two-year contracts is in various stages of progression around the area. A survey of area schools shows the following:

Newfolden — Contract settled July 26 as the ninth in the state;

Grygla — Contract settled in early August;

Red Lake Falls — Most language items settled but talks just getting underway on salary and fringes;

Plummer — Language items have been discussed and fairly well agreed upon with money items to be discussed at the next two meetings;

Oklee — Contract language and fringe benefits have been generally accepted by a negotiating group with the full board to receive the proposal September 26;

Goodridge — (Supt. Donald Langan said he was preparing a news release Thursday and would have it delivered. It has not been received as of Monday morning.)

Those are capsule summaries of information provided by superintendents of the various districts in telephone interviews with the Times last week. More complete information as provided by the superintendents follows on a district by district basis:

Newfolden

Contract settlement was reached with the district's 33 teachers after about half a dozen meetings, but Mark Carlson, chairman of the school board's negotiating team says that most of the work was done in one five-hour major meeting.

"I think we all felt really good about it," Carlson said of the rapid settlement. "Our district has a very good staff that deserved a good settlement, our district can afford it and there was no reason to play any negotiations games. Settlement removes a lot of pressures on the teachers and

Construction of a new 360x600 addition to the Marvin Windows plant at Warroad is underway and expected to be completed and in use by Jan. 1, 1984. The additional 216,000 square feet of floor space will bring the total area of the Marvin plant under roof to well over a million square feet.

Once the building is fully equipped and utilized to design potential, the company could be adding approximately 275 employees to the 1,206 presently employed, Frank Marvin told the Roseau Times-Region. The building will provide more room and efficiency of operation and make room in the existing buildings for future equipment.

One item being added is a grinder which will pulverize pallets in which thermopane glass is received and make the wood available for use in the plant's heating system. The pallets are presently hauled to the sanitary landfill. About 1,000 feet of steam pipe will be added to the existing heating system to serve the new addition which will be heavily insulated for energy efficiency.

Built to the west of the present plant, the addition will be one-quarter staging and loading area with 32 loading doors. The remainder will be used for final assembly of windows.

The company has added distributors in Georgia, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Florida, Indiana and California which are expected to provide exposure to 2,000 potential lumber dealers the firm did not have access to before.

Importance of maintaining the rail system was emphasized by Frank and George Marvin in an interview with the Times-Region. They noted that they get the majority of their lumber — the largest single raw material used in volume and dollar value — by rail and that the service is essential to their operation.

The new addition will be connected to the present plant by an enclosed bridge 30 feet wide and built 22 feet above the railroad track serving the plant. It will have a two line system to haul materials.

Northwest Sr. Federation To Meet Sept. 29

Northwest Senior federation will conduct its fourth annual convention Thursday, September 29, at the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls beginning at 9 a.m. Registration fee will be $5 per person and reservations must be made by September 24.

Morning coffee and pastries, lunch and afternoon coffee and pastries will be served. Reservations may be sent to Northwest Senior Federation, Box 778, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Chemical Abuse Topic For Town Meeting Here

Activating people in an effort to prevent chemical abuse among young people is the goal of a program sponsored throughout Minnesota by The Chemical People-Minnesota, assisted by several service clubs including the Lions and Kiwanis.

On November 1, 2 and 3 at 7 p.m. on public television a three-part series of programs on chemical abuse will be aired by The Chemical People-Minnesota. It will present the results of a survey of almost 11,000 Minnesota eighth, 10th and 12th graders' attitudes and habits regarding drugs and alcohol and focus on how community groups can organize to prevent chemical abuse problems.

While individuals may watch the series alone, an effort is being made to organize community task forces to watch the series together, discuss what is presented and establish ongoing prevention efforts. A training session for people interested in forming such task forces will be conducted for two hours beginning at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at the national guard armory in Thief River Falls. The meeting is open to anyone from any community in the area interested in the program.

A similar meeting will be conducted the same day at 10 a.m. at the regional corrections center in Crookston, according to Carrie Bang of Crookston, who is serving as an organizer for the program in northwestern Minnesota.

More than 400 of the town meetings have been organized in Minnesota and each will focus on the public television program series. With the first broadcast on November 1 focusing on Minnesota and the results of the student poll, the

Butter, Cheese Distributed In Area Counties

Cheese and butter will be distributed through the Inter-County community council of Oklee in Pennington, Red Lake, East Polk and Clearwater counties during the week of September 26-29, according to Robert Melby, administrator-planner for the council.

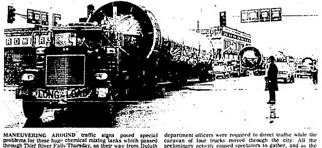
Commodities will be distributed on a first-come, first served basis only as long as supplies last or until the scheduled ending time. Recipients are requested not to call the distribution sites for information and to pick up commodities locally if possible. Local pick-up of commodities assists in planning adequate supplies for distribution.

Inter-County outreach staff and various local volunteer groups and individuals will be distributing the cheese and butter.

Pennington county distribution will take place Tuesday, September 27, from 10 a.m. to noon at the St. Hilaire council room; Wednesday, September 28, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Thief River Falls city auditorium; and Thursday, September 29, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Goodridge senior citizen building.

Red Lake county distribution will take place Monday, September 26, from 11 a.m. to noon at the Emardville hall in Plummer and 1 to 2 p.m. at the Brooks townhall; Tuesday, September 27, from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Eckstein's department store in Red Lake Falls; and Wednesday, September 28, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Oklee municipal building.

Among East Polk county distribution sites will be the Gully church from 9 to 10 a.m. and Trail VFW hall from 1 to 2 p.m. on Monday, September 26.



MANEUVERING AROUND traffic signs posed special problems for these huge chemical mixing tanks which passed through Thief River Falls Thursday, on their way from Duluth to Alberta, Canada. With a height of eighteen feet and a length of 97 feet, the tanks required both lanes of Third Street in order to avoid hitting overhead lights and signs. Combined efforts of highway patrol, county sheriff and Thief River Falls police department officers were required to direct traffic while the caravan of four trucks moved through the city. All the preliminary activity caused spectators to gather, and as the trucks appeared, speculation about the identity of the cargo was rampant. Many thought the tanks resembled missile silos or oversize grain dryers. After a brief stay overnight, the tanks were on their way again early Friday morning.

Carol LaVonne Taylor Wed In Scottsbluff, Neb.

Carol LaVonne Taylor, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Taylor of Superior, Neb., and Terry Lee Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Snyder of Bayard, Neb., exchanged marriage vows recently at the First Assembly of God church in Scottsbluff, Neb.

Officiating at the ceremony were the bride's father, assisted by Rev. Kenneth Taylor. Rev. Richard Dube was the organist and Sandy Brandt sang "The Rose," "Wedding Song," and "Let Us Climb the Hill Together."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in an all-lace bridal gown fashioned with a raised waistline, long, full sleeves and a sheer yoke marked by a Venice lace ruffle. Her tiered skirt, edged with lace, flowed back into a chapel-length train. A wide brimmed hat held her veil of bridal illusion, edged with matching lace. She carried a bouquet of blue carnations, and red roses, in cascade effect.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister-in-law, Naomi Taylor, Nebraska City, Neb. Other attendants were Barb Hackett, sister of the groom, and Kim Harris. They wore rose polyester knit gowns topped by chiffon capelets. Each carried an ivory lace fan with a cluster of flowers matching those in the bride's bouquet.

Jennifer Blackstone was the flower girl, and Jeremy Taylor, Nebraska City, Neb., a nephew of the bride, carried the rings.

The groom's attendants were his brother, Steve Snyder, as best man, Larry Pierce and Bob McMurtry. Ushers were Wallace Taylor, Minto, N.D., brother of the bride, Randy Popp, and Rocky Snyder. They wore baby blue tuxedos with white shirts and white carnation boutonnieres.

Corsages of red roses and pink and blue carnations graced the blue floor-length gowns worn by the mothers of the bride and groom. Corresponding corsages were worn by the honor guests: Dessa Ellard and Blanche Snyder, grandmothers of the groom.

Rev. and Mrs. Raymond Corlew, North Platte, Neb., were host and hostess at the reception that followed. Lydia Simmons and Dorothy Popp, aunt of the groom, cut and served the tiered, fountain wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with pink roses, glass swans and pink ribbon which flowed to the four round cakes surrounding the base.

Pouring coffee were Norma Backer, aunt of the groom, and Kathy Simmons Woodward. Ann Meier served the punch and Tammy Hagemeister, Junction City, Kans., and Alma Popp arranged the gifts.

Following the rehearsal, the evening prior to the wedding, a supper was hosted at the Sirloin Stockade for the entire wedding party.

The bride attended school in Thief River Falls for a time. She is a graduate of Mentor high school and was employed at Northwestern hospital in this city. She is also a graduate of Central Technical Community college in Kearney, Neb., and is employed as an LPN at West Nebraska General hospital in Scottsbluff. The groom is a graduate of Bayard high school and is a machinist for Burlington Northern Railroad in Alliance, Neb. The couple is residing at Bayard, Neb. Photo, Melvin Morton, Morrill, Neb.

Recognition Dinner Hosted By Deer Park Club

Deer Park garden club hosted a recognition dinner recently at the Goodridge Senior center for the youths participating in the Main Street beautification project by caring for the flower plots.

Cash awards and ribbons were given to each participant by supervisor Ethel Wiseth. President Helen Chervestad gave the toast and read the garden club creed. Adding interest was a skit about two young gardeners, written by Dorothy Svanjord and presented by Rae Ann Pittman and Norma Hanson. Cards signed by the youths were sent to the civic organization and businesses thanking them for the donations, making the project possible. Appreciation was also extended to Darlene Broughton for serving as project judge.

At the business meeting which followed, officers for the year were elected. Helen Chervestad was relected to serve as president and Dorothy Svanjord was chosen as vice president, Luella Peterson, treasurer, and Theadora Anderson, secretary. Ethel Wiseth served as chairman of the nominating committee. The new treasurer collected the dues for the coming years.

The year's study theme and monthly topics were discussed. Out-going officers: secretary Lauretta Stucy and treasurer Norma Hanson reported on the July and August activities and the club's financial standing.

New members welcomed into the club were Rae Ann Pittman and Ruth Kotrba.

It was announced that the district workshop will be held October 1 at Badger; and that a $10 assessment fee will be collected at the workshop from each club.

Mrs. Chervestad also announced that Inga Coan and Dorothy Svanjord were the recipients of the Distinguished Merit awards.

Legion Auxiliary Events For 1982-83 Reported

History of the local unit of the American Legion auxiliary of the Ecklund-Holmstrom post for the year 1982-83 were distributed by secretary Eileen Horejsh at the September meeting of the unit held at the Legion club rooms.

The report was submitted by Constance Driscoll, who was president for the year; and board members: Mrs. Karen Fredrickson, first vice president; Mrs. Lyla Quam, second vice president; Mrs. Jean Hellie, treasurer; Mrs. Eileen Horejsh, secretary; Mrs. Barb Thompson, chaplain; Ann Odegaard and Annette Contos, sergeant at arms; Mrs. Betty DeHaan and Mrs. Barb Thompson, executive board members; and the chairmen of the various committees.

Americanism chairman reported that through the year the meetings were opened with the advance of the Colors, pledge of Allegiance and the singing of the national anthem. During the patriotism week, the unit president participated in a patriotic program, and distributed Pledge of Allegiance cards, small plastic flags and a poppy to 165 students. Also during the year, numerous flags were donated. Small flags and flag codes were given to each new member, seven flags were donated for class room use; two to Boy Scout troops and outdoor flags were given to the Lioness club, Public library and City auditorium.

Children and Youth report noted that donations had been given to Retarded children, Child Welfare program; and to children in needy families. Educational information on Reye Syndrome, drug abuse and the Ripley Alliance shelter for battered women and children were given at programs and to news media.

According to the Education and Scholarship report, scholarships were presented to a Northland Community college student and to a student attending the local AVTI. Funds from a coin march at each meeting were designated for the scholarship fund.

Community service included delivering Meals on Wheels, sponsoring and supervising games with prizes twice a month at Oakland Park Nursing home, serving lunch for the handicapped, and assisting with the Community Kidney auction, Blood bank program, Heart Fund, March of Dimes, United Way and volunteer services in visiting shut-ins, and helping the elderly.

The finance committee reported that donations had been given to all the auxiliary programs as well as to the Department and District Presidents' projects and to the Post for its birthday. A pancake breakfast was served to raise money for the Kidney House project. Travel expenses to District and department meetings were also paid.

The local unit participated in Girls State by sponsering three girls, one each from Thief River Falls, Grygla and Goodridge, paid for their physicals and gave each spending money. A member of the unit served as girls State councilor.

Membership chairman reported that the goal was reached in March with three members receiving a pin for getting seven new members. Five members also completed the Field Service Orientation course.

Memorial committee revealed that Gold Star Mothers were honored at a special dinner which included a program, corsages and a gift. They were also remembered on Mothers' day, at Christmas and at Memorial day observance. A prayer book was made and given to the ICU waiting room at Northwestern hospital. At the death of a member, memorials were given and funerals attended.

The unit purchased 5500 small poppies, 75 business poppy cards and 15 dozen large poppies with each church in this city receiving a bouquet of a dozen poppies with each in this city receiving a bouquet of a dozen poppies for Memorial day services. The remaining poppies, which weren't sold, were used for corsages, table decorations, place cards, on wrapped gifts, and on the Christmas tree at the club. Both the unit and the Junior auxiliary selected poppy queens.

The Past Presidents Parley assisted the unit with membership, as advisors for the new officers, and as installation officers.

The report concluded with the Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation chairman summerizing the donations given to the Fargo Veterans hospital, Chaplain of Four Chaplains, department projects, Gift shop, fishing trips and Christmas cards and monetary gifts for shut-in veterans and World War I veterans. During the year 165 Granny Squares for lap robes were donated, as were many pair of booties.

The year's activities of the Junior auxiliary were also summarized. Kendra Johnson served as president; Lisa Anderson, vice president; Nicole Anderson, secretary; Jana Nelson, chaplain; and Anna Nabben, historian.

Members of the Junior auxiliary assisted the unit by saving soup labels for the Dowling school for crippled children, making tray favors for the nursing homes, working on poppy wall hangings, serving as waitresses at the membership and birthday dinners at the club; by collecting cancelled stamps, and by visiting with the residents at the nursing homes.

President Karen Fredrickson presided at the meeting and Iola Johnson, girls State chairman, introduced the Girl Staters: Cindy Solem, Thief River Falls; Diana Troska, Goodridge, and Lisa Newton, Grygla. Each reported on their experiences and thanked the Unit for sponsoring them.

Membership Avis Odegaard noted that to date 280 members had paid their dues. She stated that dues may be given to her or sent to P.O. Box 325.

The members voted that memorials this year will be designated for the Kidney House fund. The unit will also host two Friendship club meetings with Constance Driscoll serving as chairman.

Lova Kraemer, chairman of Community services, reminded members that volunteers are needed for the second and fourth Fridays of the month when the unit sponsors games at Oakland Park Nursing home. She also reminded members of the Blood Service Drive September 19 and 20th with volunteers needed for calling, registering and serving cookies and juice.

Members were also asked to note that a leadership school is scheduled at the Argyle Legion post on October 8 between the hours of 9:30 and 3:00.

A dinner with post members, Girl Staters and their parents, preceded the meeting. Lunch was served after the meeting by Marilyn Winfers and Lova Kraemer.

East Marshall Home Council Sets Officers

Extension home study groups in Marshall county are beginning a new program year as part of the home economics and family living program of the Marshall county extension service.

In addition to offering home economics programs to county residents in general, county homemaker members take part in many programs which have been specifically planned for them, states Nancy Mathiason, county extension agent. Membership is open to all residents of Marshall county as new members of established homemaker clubs or as new members of new clubs. Clubs can be formed at any time with no minimum enrollment.

Last year 480 women were enrolled in 31 clubs throughout the country. Clubs are divided geographically east and west, involve women of all ages, and each club meets at different times to accommodate its members.

Officers elected for the east Marshall council are: President, Betty Pietruszewski, Northern Lites; vice president, Mary Amundson, North Star; secretary-treasurer, Bev Folden, Newfolden Nifties; and historian, Paulette Nelson, Lull-A-While.

Advantages of homemaker club membership include new ideas received through the lessons presented and other meetings held throughout the year in the home program, Mathiason said. There are also leadership opportunities found in the experiences of lesson leaders, club officers and county officers. A third feature of the homemaker club is the opportunity to gather together with other friends.

The educational program of the organization was planned this year through meetings with east and west councilors and members. Topics to be covered this year through the club lessons include "Simple Home Repairs", "Creative Storage", "Building Self-Esteem", "Investments", "Coping with the Terminally Ill" and "Sewing Shortcuts".

Some of the workshops chosen for learning include: "Oriental Cookery", "Quilting", "Candlewicking", "Picture Framing" and "Strawcraft". All meetings are publicized and open to the public.

County homemakers who wish to join an existing club or who as a group wish to organize a new club may contact Mathiason at the Marshall county extension office in Warren (phone 745-5232) or any east Marshall officer.

Lincoln Grad Enlists In Air Force Program

Lance L. Moens To Make Home In Newfolden

Mr. and Mrs. Lance Lowell Moen are at home in Newfolden following an exchange of marriage vows at an afternoon wedding at Bethlehem Lutheran church in Newfolden.

The bride, the former Karlyn Betty Helm is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Helm, Newfolden. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moen, also of Newfolden.

Rev. Rick Lund officiated at the double ring ceremony with organist Cecily Johnson playing "Endless Love," and "Bridal Chorus" for the processional and recessional. Miss Johnson also accompanied Shelly Helm, sister of the bride, and Dale Price as they sang "The Wedding Song" and "You and I."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a bridal gown of Chantilly lace styled with a mandarin collar accented with a satin bow. A lace ruffle traced the sheer yoke and matching ruffles with satin ribbon accented the bishop sleeves and the ruffles on her bouffant skirt which extended into a chapel-length train. Corresponding lace and satin trimmed ruffles edged her veil of bridal illusion held by a matching headpiece featuring a white satin bow. She carried white roses, Daphne rose carnations, babies' breath, greenery and ribbon streamers.

Naomi Oehlert was the bride's personal attendant.

Wearing Daphne rose gowns with Victorian collars, ruffled yokes, accented with white lace, and rose ribbon sashes, were the bride's attendants: Shelly Helm, a sister, who served as maid of honor; Denise Helm, a cousin, and Layle and Londa Moen, sisters of the groom. Each wore a rose daisy in their hair and each carried a smaller replica of the bride's bouquet.

Miniature bride was Jolene Liedberg, Sabin, a cousin of the groom. She was attired like the bride and carried a basket filled with flowers similar to those in the bride's bouquet.

The rings were carried by Jesse and Jason Liedberg, Sabin, cousins of the groom. They wore light brown suits with a rose boutonniere pinned on their lapels.

Lee Moen, a brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Kevin Helm, brother of the bride, Ronn Helm, uncle of the bride, and Allan Liedberg, Sabin, uncle of the groom. The groom wore a white tuxedo and his attendants' tuxedos were light brown.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of crepe knit multi-color floral border print on vanilla background. Topping the dress was a scalloped lace jacket with tulip sleeves. The groom's mother wore a pink crepe dress with a ruffled V-front yoke. Their corsages were of Daphne rosebuds, white carnations and white ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Helm, grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Moen and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Saurdif, grandparents of the groom; and Ellda Moen and Emma Nelson, great-grandmothers of the groom, were honor guests.

A reception at the Newfolden Community Center followed. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Nelson, cousins of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moen, uncle and aunt of the groom. Aunts of the couple, Norma Helm and Sandy Lubitz served the punch.

The five-tiered wedding cake was decorated with Daphne roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom backed by a daisy arch and a golden cross. The cake was cut and served by Evie Anderson and Joyce Liedberg, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively. Ruth Helm, godmother of the bride, and Irene Peterson, godmother of the groom, poured coffee.

Waitresses were Lisa and Gaylene Hjelle, cousins of the groom, Diane Nelson, aunt of the groom; and Diane Lee, cousin of the bride. The gifts were arranged by the bride's cousins, Matthew Helm and Tracy Nelson.

The bride and groom are 1982 graduates of Marshall county central high school, Newfolden. The groom is engaged in dairy and grain farming with his father.

FFA Conducting Grain Drive To Help Disabled

Thief River Falls chapter of the Future Farmers of America (FFA) will be conducting a grain drive on Wednesday, September 21, to raise money for Camp Courage.

FFA members will be contacting area farmers and agribusiness people on that day to ask for donations of grain or cash. According to Floyd Lundstrom, chairman of the local FFA project, money raised will be used to provide camperships and special equipment for the handicapped.

Camp Courage is a special facility where children and adults with physical disabilities can participate in outdoor activities such as swimming, fishing, cookouts and games, as well as learn about such things as horticulture and amateur radio while having fun and making friends.

English Nomad Believes Life Is A Privilege

For example, his two and one-half month visit to Morocco each year is now greeted warmly by the nomadic family with which he stays. He brings with him a sack of used clothing for the man, his three wives, their eight daughters and three sons. While at first he could not get within a half-mile of them, he has developed a trust over a period of time which makes him totally accepted by the family. He is slowly learning their Berber language and more and more of their culture.

On his last visit he asked about the eldest daughter, who was about 16 years of age. The details were sketchy, but the story was that a tribe of nomads had come out of the Sahara and arrangements had been made for the daughter to leave with them in exchange for 300 goats, which were later sold. While the trade to us seems heartless and hard to believe, Miller attempts to understand the circumstances and not impose the mores of his culture on the customs of another.

"In our terms, they have almost nothing," Miller marvels, "yet they seem to be incredibly happy people and I have never seen any of the young children cry. They have five camels, a few sheep and a few goats and they carry wood for their fires for miles on their backs. A few clothes, some soap and shampoo are so greatly appreciated."

Some background on the visitor helps to introduce him. He quit school at age 15, enlisted in the British navy at age 18 and served seven years in the submarine service, including 35 days under water in 1955 while on a spy mission in Russian waters. He worked in summer vacation camps, went to sea on cargo ships during the winter and spent several years in the garment industry.

He purchased a 340-year-old thatch roof cottage with stone walls that had been unoccupied for 11 years and was situated on three-quarters of an acre of land. He removed everything but the outside walls and lived in a tent within their confines while spending four and one-half years rebuilding it. Once the job was completed, he decided he didn't want the responsibility of a house on his shoulders. He sold the place, right down the silverware in the cupboards, bought a new VW van and walked out of the house with all the rest of his possessions in two suitcases.

"I can remember thinking 'My God! I don't even have a place to take a shower!' when I walked away from the house," he recalls. But he has found no hardship living out of his van for he attempts to follow the sun and avoid the need for winter heat and clothing.

He worked for six months on a kibbutz (collective farm) in Israel, served as a seaman on an Israeli ship to gain passage and worked in the garment trade for a Jewish boss. The associations, which were coincidental, put him in a bad situation in Jordan where Jewish influence is unwelcome. Summoned to police headquarters on the pretense that his passport had expired, he was arrested and charged with being an Israeli agent.

After five days of imprisonment, he was ordered deported and escorted to the Syrian border. Since Syria is even more unfriendly to Israel than Jordan, and deportation required a reason noted on his passport, Miller could have had a serious problem if it was noted he was suspected of being an Israeli agent.

"They were very kind to me, actually," he says charitably. "They asked me what I wanted written on my passport as a reason for deportation. I told them to write that I got drunk and hit a policeman, which they did. That reason seemed to satisfy the Syrians — who stated emphatically that I would be thrown in jail if it had happened in Syria — and they allowed me to go on my way on Damascus."

His trip for 1,600 kilometers (about 1,000 miles) across the Sahara was made on one of his four trips to north Africa. He used a compass for navigation because there were no roads and for about 650 kilometers there was only barren wasteland with loose sand which bogged down a vehicle every few miles.

His van was modified to carry about 85 gallons (U.S.) of gasoline, four extra wheels, sand mats to extricate the vehicle from "sand sticks," two shovels (one with long and one with short handle) and mesh windshield covers to prevent the glass from being broken by rocks thrown by the natives. The latter not only resented any sign of affluence but were eager to steal whatever goods they could use or sell, particularly passports, money, whiskey and cigarettes.

In all of his ventures he has never felt his life has been threatened. About his visit to the United States, which will end next May 10 with a plane trip back to England, he feels only that the civilized nature of the country contributes to a "lack of adventure."

By working quite hard four to five months a year by picking hops or olives or doing other agricultural work (he even served as a shepherd in Crete off the Greek coast, sleeping five nights a week in a mountain cave), he earns what he considers to be more than enough money to support his life-style for the remainder of the year.

He writes to his parents and other members of his family who all believe his wanderlust is insane, but they have difficulty writing to him because he seldom knows where he will be next. The VW van which he has driven for 103,000 miles in 22 countries is presently in the care of a farmer where he worked last year in England. He will sell his present van when he leaves the United States next spring.

Insisting that he is not a learned enough person to develop a philosophy or write a book about his experiences, he keeps a journal of happenings to serve as a record and reminder of where he has been and what he has done.

"Having time is a blessing," he said. "If you have time to walk away from something you can think clearly about how to work with it. In the solitude of the shepherd's life you become totally aware of the flowers and the sounds and the smells of the mountains. I never want to look beyond today. Every time I visit the so-called poorer countries I think about how rewarding life is and I feel so privileged to live it."

Perhaps there is a little of Paul Stephen Miller's spirit in each of us, but few have allowed it to become free. While clinging to the lifestyle we have chosen for ourselves, we can only envy one who has allowed himself to be unfettered by the busy-ness of life as we know it. It is refreshment enough to stimulate our imaginations by sharing in his adventures. We wish him well.

marathon

Negotiations Summary For Area Schools

we didn't believe the cause of education would be served to have the contract negotiations drag out over a long period of time into the school year."

Mark Jorgenson, chief negotiator for the Marshall County Central Education association also said that negotiations went well this year and the MCCEA was pleased with the results. "We wanted an insurance increase very badly," he said, "and the board understood our situation. Negotiations seemed more relaxed than in previous years. The MEA headquarters might not have been too pleased with our early agreement, but I guess our main concern was our local situation."

Board member Carlson said the negotiations were based on trust this year and that was a major factor in the tone of bargaining. Two years ago the teachers asked for 60 per cent and the board offered nothing. Final settlement was at 19 per cent. This year we recognized that agreement had to be reached somewhere sometime and tried to find that point as soon and as realistically as we could." Negotiators included four board members and four teachers.

Newfolden teachers ended up with an average increase of $1,592 (8.6 per cent) for the first year of the two year contract (1983-84) and $1,003 (5.01 per cent) for the second year. The salary range for 1983-84 goes from $14,350 to $20,720 in 13 steps and for 1984-85 goes from $15,000 to $21,370. Hospital-medical insurance package was increased from $660 to $1,440 maximum per teacher per year. Newfolden has only a BA degree schedule with no MA differential, according to Supt. R. Gene Busch.

Grygla

Settlement for the 23 teachers in the Grygla schools involved substantial increases for both years of the two-year contract, according to Supt. Sal Hoffert. Total increase in salary and fringe benefits was 9.06 per cent for the 1983-84 school year and 8.5 per cent for the 1984-85 school year. Average increases in salary and fringes totaled $1,765 per teacher for the current year and $1,809 for next year.

For 1983-84 the Grygla BA salary schedule advances from $14,600 to $19,231 in 13 steps while the MA schedule starts at $16,500 and increases in 13 steps to $21,940. Next year the starting BA salary will be $15,600 and the MA salary $17,500, advancing respectively to $20,525 and $23,418.

Agreement was reached in only a few meetings and faculty representative James Surratt says it was primarily because both sides decided to be realistic. "We came in with a request that we thought was reasonable and the board apparently recognized that our schedule was running behind most of the others. What's the use of going in asking for the moon when you know you won't get it anyway?"

Surratt, who has been on the Grygla faculty for six years and on the negotiating team for five of them, said this was the best negotiating spirit ever. "I think it went real good," he said. "We could sit down at the table and work things out and still look each other in the eye and be friends. The teachers are happy and I think the board is, too."

Bruce Lunsetter of the school board's negotiating team said he also believed negotiations went very well this year. He attributed the success in a few meetings to a reasonable request from the faculty and the fact that the district was financially able to grant increases.

He said that in prior years the district had been in financial difficulties and that the faculty may have recognized the problem in accepting lower settlements. Attempts have been made recently to make the salary comparative with other area districts.

Middle River

Supt. Phil Dyrud at Middle River said he provides information for the negotiating sessions but does not sit in at the meetings. Board member Curt Neumann chairs the board's negotiating team with the overall committee including two board members and two teachers. There are 20 teachers in the district.

No agreement has been reached at this time, he said. The Middle River Education association had initially requested a 21 per cent increase and that has since been reduced to nine per cent in 1983-84 and 7.5 per cent in 1984-85. The board has countered with five per cent for each year in its most recent offer.

At present the starting salary at Middle River is $13,800 for a first year teacher with BA degree and $15,000 for one with an MA degree. Respective top salaries in 12 steps are $19,100 and $20,300.

(At Strandquist, where Dyrud is also superintendent, only one meeting has been held between the board and representatives of the district's 12 teachers.)

Plummer

Four or five meetings have been held at Plummer, according to Supt. Norman Johnson, with language items fairly well settled with representatives of the district's 21 teachers. Money matters haven't been discussed other than affected by language items, but will be the major focus for the next two meetings. Committee handling negotiations includes two board members, the superintendent and four faculty members.

Currently the BA base salary at Plummer is $13,500 and advances to $19,100 in 16 steps. Salary range on the MA schedule is from $15,050 to $21,190. No proposals have been received from the Plummer Education association, Supt. Johnson said.

Oklee

Teacher and school board negotiators have generally agreed on language for the next two-year contract and an increase in medical-hospital insurance to full coverage. A proposal is expected from the committee to the full board on September 26, according to Supt. Marvin Bronken.

Three or four meetings have been held between the board and the district's 23 teachers during the spring and summer months, he said. The Oklee district has been in financial distress for several years, the superintendent added, and currently is looking at a package settlement of about six per cent per year.

Currently the BA starting salary at Oklee is $15,250, advancing to $19,850 in 12 steps. The MA salary range is from $16,500 for a first teacher to a top of $21,600.

Red Lake Falls

Representatives of the 39 teachers at Red Lake Falls have made their initial proposals to the board and the first four or five meetings have been confined to language items, according to new superintendent Douglas Benit. At the October 4 meeting the two board members and four teachers involved in the negotiations will be discussing financial matters of salary and fringes.

Initially last June 8 the faculty requested a salary increase of 20 per cent over the two-year contract and a 10 per cent per year increase in extra-curricular salaries. Also requested was full family medical-hospital insurance coverage, broadened grievance procedure, increased severance pay from 25 to 50 per cent of accumulated sick leave, six days of cumulative personal leave and other items. The board's initial counter offer was for no increases.

Presently the Red Lake Falls school system has a BA starting salary of $13,834, advancing to a top of $22,655 in 14 steps for teachers with a BA degree plus 45 credits. The MA schedule starts at $15,150 and advances to $23,908 in 14 steps for a teacher with an MA plus 15 credits.

Five of the first 10 schools in the state to reach agreement on teacher contracts for 1983-84 and 1984-85 were in northwestern Minnesota. They include Newfolden, Stephen, Karlstad, Warroad and Roseau.

Drug Abuse Topic For Town Meeting Here

second session on November 2 will be national in scope. It will make the point that even though alcohol and drug abuse among youth is a national problem, we are reluctant to admit it affects our own schools, communities and homes.

Through analysis and illustration of national abuse statistics, coupled with a look at the realities of the problem, the program will seek to confront drug abuse rather than hide behind a "wall of denial." Town meeting format of group viewing is adopted to permit viewers to discuss the program with other concerned individuals in their communities.

Additional information on the local town meetings will be presented following this week's training session.

Name Temple As NCC Skills Counselor

Rachel Temple has again been appointed as developmental skills counselor at Northland community college, according to Madalyn Binger-Novellino, vice provost.

"Since Northland is an open door community college welcoming students from diverse academic backgrounds, we welcome an opportunity to assist students in improving their writing, reading and math skills to enable them to achieve the academic success they wish", Novellino stated. "Position of developmental skills counselor has been developed to enable students to have their educational needs met."

Temple's education, teaching experience and attitude toward working with students make her highly qualified for this position, Novellino added. Temple is current teaching a Spanish course for credit as well as a conversational Spanish course.

All students are encouraged to stop by and meet her and check with her if they need any assistance.

Parenting Will Be Discussion Group Subject

Thief River Falls Area Vocational Technical-Institute will be sponsoring a free parenting program called "Footsteps", beginning Monday, September 26, which will combine films and a discussion group to deal with a different topic each week.

Topics will deal with many facets of parenting, such as handling the fears of your child, how parents influence the development of self-worth and security in their children, how television shapes a child's world, and dealing with death.

Films are one-half hour long and will be presented two times during the week: Mondays at 8:30 p.m., broadcast on KTRF, cable channel 3; and on Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m., they will be shown at AVTI, room 114. From 8 to 9 p.m. each Tuesday a discussion on the topic of the week will be held with Jan Kemper as discussion leader.

For further information on this program or to pre-register for discussion groups, contact the AVTI adult education department by calling 681-5424.

Growers Blame USFWS For Crop Damage

National Sunflower association (NSA) announced recently that it is seeking to attach several amendments to the wetlands loan act that will be considered in congress this month. The amendments proposed deal with black-bird depredation on sunflower.

NSA president Don Zimbleman of Fullerton, said that "blackbirds do $15 to $20 million worth of damage to the crop annually. That does not include the thousands of dollars producers spend on monitoring their fields and chasing birds."

Amendments include, according to Zimbleman, a reaffirmation that blackbird damage to crops is the responsibility of the U.S. fish and wildlife service. "We would like congress to say that and place the responsibility where it belongs. Fish and wildlife service does a good job of raising ducks and geese but a horrible job managing migratory bird damage to crops," Zimbleman said.

A second amendment would extend the blackbird resistant sunflower variety research at North Dakota state university for five years. That project has been very successful so far but needs additional research.

Third amendment, according to Milt Lakness of Watertown, S.D., and a NSA board member, is to provide research money to come up with long-term solutions.

"We are suggesting that this research money go to the private sector rather than the fish and wildlife service. We don't believe that the fish and wildlife service is dedicated to finding solutions to blackbird problems. However, there are a lot of innovative people in this country who can come up with solutions if given the right circumstances, and money happens to be one," he said.

Lakness added that "the bill we are attempting to attach these amendments to is legislation that would allow for the purchase and lease of more wetlands by the fish and wildlife service. Our contention is that if the federal government wants to maintain wetlands that produce the birds then the federal government has to be responsible for damages that occur on crops like sunflower."

Form National Sonarmen Unit

National association of sonarmen has been formed under the direction of STCS Frank R. Crawford, USN (retired) and he is interested in contacting any sonarman who has served in any military specialty from the inception of sonar to the president. He may be contacted at Box 1280, El Cajon, CA 92022.

Farm Safety Week Set For Sept. 18-24

"Safeguard The Future," is the theme of Minnesota farm safety week, September 18 to 24, which focuses on reducing accident risks, especially among young people on the farm.

— Wet, moldy hay produces mold spores which can irritate the lungs if inhaled (farmer's lung disease.) Toxic gases are produced in confinement buildings. Dust accumulation from grains can cause lung diseases and grain fumigation agents are dangerous.

— Silo gas is another well-known hazard. Pesticides commonly used by farmers also present a threat to human lungs.

— Many respiratory hazards can be prevented or minimized. During manure waste pit agitation, proper ventilation is needed. Silo should not be entered for a week or so after filling. If someone is overcome by gases in a confined area, professional medical help should be obtained before others enter. Also, don't smoke. Farmers who smoke tend to have less resistance and more severe reactions to lung irritants.

More information on respiratory health hazards on farms is available from the American Lung Association of Minnesota, 614 Portland Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota 55102, (612) 227-8014.

Farm Worker Numbers Drop From Year Ago

Results of the July labor survey conducted by the Minnesota agricultural statistics service showed fewer workers on farms. Minnesota's total farm employment during the survey week of July 10-16 was 186,000 workers, a 13 per cent drop from last year. Of this total, 72 per cent were self-employed and other unpaid workers who worked 15 hours or more and the remaining 28 per cent were hired workers.

The U.S. reported 4.1 million workers, six per cent less than last year. Hired workers accounted for 45 per cent of the total while farm operators and other unpaid workers accounted for the remainder.

While some of the decline in total farm workers is due to the PIK program, most of the reduction in the farm labor work force was related to the lateness of the crops and weather conditions that existed during July.

Minnesota's self-employed farm operators worked an average of 52.3 hours and unpaid workers 41.9 hours during the July survey week. Hired workers averaged 27.9 hours. This compares with the national average of 48.8 hours for the self-employed farm operators, 40.8 hours for unpaid workers, and 36.4 hours for hired workers.

Minnesota farm wages for all hired workers averaged $3.58 per hour. Field workers averaged $3.16 while livestock workers averaged $3.78. For the U.S., hired workers averaged $4.12 per hour, up 12 cents from 1982.

The survey week of July 10-16 was hot and dry. Fieldwork was curtailed because of hot temperatures in areas of the northern plains and eastern states.

UND Campus Ministry Is Event Topic

The role of campus ministry in the life of the university — past and present — will be discussed during a three-day campus ministry association event October 25 to 27, as part of the University of North Dakota's centennial observance.

Themes will be "Wholistic Education in a State University," and the Bible verse from Luke 10:27.

The term "wholistic" refers to an understanding of the human as a totality, with intellectual, physical and spiritual components intertwined.

Topics will include whether the universities address ethics, morals and spiritual values; how the state university addresses the soul; and the legal issue of separation of church and state.

Event will begin with a campus-wide ecumenical worship service Tuesday evening, October 25, in the UND memorial union ballroom. Minneapolis-based composer, musician, liturgical authority John Ylvisaker will plan and lead this worship service.

A symposium addressing "Wholistic Education in a State University" will be Wednesday evening, October 26, in the memorial union ballroom. Dr. Reatha Clark King, president of Metropolitan State University of St. Paul-Minneapolis, and Dr. John H. Westerhoff III, professor of religion and education at Duke University Divinity School, will be the featured speakers.

Centennial event will culminate Thursday evening, October 27, in the ballroom with a panel of UND educators, students and professionals in ministry discussing with King and Westerhoff.

Congressman Casts Vote For Defense Bill

Congressman Arlan Stangeland voted Thursday to clear the 1984 defense authorization bill for the President's approval. The bill passed by a margin of 266-152.

Rep. Stangeland had voted against the original bill in July because of concerns about the $9 billion increase over 1983 spending. But the September 1 destruction of a passenger jet by the Soviets led Congressman Stangeland to support the final version.

"This was the most effective way of punishing the Soviets' barbarism," he said. "The opinion polls and words of condemnation did not disturb the Kremlin. But a renewed commitment in Congress to a strong America is a calamity for the USSR."

"I would have liked to strike the $115 million in the bill for chemical weapons," he said. "I voted specifically against that provision in July. But there was no opportunity to amend the conference report and at least the final report requires that for each chemical weapon constructed an old one, will be dismantled."

Congressman Stangeland noted that an opportunity to vote against the actual appropriation of 1984 dollars for chemical weapons will arise later this fall. Under the bill passed Thursday no new chemical weapons could be constructed until 1985 at the earliest.

New Law Sets Pay Rules For Farm Workers

"Farming units or operations having two or more employees should be aware of changes made by the Minnesota legislature regarding payment of minimum wage and overtime to avoid substantial back-pay claims" announced Steve Keefe, commissioner of labor and industry, recently.

Under amendments which became effective July 1, an employer is allowed an exemption from minimum wage and overtime for two specified employees is provided for salaried basis. Only exemption beyond the two specified employees who are paid on a salaried basis. Only exemption beyond the two specified employees is provided for salaried employees paid at least $247 per week or $1060 per month. This is the equivalent of 48 hours at regular time and 17 hours overtime at time and one-half.

Salary is meant to cover not only the weeks in which employees exceed 65 hours per week but also those weeks in which they work less than 48 hours, thus "balancing out" the full period of employment.

Formerly, the exemption covered only a total of 60 weeks of employment for no more than four employees.

Minors (persons under 18 years of age) are also exempt from minimum wage and overtime, except corn detasselers and hand field workers when the field worker's parents or physical custodian are also field workers. In the case of detasselers, they are covered by overtime but not minimum wage requirements.

Reenacted also is a provision that sugar beet laborers shall be paid a rate which exceeds minimum wage by 40 cents per hour, or currently $3.75 per hour.

Another amendment provides that farm laborers are no longer exempt from the law which requires payment of wages owned within a specified grace period after termination of employment. For terminated employees, the grace period is 24 hours following termination, and for voluntary quits, it is five days. In both cases, penalties for exceeding those limitations is an equivalent day's pay for each day up to 15 that the limitation is exceeded.

Policy or regulations under these amendments are being drafted by the labor standards division of the labor and industry department. Questions may be directed to that office at 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN. 55101; phone (612) 296-9203.

Also surviving are seven sisters: Mrs. Bruce (Lorraune) Galland, Mentor; Patricia, Cecelia, Jacqueline, Agnes and Joyce, all of Red Lake Falls; and Mrs. Mike (Alice) Brunelle, Crookston; and several nieces, nephews, aunts and uncles.

He was preceded in death by his father, who died April 6, 1981, and three grandparents.

Mrs. Alvin Anderson Rites Set At Austin

Mrs. Alvin (Bessie May) Anderson, 73, of Austin, mother of Neil Jacobson of Thief River Falls, died in Thief River Falls on Sunday, at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services will be held in Austin.

Survivors include her husband and son.

Arnold Zutz Rites Held At Red Lake Falls

Arnold M. Zutz, 91, of Red Lake Falls died Wednesday at the Hillcrest Nursing home in that city where he had been a resident since Aug. 13, 1980.

Funeral services for Arnold M. Zutz were held Saturday at 10:30 a.m., at St. John's Lutheran church in Red Lake Falls with Rev. Roger E. Raebel officiating. Special music included solos by Mrs. Ruben Lehrer and Mrs. Arnold Lehrer. Mrs. Dale Baril was the organist. Interment was in the Immanuel Lutheran cemetery in Wylie township, Red Lake county. The Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Ruben Lehrer, Arnold Lehrer, Marvin Zutz, Dan Zutz, Steve Huot and Mark Engan.

Arnold Martin Zutz, a son of the late Charles and Pauline Drager Zutz, was born Jan. 9, 1892 in Wylie township. He grew up in that community and farmed the home farm until his marriage on Nov. 4, 1914 at Immanuel Lutheran church at Wylie to Lydia Gerlach. Following his marriage, he was employed on the Daniel Gerlach farm until 1916, when they moved to Red Lake Falls. There he was employed as bartender for Knoll and Miller until prohibition in 1919. After a season on the William Krueger farm, they returned to Red Lake Falls where Zutz was employed as maintenance man for the Minnesota Highway department. From 1921 to 1934, he was employed by Red Lake Falls liquor supply. In March of 1946, they moved to Richland, Wash., where he was employed by General Electric until he retired at the age of 65. Following retirement, they returned to Red Lake Falls, where he was active in church, and community affairs and was a member of the voluntary fire department.

Surviving are his wife, who is a resident of the Hillcrest Nursing home; a son, Willard Zutz, Mesa, Ariz.; two daughters: Mrs. Faith Huot, Red Lake Falls, and Mrs. Duane (Verna) Fellman, Richland, Wash.; 14 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren, and a brother, Louis Zutz, rural Red Lake Falls.

Four sisters and three brothers preceded him in death.

Services Set For Jeanette Langness, 98

Jeanette Langness, 98, of Minneapolis and formerly of Grygla and Thief River Falls, died Thursday evening.

Funeral services will be held in Minneapolis today (Monday).

A second service is set for Tuesday at 12:30 p.m., at the Bethesda Lutheran Brethren church, rural Grygla, with Rev. Charles Johnson of Thief River Falls officiating. A Minneapolis funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

REFLECTIONS

Hating people is like burning down your house to get rid of a rodent. Hating takes so much energy . . . wastes so much of your time . . . and the hard core hater must constantly feed his rage to keep it alive. How much more constructive it is to spend your time being tolerant, forgiving and pleasant. It not only confuses your enemy, it earns you a good reputation among your friends.

Cystic Fibrosis Week Observed

Struggling for breath is a never-ending fact of life for the 30,000 American children and young adults with cystic fibrosis (CF), a disease that attacks the lungs and digestive system.

"President Reagan recently proclaimed September 18-24 National Cystic Fibrosis week to draw public attention to this country's number one inherited killer of youth, said John Kelly, president of the Minnesota chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis foundation. "Increased public awareness of cystic fibrosis will hopefully lead to earlier diagnosis and treatment before permanent lung damage occurs."

Cystic fibrosis produces a thick, glue-like mucus that clogs the lungs and digestive system. Each day persons with cystic fibrosis go through arduous therapy that includes several sessions of having someone clap and pound their backs to dislodge the mucus from air passages. Some people with the disease inhale medicated vapors, and others with more severe cases need constant access to oxygen.

Pills are also constant factors in the lives of people with CF. Antibiotics are taken to help ward off respiratory infections since the mucus prevents normal elimination of dust and bacteria. Up to 40 capsules or tablets containing pancreatic enzymes must be taken each day to assist in digesting food and absorbing nutrients.

"All the therapy and medical attention required by a person with CF make this a very expensive disease, Kelly said. "The average person with CF spends $6,000 a year, with much higher costs common in later stages of the disease. In addition, there are expenses of increased food costs and frequent travel to doctors and hospitals.

"Despite the constant battle against their disease, the young people with CF struggle to live normal lives. They learn to take nothing for granted and develop an acceptance of the fact that they are just like everyone else in some ways and not at all like others in ways that cannot be ignored," Kelly said.

To help in the fight against the disease, the Cystic Fibrosis foundation was formed by a group of parents and families of people with CF in 1955. The mission of the foundation, a non-profit, voluntary health agency, is to prevent, control and treat cystic fibrosis. Funds raised through the foundation's 64 chapters help support basic biomedical and clinical research, a nationwide network of 125 cystic fibrosis care centers, and public and professional education to help increase recognition of the disease.

"The foundation has not achieved its goal of finding a cure or control for this tragic disease, Kelly said, "but improvements in treatment have greatly extended the lives of people with cystic fibrosis. Just 25 years ago, children with CF rarely lived long enough to enter grade school. Today nearly half of those born with cystic fibrosis make it out of their teens and some live years longer."

Cystic fibrosis patients who are treated at the CF center at the University of Minnesota have the highest survival rate in the United States. While the average life span is 18 years nationwide, it is almost 26 years in Minnesota. Dr. Warren Warwick, CF center director, attributes these statistics to early detection of the disease and the rigorous home treatment program carried out by the CF patient and his or her family.

To learn more about cystic fibrosis, contact the Minnesota Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, 2344 Nicollet Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55404. Free literature on symptoms of CF is available. To help raise money to help fight cystic fibrosis, call 1-800-583-5345 for a pledge form.

Safe Deposit Box Contents Will Be Sold

In compliance with state law, an auction will be held on Sunday, September 25, at the Hotel Leamington, Tenth Street and Third Avenue South, Minneapolis, to dispose of items abandoned in safe deposit boxes. Items up for sale may be inspected at noon, with the sale getting underway at 1 p.m.

According to Michael A. Hatch, commissioner of commerce, state law requires that all financial institutions with safe deposit boxes turn over the contents of abandoned boxes to the Minnesota department of commerce, which must sell them at public auction. This will be the first such auction ever held under state supervision.

Inventory includes such things as a rifle, jewelry, pocket watches, rare coins and stamps, furs and antiques. Catalogues of sale items may be obtained by contacting the department of commerce at 612-296-2283.

RRV Meeting For Christian Leaders In Nov.

"Knowing God and Making Him Known" is the theme for Red River Valley conference '83, to be held November 4-7 in Crookston, with Dr. Bruce and Barbara Thompson as main speakers and team leaders.

Conference will begin Friday evening at Mt. St. Benedict retreat center, and will include a Sunday afternoon youth concert, Sunday evening focus on the family, and conclude Monday with an all-day seminar for Christian leaders, including pastors, elders, doctors, physicians and lay leaders. This is an interdenominational conference. Further information is available from: Crown Ministries, Box 49, Euclid, MN 56722.

Dr. Thompson is a New Zealand born physician who has been working in Hawaii for the last eight years, developing the college of counseling and health care at Pacific and Asia Christian University. His current commitments as dean of the college involve up to five months of teaching and traveling on the major continents of the world. He is responsible for development of whole people clinics world wide, an integrated approach to health, relating to the spirit, soul and body of man. His wife, Barbara, a registered nurse, ministers with him.

Wedul Ranks 10th In Nation Among LB Reps

Katherine Wedul, FIC, who has offices in Thief River Falls, ranked 10th nationally among all Lutheran Brotherhood district representatives during August.

This achievement was based on the amount of life and health insurance protection, annuities and mutual funds she provided Lutherans in her area. Approximately 1,000 district representatives are associated with the national fraternal insurance society.

Wedul joined the society in 1980.

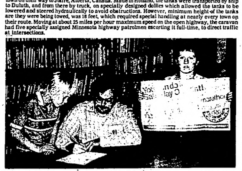
OVERHEAD WIRES had to be raised by telephone company employees at several points along Third Street on Thursday, in order to allow four huge chemical blending tanks to pass through town on their way to Joffre, Alberta, Canada. Made in Holland, the tanks were transported by ship to Duluth, and from there by truck, on specially designed dollies which allowed the tanks to be lowered and steered hydraulically to avoid obstructions. However, minimum height of the tanks are they were being towed, was 18 feet, which required special handling at nearly every town on their route. Moving at about 25 miles per hour maximum speed on the open highway, the caravan had five specially assigned Minnesota highway patrolmen escorting it full-time, to direct traffic at intersections.



ST. BERNARD'S Catholic School students Mark McGregor, left, and Donald Douglas started off their pledge sheets for the marathon for non-public education by getting the signature of Charles Walrath, principal. Students will be collecting pledges throughout the community, based on the number of miles of ditches which they clean along highways leading into the city and in city parks. They intend to clean approximately 30 miles of ditches on October 1. All money collected by St. Bernard's school students will go directly for support of their school. Supplies and publicity materials are being furnished by the local Knights of Columbus council.

4-H Leader Is Offered Chance At Scholarship

Marshall county 4-H federation is sponsoring a scholarship to send one 4-H leader to the North Central regional leaders forum. The year's forum is hosted by Minnesota and will be held at Cragun's Pine Beach Lodge in Brainerd, November 10-13.

This will provide an opportunity for a Marshall county 4-H leader to bring back some new ideas and meet leaders from other counties and North Central states.

Applications and information are available from club key leaders and the extension office in Warren, phone 745-5232.

Brian Fossell Is Promoted

Brian D. Fossell, son of Allan W. and Karen N. Fossell, Route 1, Brooks, has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of senior airman.

Fossell is a vehicle operator and dispatcher at Myrtle Beach air force base, S.C., with the 354th transportation squadron.

He is a 1980 graduate of Plummer high school.

NFO Opposes Grain Embargo

DeVon Woodland, president of the national farmers organization, recently voiced opposition to a unilateral embargo on grain shipments to Russia by the United States in retaliation for the downing of a Korean civilian jetliner.

"Past experience shows these sanctions don't work," Woodland stated. "It's not reasonable or practical to punish the American farmer in an attempt to make a political point with an ineffective embargo.

"If an effective, worldwide embargo of all products, not just agricultural products, was initiated by all exporting countries we would reconsider our position," Woodland said, "but not while our people are the front-line shock troops with no support behind them."

Prison Film To Be Shown This Sunday

"Changed Lives in San Quentin," a documentary film made inside the famous prison, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, September 25, at Norden Lutheran church, six miles west of Thief River Falls on Highway 1.

Focusing on rehabilitation as a result of conversion to Christianisty, the film features stories of four notorious criminals as told in interviews with Art Linkletter and the director of international prison ministry, Chaplain Ray.

Admission to the film is free and open to the public. Further information may be obtained by calling Rev. Ollie Urdahl at 681-4027.

Candlewicking Course At Holt September 26

Marshall county extension service is sponsoring a candlewicking course in Holt at 7 p.m. on Monday, September 26. Cost for the course is $5 and participants are asked to bring a small scissors.

Class size is limited to 20. To register call Doris Augustine at 449-3871.

UND Enrolled 10,629 Pupils By August 29

Total of 10,629 students had enrolled for classes at the University of North Dakota Grand Forks by the end of registration on August 29, according to Donald Wermers, director of admissions and records.

This is 46 students fewer than last year's first-day count of 10,675, Wermers said. That first-day enrollment climbed to a record final enrollment figure of 11,103 last year, after late and changed registrations were completed and enrollments for graduate extended degree programs were processed. Final fall 1983 figures will not be available until late September, Wermers said.

Ministers Met Here Sept. 8

Thief River Falls area ministerial association met Thursday, September 8, at the Seventh Day Adventist Church. Elected as officers of the association were Rev. Melvyn Budke, president; Rev. Richard Larson, vice president; and Rev. Gary Moore, secretary-treasurer. Reports were heard on an emergency aid program, a proposed community food shelf and the progress of the hospice program in Thief River Falls.

Nominations For Disabled Employee Asked

First "Projects With Industry" awards banquet will be held on Friday, October 7, at the IDS crystal Court and Marquette hotel in Minneapolis.

Nominations are now being sought for outstanding employees with disabilities. Any business, organization or government agency may nominate one or more employees for this honor.

The awards banquet keynote speaker, actress Patricia Neal, will describe her recovery from massive strokes experienced in 1966.

The event is sponsored by Sister Kenny institute's "Projects With Industry" and will include a reception at 6:45 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

Five outstanding employees who have successfully contributed to the quality of work and community life will receive plaques at the awards banquet. Each company attending will receive a certificate of recognition for its efforts in the employment of persons with disabilities.

Eligibility for this award is open to any employee with a physical or mental disability which substantially limits one or more major life activities. Criteria include work performance, leadership, initiative and dependability.

Nomination forms and additional information are available by writing or calling: Vocational Services Department, Sister Kenny Institute, 800 E. 28th St. at Chicago Ave., Minneapolis, Minn 55407, (612) 874-4449.

Soo Line Sets New Record In Grain Loading

By a substantial margin, Soo Line has set a new single-month record for country grain loadings.

During August, Soo originated 711,000 tons of grain and oilseeds from country elevators. That mark is 23 per cent above the prior single-month record of 577,000 tons set in August 1981, and 50 per cent above loadings in August 1982.

Total movements of farm products were up 51 per cent over August of 1982. Farm product traffic includes movements of grain from country elevators as well as movements from larger grain terminals.

Heavy August grain loadings came as a result of both an early harvest in Soo territory and movements associated with the repositioning of grain for the PIK program. To meet demand for car supply, Soo augmented its 3,000 grain car fleet with nearly 1,800 additional cars brought on line from other railroads and privately managed car fleets, and put on additional trains.

Thomas M. Beckley, chairman of the board, "a number of changing traffic patterns complicated the grain movement this year, particularly with less grain going to traditional terminals like the twin ports and more to off-line points. Movements to off-line points lengthen car turnaround times."

Knutson To Chair New 911 Committee

Mayor Duane Knutson of Fertile was elected chairman of the new 911 committee of Polk county recently.

The 18 member committee includes representatives of emergency services and interested residents from the county. It is charged by the Board of County Commissioners with planning and implementing an emergency telephone system throughout the county. By state law it must be in operation by 1986.

At Tuesday's meeting, Jim Beutelspacher, state 911 project coordinator, demonstrated how the system has already saved many lives and alleviated emergency conditions throughout the state and nation.

Lyle Elsert, Polk county 911 coordinator, said that certain costs are covered by state and federal governments and that preliminary planning has been in progress for about five years.

In May of this year, the county commissioners unanimously approved the concept by passing a resolution which provides for the 911 service "if it is feasible from an equipment and financial standpoint".

Service is already in operation in Grand Forks and around the nation, and is almost ready to go in Ada. It allows anyone to get help instantly from any telephone, even through a pay phone without a coin, by dialing 911.

Committee meets the second and fourth Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m. at the Polk county court house. Members from this area include: Judge John Roue, Kermit Sundeen, Wayne Halseth, Greg Whiting, Dr. J.D. Wood, Michael Murray, Mayor Duane Knutson, George Jacobs, Clifton Olson, Renold Erickson, W.E. Reynolds, Rand Hughes, Wayne Swanson, R.W. Hangsleben, William Kiewel, Bill Knox, Lt. Stack and Lyle Elsert.

Planning Help To Be Offered To HS Seniors

Post-high school planning program for all high school seniors and their parents will be held at Northland community college from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, September 27.

This program will give students and parents an opportunity to obtain information on programs of 80 post-secondary schools and military service branches. Representatives of community colleges, public and private universities and colleges, vocational schools, and trade schools will be present to talk to interested people. No formal sessions will be held, but students and paents will be free to move about the area, spending as much time as they wish with individual representatives.

According to sponsors, the Minnesota association of secondary school counselors and college admissions officers, this will be the best single opportunity for students and parents to get needed information from the many sources present at this program. Modeled after the national college fair held annually in Minneapolis, this program has the support of high schools in the area and has replaced many similar events formerly held at them. High school counselors may be contacted for more specific information.

FACTUAL NEWS REPORTING EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

Political Wheels Are Turning

With general elections more than a year away, the question of who the DFL party will put on the ballot against incumbent I-R Senator Rudy Boschwitz is the subject of a good deal of speculation already. General consensus seems to be that the only announce candidate — Hennepin county board chairman John Derus — really isn't likely to be given serious consideration.

Congressman James Oberstar has not announced his candidacy, but he has been actively on the campaign trail for several months. Secretary of State Joan Growe is considered one of the favorites for the endorsement, but she has made no announcement of her candicacy as of yet.

In the opinion of the editor of the Pope County Tribune in Glenwood, however, the most likely person to receive the DFL endorsement is Minnesota attorney general Hubert H. (Skip) Humphrey III. In an editorial in a recent edition, the Tribune notes the following reasoning:

"Many DFL politicians have successfully used the attorney general's office as a springboard to higher office, and while he is not saying so, there is little doubt in anyone's mind that Humphrey has a higher political office in mind than attorney General.

"Many old-time DFL'ers are ecstatic over the possibility that another Humphrey might serve in his father's old senate seat, and while Humphrey himself might think it's a bit too early to seek the senate seat, he might be pressured into it by members of his own party.

"Humphrey has neither the oratorical ability of his father nor the charisma, but he has the name, and in politics that's a big, big plus — especially when your late father if venerated by the DFL party and by many independents," the Tribune states.

"The DFL wants badly to defeat Sen. Boschwitz in the fall of 1984 because they realize that if Boschwitz wins another term, it might be many years before they can get him out of there. And while Humphrey may believe that it's a bit too early for his timetable, he could well come out on top because his party wants and needs the magic of the Humphrey name at the ballot box."

We can understand the urgency felt by the DFL in defeating Boschwitz, since he has been a staunch supporter of President Reagan and generally a conservative in his approach to government.

Regardless of the present political labels, the DFL in Minnesota already has its viewpoints frequently represented by one of Minnesota's two senators. If the DFL is truly eager to have a senator in Washington, perhaps they could persuade Sen. Dave Durenberger to change his party affiliation to match the way he thinks and votes. That would be a lot quicker and cheaper than trying to defeat Sen. Boschwitz.

Complex Unemployment

As Labor Day came and went, there was ample oratory on unemployment. Speakers were not hesitant to place the blame, but they are dealing in serious oversimplification.

Unemployment in America today is quite complex and puzzling. Some of the oversimplifiers seem to say government should somehow provide jobs and retraining to solve the problem.

But where have we heard that before? We've been hiring and retraining people so hot and heavy during the past decade that the cost of social services has doubled and trebled. The result has been a rise in the poverty level and unemployment.

You can put someone in a job corps for a while, but not for the rest of his or her life. There has to be a job waiting when someone is retrained.

It is a complex question in a land where there are 10 million unemployed. Why then are there millions of illegal aliens in the country and millions more hammering at the gates?

The usual answer is that they're performing jobs not fit for Americans. Still they're jobs that provide somebody with a good enough living that people are willing to make gargantuan sacrifices to seek them out.

"A national investigative news report defined the situation somewhat. An effort was made to track down illegal aliens in industrial jobs so that those jobs could be given to Americans. The summary showed that some months later almost every American who had taken one of those jobs had quit. Some said it was too hard and that people shouldn't have to work like that. Most of the jobs in question were not minimum wage jobs.

When we start placing the blame for unemployment, we should try to spread it around where it belongs. It's a much deeper problem than most will admit. Its roots are widespread.

It extends to the fathers and mothers who convinced the children of the next generation they are entitled automatically to the good life. It extends to our liberal legislators who have tried to provide that standard by printing money and giving it out. It belongs in part to all of us in a society that can't adjust anymore to changes.

That is useful to consider. It will be helpful to remember when the next president and congress fail to resolve the unemployment and poverty issues, just as did the presidents and congresses that went before them.

Football Terms

Columnist Bob Johnson at Wadena shares the following information to help all of us get through the football season(s) with as much understanding as possible:

Because of an oversight on my part, many Wadena area residents were forced to go through the first big football weekends of the season without fully understanding what was happening.

The oversight was that my glossary of common football terms had not been published, leaving many fans wondering if the object of the game was to score more points or sell beer, since both pursuits are given equal time on the telecasts.

However, all is not lost because (a) there are still more than 35 weeks of football to go so those who missed the initial thrills of players reciting "Hi, Mom, we're No. 1" have plenty of time to catch up and (b) the updated version of Football Terms and Their English Translations follows:

"Coach Ferguson's position with us is in no way threatened by the team's 1-7 record" — Coach Ferguson is about to become unemployed.

"Zone defense — A maneuver designed to thwart penetration by ozones, twilight zones and quartazones.

5-4-4 defense — A maneuver utilized by defensive football coaches who flunked beginning math.

Field judge — Someone who judges fields for verdant undulation.

The sidelines — Where the coaches, assistant coaches, trainers, team physicians, equipment managers, ankletapers, cheerleaders, photographers, on-the-field reporters, security police, pep squads and everyone else who gets into the game for nothing stand so they can get a better view and block the vision of the people who paid to get in.

Hoist down the mizzenpoop — This is not a football term. I've been paying too much attention to the America Cup races this week.

Attempted pass — "Hello, gorgeous. . . Don't I know you from somewhere?"

Pass incompletion — "No, sir. But you look like you might know my grandmother."

Umbrella defense — A strategy designed to stop parasols.

Quarterback — A financial transaction that commonly arises when a shopper pays for a sack of groceries with a $20 bill.

Quick pitch — "Hi. Your place or mine?"

Armed with these common phrases, football fans should have no trouble distinguishing between going for the bomb and getting bombed.

Borrowed Nonsense:

About to pull away from the curb, the bus driver called out "All aboard." "Wait 'til I get my clothes on!" a female voice called. All heads turned as the lady set her laundry basket inside. Then the bus drove off.

The little girl came home from her first day at school, and was asked by her mother what she did there.

"I did the same thing as the other kids," the girl replied.

"What was that?" the mother pressed.

"We cried," the girl answered.

Memory, it is observed, is what tells a man his wedding anniversary was yesterday.

Two Area Men Shoot In Guard Competition

Leon Newton, Goodridge, and Carl Peterson, St. Hilaire, represented the state as members of the Minnesota National Guard rifle team at the National Guard rifle, pistol and machine gun championships held at Camp Robinson, AR, September 12-16.

The two men and their teammates were among 1,600 National Guard sharpshooters from across the country competing for national honors in the championships. Their team participated in the combat rifle competition firing M16 rifles at paper silhouette targets up to 400 yards away from the prone, sitting and standing positions.

Competition also required the shooters to be in good physical shape. Prior to the final team match, all team members were required to complete a timed, two-mile run while wearing full combat gear and carrying their rifles.

Platoon sergeant Newton is a member of company B, 136 infantry. He is a graduate of Cooley high school and has served in the National guard nearly 20 years.

Peterson is a member of company B, second battalion, 136 infantry unit, Thief River Falls. He is team coach for the shooting team which placed first in the all-army shooting matches in 1978. Since 1977 to the present his teams have always been in the top five.

UMC To Offer Credit Course In Calligraphy

Two sections in calligraphy will be offered through continuing education at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, September 24. Students are encouraged to bring a brown bag lunch. Second session will be from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 27 and 28.

Both sessions will be taught by Pat Kuznik in Dowell hall, room 115. Fee for the one-half credit course is $17 plus $6.50 for materials.

Baby Massage Is CPLT Topic This Thursday

Children and parents learning together (CPLT) is offering a one-hour session on infant massage, at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, September 22, at the Knox school. This session is for infants who are not yet crawling and their parents. Expectant parents may also attend.

For information or to pre-register call 681-2700, ext. 283.

CPLT is one of 34 early childhood and family education programs located throughout Minnesota and funded by the state. Services are offered at minimal cost, with fees waived for those unable to pay.

Meals Program Celebrates 10

In recognition of the tenth anniversary of founding the senior meals and activity program, an open house for the general public will be held on Thursday, October 6, at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls.

Refreshments will be served from 2 to 4 p.m. with a program at 2:30. Director Linda Rethemeier notes that the program covers a seven county area of northwestern Minnesota.

Mr. Rogers Is Moved To New Morning Time

Mister Rogers' Neighborhood, a popular television series for children between four and eight years of age, has been rescheduled by Prairie Public Television.

The series is now being broadcast at 11:30 a.m. rather than 12:30 p.m. on weekdays. Sesame Street will be broadcast at noon weekdays rather than 11:30 a.m. Both popular children's series are repeated later in the day — Mister Rogers' Neighborhood at 3:30 p.m. and Sesame Street at 4 p.m.

Change in the schedule was prompted by viewer requests says PPTV General Manager Dennis Falk. Parents of kindergarten-aged viewers pointed out that their children were unable to tune in Mister Rogers' Neighborhood because of their school schedule. Falk noted, "By moving Mister Rogers to 11:30 a.m., those who go to kindergarten in the afternoons won't have to miss the show. Our old schedule was unfair to those children — they often left for school before our 12:30 p.m. broadcast of Mister Rogers and returned home too late for the 3:30 broadcast."

Mister Rogers' Neighborhood and Sesame Street are broadcast on Prairie Public Television's six stations across North Dakota — KFME (13) Fargo; KGFE (2) Grand Forks; KBME (3) Bismarck; KSRE (6) Minot; KDSE (9) Dickinson; and KWSE (9) Williston.

FIRST MINNESOTA pheasant habitat stamp is now available for farmers, hunters, conservationists and collectors throughout Minnesota. The 1983 Minnesota Legislature passed the pheasant habitat program to raise revenues for the preservation and restoration of pheasant habitat in Minnesota. All pheasant hunters between the ages of 16 and 64 are required to purchase the stamp and attach it to their small game license. The stamp is available from fish and game license agents across the state. The stamp is from an art print by noted Minnesota artist Daniel Smith.

1983 Waterfowl Season Will Open At Noon Oct. 1

Minnesota's 1983 waterfowl hunting season will get underway at noon, Saturday, October 1, the Department of Natural Resources officially announced last week, and there are some changes from last year's regulations.

Duck and goose season will run through Nov. 19 in most of the state. However, goose hunting in the southeastern goose zone will be open through Dec. 9.

Bag limits on both ducks and geese will be 5 daily and 10 in possession with special bag restrictions on some species. Because of poor reproduction caused by the late spring, bag limits on Canada geese have been reduced to one daily and two in possession in most of the state.

In the southeastern goose zone, Canada goose bag limits will remain at two daily and four in possession. The goose quota in the Lac qui Parle goose zone was reduced from 5,500 to 4,500.

Hunters are advised to read the waterfowl hunting regulations carefully before going afield. Wildlife officials said the regulations should be in the hands of county auditors and license agents by Sept. 20.

Only one area will be closed to the hunting of canvasback this year. The closed area will be the Mississippi river bottoms from the confluence of the Chippewa river in Wisconsin, near Reads Landing, to the Iowa border.

Steel shot registrations will be the same as last year. Hunters will be restricted to the use of steel shot within the boundaries of state wildlife management areas, federal waterfowl production areas and on the waters of Swan and Middle lakes in Nicollet county, North and South Heron lakes in Jackson county, Pelican lake in Wright county, Bear Lake in Freeborn county and Christina Lake in Douglas and Grant counties.

Steel shot restrictions also applies within the Mississippi river bottoms between Hastings and the Iowa line, the Tamarac National Wildlife Refuge in Becker county and the Sherburne National Wildlife Refuge in Sherburne county.

Again this season, the decoys may be left out over night in public waters only if the adjacent land is privately owned and there is no natural growth of vegetation in the water capable of concealing a hunter. Otherwise the usual restrictions apply to the placing of decoys and blinds, and hunters should read the regulations to avoid violating them.

Waterfowl hunters are reminded that any blind on public land or in public waters, when not in use, is considered public and not the sole property of whoever built it. Any use or threat of force against another to gain possession of the blind is unlawful.

Two new waterfowl refuges have been established this year. Rice Pond in Beltrami county and Round (Rice) Lake near Deer River in Itasca county are both closed to waterfowl hunting.

Wildlife officials also remind hunters that a number of lakes have been designated as waterfowl feeding and resting areas and that the use of motorboats on those lakes is prohibited. Newly designated lakes this year are Big Rice Lake in Cass county and Dora Lake in LeSueur county. A complete list of feeding and resting areas is found in the waterfowl regulations.

DNR hotline

1. What can I do about the bats that have invaded my attic and cedar siding?

Many people are frightened of bats, but they are not generally harmful, and, in fact, are actually beneficial as they consume large numbers of night flying insects. Minnesota has seven kinds of bats, but the most common in the northwest are Big Brown bats and Little Brown Bats. Regardless of their benefits, an attic full of bats is not desirable and steps must be taken to alleviate the problem.

Bats usually find roost sites in structures where there is an abundance of insects nearby, where warm temperatures prevail, and where there is proximity to water. Excluding them from the house or structure is the only way to control them — this is extremely difficult since they can enter through a three-eights inch hole. Exclusion should only be done in early spring or late fall so that young bats are not trapped in the structure. Watch at dusk to determine entry points and then in the fall use foam sealants, wood or screening to seal the holes.

Napthalene is currently the only repellent which can be used to repel bats, but again, this is only a temporary solution — exclusion is the best alternative to use.

Any questions concerning nonhunted wildlife should be directed to the nongame specialist. Katie Hirsch, regional nongame specialist.

2. I want to hunt deer with a bow and arrow. What type of equipment is legal?

Bows must have a pull of no less than 40 pounds at or before full draw. The bow may not be drawn, held, or released by a mechanical device.

Arrow heads for big game hunting must be made of all steel barbless design. The blade or blades of hicarbon steel not less than one inch wide for single two edge blade and not less than three inches circumference for three or more blades — minimum weight of all types of 110 grain. Provided that arrow heads with blades of mill tempered spring steel containing a plastic core or ferrule, conforming to the above dimensions, and with a minimum weight of 90 grain may be used. Butch Dyrland, regional enforcement supervisor.

Walker Races To Feature Unique Prize Awards

Art, according to sponsors, as well as the sport of running, plays an important role in the first annual Walker North Country marathon and 10K run, to be held October 8 in Walker.

Awards for the unique event are handcrafted works by some of Minnesota's finest artisans. And these awards will be on display at various locations throughout the region from now until October 8.

A total of 74 individual awards will be presented to the top age group finishers in the marathon and the 10K run. Each of these handcrafted awards has been donated by its author or a representative gallery. These pieces range from the more traditional crafts, such as batik and birch bark weaving, to popular art forms, such as wildlife photography and woodcarving.

Awards will be on exhibit Sept. 20-24 at the Bemidji Community Arts Center; Sept. 27-October 2 at North Country Museum of Arts in Park Rapids; and Oct. 3-6 at the Walker Art Gallery.

For additional information about the races, contact Jeannie Berg at 547-1313 or Jo Barnier at 335-2226.

LHS Freshman Football Game Is Rescheduled

A schedule change announced last week found a Thief River Falls vs. Crookston freshman high school football game being switched from Thurs., Sept. 15 to Thurs., Sept. 22.

Game time will be 4:15 on Prowler Field in Thief River Falls. It'll be the 1983 home opener for Thief River Falls, 0-1 for the year.

Fosston Hitters Defeat TRF Volleyball Squad 2-0

Fosston played offense even when on defense and Thief River Falls played defense even when on offense Thursday and as a result the three-time defending Region 8A high school volleyball champion Greyhounds handled the Prowlers 18-7, 18-8 in the Lincoln gym.

"We try to play too cautious," explained disappointed Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson. "We're just not aggressive enough."

It was Fosston's aggressive attack that kept Thief River Falls on the defense. The Greyhounds' continuous string of hard-hit spikes contrasted sharply with the Prowlers' attempts to slip the ball over the net with soft two-hand taps.

It's frustrating, indicated Anderson, to watch your team practice the teamwork and execute the spikes in practice and then not have those things materialize in a match.

Thief River Falls actually opened with a lead in both games. The Prowlers jumped in front 4-0 in the opener, but then surrendered 10 straight points and never threatened the Greyhounds' lead. Jill Klemmetson, a 5-6 senior and the only starter back from last year's state tournament team, served the Greyhounds from 13-7 to 18-7, finishing with an ace.

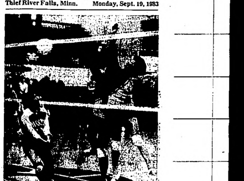
Second game produced a 2-0 Thief River Falls headstart. Fosston went ahead 5-2, but the Prowlers regained the lead 6-5 on a serve by junior Kristi Finney.

But that's when Fosston took over again, collecting six straight points and out-scoring Thief River Falls 13-2 down the stretch.

Anderson was not happy with the Prowlers' performance, but did single out the play of Finney. "Kristi did a nice job on defense," she noted.

It was the Prowlers' third straight loss after a season-opening win over Detroit Lakes. Thief River Falls hosts East Grand Forks Tuesday in a 7:30 p.m. match, preceded by the C squad and junior varsity matches at 5 and 6:15 p.m., respectively.

Thief River Falls junior varsity lost its first match in four outings Thursday as Fosston triumphed 18-7, 5-18, 18-13. Winless in three tries, the Thief River Falls C squad dropped a pair of 18-12 games to Fosston.



GOING UP together at the net, Thief River Falls defenders Leslie Weigand (3) and Paula Bergan (8) successfully blocked this Fosston shot during the second game of Thursday's volleyball match in the Lincoln high school gym. The defending Region 8A champion Greyhounds beat the Prowlers 18-7, 18-8.

DNR Reminder Given On Goose Hunting Zones

Hunters have been reminded by the Department of Natural Resources of pre-registration requirements for the controlled goose hunts at the Thief Lake and Lac qui Parle wildlife management areas.

Applications to reserve a hunting station will be accepted on the basis of the earliest postmark. Applications postmarked before September 1 or after September 25 will not be accepted.

Hunter applications must be made on a standard 3½ by 5½ inch postcard bearing the applicant's full name and address and listing first, second and third choice dates. Applicants should indicate whether they will accept any other date if none of their choices are available.

Goose season will open October 1.

Reservation system will be in effect at Thief Lake through October 24, but after that date stations will be available on a first-come, first-choice basis. Lac qui Parle registration is for the entire season or until the quota of geese has been taken.

Applications should be sent to: Controlled Hunt, Thief Lake WMA, NE Star Route, Box 17, Middle River, MN 56737; or Controlled Hunt, Lac qui Parle WMA, Watson, MN 56295.

Only one postcard per hunter may be submitted to each area and only successful applicants will be notified. Those submitting more than one application per area will have all of their applications rejected.

Successful applicants will be mailed reservations for the day of their hunt.

Hunters with reservations will be assigned shooting stations by a drawing at 5 a.m. on the morning of the hunt. Successful applicants may be accompanied by one or two guests.

Hunters at Thief Lake will be limited to one reserved trip for the season, either as a guest or as a successful applicant.

Archery Club Has Tourney On Wednesday

Thief River Falls Archery Club will stage its annual broadhead tournament Wednesday at the club's shooting range south of town off the Airport Road.

Competition will begin at 6 p.m. and continue until dark. Entry fee is $1.

Three-Class System Is Proposed

A three-class system — AAA, AA and A — for the Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) has been proposed by the District 31 committee after the plan was formulated by that committee and the District 31 Coaches Association.

Gary Schuler, head basketball coach at Warren high school, has asked that the details of the plan be aired at fall district and regional meetings of the MSHSL.

"We will be taking it (the proposed plan) to the boys and girls state coaches associations in October and the District 31 Committee will be presenting it as an amendment to the representative assembly (of the MSHSL) in November," Schuler said in a cover letter containing details of the proposal that was published last week in the Detroit Lakes Tribune.

In listing rationale for the proposal, Schuler said that the ratios of schools within each division "are more fair than the existing two-class plan;" said the plan would include all activities but football where there are five classes and hockey which has one class; and declared that the proposal "is better geographically" than the existing plan.

It also is suggested by the District 31 representatives that the Class AAA and Class AA state basketball tournaments be held in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area and that the Class A tournament be held in St. Cloud, described by Schuler as "a viable and centrally-located site for the Class A tournament."

Other rationale for the three-class proposal include the following:

+Number of schools in each district and region are more even in this plan as compared to the present system.

+It will provide more participants the opportunity to be involved in state tournament competition.

+We followed the format that the MSHSL used in developing the new five-class football system, whereby numbers of schools (64 in AAA, 128 in AA and 307 in A) rather than enrollment figures was the only criteria used.

+We propose adjustments every three years. If a school, at the end of this period, is reassigned, that school may petition to remain in previous class.

Under the three-class proposal, Thief River Falls would be in Region 8AA, along with Alexandria, Bagley, Breckenridge, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, Fergus Falls, Frazee, Long Prairie, Park Rapids, Perham, Roseau, Staples and Wadena.

Region 8AAA would include Bemidji, Brainerd, Duluth Central, Duluth Denfeld, Duluth East, Grand Rapids, Hibbing and Moorhead. (St. Cloud Apollo and St. Cloud Tech, currently Region 8AA members, would be placed in Region 7AAA, along with Anoka, Blaine, Coon Rapids, Elk River, Osseo and Park high school of Brooklyn Park.

Class A would be divided into districts. In Region 8A, the district assignments would include:

District 29 — Clearbrook, Erskine, Fosston, Gonvick, Mahnomen, McIntosh, Mentor, Oklee, Plummer and Waubun.

District 31 — Alvarado, Argyle, Hallock, Humbolt, Kennedy, Lancaster, Oslo, Stephen, Warren.

District 32 — Badger, Goodridge, Greenbush, Grygla, Middle River, Marshall County Central, Strandquist, Tri-County and Warroad. (Lake of the Woods would move into District 28 in Region 7A with Bigfork, Blackduck, Indus, Kelliher, Littlefork-Big Falls, Northome and Red Lake).

There were, of course, some changes in the class structure in northwestern Minnesota this year when East Grand Forks and Crookston dropped from Region 8AA to Region 8A because of declining enrollment figures. They were both placed back into District 31 surroundings they occupied (along with Thief River Falls, still a Region 8AA member) before the MSHSL went to the two-class system.

Presence of the Green Wave and Pirates wasn't well-received by the area small schools. The former smaller Region 8AA members are now the larger Region 8A schools. According to the 1982-83 MSHSL directory, school enrollment figures for the top three grades in the District 31 schools show Alvarado with 34, Climax 46, Goodridge 61, Fisher 71, Plummer 74, Oslo 119, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 127, Warren 177, Red Lake Falls 192, Crookston 453 and East Grand Forks 489.

At the same time, Argyle (101 students in grades 10-12) and Stephen (116) moved back into District 32 where they once belonged before switching to District 31 when East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls and Crookston went AA.

Thief River Falls would obviously benefit from the three-class plan. The Prowlers have had minimal success in Class AA, but with 598 students listed in the top three grades according to the MSHSL book, they don't really belong in the present Class A set-up, either.

Lincoln high school athletic director Russ Smith thinks the three-class plan may ultimately

MAHNOMEN RUNNINGBACK Charlie Stock (27) attracted a lot of attention from Thief River Falls defenders Friday on this carry in the third quarter of the high school football game played at Prowler Field. Closing in for the tackle were Tim Bottem (43), Todd Ortloff (58), Dan Upham (70), Jeff Johnson (77), Scott Fowler (34) and Jeff Langan (21). Stock was held to a two-yard gain on the play that reached the Prowlers' 20-yard line. However, it was part of a 19-play, 72-yard touchdown march by the Indians, who scored on Mark Agnew's one-yard quarterback sneak on the final play of the third quarter for a 13-0 lead. That was the final score as Stock finished with 171 yards rushing on a busy 31-carry night.

Indians Dominate Prowlers In Recording 13-0 Shutout Victory

Loud thud heard Friday night in Thief River Falls was the sound of the Lincoln high school football team crashing to earth. Sky-high the week before when a 20-0 victory over Detroit Lakes snapped a 21-game losing streak, the Prowlers' visions of a winning streak were shot down in a hurry by Mahnomen as the No. 2-rated Class B Indians racked up a one-sided win that wasn't really reflected in the 13-0 final.

Mahnomen completely dominated play. Until a futile last-ditch attempt to get on the scoreboard at the end, Thief River Falls' offense produced nothing, due partly because the Prowlers spent most of the night on defense.

Through three quarters a time-of-possession figure showed that the Indians had the ball for 27½ minutes while the Prowlers had it for only 8½ minutes. During those three quarters Mahnomen ran 40 plays — excluding punts and penalties. Thief River Falls ran 17.

When it was all done, Mahnomen halfback Charlie Stock was well on his way to another 1,000-yard season. The 6-0, 180-pound senior rushed for 171 yards on a busy 31-carry night against the Prowlers. Fullback Don Schoenborn added 77 yards on 22 carries. Save for three quarterback sneaks and a single pass attempt — and completion — by freshman signal-caller Mark Agnew, Stock and Schoenborn accounted for every carry and every yard the Indians recorded until Dan Houska came off the bench for a two-yard gain with 3:50 remaining in the game.

Mahnomen, rather the hard-running Stock and Schoenborn, wound up with 254 yards on 57 rushing attempts. Thief River Falls had a meager 43 yards on 20 carries and half of those yards came on two carries by quarterback Mitch Semanko in the final moments. Six of the Prowlers' nine first downs came on their hurry-up attempt to score at the end, and of the three earlier first downs, two of them came on back-to-back 15-yard penalties whistled against the over-zealous Indians.

And that was from a team that had rushed for 298 yards on 54 carries against Detroit Lakes the week before.

"Definitely a good performance," smiled Mahnomen coach Ken Baumann at the end. "Last year (a 6-0 Mahnomen win despite the fact the Indians had just four first downs and 72 yards worth of offense) Thief River controlled the line of scrimmage on us. But we've got four of the six blockers up front back and they really did the job tonight. We didn't expect to control the ball on the ground like we did. That was surprising."

Up front for the Indians were tackles Dan Bjerk, a 6-0, 195-pound senior, and Jason Spaeth, a 6-2, 220-pound freshman; guards Tom Spaeth, a 5-10, 170-pound senior, and Leonard Foss, a 5-8, 180-pound senior; center Ernie Mrachek, a 6-2, 200-pound senior; and tight end Jon Tommervik, a 6-3, 200-pound junior. They blew away Thief River Falls defenders all night.

At the same time, Stock and Shoenborn gained additional yards of their own. With a head of steam gained behind the crisp blocking, they broke tackles and carried defenders with them on nearly every carry.

Mahnomen was in command right from the outset. The Indians remained off the scoreboard in the first quarter, though, when they ran out of downs at the Thief River Falls 16 and when Agnew lost a fumble on a sneak attempt from the Thief River Falls 4-yard line.

Linebacker Scott Fowler recovered the fumble, but it was only a momentary reprieve for the Prowlers, who tried to get out of the hole with a quick punt out of the I-formation on third down from inside the 5-yard line. The Indians gained possession at the 27 and Stock covered that on first down when his blockers took out the right side of the Thief River Falls defense and he sprinted into the end zone with 3:44 remaining in the first half. Agnew's kick made it 7-0.

Thief River Falls had a net 16 yards and no first downs in the first half when they were limited to 11 offensive snaps that got them no further than their own 39-yard line.

Slapped with consecutive 15-yard penalties on the same play — one for personal foul on the playing field and one for comments from the bench area — Mahnomen found itself backed up to its own 25-yard line" on Thief River Falls' second half-opening offensive possession. But back-to-back fumbled snaps and two incomplete passes later the Indians had the ball at the 28.

That set up a remarkable 19-play, 72-yard touchdown march by the Indians that took up the rest of the third quarter — 9-minutes, 36-seconds. Stock carried 10 times on the drive and Schoenborn nine times, but the touchdown went to the 5-11, 170-pound Agnew, who beat out two juniors for the vacant quarterback job, on a sneak from inside the 1-yard line on the final play of the quarter.

Thief River Falls' only offense of the night came in the final 3:50 of the game when the Prowlers took a punt at their own 23-yard line and ran 17 plays to reach the Mahnomen 3-yard line before time expired. Thirteen of those were pass attempts by quarterback, Mitch Semanko, who also had a pair of 11-yard runs during the drive, including a roll to the left side on a pass play that he carried for a first down to the 3-yard line with eight second left. Final plunge into the line was stopped for no gain, though, preserving the Mahnomen shutout.

Mahnomen — Agnew, 1-yard run; kick failed, 12:00 third quarter.

KEEPING THE ball in play, Thief River Falls' Jennifer Anderson used a "bump" to set up a play for the Prowlers during their Thursday night volleyball match against Fosston in the Lincoln high school gym. The Prowlers' record fell to 1-3 after the 18-7, 18-8 loss to the Greyhounds. They host East Grand Forks Tuesday.

LHS Swimmers Top Fargo North 97-74

Lincoln high school girls swimming team won its second home dual meet decision in five days Saturday when the Prowlers defeated Fargo North 97-74 in the Franklin middle school pool.

Thief River Falls beat Bemidji 109-63 earlier in the week after opening the 1983 season at the Fargo Shanley invitational.

Lincoln swimmers met six more sectional qualifying times Saturday, including Michelle Puetz and Janelle Smidt in both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle races, plus Connie Geatz in both the 100-yard butterfly and 100-yard backstroke.

Puetz, a sophomore, was a double-event winner Saturday with a 26.78 in the 50-yard freestyle and a 59.94 in the 100-yard freestyle. Geatz won the 100-yard butterfly in 1:13.74; Gayle Borchart won the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:23.70; while Geatz, Jill Lusignan, Shelley McGann and Puetz won the meet-opening 200-yard medley relay in 2:11.39.

Thief River Falls visits Grand Forks Red River Thursday for a 4:30 p.m. meet, with the Prowler Relays planned Saturday beginning at 2 p.m. in the Franklin pool.

Vikings Defeat Northmen 32-15

Itasca scored on its first two possessions of the game Saturday night and went on to beat Northland 32-15 in a Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) football game played in the rain at Grand Rapids.

Northland's offense was stymied by nine fumbles — a majority of them occurring on the exchange between the center and quarterback.

Itasca's lead was cut in half, 14-7, when Kent Kainz grabbed a tipped pass from quarterback Bob Rockwood and completed a 75-yard touchdown play with 1:56 left in the first quarter (with Kainz also adding the conversion kick), but Itasca lengthened the lead to 29-7 at the half and added a 46-yard third quarter field goal for a 32-7 cushion.

Kainz, a sophomore from Thief River Falls, added his second touchdown reception of the night on a 4-yard toss from Steve Blanc in the final minute of play.

"We're having trouble getting going," admitted Northland coach John Helley, whose team lost an 18-0 decision to the Bemidji State University junior varsity the week before to start the 1983 season in non-conference fashion. "It's there, we just can't get going."

Northland running game was limited to just 21 yards on 23 carries, with Itasca netting 196 yards on 60 tries. The Northmen did pick up some yards in the air as Rockwood, a sophomore from Fargo, N.D., and Blanc, a freshman from Columbia Heights, combined on a 17-for-33 night for 240 yards. Rockwood was the starter and was 2-for-4 passing for 89 yards. Blanc was 15-for-29 for 151 yards. They both had a touchdown and an interception. Kainz caught four passes for 111 yards, Todd Graalum caught six for 51 and Kevin Roehl six for 51. Itasca was 11-for-18 in the air for 160 yards to finish with a 356-261 edge in total yards.

"They (Itasca) had a nice team," reported Helley. "They moved the ball well. Our defense didn't settle down in the first quarter, they broke down at times. When you give up 32 points you've got to blame the defense, but the offense has to take some of the blame, too, because of those fumbles."

Defensively, Steve Robinson had seven unassisted tackles and 10 assists for the Northmen, with Eric Bondy finishing with seven solo and six assisted tackles, Nathan Bukowski had 6 and 8, Greg Langerud 6 and 5 and Rockwood 8 and 3.

Northland resumes MCCC play on the road again Saturday with a 1:30 p.m. game against Vermilion at Ely.

Prowlers Win Bemidji Meet

Thief River Falls was the winner Saturday in the five-team Bemidji girls invitational high school tennis tournament.

Coach Whitey Olson's Prowlers finished the day with 16 points, followed by Detroit Lakes with 14, Grand Rapids 11, Bemidji 8 and Moorhead 0.

"It was a good win for us," mentioned Olson. "We were really happy."

Thief River Falls had individual winners at No. 2 singles, where junior Penni Johnston was 4-0 for the day, and at No. 2 doubles, where eighth graders Kelly Cornell and Vickie Grovum were also unbeaten in four matches.

Junior Michelle Olson was second at No. 1 singles for the Prowlers; and Lawrenz was second at No. 3 singles; with junior Natalie Wilson and sophomore Connie Grovum finishing in a three-way second place tie at No. 1 doubles.

Detroit Lakes' Lori Berenz was a winner at No. 1 singles; and Grand Rapids' Stacy Petschel was the winner at No. 3 singles; with Detroit Lakes' Jan Hepola and Kjorsten Hanson winners at No. 1 doubles.

Thief River Falls was scheduled to host Waubun today (Monday) in a 3:30 p.m. match. The Prowlers entertain Detroit Lakes Tuesday in another 3:30 start.

THIEF RIVER FALLS quarterback Mitch Semanko ran the option play to the left and picked up 11 yards for a first down at the Prowlers' 46-yard line on this play as Mahnomen defensive back Mark Peterick came up to make the stop in the fourth quarter of Friday's high school football game played here. The play came with just 1:32 remaining in the game and was the Prowlers' initial first down by rushing of the night as the Indians dominated play in a 13-0 victory. Mahnomen out-gained Thief River Falls on the ground 254 yards to 43. The Prowlers collected six of their nine first downs on the last-ditch attempt to get on the scoreboard, but finished the game at the Mahnomen 3-yard line.

Nordics' Mistakes Hand Argyle 20-12 Conference Win Friday

Argyle capitalized on Marshall County Central mistakes to score three second quarter touchdowns Friday that led to a 20-12 Top of the State Conference Nine-Man high school football win for the Eagles over the host Nordics.

It was a match-up of defending Top of the State Conference co-champions. But Argyle is off to a 3-0 start this fall while Marshall County Central is 0-3.

Marshall County Central scored first when a Bret Hanson pass interception and a 28-yard Dan Halvorson-to-Brian Rud pass completion set up a 6-yard Ken Krohn touchdown run in the first quarter.

However, the second quarter proved to be a nightmare for the Nordics. A poor punt and a bad bounce wound up with zero yards at the Marshall County Central 15-yard line; a fumble was recovered by Argyle at the Marshall County Central 35-yard line; and a blocked punt gave the Eagles the ball at the Marshall County Central 24-yard line.

Argyle scored on every occasion. After the fruitless punt, the Eagles scored on a fourth down play from the 1-yard line on a fumble recovery in the end zone by Ray Safrannski. Ball carrier Brian Riopelle appeared to be stopped for no gain on the play, but Marshall County Central supporters say he intentionally tossed the ball ahead into the end zone where Safranski grabbed it to score.

After the fumble recovery it was a 28-yard Safranski pass to John Keller that made it 14-6, and after the blocked punt a 4-yard Kevin Gruhut run upped the margin to 20-6 at halftime.

Kevin Boe, who moments earlier recovered an Argyle fumble, scored on a 20-yard third quarter run for the Nordics to complete the scoring.

"Our kicking game broke down," explained Marshall County Central coach Sam Gebhart. "It was mistakes in our kicking game that cost us. Our defense did a good job, but you can't give a good team like Argyle those kind of opportunities and expect to win."

Defense was tough on both sides. Marshall County Central could muster just 117 yards worth of offense — 69 rushing and 48 passing. Argyle finished with 209 yards — 147 rushing and 62 passing.

Defensively, Boe was cited by Gebhart for a strong game at safety that included 12 tackles, a fumble recovery and a good job on pass coverage. Grant Nelson and Krohn were each credited with 13 tackles while Jay Nelson had 11.

Marshall County Central hosts Hallock Friday.

Skippers 6

Oklee defeated Middle River 20-6 in a match-up of 1-1 North Tri-County Conference teams Friday night at Oklee.

"Their line just out-played our line," reported Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, who gave a great deal of the credit for the outcome to Oklee quarterback Kevin Enerson. "He was the difference in the ball game," said Sparby. "Enerson had enough time to throw the ball and he didn't miss."

A Middle River fumble on the Skippers' first offensive play of the game set up a 6-yard Loring Mercil touchdown run for Oklee.

Middle River gained a 6-6 first quarter tie on a 2-yard Mike Coltom touchdown run, but Oklee had a 12-6 halftime lead on a 30-yard Enerson touchdown pass to Gary Parenteau, then wrapped the game up on a 5-yard Duane Baker touchdown run in the third quarter.

Oklee's defense protected the lead when the Bobcats kept Middle River out of the end zone after the Skippers, following a fourth quarter fumble recovery by John Scheff, had a first-and-goal situation from the Oklee 3-yard line.

"Our defense wasn't that bad," noted Sparby, "but we just made too many mistakes."

Oklee coach Dale Svaren was elated with the Bobcats' performance after they had been handled by McIntosh-Winger 30-12 the week before. "I was really pleased," he said. "I was pleased with everything but the penalties."

Enerson finished the game 9-for-16 passing for 148 yards, with Parenteau catching three passes for 65 yars. The Bobcats, who have had trouble moving the ball on the ground, had a 132-yard rushing effort, with Darrin Tougas getting 69 yards on 16 carries.

Kevin McKeever led the Skippers' ground game with 73 yards on 19 carries, with Brian Cwikla adding 53 yards on 13 tries and Coltom netting 40 yards on 13 trips. McKeever was 3-for-7 passing for 30 yards.

Scheff led the Middle River defense with 14 tackles and a fumble recovery. Matthew Burda was credited with 12 tackles and middle linebacker Darrin Peterson had 12 tackles. Baker was in on 20 tackles for the winners.

Blue Devils 12
Cougars 6

Quarterback Tony Wiseth and wide receiver Scott Groven combined on a pair of second half touchdown passes Friday afternoon as Grygla-Goodridge edged Erskine-Mentor 12-8 in a match-up of North Tri-County Conference title contenders at Grygla.

A scoreless first half greeted the Grygla homecoming crowd as the host Blue Devils tried to bounce back from a 14-8 conference setback at Plummer the previous Friday. The Cougars, who will be at Plummer this Friday to complete a series of key early season meetings among the preseason conference favorites, came into the game 2-0.

First scoring play came on the second offensive series of the second half when Wiseth hit Groven on a 21-yard touchdown pass.

However, Erskine-Mentor responded on the ensuing possession after the kickoff as Eric Gustafson capped a strong drive with a 2-yard run. A Mike Stennes two-point conversion gave the Cougars an 8-6 edge.

Game-winning touchdown came with about nine minutes remaining in the fourth quarter when Groven made a spectacular diving, finger-tip catch on a 19-yard toss from Wiseth, with the receiver dragging his feet just inside the back of the end zone.

"Another well-played game," offered Grygla-Goodridge coach Rick Nelson. "I was really proud of the kids the way they came back after Erskine-Mentor scored."

A real plus, he indicated, as the play of the Blue Devils' offensive line.

Benefiting from the blocking was runningback Doug Schulz, who carried 20 times for 108 yards — most of the winner's 138 yards on the ground. They added 86 yards in the air on Wiseth's 5-for-11 performance and Groven's four catches for 86 yards.

Defensively, Wayne Byklum was the Grygla-Goodridge leader with 11 tackles and a fumble recovery as the Blue Devils finished with three fumble recoveries and two pass interceptions.

Grygla-Goodridge, 2-1 overall, will visit Fisher Friday for a 4:15 p.m. game.

be accepted. "It looks like it has some merit," Smith said, "and I think sooner or later there will be some changes made."

Just sheer numbers would indicate a change in the class structure might be in the future. Smaller schools out-number larger schools by a sizeable margin in Minnesota and if they organize on a common ground they could dictate MSHSL policy.

"I think there will be some tremendous pressure put on (the MSHSL) until the proposal passes," noted Smith.

DNR NEWS

DNR Auction

Rifles, shotguns, rods and reels, bows and even a 14-foot boat are among the items of hunting and fishing equipment that will be auctioned off by the Department of Natural Resources on Saturday, September 24.

Equipment, confiscated by conservation officers from violators of the state's game and fish laws, will be sold on a cash-only basis; no checks will be accepted.

Sale will be held at the St. Paul National Guard Armory, located at 12th and Cedar streets. Doors will open at 9 a.m. and bidding will start one-half hour later.

No physical inspection of the firearms will be allowed, due to security considerations. A list describing all items to be sold will be available at the door.

No firearms will be sold to any person less than 18 years of age and non-resident buyers must have a firearms dealer license.

Following is a list of the items to be sold: 125 firearms (44 shotguns, 81 rifles); 139 rods and reels, tip ups; 12 bows (10 compound, 2 recurve); 14-foot runabout; various flashlights, lanterns, spears, spear gun, landing nets, knives and other equipment.

Flood Coordinator

Continued coordination of state-local-federal water resource activities within the Red River Valley has been assured through the creation of a "Red River Coordinator" position by the 1983 legislature, the Department of Natural Resources reports.

Coordinator job, now a permanent "classified" position, has previously been unclassified and funded through a pilot project by the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources (LCMR).

Pilot program, was a state cost share effort supporting local watersheds through the Lower Red River Management Board and involved the planning and construction of floodwater detention projects in the Red River Valley.

Officials said the pilot program demonstrated the need for coordinating state, local and federal activities.

Transferring the coordinator position from unclassified to classified enabled the local watershed districts through the Lower Red River Management Board to participate in its funding.

Activities of the coordinator include the promotion of comprehensive watershed management, administration of program funds, improvement of local-state working relationships, and coordination of state permit and environmental review processes, cooperative wildlife projects and watershed activites with local, state and federal agencies.

Nordics Rally For Victory Over Rams

Trailing 8-2 at the start of the first game, Marshall County Central rallied for an 18-9, 18-6 North Border Conference high school volleyball win at Roseau Thursday.

"We had trouble getting started," acknowledged first-year Marshall County Central head coach Julie Tunheim. "They (Roseau) looked tough the first five minutes, but we finally got going and we did come back."

It was the Nordics' third straight conference win after a season-opening loss to Stephen. They'll host Badger Tuesday and entertain Warroad Thursday.

Shelly Anderson had an errorless night at the service line and finished with 13 points against the Rams, including six aces. Nancy Nelson had 11 service points, including five aces, while Gay Moose came off the bench to collect 9 points, two of them aces.

Up front, Becky Knutson had six ace attacks and three blocks while Jodi Nelson had three ace attacks and two spikes.

Middle River - LOW

Middle River improved its record to 3-2 Thursday by outlasting Lake of the Woods 18-12, 17-19, 18-12.

"Very, very good volleyball," is the way Middle River coach Julie Helgeson described the marathon match. "There was excellent attacking, setting and bumps throughout the match."

An 18-6, -18-3 romp over Badger last Tuesday snapped a two-match losing streak for the Skippers. Helgeson welcomed the tough competition the visiting Bears provided Thursday, saying it brought out the best in the Skippers. "It would be very difficult to single out anybody in particular," she said. "It was a good team effort."

Middle River will be at Warroad Tuesday and will host Roseau Thursday.

Plummer - Alvarado

Plummer serving provided the points Thursday as the Cardinals breezed by Alvarado 18-6, 18-6.

"We didn't make many mistakes," reported Plummer coach Dean Miller. "Our serving was real tough."

Jody Pahlen led the winners with 10 service points, while Helen Jaeger, Lori Braaten and Sheila Jaeger all had six points each. The Cardinals recorded eight service aces in the two games.

Plummer is now 2-1 for the year. The Cardinals lost a tough 18-11, 19-17 decision to Climax earlier in the week when they failed to capitalize on a 17-12 second game lead.

"We're looking pretty good," acknowledged Miller. "They're really working hard and really hustling on the floor.

Goodridge - Warren

Warren broke an 11-11 second game tie en route to an 18-7, 18-11 Thursday night win over Goodridge.

"Our inexperience showed," mentioned Goodridge coach Patti Johnson, "but I think we surprised them."

Goodridge is winless in four matches, including a three-game decision at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart last Tuesday when the Eagles won 18-14, 6-18, 18-6.

Against visiting Warren, junior Sheri Nelson led the Huskies with five serving points, and received post-match praise from Johnson for her strong game at the net both offensively and defensively. Melissa Iverson, another junior, also played well, said Johnson, with several hard spikes and a number of blocks at the net.

Goodridge will host Argyle Tuesday and entertain Fisher Thursday.

Third Hottest August Reduces Yields Of Crops

The month of August was the third hottest on record for that month with temperatures averaging three degrees to nine degrees above normal the first week of August to seven to 10 degrees above normal the last week. Very little rain fell the first three weeks of August in the corn and soybean producing districts of the state. The last week brought the first rains to the south central and southeastern parts of the state, but only spotty showers in the southwest.

Topsoil moisture at the beginning of August was rated 58 per cent short to very short. The second week was rated 83 per cent short to very short, the third week 75 per cent short to very short and August exited with 63 per cent short to very short. During the month, row crops drew their moisture from the subsoil which had been saturated in May-June.

Row crops, the beginning of August, were lagging a week behind normal development, but were almost a week ahead in development by September 1 due to the hot, dry conditions during the month.

Small grain harvest was well underway going into August. Extreme heat in July pushed development ahead of normal, reducing yield and weights below producers' earlier expectations.

The September 1 crop report reflects conditions as of the first of the month and does not take into account any adverse weather since then which may affect row crop yields before next month's report. The first forecast for sunflowers and fall potatoes will be released on October 12.

The state's corn production is forecast at 445.7 million bushels, down 11 per cent from last month's estimate and down 39 per cent from 1982. Yield is estimated at 102 bushels per acre, down 12 bushels from the August forecast and down 11 bushels from last year.

Soybeans are estimated at 142.6 million bushels, down nine per cent from last month and down 18 per cent from 1982 production. Yield at 31 bushels per acre is down three bushels from August 1 and down five bushels from last year.

Spring wheat is forecast at 77.3 million bushels, down eight per cent from last month and down 36 per cent from 1982. Yield at 37 bushels is down three bushels from both last month and a year ago.

Durum at 1.37 million bushels is down three per cent from last month and down 55 per cent from 1982. Yield per acre is estimated at 36 bushels.

Production of otas at 71.3 million bushels is down 11 per cent from last month and down 34 per cent from 1982. Yield estimated is 57 bushels per acre.

A barley crop estimate of 44.5 million bushels is down 10 per cent from the August forecast and down 13 per cent from last year. Per acre yield is forecast at 52 bushels.

Dry edible beans are estimated at 561,000 hundredweight, down 12 per cent from August 1 and down 41 per cent from last year. Yield at 1,100 pounds, is down 150 pounds from August.

Flax production at 980,000 bushels is down three per cent from last month and down 41 per cent from 1982.

The summer potato crop of 1,377,000 hundredweight remains unchanged from August 1, but is down 27 per cent from last year.

The sugarbeet crop, estimated at 4.52 million tons, is down less than one per cent from last month, but down five per cent from 1982.

National corn for grain production is forecast at 4.39 billion bushels, down 16 per cent from August 1 forecast and 48 per cent below last year's record high. The 90 per cent confidence interval for this production is 4.01 to 4.77 billion bushels. Feed grain production (corn, sorghum, oats and barley combined) expected to total 42 million metric tons, down 44 per cent from 1982.

Soybean production forecast at 1.53 billion bushels is 33 per cent smaller than the record crop of 1982 and 23 per cent smaller than 1981. The 90 per cent confidence interval for this production forecast is 1.43 to 1.64 billion bushels. All wheat production forecast at 2.41 billion bushels, down 14 per cent from 1982 record high. The 90 per cent confidence interval for this production forecast is 2.36 to 2.46 billion bushels.

Winter wheat forecast at 1.98 billion bushels is six per cent less than 1982. Durum wheat production forecast at 72.9 million bushels is down 51 per cent from last year. Other spring wheat production at 358 million bushels, 35 per cent below last year's record high.

Food grain production (wheat, rye and rice) is down 16 per cent from a year earlier.

Set Prenatal Classes At NW Hospital

Prenatal instruction classes at Northwestern hospital services will be held for five weeks beginning Tuesday, September 27, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the CNC chapel. If the class is filled, a second weekly class will be offered Thursdays beginning on September 29.

Expectant parents will learn about the development of the baby, physical and psychological changes pregnancy introduces into the family, proper nutrition and exercises, breast and bottle feeding, labor procedures available to the parents for the birth of the child and other health concepts for the family during pregnancy and after delivery.

There will be a tour of the labor and delivery rooms, a session on grief and loss, infant CPR, parenting and infant safety. Films, pamphlets, guest speakers and group discussions will be included.

This course is sponsored by Northwestern hospital services and the Thief River Falls area vocational technical institute as a community service. There is no cost for the course and one or both parents and single parents are welcome. A book on "Becoming Parents" is available for $7.50. Course instructor is Evadell Tangquist, R.N., and preregistration is required by calling 681-4240, extension 359, Monday through Friday.

Thune Finishes Police School

Pvt. Michael D. Thune, son of Myrtle A. Thune, Thief River Falls, has completed military police training at the U.S. Army military police school, Fort McClellan, AL.

Training included civil and military law, traffic control, map reading and self-defense.

EVERYBODY'S MARKET was conducted despite cold and damp weather Saturday in Thief River Falls. Craft and food items, including baked goods and garden produce, were among the major items offered for sale by the individuals and groups participating. The annual event sponsored by the retail business association of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce is intended to give people an opportunity to display and sell their items in a downtown setting. The event was part of a three weekend rural appreciation days promotion which will conclude next Thursday, Friday and Saturday with demonstration and factory representative days at participating stores.

SBA Approved $2,658,500 In Loans In Aug.

Minnesota district office of the small business administration, has announced that $2,658,500 in SBA guaranteed loans were approved for 19 Minnesota companies, and $420,800 was approved in economic development loans for five Minnesota companies in the month of August. Projected additional employment created as a result of these loans is 174 jobs.

Direct management assistance was provided to 53 Minnesota firms through the SBA's in-house counselors or through support groups like the service corps of retired executives (SCORE), small business development centers, and 12 colleges participating in the small business institute program.

Two of the loans, amounting to $110,800 were made to minority-owned firms, making the total minority component of the August portfolio eight per cent of the total loans and three per cent of the total loan dollars.

Thirty-five loans were paid in full during August.

Library Starts New Overdue Book Policy

After a month's amnesty period during August, Northwest regional library implemented their new overdue policy on September 1.

Under the new policy, a reminder will be sent out after a book is two weeks overdue and again when it is four weeks overdue. No actual "statements" will be sent out until the book is six weeks overdue.

No service charge will be made with the first notice if materials are returned before they are four weeks overdue.

After four weeks a service charge of $1 will be made, after six weeks, another charge of $2 will be added. If materials are not back after eight weeks, a letter will be sent from the headquarters office to eyoke borrowing privileges until materials are returned.

Surplus Food Distribution Set Sept. 26th

Surplus commodities will be distributed from 1 to 4 p.m. on September 26, at the following sites: Grygla community center, Middle River community center, Gatzke senior citizen center, Holt senior citizen center and Strandquist senior citizen center. Commodities will not be distributed in October.

Two pounds of butter and five pounds of cheese will be distributed to each family meeting guidelines which include the following maximum annual incomes: $7,923 for a family of one; $10,361 for two; $12,799 for three; $15,236 for four; $17,674 for five; $20,112 for six; $20,569 for seven; and $21,026 for eight.

Written permission must be presented by persons picking up commodities for another household. A person may serve as a proxy for only one qualified household that cannot attend the distribution.

Further information may be obtained by calling Outreach aide Karen Skadsem at 222-3309 or Northwest community action inc. at 528-3258.

Northwest community action inc. received a $500 grant from the Saint Paul Foundation, which has helped defray the cost of distribution. Since October 1982, the following commodities have been distributed by local volunteers and Northwest community action inc. staff: 18,000 pounds of dried milk; 63,600 pounds of cheese; 61,388 pounds of butter and 9,360 pounds of honey.

Library Group To Hold Meet In St. Cloud

Minnesota association of library friends will hold its fifth annual conference in St. Cloud on October 28. Ridesharing (carpooling) to the conference is possible. People interested in this possibility should contact Northwest regional library in Thief River Falls at 681-4325 and ask for Heidi.

Conference is a full day of learning and sharing for those who care about their libraries. Conference, held at the Sunwood Inn, includes sessions on organized support, successful programming, fund raising, leadership, and networking. John D. Donahue will also present the hit of the 1983 Chautauqua season, "Saints and Poets Maybe." Opportunity to interview Minnesota authors and obtain their autographs will also be given.

Registration fee for the conference is $13.50 and includes the luncheon. Registration deadline is October 22. For more information, contact the Northwest regional library.

Workshop To Air Rights Of Handicapped

Knowledge of laws affecting the education of all handicapped students will be the focus of a free workshop to be held September 29, from 7 to 10 p.m. and September 30 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Zion Lutheran church, Thief River Falls.

Parents rights and responsibilities under the laws concerned with special education will be discussed. Specific topics to be covered include assessment (the testing process) and parental involvement in developing a child's individual education program.

Information presented at the workshops will apply to children with physical, mental, emotional and learning disabilities.

Workshop is sponsored by PACER Center (Parent advocacy coalition for educational rights) and by Inter-County community council head start, Thief River Falls public schools, Region I ARC, legal advocacy for developmentally disabled in Minnesota and Region one developmental disabilities project.

Pre-registration is strongly encouraged; to do so, call Jo Vigen at 796-5144 days or 681-1760 evenings.

Those who wish to obtain material on parents' rights and responsibilities under the special education laws may write or call PACER Center, 4701 Chicago Ave. S., Mpls, MN 55407, 827-2966.

Gina Peterson Earns Ribbons At Horse Show

Gina Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peterson of rural Thief River Falls and a member of the Holt 4-H club, recently won several placings at the northwest regional 4-H horse show in Crookston, according to Alice Colby, Marshall county 4-H agent.

Gina received overall fifth place in junior western horsemanship, third place in junior western pleasure and a blue ribbon in junior halter showmanship. About 60 club members from northwestern Minnesota took part in the 18 classes of competition.

This is Gina's fourth year in the horse project. The regional show was planned and conducted by a committee of 4-H extension agents in the district.

Career Day Is Wednesday For Lincoln H.S. Jrs.

Lincoln high school juniors will have an opportunity to gain information on a variety of careers available to them during career information day, being jointly sponsored by Northland community college, the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, and the area vocational-technical institute on Wednesday. It will be held at the college and vocational school facilities.

Speakers representing business, professions, and trades will present information about education needed, work conditions, advancement possibilities, wages and other aspects of their jobs. This opportunity is offered to young people as another tangible means of exploring careers available to them and starting them on the process of career choice.

Volume 72 (USPS 627-360) Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Wednesday, September 21, 1983 Number 74

FOR 33 YEARS Lila Stephenson of Goodridge has been a collector of salt and pepper shakers, but she has never purchased a single pair. Through the interest of friends and relatives who remember her on their travels and for special occasions, she has accumulated 882 pair at most recent count. No two pair are alike and they cover a number of shelves in a small utility building near the Stephenson house. The first pair was given to her by Melvin Hyland in 1950 and the oldest pair came from Ole and Gunhild Bakke of Highlanding — a pair given to their parents as a wedding gift in 1904. Another pair came from the Henry Paulsons of Goodridge and date back to 1919. Former Goodridge school principal Harold Janneck sent her one pair from East Africa. Among her more frequent contributors have been Ernest Swanson and Arlen Ellingson of Goodridge and Tom Kostick of Minneapolis. She says she has a goal of seeing the collection rise to 1,000 pair, but notes that the prices have increased in recent years and the number hasn't increased as rapidly as before.

Concert Ass'n. Membership To Close Sept. 28

Season membership sale by the Thief River Falls concert association will continue through September 28 with five concerts on the schedule for the 1983-84 concert season.

Memberships are priced at $18 for adults, $9 for students and $48 per family. The number available is limited and those remaining will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis. Memberships are available at the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce office (681-3720) or from Mrs. Pat Martin (681-1571), Mrs. Gerry Stocks (681-3020) or any of the board members.

First concert of the season will be the Glenn Miller orchestra on October 13, followed by Robert Guralnik (pianist) on November 15, Chestnut Brass on February 2, Czech folk ballet February 28 and the Vagles musical duo March 19.

Form Volunteer Unit For Head Lice Control

Thief River Falls public schools are urging concerned parents and community members of this area to become involved with the issue of head lice within the school system. There has been a proposal to organize a workable parent-volunteer program to assist the school district with screening for head lice. The volunteers would be working under the direction and supervision of the Pennington county public health department.

There was an expressed interest in organizing this parent-volunteer program by a group of parents at a school board meeting held last June. An additional 15 to 20 more interested persons will be needed in order to organize the group.

Main objective of the group is to be able to work effectively along with the screening team in their goal to control head lice. After the recruitment of the volunteers there will be an informative workshop to organize and educate the participants in the areas of identification of head lice, children's rights and confidentiality. The workshop will be provided by the school district through the Pennington county public health department in October.

The program will be operating on an on-call basis. The school would contact the parents when there was a need for a screening in a particular school building. The volunteers would then go with the public health screening team to the school in question. The group would be utilized on a trial basis.

If there are concerned parents and community members interested in offering a small portion of their time and energy to aid in controlling head lice within our school system, they are urged to call 681-2700, ext. 386.

Bemidji Airlines To Hold Open House This Week

Bemidji Airlines, which has been serving the Thief River Falls regional airport since Republic Airlines suspended service on August 21, will hold a public open house Saturday and Sunday from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the terminal building at the Thief River Falls regional airport.

General manager Barb Berggren invites the public to attend the open house and register for free prizes, including a round trip to Minneapolis for a winner 16 years of age or older. A separate prize will be awarded to someone from among younger registrants. Coffee and doughnuts will be served throughout both days, the company's Queen Air twin engine aircraft will be on display and used to give rides at a price of five cents per pound, weather permitting.

In addition, Bemidji Airlines administration, pilots and station personnel will be on hand to meet and visit with those attending the open house.

Berggren also announced that a special one-way fare of $89 would be initiated on a cash only basis effective Saturday between Thief River Falls and Minneapolis. She said she expects the special fare will help to attract passengers who may have been reluctant to fly in the smaller planes that the airline operates.

"We feel that most people who have used our service are pleased with it," Berggren said, "but we also feel that we are losing some potential passengers to other airports, particularly Grand Forks, because airlines there have larger planes. We want the opportunity to convince them that our flights and service will meet their needs conveniently and comfortably."

As a further incentive, she noted that children's and military fares are expected to go into effect by October 1.

Bemidji Airlines has operated from the Thief River Falls regional airport since Sept. 1, 1982, and was selected by the federal civil aeronautics board as the replacement carrier for Republic Airlines on a bid basis earlier this year. It began its replacement service for Republic on August 21 and offers five round trips daily to the Twin Cities.

Expect CAB To Act On Appeals On Wednesday

While Bemidji Airlines observes its open house at the Thief River Falls regional airport this weekend, the federal Civil Aeronautics board (CAB) is preparing for its meeting on Wednesday of next week. At that meeting it is expected that a decision will be made on appeals regarding Bemidji Airlines' selection as replacement carrier for Republic Airlines in Thief River Falls.

Bernard Calure, industry economist for the CAB in Washington, DC, told the Times in a special telephone interview that the petitions for reconsideration filed by five different petitioners are scheduled for review by the CAB Wednesday. The CAB staff has prepared summaries of the petitions for the board's consideration and Calure said he expects a decision will be made unless additional information or clarification is needed.

Bemidji Airlines was granted the carrier designation and attendant federal subsidy through a bid process in which the CAB considered several proposals. Following the CAB award, petitions for reconsideration were filed by three unsuccessful bidders — American Central Airlines of Waterloo, IA; Executive Airlines of Boston, MA; and Mesaba Airlines of Grand Rapids, MN. Also submitting petitions were the city of Thief River Falls and the Minnesota department of transportation.

Barb Berggren, general manager of Bemidji Airlines, said she expects the CAB to maintain its original designation and expressed the hope that failure of the appearls would encourage a concerted cooperative attitude in the Thief River Falls community.

"We want and need the support of everyone in the area to develop our service to the fullest extent possible and to best serve the area flying public," she said. "We hope many will attend our open house this Saturday and Sunday to become more familiar with what we have to offer and better understand our determination to please our customers and succeed in our business."

Goodridge Sets Sewer Hearing Friday Night

Goodridge city council will be holding a public hearing at 8 p.m. Friday, September 23, in the Goodridge senior citizens center, to discuss installation of a sanitary sewer system, including options and details of financing the project. Public comments will be recorded at the meeting.

Opinions of Goodridge school district residents are also being sought on a variety of other issues, by means of a survey which is being mailed out by the city council. Survey results will be used to assess area attitudes on various community concerns and provide guidelines in determining development opportunities for the future.

Postage paid envelopes are provided with the surveys to facilitate their mailing to the Northwest regional development commission in Crookston, which will tabulate the results.

Hazardous Waste Meeting On Mon.

How serious is Minnesota's hazardous waste problem and what policies and programs could be implemented to improve the management of hazardous wastes in the state?

Residents of northwestern Minnesota will have a special opportunity to help answer these questions and find solutions for the hazardous waste problem at a public meeting to be conducted by the Minnesota waste management board at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Newfolden community center.

One in a series of 20 being conducted around the state by the waste management board during September and October, the meeting will enable citizens to participate in the development of the state's hazardous waste management plan, a comprehensive board policy document expected to lead to new programs to improve hazardous waste management in Minnesota and define who should bear the responsibility and costs.

The policies and programs the board is considering for inclusion in the plan concern all Minnesotans, as they could affect consumer prices, impose new taxes or institute new regulations to protect the environment and public safety.

At the meeting, board representatives will present slide presentations on the hazardous waste problem and the history and responsibilities of the waste management board, and on the board's recently-released hazardous waste management report.

The 400-page report, issued in early-August, represents the most extensive and thorough picture yet of the state's hazardous waste problem. It provides detailed information on the types and amounts of hazardous wastes generated in Minnesota, and estimates that the state produces 174,000 tons of hazardous wastes each year — primarily waste motor oils and greases, heavy metals and solvents.

The report also estimates that the amount of hazardous waste generated annually in Minnesota could increase by 34 per cent by the year 2000 if new programs are not instituted to reduce hazardous waste generation in the future.

Residents attending the meetings will participate in small-group discussions and answer questionnaires on how to best implement waste reduction, as well as a variety of other issues confronting the board, including:

+To what degree should the state become involved in the construction and operation of hazardous waste management facilities?

+Should the state assume legal liability for wastes deposited at state-sited hazardous facilities:

+Should Minnesota form compacts with other states, allowing the export of some wastes to other states and the import of other wastes which could be properly managed in Minnesota?

Citizens are encouraged to review the hazardous waste management report prior to the meetings. Copies of the report have been distributed to local libraries. Residents may also contact the board at 1-800-652-9747 for a free copy of the report's summary.

Results and summaries of the meetings will be available to residents after the series of meetings has concluded.

AVTI Evaluation Slated On Wednesday, Thursday

RAUCOUSLY HONKING a bicycle horn, this masked "mystery celebrity" interrupted Dave Odette, 1983 chairman for the Thief River Falls area United Way campaign, as he was making a presentation at the kick-off breakfast for volunteers on Monday. Without saying a word, the garishly costumed visitor revealed that he (she)? intended to challenge the volunteers to reach a goal of $60,124, promising by use of signs that his (her) identity would be revealed when that figure was met. Volunteers will be soliciting donations from management and employees of businesses in the area, but will not be going door to door in residential areas. Individuals who are not approached, but would like to contribute to the effort (which assists over 30 agencies for the needy in this area) may mail their contributions to TRF United Way, Box 276, Thief River Falls, MN. 56701.

Five-year evaluation of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute will take place Wednesday and Thursday of next week when a team of 31 evaluators will be here from throughout the country to inspect the local school's facilities and programs. The evaluation follows a self-evaluation conducted by the AVTI last year.

The periodic evaluation is prescribed in the congressional education amendments of 1976 to provide assurance that students are being placed, that employers are satisfied with the product and that students are satisfied with the training. All of these assurances are addressed in the state follow-up system.

Quality education is the other major consideration for which evaluators will be examining the local AVTI next week, according to Dr. Orley Gunderson, director and Fred Ballou, assistant director. The 31 people brought here by the state will examine course offerings, student personnel services, equal opportunity to obtain an education, administration and special needs.

Two evaluators are provided for each course offering as well as other areas of concern. Evaluators will examine tools, equipment, instructors, financial support and community involvement. Ballou noted that student needs in terms of placement services, housing, recreation and financial aids will be examined, as well as printed material such as catalogs and course brochures. The latter will be checked for clarity and to eliminate the possibility of bias.

Dr. Gunderson said that after the two-day evaluation, evaluators will leave a copy of their findings with the school administration. In addition each of the evaluator teams will meet with either Dr. Gunderson or Ballou to explain any findings in the written report and discuss any corrective action which may be indicated.

State specialists responsible for various course offerings in trades, technical, health, business and sitributive occupations are present during

United Way Kicks Off '83 Campaign

United Way campaign for the Thief River Falls area was kicked off early Monday morning with a breakfast for volunteer workers at the Best Western inn. Goal for this year's campaign is set at $60,124.

Materials were distributed, a film was shown and volunteers were addressed by Roger Reuter, president of Norwest Bank, which sponsored the breakfast. Mayor Bob Carlson also spoke to the group and opened the campaign by officially presenting his contribution to Roger DeLap, volunteer in charge of city employees.

Remarks by campaign chairman David Odette were interrupted by a horn-blowing, gaudily dressed "mystery celebrity," who challenged the volunteers, promising to reveal his (her?) idenity at the post-campaign celebration on October 18, if the $60,124 goal is met.

Again this year, volunteers will be contacting local businesses in their efforts to raise funds. No door-to-door canvassing will be conducted, so persons who might not be contacted and would still like to assist the needy, may mail their contributions to: TRF United Way, Box 276, Thief River Falls, 56701.

This year's campaign seeks funds to support 30 agencies in a wide variety of local services. With the help of United Way funding, the professionals and volunteers in these agencies deliver services to young people, elderly, mentally and physically handicapped and to individuals and families with social and health problems.

Among program assistance areas are delivering hot, affordable meals to the elderly, support and guidance to the mentally ill, public education on heart disease, arthritis and epilepsy, reasonably priced recreation and education activities for young people and assistance in providing camping experiences for mentally and physically handicapped persons.

It is the opinion of the United Way board that in order for the goal to be met, every wage earner, business person and professional person will need to make a generous contribution to the drive.

Organization for conducting this year's United Way campaign is again being headed by chairman Dave Odette, with Sharon Fugleberg continuing in her capacity as executive secretary and handling mailed donations. Rural area mail-ins are being handled by Connie Mehrkens. Brochures committee included Ann Haugen, Wally Walseth and Charlie Oakes.

Homecoming Events Slated For Newfolden

Marshall county central high school at Newfolden will observe its homecoming activities Thursday through Saturday with a pep fest, volleyball match, queen coronation, football and dance on the schedule of events.

Pep fest at 2:45 p.m. in the gymnasium Thursday will include introduction of the homecoming royalty, volleyball and football teams, followed by a bonfire west of the school. Volleyball against Warroad will start with a B game at 5:30 and the A game will follow at 6:30 p.m.

Coronation and talent show will follow the volleyball matches at about 8:15 p.m. in the gymnasium. Homecoming football game will be against Hallock at 7:30 p.m. Friday and the homecoming dance for MCC students and alumni will be from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Homecoming queen candidates Nancy Nelson, Stacey Gonshorowski and Shanna Brodersen will be escorted respectively by Grant Nelson, Ken Krohn and Brent Magner at the pep fest program Thursday. Debbie Kukowski, 1982 homecoming queen, will be escorted by Ross Olson.

Other homecoming royalty and their escorts include juniors Sharon Roalvet and Jim Odberg, sophomores Shelly Helm and Paul Erickson, freshmen Jodi Foss and Ryan Shern, eighth graders Natalie Ueland and Kevin Boe and seventh graders Taren Stennes and Bret Hanson. Junior attendants will be Amy Blazejewski and Darren Wawrzyniak and ushers will be Jay Nelson and Brian Rud.

Skits will be presented by the FHA, senior class and faculty with Kim Stokke and Scott Gustafson as emcees.

Middle River Pageant Has Eight Entries

Miss Middle River pageant will be conducted Saturday at the Middle River school auditorium with eight candidates seeking the title presently held by Paula Hodne. Curtain time will be 7:30 p.m.-rather than the 8 p.m. time indicated in Monday's edition of the Times.

Contestants will compete in talent, swimsuit and evening gown and on-stage personality divisions. SOCIETY and CLUBS

Peggy Ann Hamre Weds Marlon Knutson At Trinity

Peggy Ann Hamre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Hamre, and Marlon Guy Knutson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Knutson, all of Thief River Falls, were united in marriage Saturday, July 23 at Trinity Lutheran church.

Rev. Berton R. Hushagen officiated at the afternoon, double-ring ceremony before an altar graced by lighted candelabra featuring greenery and large lavender bows. Organist was Kristi Gerardy, a friend of the couple, she accompanied Kathy Larson, a cousin of the bride, as she sang "Truly," "The Wedding Song," and "On Wings of Love," as the couple lit the unity candle. Trumpet accompaniment by Mike Gilbertson, brother-in-law of the groom, enhanced the recessional.

The bride was attired in an ivory organza gown styled with a Queen Anne neckline, dropped waistline accented by Venice lace, and fitted Chantilly lace sleeves that came to a point at the wrists. Her four-tiered skirt of Chantilly lace and organza flowed into a chapel-length train highlighted at the waistline by a satin bow and streamers. A small derby hat of Chantilly lace with silk flowers and a netting bow held her walking length veil. She carried three long-stemmed roses, tipped in lavender, babies' breath and greenery.

Rhonda Erickson, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Darla Knutson, sister of the groom, Julie Nomeland and Kim Thorson, friends of the bride. Rochelle Gilbertson, a niece of the groom, was flower girl. All wore waltz-length gowns of a lavender print with ivory lace at the neckline and on the sleeves. Creating hemline interest were ivory petticoats with lace trim. They carried lavendar carnations, white daisies and babies' breath with lavender and ivory streamers. Their pearl necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Bestman was Steve Alby, a friend of the groom. Perry Hamre, brother of the bride, Rob LaCoursiere and Mitch Hemmesch, friends of the groom, served as groomsmen. The ring bearers were Chance and Hamilton Keefe, cousins of the bride. Ushers were John Hamre, brother of the bride; Dale Philipp, uncle of the bride, Jeff Dahle, brother-in-law of the groom, and Scott Hammestvedt, a friend of the couple. All wore dark gray tuxedos, pin-strip trousers, ivory shirts, black ascot ties and lavender carnation boutonnieres. The fathers of the couple wore similar attire.

The mother of the bride wore a lavender print, short-sleeved, street-length dress with ivory lace trim. The groom's mother was attired in a long-sleeved, dress of lavender polyester with lace trimming the bodice and sleeves. Their corsages were of white roses and stephanotis.

Special guests at the wedding and reception were Martha Burtness and Gladys Hamre, grandmothers of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Halvorson of Bagley, grandparents of the groom, and Wendy Philipp, the bride's aunt who served as personal attendant.

Becky Swenson pinned the flowers; and Shelly Sabo, Jody Sistad and Charlene Tvedt, distributed the wedding programs. All are friends of the couple.

Host and hostess couples at the reception and supper which followed at the Legion club were Ron and Mike Keefe and Frances and Ray Aandal, aunts and uncles of the bride. At the guest book was Pam LaRiviere. Kristine Sorteberg and Faye Erickson carried the gifts and Susie Johnson and Sandy Wiseth ladled the punch. Waitresses were Annette Olson, Molly Fisher, Tracy Aandal, Fonda Wendland and Brenda Machal. All are friends of the bride.

The five-tiered wedding cake, iced in ivory, was supported by filigreed pillars featuring climbing ivory roses. Between the pillars were a miniature bride and groom. The cake was topped by a Christogram surrounded by ivory sugar bells. It was baked by Lois Bergland, friend of the bride, and cut and served by Bev Hamre and Marion Halvorson, aunts of the bride and groom, respectively. Eileen Knutson, godmother of the bride, and Fern Knutson, aunt of the groom, were at the coffee service.

Following the rehearsal, the evening prior to the wedding, the groom's parents hosted a dinner at the American Legion club.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilary "Butch" Riske are at home in Grand Forks, N.D., following the exchange of marriage vows at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls and a wedding trip to the Wisconsin Dells.

The bride, the former Julie Gilbert, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gilbert of Thief River Falls. Parents of the groom are Leona Riske, Grand Forks, N.D., and Hilairy Riske, Minot, N.D.

Rev. Luther Anderson and Rev. David Super officiated at the 5:00 p.m., ecumenical ceremony witnessed by 275 relatives and friends. Joyce and Jane Halbasch were at the organ and piano playing "Homecoming" for the processional. They also accompanied Jeff Liden as he sang "God, A Woman and A Man," and "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar. As the couple lit the unity candle, Jane and Jeff sang "You And I." Steven Carriere, a cousin of the bride, served as acolyte.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in an organza gown with a Chantilly lace bodice styled with a Queen Anne neckline and slit bishop sleeves revealing an inner sleeve of Chantilly lace. Creating back interest and flowing over the flounced skirt was a Chantilly lace Wateau train. At the neckline, the bride wore her mother's mother of pearl brooch which she had received on her wedding day from her grandmother. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations, red roses and English ivy.

Marci Lull, a friend of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kristy Erickson, Hutchinson, and Joy Kaushagen and Linda Ott of Grand Forks, friends of the couple. Junior bridesmaid was Stacy Carriere, a cousin of the bride. Their pink, off-the shoulder, peasant-styled gowns with ruffled peek-a-boo hemlines were complemented by an overlay of organza print in pink and burgandy. Each carried an arm bouquet of red roses and babies' breath. Their necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Wearing pink floral print, floor-length gowns and distributing the wedding programs were Melissa Carriere, cousin and godchild of the bride, and Donna Riske a niece of the groom.

The groom, attired in a white tuxedos with tails, was attended by a friend, Jim Durkin, Grand Forks, as best man. Groomsmen were Ivan Muir and Fraine Fladderman of Forest River, N.D., and Marlan Schull, Grand Forks, friends of the couple. The groom's nephew, David Willson, East Grand Forks, was junior groomsman. Ushers were Jerol and Jeff Gilbert, brothers of the bride, and Edward Olson and Phil Stokke, friends of the couple. All wore silver tuxedos and like the groom had matching ascots and red rose boutonnieres.

For their children's wedding, Mrs. Gilbert wore an ivory crepe, street-length dress and Mrs. Riske was attired in a navy and white street-length dress. Their corsages were pink daisies and red tea roses.

Following the ceremony, a champagne dinner-dance reception was held at the Thief River Falls Country club. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Carriere, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Riske, Forest River, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, were hosts and hostesses.

Pink and red roses decorated the pillared, three-tiered wedding cake. On either side were two-tiered, pillared cakes connected by stairways with replicas of the bridal party on the steps. At the base was a lighted flowing water fountain. The cake was cut and served by Myrtle Gilbert, aunt and godmother of the bride, and Adeline Riske, aunt of the groom.

Diane Johnson, was at the guest book, and Shawn Newland and Kathy Bottem ladled the punch. At the gift table were Michelle Willson, niece of the groom, and Colleen Korynta. Pinning the flowers was JoAnn Riske, sister of the groom. Waitresses were Alison Carlson, Brenda Johnson, Brenda Common, Lana Pike, Kim Reger, Heather Bakke and Lynell Willson.

Both the bride and groom are employed in Grand Forks. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the University of North Dakota. She is presently employed by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Dakota. The groom, a graduate of Midway high school and the Wahpeton State School of Science, is employed at the University of North Dakota in Energy Research. Photo, R.L.N. TRF Conference Workshop Set At Greenbush

Rev. Curtis Peter, national staff member of the American Lutheran church, will speak in Greenbush October 9 as part of the second annual Thief River Falls conference teaching workshop scheduled for 2 to 5 p.m. at Bethel Lutheran church.

Rev. Peter will discuss teaching the Bible and teacher survival skills. Workshop, sponsored by the Thief River Falls conference committee for life and mission will include sharing groups for teachers and superintendents. Coffee and cookies will be served.

Pre-registration by October 1 would be appreciated. The $2 registration fee can be sent to Mrs. Walter J. Fourney, 1524 Cartway Drive, Thief River Falls, 56701. All interested persons are welcome.

Missionaries to Speak At Telemarken Sunday

Telemarken Family night is scheduled for Sunday at 8:00 p.m., at the church!

Presenting the program will be former missionaries Rev. and Mrs. Jerome Elness of Erskine. They will show slides and tell of their experiences in Hong Kong. Special music will be provided. Lunch will be served.

The public is welcome.

Local Grief Support Meeting Open To Everyone

September meeting of the Thief River Falls Grief Support group will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., at the Fireside room at the United Methodist church.

The meeting is open to anyone in the area in a grief situation, caused by death, terminal illness or impeding death, separation, break-up of a marriage, or the empty-nest syndrome, after the last child leaves home for college or employment.

Leaders of the Grief Support group are from the community. None are professionals, but all have had experience in grief and offer compassion and understanding. The leaders are quick to point out that there are no magic methods of alleviating grief as methods of coping with the stages of grief vary with different people. Those who have overcome the various stages are also welcome to attend the meetings as their methods of coping may be helpful to others.

There are no memberships or dues. People may attend as many sessions as they wish and may return whenever they desire. Further information about the grief Support group may be obtained by calling Pat Martin, 681-1571 or Cathy Spengler, 681-1483.

Meetings Of Chat And Chew Club Resumed

Meetings of the Chat and Chew homemakers club resumed September 13, following a suspension of activities since May.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Pete Sullivan with Pauline Aubol and Vi Sullivan giving information on the lesson "Sodium in your diet." They also distributed pamphlets on the topic received at the training session.

Highlighting the meeting was the exchange of gifts revealing the secret pals. Pals for the 1983 and 84 season were also selected.

Reports included an account of the May meeting read by secretary Geneva Overum, the financial report by Marian Williams and a resume of the Crookston meeting attended by Pauline Aubol and Wanda Murphy. Correspondance were thank you letters from the Social Service Center for serving the Friendship club, and Mrs. Louis Nereson for the gift she received while hospitalized.

The dues for 1983-84 were paid and the leaders' mailing list was completed. A dessert lunch served by Mrs. Sullivan completed the meeting.

The October meeting the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Nereson.

Newfolden Study Club Organizes Year's Program

Organizational meeting of the Newfolden study club of the General Federation of Women's clubs was held August 29 at Newfolden.

At the meeting two new members were admitted into the club, a nominating committee was selected, and the calendar for the year was planned.

Welcomed as new members were Nancy McKenzie and Janice Haagenson. Marge Bakke and Connie Elseth were chosen to serve on the nominating committee, selecting new two-year officers.

The club's calendar will include a country market in October, Christmas crafts in November, silent auction in January, Valentine party in February, election of officers in March and an anniversary tea in May.

The members also decided that the $4.00 dues and the committees for the year remain the same as last year. Hostesses were Irene Eveland and Connie Elseth...

The next meeting of the Study club will be held September 26 at 7:30 p.m., at the Newfolden Community center. Guest speaker will be Diana Lysne, an M.S. victim.

Omundson Infant Is Baptized At Fosston Sept. 11

Jonathan Wayne Gilmen Omundson, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Omundson, was baptized Sunday, September 11, during the regular morning communion worship services at Hope Lutheran church at Fosston.

Grandparents of the child are Mrs. Grace Kildal, Fosston, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Westberg, Warren. Great-grandparents are Mrs. Peder Omundson, Thief River Falls; Alfred Foldoe, Fosston, and Mrs. Anna Westberg, Warren.

Rev. Arlen Hermodson administered the sacrament assisted by intern pastor Mary Sueltz. Special music was provided by the Hope Lutheran choir with Mrs. Norman Sather as organist.

Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Omundson, Bloomington; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kildahl, Crookston, uncles and aunts of the child, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Rud, Fosston, friends of the family.

For the ceremony, the child wore a heirloom, long, white baptismal gown edged in 83-year-old handmade lace. It was the same gown his sister wore when she was christened. His white hand-knit booties were made for him by his late paternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Hannah Foldoe. He was wrapped in a yellow and white baptismal shawl, which his father and sister used at their respective baptisms.

Following the services, the Omundsons hosted a dinner in the Hope church dining room. The table was graced with blue tapers in silver candelabras and blue and white arrangements of fresh and silk flowers. Centering the buffet table was a baptismal cake. The meal was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Larson, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. David Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Frethem and Mr. and Mrs. Orlan Solsten.

Public Hearing Sept. 28th On Plan For Aging

To solicit comments on the 1984-86 area plan for programs on aging, a public hearing will be conducted by the Northwest Regional development commission September 28 at 4:10 p.m. at Northland lodge in Crookston.

The plan provides the basis for expenditure of approximately $450,000 to provide social services, senior citizen facilities and educational programs. Copies of the plan are available at the NWRDC office in Crookston and will also be available at the hearing.

Paul Bunyan Festival Set At Brainerd

History, food, crafts and other exhibits promise to be a major attraction at this year's Paul Bunyan festival, slated for September 23 to 25 at Brainerd international raceway.

Commercial concessions will consist of imaginative booths designed and built by area businesses. Selected gift items, household furnishings, collectibles and furniture will be available, as will distinctive gifts and momentos of the festival experience.

History buffs should find interest in the educational exhibit area of the festival. A wheelwright will be shrinking smoking iron rims on wooden wheels, a log cabin craftsman will be demonstrating fullscribed log building techniques and a canoe builder will be stitching together an example of the Native American craft that was adopted by the early settlers and trappers — the birch bark canoe. Paul Bunyan festival post office will be in operation and collectors can purchase stationery complete with a Paul Bunyan festival cancellation stamp and a series of commemorative postage stamps.

For a culinary experience, the festival will offer a variety of 1800's era treats. Buffalo burgers, apple pie, fritters, lumberjack spuds, cider, stew and biscuits, flapjacks and Norwegian flat breads will be available along with more traditional foods.

Various handcraft booths will be offering items designed by their operators. Woodcarvers, stained glass artists, potters, weavers, quilters and metal smiths will be displaying their wares and demonstrating techniques.

In addition to all of the exhibits, an exciting, ongoing series of activites such as a major blackpowder rendezvous, professional logging show and numerous bluegrass concerts is scheduled.

Fargo Crops Institute To Start Classes

Newly established northern crops institute in Fargo, ND, will hold its first class for international students beginning September 19.

Two-week course on grain procurement management describes, from an importer's perspective, components of the U.S. grain marketing system. Areas covered will include grain management in the United States, and Ocean freight; grain grading standards, and cargo inspection procedures; impact of wheat classes, and grade merchandizing; U.S. government credit programs, storage and handling; wheat baking quality differences among wheat classes; and the nutritive value of wheat-based foods. Course is designed to provide further training, enhance the knowledge of wheat purchasing, and improve buying procedures.

U.S. wheat associates is sponsoring all the international students who are from the People's Republic of China, Iraq, Yemen, Oman, Abu Dhabi and the Philippines.

Northern crops institute is supported by the states of North Dakota, Minnesota, Montana and South Dakota. The institute will aid in the marketing, both foreign and domestic, of Northern grown crops, which include most of the wheat classes produced in the United States. The institute is equipped to provide training in pasta processing, grain grading, quality control and other technical subjects, as well as grain procurement. U.S. wheat expects to send as many as 50 students annually to various programs at the institute.

AVTI Plans Evaluation For Next Week

the evaluations and will later summarize the findings for the benefit of the Thief River Falls board of education and state board for vocational education. A representative of the state department of education will appear before the Thief River Falls school board to deliver and explain the results.

The state board for vocational education will schedule a meeting to discuss the evaluation findings and will invite local school administrators to present a plan to remedy any deficiencies which may be revealed in the evaluation report.

If the results of the evaluation are satisfactory, the state board for vocational education is empowered to confer accredited status to the school. Such accreditation enables students to participate in various state and federal programs involving student loans and grants, veterans' benefits and foreign student enrollment.

Minnesota state advisory council for vocational education also is usually present during an evaluation. Under federal law, the council is responsible for making an independent evaluation report to Washington, DC, concerning state activities.

Also present during many evaluations are other interested groups such as the council on the economic status of women (established by the state legislature) and the equal education opportunities section (a branch of the state department of education).

Evaluators are also interested in community input into the vocational education process and therefore will meet with local advisory committees during the two-day visit here. There will be approximately 17 advisory committee members who will meet with evaluators to discuss equipment and curriculum requirements for various courses.

Also scrutinized during the evaluation will be support services such as financial aid, minority recruitment, students activities, and adult extension classes. Last year about 325,000 people participated in adult extension classes through the state's 33 area vocational-technical institutes.

"Adult extension programs are an emerging phase of higher education," Dr. Gunderson stated, "a growing area of development. Through the programs arranged in our school by Terry Lerner in the adult education field we attempt to help people obtain educational opportunities beyond their present skill levels. Often these classes are arranged in cooperation with local business or industry to improve job opportunity and performance."

LEC Reports 9 Cases Sept. 20

Law enforcement center report dated Tuesday, September 20, listed eight cases investigated by Thief River Falls police department and one case investigated by Pennington county sheriff's department by reporting date.

Cases handled by Thief River Falls police department included the following:

September 9 — Jo McHam, Thief River Falls, reported that during a rummage sale she and a friend were holding, a woman had paid for a purchase using a $50 bill. Leaving hurriedly, the woman had picked up the $50 bill along with her change. Case is under investigation.

September 9 — Duane Danielson, Thief River Falls, reported that paint remover had apparently been poured over the side, roof and hood of his vehicle sometime during the past two weeks, resulting in approximately $200 damage.

September 13 — Neil Tongen, Thief River Falls, reported theft of his bicycle, value $200, from the bike rack at Northland Village.

September 13 — Tom Fugleberg, Thief River Falls, reported that a girls bicycle, value $50, had been stolen from his residence sometime during the previous evening.

September 15 — Julie Lendobeja, Thief River Falls, was driving north on LaBree avenue and Mary L. Cullen, Goodridge, was driving east on Sixth street when they collided, causing the Cullen vehicle to go over the curb and strike a fire hydrant. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to the Lendobeja vehicle, $800 to the Cullen vehicle and $30 to the hydrant.

September 16 — Marshall Simons, Thief River Falls, reported that a bicycle, value $200, had been stolen from his residence.

September 16 — Dean Brandon, Thief River Falls, drove up on the right side of a semi-trailer stopped for the sign on Knight avenue, in order to make a right turn onto First street. Bruce Van Pelt, Sioux Falls, SD, the driver of the truck, also was attempting a right turn and collided with Brandon's vehicle. Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the Brandon vehicle. No damage occurred to the trailer.

September 17 — Clark Carpenter, rural Thief River Falls, reported that a hubcap, value $50, had been stolen from his vehicle sometime during the previous week. Location at which the theft occurred was unknown.

Pennington county sheriff's department handled the following case:

August 23 — Mrs. Earl Efteland, rural Thief River Falls, reported that their mailbox had been knocked down sometime during the previous evening, causing approximately $40 damage.

Correction: Report issued by the law enforcement center on September 13, which was published in the September 14 edition of the Times, incurrectly listed Larry Langevin and Frank Nystrom as passengers in a one-car rollover which was investigated by the Pennington county sheriff's department on September 6. They reported the accident but were not passengers.

NEWS IN PICTURES

A noteworthy event in show business is the recording of the original cast album of "La Cage aux Folles" before its Broadway opening. That's because the hit play, which ran seven years and 2,500 performances in France, and became a hit movie in the United States, is shaping up as a hit musical. RCA will have records and tapes of the new Jerry Herman-Harvey Fierstein musical in stores as the musical opens. The long-playing album will be the first all-digital original cast recording of a major Broadway show. The musical stars George Hearn as Albin, the lovable, but somewhat temperamental star of the show at La Cage aux Folles, the famous St. Tropez night spot. Playing Albin's mentor, lover and nightclub entrepreneur, Georges, will be Gene Barry.

Air Service To Be Provided To Two ND Cities

Civil aeronautics board (CAB) has selected Mesaba airlines over two other carriers as the essential air service carrier for Devils Lake and Jamestown, ND and one other city to be selected later. This service will be to Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Service will start within 90 days, with the exact date to be announced soon. Mesaba will fly these routes with the Beechcraft Model 99 jet-prop aircraft that they have been operating for over six years.

Fall Activity, Color Guides Now Available

Travel the roads of Minnesota this fall. Be there when Carver returns to the 1850's and once again becomes a last stop for steamboats on the Minnesota river. Cheer the winner at the finish line of "the most beautiful urban marathon in the country." See the great American lumberjack show at the Paul Bunyan days in Brainerd. And while you are on your way, catch Minnesota's spectacular fall color show. Enjoy the brilliantly colored landscape — a woodlands panorama shared by only a few other regions and countries in the world.

Call or write the State of Minnesota travel information center for free copies of the 1983 fall color and activities guide and fall calendar of events. Guide contains a full-size road map outlining over 2,300 miles of the state's most spectacular fall color routes and offers more than a season's worth of ideas for fall activities. Companion piece to this publication, the fall calendar of events, lists more than 120 community events that take place in September and October. Fairs, festivals, carnivals, contests, threshing bees and harvest gatherings throughout the state are described.

Call the travel information center weekly for an update on where the fall color is peaking. Or ask for further information on accommodations and attractions in an area of interest to you. To obtain the color and activites guide and the calendar of events or any other travel information on Minnesota this fall, write the Minnesota travel information center, a service of the Minnesota office of tourism, 240 Bremer Building, 419 North Robert Street, St. Paul, MN 55101 or call 296-5029 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. If you live in Minnesota but outside the Minneapolis-St. Paul area, call toll-free 1-800-652-9747 and toll-free 1-800-328-1461 if you are a resident of another state in the continental United States.

Change Phone For Crippled Children Calls

Persons who wish to call for appointments at the crippled children's clinic to be conducted October 4 at UMC are asked to contact Eula Kvikstad at 681-3137 instead of chairman Mabel Leyden. Mrs. Kvikstad is substituting for Mrs. Leyden as a result of an injury to the chairman.

Corn Crops In 19 MN Counties Show Damage

Special field crop pest surveys in 19 counties indicate that much of the current advantage forecast for Minnesota corn producers may be lost unless farmers prepare for an early harvest and artificial drying of a high moisture corn crop, reports agriculture commissioner Jim Nichols.

This season's infestation of European corn borers not only was one of the most severe and earliest in more than a decade, but it was compounded by a rare, and successful second generation hatch still chewing the corn ears loose from the stalks.

Commissioner Nichols urges farmers to check their corn fields early and often to assess insect and wind damage, crop maturity, and to get harvest equipment ready to roll the day physiological maturity has been reached and corn moisture is down to 30 per cent.

Surveys of 95 corn fields, five each selected at random in 19 counties between August 29 and September 9 revealed high populations of corn borers, averageing by crop districts from 75 per cent to total infestation.

Severe damage was already visible, particularly in west central counties hit by near hurricane winds the last week of August. A second wind storm hit the second weekend in September after the crop pest survey and preliminary damage assessment was completed.

Lac Qui Parle and Chippewa had the most severe early crop damage. More than 87 per cent of the corn stalks were broken by the first wind storm in the five fields checked in Lac Qui Parle. While stalk breakage was a lower 48 per cent in Chippewa, the survey found 6.4 per cent of the corn ears already on the ground.

Dr. Dharma Sreenivasam, crop pest specialist in charge of the special survey, said that damage will mount with each day of more than moderate winds, and the threat of massive losses from a typical wet, wind driven fall snowstorm is very real, because overall the survey showed the second hatch corn borers infesting the corn ear shanks in more than 60 per cent of all of the corn plants checked. Lowest shank infestation found was 18 per cent in the five fields inspected in Mower county. Jackson county had the highest ear shank infestation, 92 per cent.

Plan Prepared Childbirth Class Oct. 5

Prepared childbirth classes will start on Wednesday, October 5 at the Thief River Falls AVTI. Class will meet from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in room 110 for five weeks. Tuition is $20 per couple and instructor is Joan Walker.

This class is for expectant couples near the end of the woman's pregnancy. Class will cover stages of labor and delivery, medication, postpartum and the newborn. Emphasis is placed on relaxation and breathing techniques. Parents may check out books on topics related to childbirth from a resource library.

To pre-register for the class, limited to eight couples, call the instructor at 681-5488 or the AVTI, adult education department, 681-5424.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

On a recent vacation that included a visit to Chicago, we stopped at a grocery store to purchase a few things. We noticed groceries were considerably lower priced than what we were used to. But when we took a gallon of milk from the shelf and saw the price of $1.29 marked on it, we at first thought it had to be mismarked. Upon looking at the sign above, we saw it read $1.29 per gallon. We couldn't believe it. We stopped at a few other grocery stores and found this to be true there also.

Why do we in northern Minnesota, right in the middle of "Dairy Country" have to pay almost twice the price for a gallon of milk as people in Chicago where the milk is trucked in quite a distance?

I think something is definitely wrong in Thief River Falls and northern Minnesota. We have a milk processing plant right in town, yet we pay through the nose for milk and other dairy products. Farmers in this area receive about $12.75 per hundredweight of milk, or approximately $1.10 per gallon. Just who is pocketing the extra $1.00 plus that we pay extra for a gallon of milk????

To The Editor:

As a citizen of Pennington county, a resident of Thief River Falls, and a member of the Northwestern Hospital ambulance crew, I would like the people of Pennington county to address their thoughts to our ambulance service. In the six years that I have been a member of the crew, the biggest area stressed has been "to give the best patient care possible". Now that seems to be in jeopardy.

I must make it clear that my motive for writing this article is not the fear of losing my job; I've had job offers from two of the three prospective buyers already. My motive is from the heart, from a person who cares what happens to his patients.

There are thoughts that I have been tossing around in my mind that I would like to share with you. We have six dedicated full-time members on the crew now, trained to the level of paramedic. There are no private or volunteer services in this area that are trained to that level. Private and volunteer services have trained to the emergency medical technician (EMT) level, which is an 81-hour course. Add another 700 hours of training on top of that and you can see the level in which a paramedic is trained. We are full-time people, this is our main job and with this you also get experience. We keep our skills sharp because we are using them all the time, both in the hospital and in the ambulance.

One of the things that bothers me is when a volunteer ambulance comes to our hospital and the attendant remarks that this was the first ambulance call that he has been on in six months. How sharp can his skills be or how good is his experience with emergency care?

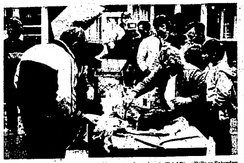
Please don't take this wrong; I have nothing against the volunteer services in this area. They do a great service to their communities and don't receive the recognition they have earned. But our service has gone well past the point of volunteer and no one in this country would expect less than we have now. That's the reason that the hospital and medical staff will not go along with three full-time people and the rest volunteers. There would be a drop in the care already given and they don't want anything to do with that. The care level must be maintained. Which would you rather have pick you up in an ambulance, a person who works full-time with skills that are sharp and experience long or a person with something less?

Polk county subsidized the Crookston ambulance service to the tune of $62,000 last year for a service with two full-time people and the rest volunteers. Pennington county subsidized our ambulance with a little over $12,000 for a crew of six full-time paramedics. Northwestern hospital is asking for $56,000 and I emphasize "asking" for a reason. The Crookston service demanded $62,000 as a private service or they would close the ambulance service.

Our hospital can not demand anything, but it can sell the service. You may get a private service to agree to a $12,000 subsidy this year, but what keeps it from coming back and demanding more money, like the Crookston service, the following year? It would end up like the old oil filter commercial, "you can pay me now or you can pay me later" and the "pay me laters" always seem to be more expensive.

You have a hand in the decision on what kind of ambulance service you want. Make your voices heard, either pro or con. Let the county commissioners know how you feel; that's what they're looking for and they need your input.

Sincerely,
Larry Golightly



MEMBERS of the Fifty 567 Club which held a meet and car show in Thief River Falls on Saturday, showed great enthusiasm in nearly everything they did, which included polishing off a whole pig, roasted on a spit by local club members Roger Solberg and Rob Houske. With 49 members of the international club registered for the meet, they and their guests completely filled the 28 unit T-59 Motel, with several late-comers referred to other inns. The pig, with all the trimmings, was reduced to bones in short order.

Travel Center Gives Report On Fall Color

From early September through mid-October, the Minnesota travel information center will provide an up-to-date report on the progress of fall color in the state for those who call or visit the travel center in St. Paul.

Fall color report will be compiled weekly starting September 8 from over 50 telephone calls made to state parks and forests throughout the state.

Fall color shows first in Minnesota along the U.S.-Canadian border by the second week of September. By mid-September the maples along the Gunflight trail north of Grand Marais begin to change. On the third and fourth weekends color peaks around Voyageurs national park near International Falls, the Echo trail between Ely and Crane lake and the inland trails along Lake Superior's North shore drive from Two Harbors to Grand Portage.

Generally, the first weekend in October Itasca state park near Park Rapids and the Maplewood state park near Fergus Falls are in full color. Shortly thereafter the elm, ash and cottonwood of the Minnesota river valley from Ortonville in the west to the Twin Cities show yellows and golds.

By the second weekend of October color predominates along the St. Croix river from Taylors Falls to Stillwater and in the Minneapolis and St. Paul metropolitan area. It moves then along the Hiawatha valley of the Mississippi river from Hastings to Winona. Later in October you'll find oaks in color in the hills and river valleys of southeastern Minnesota around Preston and Caledonia.

Call the Minnesota travel information center weekly for an update on where color is peaking and ask for a fall color and activities guide and a calendar of events. Call 296-5029 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays. For those in Minnesota outside the Twin Cities metro area, call 1-800-652-9747. Those in other states can call 1-800-328-1461. Minnesota travel information Center, a service of the Minnesota Office of Tourism, is at 240 Bremer Building, 419 N. Robert St., St. Paul, MN 55101.

Plans Started For MN Junior Miss Contest

Competition for more than $4,000 in cash scholarships, trophies and other awards is open to eligible senior high school women. Those who wish to compete as an "at-large" candidate may do so by completing appropriate forms and sending them to Minnesota junior miss, Inc., Box 371, Owatonna, MN 55060, no later than October 15, 1983. More information is available by contacting the school counselor.

At-large judging will be held all-day Saturday, November 19, at Trinity Lutheran church in Owatonna, beginning at 8 a.m. None of the candidates will be asked to pay any entry fee or any other costs to participate. Their only cost will be for transportation to Owatonna and any costs they incur in preparing themselves for the competition.

Contestants will be asked to appear on stage in evening gowns. They will also be asked to present a talent, and to meet with judges in individual interviews. High school grades will also count in this competition. There is no swim suit competition.

One or more of the at-large candidates will be selected to participate in state finals scheduled January 21 to 22, 1984, in Owatonna, based on the judges' decisions. If more than one woman is selected, one will not be ranked above the other. Each will compete equally in the state finals.

Parental Role In Adolescent Sexuality Aired

Role of parents in adolescent sexuality will be topic of a course to be conducted through the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute on Thursdays, October 6, 13, 20 and 27 from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Programs will be broadcast on public television on Wednesdays, October 5, 12 and 19 from 10:30 to 11 p.m. The AVTI program, limited to 50 persons, will be a parental discussion of the television program material.

The program will focus on assisting parents by exploring issues and concerns regarding sexuality from the perspective of adolescents, parents and community. Information will be presented on understanding the development and needs of adolescents and how parents can better understand, support and talk about information, attitudes and values.

Discussion group will meet in room 114 at the AVTI and a fee of $10 per individual or couple will be charged. Pre-registration is required by September 23. Call the AVTI adult education department at 681-5424 to register or for more information.

Film Set For Norden Church On October 2

"Freedom Held Hostage," a half hour film dealing with religious persecution behind the Iron Curtain, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, October 2, at Norden Lutheran church, six miles west of Thief River Falls on highway 1. Further information is available by calling Rev. Ollie Urdahl at 681-4027.

Produced by Open Doors ministries, the film includes footage of secret meetings held in Eastern Europe, and an interview with Brother Andrew, author of the book "God's Smuggler."

First Frost Of Season Noted; Harvest Hurt

Intermitten showers and cloudy weather spread over the state by Thursday and kept farmers out of the fields for the rest of the week in some places, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. Rainfall amounts generally over an inch were received except in the west central and southwest districts.

An average of four days were suitable for fieldwork. The first frosts of the fall season occurred during the week, but were confined to northern counties. Topsoil moisture as of September 16 was rated 10 per cent short, 58 per cent adequate and 32 per cent surplus.

Corn continues to mature very rapidly. Farmers in most of southern Minnesota are gearing up for corn harvest. For many producers, considerations of high drying expenses are more than offset by the risk of severe yield reductions if harvest is delayed on their heavily borer infested fields. Some limited combining of corn on high ground has already begun. Field corn silage cutting is in full swing where weather permits.

On the average, soybeans are reaching maturity somewhat slower than corn. Maturity of beans in the southern third of the state is about a week behind the rest of the state. Limited combining of soybeans continued during the week in sandy soil areas of central and western Minnesota.

Sugarbeet lifting in the Red River valley made good progress until heavy showers interrupted operations. Northern Minnesota growers are getting ready to start combining sunflowers and chemical harvest aids are being used to speed drydown and avoid further damage. Some last-crop hay is getting wet in the swath. Good-quality hay is expected to be in short supply this winter for some state livestock producers.

Field corn is 98 per cent denting compared with 87 per cent for the five-year average. An estimated 47 per cent of field corn is mature versus 20 per cent last year and 31 per cent for the five-year average. Silage chopping is 33 per cent complete compared with the five-year average of 18 per cent. Condition of field corn is rated 12 per cent poor, 44 per cent fair, 39 per cent good and five per cent excellent.

Soybeans are 94 per cent turning yellow compared with 90 per cent for the five-year average. Soybeans shedding leaves stand at 48 per cent versus 34 per cent a year ago and 51 per cent for the five-year average. An estimated 13 per cent of soybeans are mature compared with eight per cent in 1982 and 11 per cent for the five-year average. Soybean condition is rated six per cent poor, 44 per cent fair, 48 per cent good and two per cent excellent.

Sunflower bracts are 89 per cent turning yellow or beyond and 40 per cent turning brown; five-year averages are 78 per cent and 44 per cent, respectively. Sugarbeets are seven per cent harvested compared with six per cent last year and two per cent for the five-year average. Potatoes are 25 per cent harvested, the same as the five-year average. Flaxseed at 71 per cent harvested is well ahead of the five-year average of 48 per cent. Dry edible beans are 28 per cent harvested versus 18 per cent a year ago. Sweet corn for processing is 95 per cent harvested compared with 87 per cent for the five-year average.

Two New Farm Owners Are Established

Two more new farm owners have been established, in LeSueur and Sibley counties, with 90 per cent state guarantees on privately negotiated loans totaling $252,000 that received Minnesota family farm security program approval from agriculture commissioner Jim Nichols.

These increased the accumulative totals for the Minnesota family farm security program to 375 new farm owners established on 69,669 acres of agricultural land in 67 counties, with the 90 per cent state guarantee on loans that totaled more than $65.4-million at original issue.

Newest cooperators to be recommended by the family farm security advisory council and approved by the commissioner of agriculture for the 90 per cent state guarantees on their loans are:

Thomas and Crystal Schleeve, LeSueur, $171,000 seller sponsored loan on a 44 acre hog production enterprise in LeSueur county; and

John and Kristi Wold, Gaylord, $81,000 seller and commercial lender co-sponsored loan on a 45 acre cash grain farm in Sibley county.

WHEN YOUR HOME CRIED FOR "HLP*!" WE HEARD IT, TOO.

THAT'S WHY WE VOLUNTEERED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE NEW MINNESOTA *HOME LOAN PROGRAM.

Yes, we heard that you need energy improvements, room additions, other necessary repairs for your home. But today's interest rates may make it difficult for you to afford these improvements or qualify for conventional home improvement financing.

That's why we've volunteered to be a participating lender in the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency's Home Loan Program. We want to make it possible for you to enjoy the benefits of this special program. You may qualify for "HLP" home improvement financing if you:
- own your own home
- have adjusted household income not exceeding $24,000
- have a good credit history

Most home improvements are eligible, but there are a few limitations. Call us for more details.

A "HLP!" loan is more affordable than ever. Annual percentage rates now range from 3% to 10½% depending on your income. All loans are simple interest with no prepayment penalty.

Example: A typical home improvement loan is in the amount of $6,000, at an annual percentage rate of 10½% with 120 monthly installments of $80.94 each. A down payment is not required.

So let us help you get the "HLP!" you need. Call or visit us for more complete information.

Japan's Ceramics Hold Beauty In Imperfections

by Susan D. Bliss
Smithsonian News Service

Twice a year, high on a slope of western Virginia's hill country, Rob Barnard gathers a few of his fellow potters in his backyard to help him load his kiln — a low-lying, tunnel-like structure — with the plates, bowls, cups and pitchers he's made during the past six months. About 48 hours later, the unobtrusive kiln, having been fed continuously with a couple of cords of oak logs and kindling, has been transformed into a behemoth — a pulsating, white-hot chamber of flame and ash.

As oxygen in the kiln is consumed by flame and the temperature rises in carefully monitored stages, the physical composition of the brittle, dried-clay vessels is transformed to durable density.

Although modern, gas-fired kilns can accomplish the same process with a lot less work, Barnard built his to approximate the kilns developed in 12th-century Japan. He is one of a number of Western potters whose admiration of Japanese ceramic achievements has grown into a full-time involvement with that country's ceramic techniques and aesthetic principles.

Barnard, who studied ceramics in Kyoto, says he is attracted to the Japanese awareness of the delicate balance between the beautiful and the ugly. Some of Japan's most revered ceramic treasurers, he explains, may be irregularly shaped and flawed by cracks and surface scars, yet are considered lovely. In fact, in some cases, these imperfections are prized qualities.

"What we in the West think of as contradition — good and bad within a single piece — is seen by the Japanese as the essence of beauty," Barnard says.

The roots of Japan's ceramic tradition are buried in the ancient past. Some experts believe that the first earthenware objects were created in Japan as many as 12,000 years ago, making them the world's oldest. But Louise Cort, a specialist in East Asian ceramics at the Smithsonian's Freer gallery of art in Washington, D.C., says the Japanese aesthetic approach that fascinates Barnard and thousands of other Westerners grew out of the tea ceremony. By the 16th century, the drinking of tea, a practice imported from China, had evolved into a uniquely Japanese ritual, affecting every kind of cultural expression, from architecture and landscape design to food preparation, flower arrangement and ceramics.

Tea-drinking was introduced to the Japanese by 12th-century Zen Buddhist monks who valued the brew for its medicinal properties and as an aid to meditation.

"It is difficult to decide which attracted the emperors, priests and people of Japan to tea, its taste or its medicinal reputation," Rand Castile writes in "They Way of Tea" (Weatherhill, 1971). By the 14th century, drinking of the chartreuse-green, powdered tea had become a popular social event in residences of the shoguns, whose exquisite collections of Chinese tea ceramics and lacquerware marked the pinnacle of the Chinese-style tea experience.

But tea drinking did not stay exclusively in the domain of the military class. By the late 15th century, trade was booming and Japan's prosperous and well-educated merchant class couldn't help but notice the heavy commerce in ceramics from China and Korea. Merchants, too, became interested in tea, developing a more intimate form of social gathering that focused on aesthetic considerations rather than the grandeur of the shoguns,

"The whole point of the tea ceremony, as it developed in the 16th century," Cort explains, "is to bring together a group of disparate objects as an aesthetic whole. And the total effect changed constantly with the incorporation of Korean and native Japanese objects to replace the former dominance of Chinese pieces."

"Once the ceremony caught on, the wealthy merchants made it their own," Cort says. "The practice of collecting tea objects and using them to prepare tea for guests evolved into a sort of men's club."

"This broader group of collectors couldn't hope to approximate the shogunal holdings," says Andrew Pekarik, curator of the Mary and Jackson Burke collection of Japanese art in New York City. "So their appreciation expanded to include Japanese objects."

"At first," Cort says, "the idea of the 16th-century Japanese potters was to create a sort of visual pun on the classic Chinese wares. They produced shapes and glazes that made direct reference to those of the classic Chinese ceramics, but with willful distortion. This marked a departure from the worshipful admiration of the Chinese and a move toward appreciation of Japanese works."

But tea enthusiasts also sought Japanese tea wares for their own characteristics. In a recent Freer exhibition illustrating the long history of Japanese ceramics, Cort included many objects from the Momoyama period (1573-1615) "because the wares from that time exhibit the aesthetic that the Japanese identify as their own."

The simple, elegant black Raku teabowl, created by a tilemaker-turned-potter, and the square Oribe ware plate with its characteristic, forest-green glaze manifest a "sensitivity to materials and suppression of technical perfection in favor of the sensation of wet clay and something that is freshly made," Cort explains.

Japanese potters responded to the new enthusiasm for Japanese tea wares by increasing production and experimenting with new designs. Among their products, Shino ware from the kilns at Mino, with its milky, translucent feldspar glaze and underpainted designs, was highly prized. Immediately recognizable for its irregular shapes and uneven walls, "Shino is an example of the imperfectly perfect," Rob Barnard says.

The Japanese reverence for antique ceramics continues into the 20th century and was illustrated in an exhibition, "Japanese Ceramics Today, Masterworks from the Kikuchi Collection," which was shown recently at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C., and at the Victoria and Albert Museum in London.

The exhibition offerings included works whose forms and colors are reminiscent of Japan's neolithic, earthenware vessels, its medieval stoneware jars and its delicate 18th-century porcelains. More than a few of the objects, with their crusty white glazes and pinkish-brown brushwork designs, were certain reminders of Momoyama Shino ware. One of the modern Shino pieces was made by Arakawa Toyozo, born in 1894 and one of Japan's living national treasurers, so designated by the government for making invaluable contributions to the cultural heritage.

Arakawa (in Japan, the family name precedes the given name) is famous for his mastery of the Momoyama ceramic techniques. Wandering through the Mino woods one day in 1932, he discovered a Shino ware shared, a find that helped the experts establish the true location of the original Shino kilns and inspired Arakawa to devote himself to the recreation and preservation of the great 16th-century potting traditions.

While the nature of Japanese society ensures that ancient ceramics will always be treasured, Cort says more young potters now are being trained in art schools, rather than at the family kiln. "The living national treasures came from a generation of potters who saw themselves as guardians of the old ways," Cort explains, "but the new generation is working on new problems. The work of preserving traditions has been done."

Miura Koheiji, a potter of pale, blue-green celadon bowls, believes that craftspersons simply working in a Shino or other traditional style may no longer take their success for granted. The public is more sophisticated and demands that the artist deal anew with form, decoration and technique.

While many of the objects in the "Japanese ceramics today" exhibition were strikingly similar to antique ceramics, most also showed interesting twists of originality. Miura's work is reminiscent of the great Chinese celadons of the Sung dynasty (960-1279), but his combination of overglaze enamel decoration on a celadon base is an innovation.

Throughout Japan's history, artists have been inspired by the art of China, but according to Dr. Hayashiya Seizo, chief curator at the Tokyo national museum, there are subtle differences in the two aesthetics.

"The Chinese treasure symmetry," Hayashiya says, "while the Japanese are more interested in irregularity. You can compare Chinese ceramics to a perfectly polished jade and the Japanese to a moss-covered rock. We value the more natural aspect."

The LaFollette Seamen's Act was approved in 1915. It regulated conditions of employment for maritime workers, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor, "Important Events in American Labor History."

Judy Smeby Is State Poster Contest Winner

Judy Smeby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smeby of Gryglo, was one of the top three conservation poster contest winners in the 1983 state conservation poster contest.

Last spring, Judy's poster was one of four local poster contest winners in the contest sponsored by the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district. The posters advanced to area competition held in Thief River Falls in June where Judy's poster was one of the top four posters selected to advance to state competition.

A prize of $25 is given to the top four area poster contest winners. Area competition includes the soil and water conservation districts of Beltrami, Clearwater, East Agassiz, Hubbard, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall-Beltrami, Marshall, Pennington, East Polk, West Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

Judy's poster has now been chosen as one of the top three posters in the state. The state conservation poster contest is sponsored by the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation districts and the ladies auxiliary of the MASWCD. A $25 prize is also given to winners in the state contest.

The posters were on display recently at the state association's booth at the state fair. State poster contest winners will also receive recognition in an upcoming issue of "The Farmer" magazine.

Theme for the poster contest was "Trees Are For. . ." Judy's poster showed a windbreak of trees surrounding a farmstead with the slogan "Trees Are For Windbreaks."

This is the 9th year the conservation poster contest has been sponsored by the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district. Since 1975 it has had seven area winners and five state winners in the conservation poster contest, according to Cheryl Sistad, district clerk.

Library Saving Grocery Labels For Equipment

Northwest regional library will again be taking part in the Campbell soup company "labels for education" program, which recently expanded to include libraries as well as schools.

Through library headquarters in Thief River Falls, the bookmobile, and branches in Greenbush, Hallock, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, Warren, and Warroad, residents of the region are being asked to save labels from all Campbell products they use. Labels collected at each agency will be used to obtain library or audiovisual equipment for that agency so that each community will benefit directly from their label-saving efforts. Last year, labels were used to obtain encyclopedias and other books, a slide projector, records, and puzzles which were sent to the different branches.

This program runs through February 11 only, so label saving should start now. Questions about the program can be directed to local librarians or by calling 681-4325.

Restoration Of Local Aid Cuts Top Priority

State Representative Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls, said today that the restoration of $3.5 million in local aid cuts will be a top priority in the next legislative session. These cuts were made because of an unexpected shortage in the local aids appropriation approved by the legislature last May.

"I'm optimistic that the legislature will act swiftly to prevent residents of 318 communities from paying higher property taxes due to an unplanned cut in aids," he said.

According to Sparby, legislators believed that the local government aids appropriation was sufficient to fully fund the local aid formula when it was approved during the last session. However, when the actual calculation indicated a $3.5 million shortfall, the department of revenue was forced to cut benefits to 318 communities.

"Fortunately, the announced cuts in local government aid payments would not occur until July, 1984, and the next session of the legislature can restore the aid before that time," he said. "Cities may choose to levy less in 1984 in anticipation of the aid restoration, or they can cut their levy in 1985 and pass the savings to local taxpayers."

Sparby says that the chairman of the House tax committee, Representative John Tomlinson, assured him that both he and the chairman of the Senate tax committee, Senator Doug Johnson, as well as Governor Perpich, support restoration of the funding.

To: THIEF RIVER FALLS AREA COMMUNITY
From: TRF UNITED WAY BOARD

Dear Community Member:

The 1983 United Way Campaign has begun with a successful kick-off, Monday, September 19, at the Best Western. This year we have set a goal of $60,124. To achieve this goal, we need the generous support of every wage earner, professional person, and business. The United Way provides year-around support for many local agencies. For this reason, we encourage the use of payroll deduction giving. Those of you not contacted directly may send a contribution in care of TRF United Way, Box 276, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Perhaps you have heard of or know someone who has benefitted from such services as Senior Meals, Discovery Place, or the local Red Cross. Your gift keeps them all going. These are difficult times for many agencies served, especially those which are also partially supported by State, Federal, or local government programs. Increased support from these can no longer always be counted on; which requires a greater private effort.

The United Way dollar is about the most effective dollar you can charitably give. Roughly 91¢ out of each dollar goes directly to the agency served. This is due to the fact that the United Way is a volunteer organization.

The United Way Volunteer is at the heart of a successful campaign. We would ask that you greet him or her cheerfully and do what you can to make their job easier. Remember, they are not asking for themselves, but in many cases, for those who cannot themselves ask. Together with your support we can reach our goal for a successful campaign.

Sincerely,

The TRF United Way Board
Dave Odette, Chairman

United Way
Thanks to you, it works, for ALL OF US.

Difficult tasks await northwestern Minnesota rivals Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston in their bids to earn post-season state football playoff berths as Class A independents this fall.

Criteria for one of the three to earn a playoff berth is simple: finish with a winning record and defeat the other two. Thief River Falls, for example, has to finish the regular season with at least a 5-4 record, and wins over East Grand Forks and Crookston must be included among those five wins.

Right now, it appears northwestern Minnesota could be shut out of the playoffs, where area teams have fared remarkably well — a Class A title for Crookston in 1980 and a Class A runner-up finish for East Grand Forks in 1982.

East Grand Forks has a formidable challenge to repeat as a playoff qualifier. The Green Wave is off to an 0-3 start with losses to Grand Forks Central 19-0, Grand Forks Red River 63-6 and Fergus Falls 43-6. Those are three mighty tough opponents, but nevertheless the Green Wave are 0-3 with just four games left because of two open dates appearing on the 1983 schedule. East Grand Forks will have to sweep Barnesville, Breckenridge, Crookston and Thief River Falls to gain a playoff berth. The open dates fall before and after an Oct. 19 meeting with Thief River Falls.

Crookston and Thief River Falls are both in the same boat at this point with 1-2 records and six games left. They have to go 4-2 the rest of the way.

The Pirates, who have lost to West Fargo 37-6 and Park Rapids 20-6 while beating Grand Forks Central 11-8, will be facing Fergus Falls, Aurora-Hoyt Lakes, East Grand Forks, Barnesville, Mt. Iron-Buhl and Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers, who have lost to Grand Forks Red River 21-12 and Mahnomen 13-0 while beating Detroit Lakes 20-0, will be playing Breckenridge, Moorhead, Bemidji, Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston over the final six weeks of the schedule.

Next four games will determine whether the Prowlers will be in position to reach the playoffs when they square off with the Green Wave and Pirates in the final two outings. The Cowboys, Spuds, Lumberjacks and Otters are all going to be tough for the Prowlers to handle. Breckenridge, after a surprising 6-0 overtime loss to cross-town rival Wahpeton to start the year, has posted back-to-back shutouts over Morris 22-0 and Wadena 32-0. Moorhead has beaten Fargo South 10-9 and Superior, Wis. 24-16 while losing to Fargo North 13-7. Bemidji sandwiched wins over Crosby-Ironton 41-13 and Detroit Lakes 39-7 around an open date. Fergus Falls is 3-0 with wins over Detroit Lakes 28-0, Alexandria 20-7 and East Grand Forks 43-6.

It's a tough challenge for the Prowlers, whose preseason goal was to make the playoffs.

Next year, of course, the new Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) sectional football playoffs will be implemented. Thief River Falls will be in Section 8A, along with Staples, Wadena, Park Rapids, Detroit Lakes, Perham, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Fergus Falls. Eight of the nine teams will be involved in the playoffs.

Winners of the eight sectional playoffs across Minnesota will be involved in the state playoffs which will ultimately lead to the Prep Bowl finals. Same format will be used in each of the five MSHSL football classifications — AA, A, B, C and Nine-Man.

Miscellaneous

+ Crookston high school football team lost the services of runningbacks Rick Dahle and Kurt Weiss in the span of two weeks. Dahle suffered a knee injury in an 11-8 victory over Grand Forks Central Sept. 9, and Weiss suffered a shoulder injury in a 20-6 loss to Park Rapids Sept. 16.

+ Bemidji, which had an open date on its 1983 schedule Sept. 9 when Little Falls backed out of a scheduled meeting with the Lumberjacks, will also lose Detroit Lakes as a future opponent beginning in 1984.

+ Thief River Falls invitational high school cross country meet, the Prowlers' lone home appearance of the 1983 season, will be held Tues., Oct. 4, beginning at 4 p.m. at the Thief River Country Club. Competition will be held for boys and girls varsity, junior varsity and junior high runners.

Prowlers Lose To Green Wave

East Grand Forks racked up an easy 18-9, 18-4 high school volleyball win over Thief River Falls Tuesday, handing the Prowlers their fourth straight loss at the hands of a Class A opponent after a season-opening victory over Class AA Detroit Lakes.

Thief River Falls had trouble in nearly every phase of the game, and Prowlers coach Helen Anderson tried everybody on the bench in an unsuccessful effort to turn things around. The mistakes continued to mount, though, as the Prowlers absorbed their fourth consecutive two-game loss.

East Grand Forks dominated play. Amy Roche of the Green Wave took a 4-2 first-game lead and turned it into a 8-2 cushion at the service line. It was 16-4 before Thief River Falls made a bit of a run in making it 17-8 before losing 18-9.

Second game was even more one-sided. After spotting Thief River Falls a 2-0 headstart, East Grand Forks scored 18 of the next 20 points to win 18-4 as Rita Gonsorowski served the final nine points.

East Grand Forks also won the preliminary matches. The Green Wave took the junior varsity match 20-18, 18-6 to drop Thief River Falls' record to 3-2, and the Green Wave won the C squad match 21-9, 18-15 to keep Thief River Falls winless at 0-4.

First multiple-team outing of the 1983 season awaits the Prowlers Saturday when they compete in the Roseau invitational beginning at 9 a.m. Thief River Falls will be at Crookston Tuesday for a 7:45 p.m. match.

NCC Volleyball To Start Friday

A chance to preview divisional rivals will be the attraction Friday when the Northland community college volleyball team opens its 1983 season by hosting the annual season-opening Norwest Division quadrangular meet beginning at 5 p.m.

Coach Deb Jacobson's Northwomen will be joined by Fergus Falls, Brainerd and the University of Minnesota-Crookston in the Northland gym. In a sport without preseason previews, the quadrangular offers coaches, players and fans an opportunity get an early-season scouting report on the opposition.

Jacobson thinks her team will hold its own in 1983. "There's a lot of good talent coming back in the sophomore class and there's a couple of good freshmen to complement them," she said, but issued a word of warning by saying, "we're still young and inexperienced."

Sophomores on hand who played here last year include Joleen Gibson and LeAnn Paetznick of Thief River Falls and Kelly Wagner of Roseau. Two other sophomores working with the squad are Lorene Bulzomi of Fertile-Beltrami, who played two years ago at Bemidji State University, and newcomer Kim Phillips of Lancaster.

Team manager is Amy Jo Johnson of Grygla.

Northland will also be in action Saturday at the University of Minnesota-Crookston invitational beginning at 9 a.m.

Prowlers Play Cowboys Friday

A Lincoln high school football team that had looked so good in beating Detroit Lakes 20-0 one week and then looked not-so-good in losing to Mahnomen 13-0 the following week will have another go at it Friday when the Prowlers host Breckenridge in a 7:30 p.m. game that will be the third in a series of five consecutive Thief River Falls home games.

Thief River Falls did little wrong against the Lakers two weeks ago in breaking a 21-game losing streak, but then turned around and did little right against the Indians last Friday. Mahnomen dominated play in a way that wasn't reflected in the final score.

Coach John Schmitz said the Prowlers found out the hard way you can't sit on success. He acknowledged that it was not a good effort by his team, but he was quick to give Mahnomen its much-deserved credit. "They're an excellent football team," he said. "They came ready to play. They just handled us."

Now the Prowlers have to turn around and face a Breckenridge team that has given up just six points in three games. The Cowboys could have had three shutout wins to their credit if the offense would have come through in a 6-0 overtime loss to rival Wahpeton in the 1983 season opener. They did shut out Morris 22-0 and Wadena 32-0.

"Breckenridge will have an excellent football team," warned Schmitz. "They always seem to have good speed."

Breckenridge whipped Thief River Falls 36-0 a year ago when the two teams renewed a series that had been suspended for seven years. Thief River Falls won all four previous meetings when Breckenridge was a member of the old Northwest Athletic Conference as the Prowlers triumphed 48-27 in 1972; 6-0 in 1973; 14-13 in 1974; and 35-0 in 1975.

There will be a couple of line-up changes for this week for the Prowlers, who will use seniors Tim Kruse (6-3, 188) and Lynn Johnson (5-11, 185) at tight end; senior Jeff Hamerlinck (6-2, 212) and junior Dan Upham (6-2, 196) at tackles; senior Gary Cornell (6-0, 190) and junior Jeff Johnson (5-11, 201) at guards; senior Todd Ortloff (5-11, 170) at center; and senior Steve Wiskow (5-11, 183) at wide receiver.

Offensive backfield will include senior Mitch Semanko (5-10, 163) at quarterback; senior Tim Bottem (5-10, 186) and junior Ryan Drees (5-5, 169) at halfbacks; and junior Scott Fowler (6-3, 185) at fullback.

Defensively, senior Jeff Langan (5-11, 160) and Cornell will be the ends; Hamerlinck and Jeff Johnson will be the tackles; Kruse, Ortloff, Wiskow and Fowler will be the linebackers; with Semanko and junior Mark Bondy (6-0, 161) at cornerback; and senior Scott Jorstad (5-7, 151) at safety.

Ryan Bakke, a starter at offensive guard before being injured in the Detroit Lakes game is still questionable after missing the Mahnomen contest. Rick Spong, a starter on both offense and defense a year ago before being sidelined with back problems this year, is out of the line-up again this week. He started in the defensive backfield against Mahnomen, but played just one series before being forced to the sidelines because of his back.

"Our depth is disappearing," noted Schmitz.

DU Banquet To Have Room In Sports Arena

Thief River Falls chapter of Ducks Unlimited won't be troubled by lack of space this year as the annual banquet and program will be held Monday in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Social hour will begin at 6 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

Lon's Restaurant will cater the steak dinner, according to Stan Upham, chairman of the local chapter which is hosting the eighth annual event. In prior years the number of people attending had to be limited due to available space at the Best Western inn and national guard armory.

Persons interested in attending and who have not yet purchased their tickets may do so by calling 681-1714. The $30 ticket includes the dinner and membership in the international organization whose sole purpose is to preserve and improve habitat for production of waterfowl in North America.

Among auction items for the evening will be an official Ducks Unlimited print of a painting by Terry Redlin entitled "Night Flight", a limited edition Ducks Unlimited shotgun, a registered Black Labrador puppy and a number of other limited edition prints and sporting art/objects.

All funds raised in excess of expenses will be donated to Ducks Unlimited for its wetlands projects in Canada and now in selected areas of the United States.

Named To Hall of Fame . . .

John Drury To Be Honored At NDSSS

John Drury of St. Hilaire will be one of seven former North Dakota State School of Science athletes who will be inducted into the NDSSS Athletic Hall of Fame Sat., Oct. 1, in Wahpeton.

Those being inducted will be honored during the halftime of the NDSSS-Minot State homecoming football game that afternoon, with the induction ceremonies planned that night at the Elks Club in Wahpeton.

Hall of fame ceremony will be conducted by the NDSSS Alumni Letterwinners Club at 7 p.m.

Drury, a two-year football, baseball and basketball letterwinner in 1948-49 and 1949-50 at NDSSS, won all-conference football honors and was an undefeated pitcher in baseball. After graduating from NDSSS, he played professional baseball for the Fargo-Moorhead Twins and for semi-professional teams in Minnesota. He is a 1950 electrical technology graduate. He is employed by the USDA Soil Conservation Service as a civil engineering technician in Thief River Falls.

Pflipsen was an outstanding football player for Science in addition to his participation in basketball, baseball and track. He was selected all-conference in football and played at North Dakota State University for two more years before joining a team in the Continental Football League. He graduated in business administration in 1963. He is an investment broker in Sioux Falls.

Carr is recognized for his outstanding boxing and football participation in 1953 and 1954. He was all-conference football honorable mention in 1953 and all-conference in 1954 and he won the regional Golden Gloves middleweight boxing title both years. He lost in the finals and semifinals at the Upper Midwest tournament. He is a 1955 liberal arts graduate at NDSSS. After graduating, he played football at Northern State in Aberdeen, S.D. He is secondary principal at Dilworth high school.

Huether was an outstanding track performer for the Wildcats in 1969-70 and 1970-71. He set 19 college indoor and outdoor records and tallied 214½ points in his final season at NDSSS. He still holds two track records at Science. He graduated in liberal arts in 1971 and continued track for two years at North Dakota State University. He is farming near Lisbon.

Powers, an outstanding basketball player at NDSSS, led the 1946-47 and 1947-48 basketball teams in scoring and he won all-conference basketball honors both years. He also was second in conference scoring and posted the highest average in his second year. He participated in football in 1947-48. He has officiated football and basketball games in the area for the past 34 years. He graduated in 1948 in pre-education. He presently is clerk of district and county courts and court commissioner in Clay county.

Stuehrenberg brought national attention to NDSSS by winning national All-American wrestling honors in 1969-70, becoming the college's first national champion. After leaving NDSSS, he wrestled for the University of Arizona and the Schedule

Sat., Sept. 24 — Mesabi at Brainerd, University of Minnesota-Crookston at Hibbing, Itasca at Fergus Falls, Northland at Vermilion — all 1:30 p.m.

Final leg in a string of three straight road games to open the 1983 season will be played Saturday when Northland drives to Ely for a 1:30 p.m. Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) encounter with Vermilion.

Both teams began MCCC play over the weekend when Northland lost a 32-15 decision to Itasca at Grand Rapids and Vermilion dropped a 19-3 game at the University of Minnesota-Crookston. Northland opened the year against the Bemidji State University junior varsity, losing an 18-0 verdict. Vermilion opened against the University of Minnesota-Duluth junior varsity, falling 26-20.

"We're going up against the best on the 'Range'," said Northland coach John Helley. "They have the numbers and the strength. We're anticipating a tough game."

Under this year's new MCCC football format that divided the old two-division state-wide set-up into the four-division alignment that is used for other sports, Northland is grouped with Fergus Falls, Brainerd and the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) in the Northwest Division. The two divisions play interlocking schedules, with results counting in the divisional standings.

Post-season play will then match the Northwest and Northeast divisional winners against each other in the state playoff semifinals. At the same time, the winners in the Southern and Central Divisions will meet. Those first round winners will advance to the MCCC state championship game.

In preseason talk, UMC was made the favorite in the Northwest Division and Vermilion was tabbed the team to beat in the Northeast Division. The Trojans and Ironmen played in the rain at Crookston Saturday in what might have been a preview of post-season play.

Northland, meanwhile, will be trying to iron out some problems the Northmen encountered on offense at Itasca when they fumbled nine times.

"Last week our fumbles aborted anything we wanted to do," admitted Helley. "I think our offense is much better than what we've shown."

Northland quarterbacks Bob Rockwood, a sophomore from Fargo, and Steve Blanc, a freshman from Columbia Heights, combined for 240 yards passing Saturday and two touchdowns, but the Northmen netted just 21 yards rushing.

"We're going to have to get a lot more out of our backs," mentioned Helley, who did indicate, however, that the pass will be an important part of the Northland offense. He's undecided who will start at quarterback against Vermilion.

Kent Kainz, a sophomore from Thief River Falls, was named the team's offensive player of the week vs. Itasca as he caught four passes for 111 yards and two touchdowns, and kicked an extra point. Steve Robinson, a freshman from Westland, Mich. was named the team's defensive player of the week, with Rockwood, who also plays linebacker, named the overall offensive-defensive player of the week.

Helley also announced that Kainz has joined Rockwood as an offensive captain for the Northmen and sophomore cornerback Jim Jonasson of Edinburgh, N.D. has joined sophomore linebacker Eric Bondy of Thief River Falls as defensive team captain.

LHS Observes National H.S. Activity Week

Lincoln high school will be joining all schools across the country to celebrate National High School Activities Week, October 16-23. "One week is set aside annually to emphasize nationally the value of high school athletic and non-athletic activity programs to their home communities, state and nation," pointed out Thief River Falls athletic director Russ Smith.

"The total activities program of Lincoln high school involves almost 50 per cent of the student body while using less than 2 per cent of the high school budget. That's a tremendous bargain, and our community needs to know it," stressed Smith.

"Even more important are the educational experiences which activities provide our students. School activities are really laboratory courses in physical and emotional development. School activities programs are developing this community's future leaders," he continued.

Cardinals, Cougars Will Play Friday

Only unbeaten team left in the North Tri-County Conference after just three weeks of play, Plummer will try to get by another early season hurdle Friday when the Cardinals host Erskine-Mentor in a 7:30 p.m. Nine-Man high school football game.

Plummer got by a major hurdle two weeks ago when the Cardinals edged Grygla-Goodridge 14-8. They were idle last Friday and watched with interest as Grygla-Goodridge came back to edge Erskine-Mentor 12-6. Those three teams were made preseason North Tri-County Conference favorites. A Plummer win Friday would give the Cardinals a big edge in the pennant race, but an Erskine-Mentor victory would tighten things again.

Elsewhere in the North Tri-County Conference Friday, Clearbrook will be at Middle River for a 4 p.m. game, Grygla-Goodridge will be at Fisher at 4:15 and Gonvick-Trail visits McIntosh-Winger for a 7:30 contest. Oklee has the open date in the nine-team conference this week.

Meanwhile, Marshall County Central will be trying to snap a season-opening three-game losing streak Friday when the Nordics celebrate homecoming activity with a 7:30 p.m. Top of the State Conference game against Hallock in Newfolden. The Bears are also 0-3.

An Argyle trip to Stephen highlights this week's Top of the State Conference schedule, but the preseason favorite Tigers were set back last week by a 50-26 loss to upstart Tri-County when the Rabbits' Kevin Larson threw touchdown passes of 14, 41 and 40 yards to brother, Jeff.

CHECK PRESENTATION for $865 was made Monday to complete the purchase of a neck machine for the Lincoln high school weight room. About $500 of the money was realized through hamburger sales for 14 weeks at the American Legion Club when Lincoln students and supervisors were on hand to cook and serve the meals. Remaining amount was donated by the Sons of the American Legion. Check presentation involved Ron Hamre, representing the Sons of the American Legion; Mitch Semanko, who was in charge of the summer project as he called student workers and their supervisors each week with their work schedules; and Lincoln football coach John Schmitz, who has been instrumental in the development of the weight room over the past year.

Lumberjacks, Flyers Are Cross Country Winners

Bemidji boys and Bagley girls were easy winners Tuesday in the Bagley Invitational high school cross country meet.

Highly-regarded Bemidji had six runners among the top ten place finishers to dominate the boys' race with 23 points, followed by Detroit Lakes with 97, East Grand Forks 102, Thief River Falls 114, Crookston 117, Park Rapids 144, Bagley 154, Roseau 195 and Sebeka 221.

Mark Lingle of Park Rapids was the individual winner with a 14:47 effort over the three-mile course.

Bagley was nearly as dominate in the girls' portion of the meet with four top ten runners and 32 team points, followed by Bemidji with 61, Thief River Falls 75 and Crookston 94, with Roseau fielding an incomplete team.

Roseau's Robyn Skoglund won the two-mile race in 12:15.

Thief River Falls' next outing will be Thursday at the Detroit Lakes Invitational beginning at 4 p.m.

MCC Volleyball Team Defeats Badger By 2-0 Tuesday Night

Marshall County Central made it four straight high school volleyball wins Tuesday with an 18-4, 18-16 North Border Conference victory over Badger at Newfolden.

"We played quite well the first game," mentioned Marshall County Central coach Julie Tunheim, who used a different line-up in the second game. Half of the Nordics' first-game points were scored on ace serves, she noted, with Shelly Anderson, Nancy Nelson and Barb Garthus supplying the spark up front with blocks.

Senior Tami Hansonn collected nine service points in the second game, including six aces, in her first varsity duty. The Nordics finished the night with an impressive 90 per cent success figure at the service line.

Marshall County Central, 4-1 for the year, will host Warroad Thursday and will visit Middle River Tuesday.

Middle River — Warroad

Warroad pulled off a mild North Border Conference surprise Tuesday by beating visiting Middle River 15-18, 18-12, 18-14.

"Warroad really played fantastic volleyball," reported Middle River coach Julie Helgenson. "We had a good night serving and we had some good spikes, but we couldn't get any accurate sets. It was just a lack of team play."

Paula Rantanen led the Skippers with 10 ace spikes and played well defensively, too, said Helgeson. Connie Dahl had 10 ace serves for the Skippers, who fell to 3-3 for the year.

Middle River will host Roseau Thursday and entertain Marshall County Central Tuesday.

Plummer — Stephen

Stephen edged Plummer 18-11, 8-18, 18-6 in a Tuesday match-up of highly-regarded District 32 and District 31 teams.

The loss dropped the Cardinals to 2-2 for the year. They'll be at Red Lake Falls Thursday.

Goodridge — Argyle

Goodridge came close to ending its losing streak at five matches Tuesday, but the Huskies stumbled at the end as host Argyle emerged with an 11-18, 18-12, 18-14 Tuesday night decision.

Third and decisive game was deadlocked at 14-14 before the Eagles took over.

"We looked really good," said Goodridge coach Patti Johnson, who had special praise for juniors Cheri Nelson and Melissa Iverson. "They really played outstanding for us," she said.

Goodridge will try to end its frustrating string of losses Thursday at home against Fisher. The Huskies will be at Red Lake Falls Tuesday.

EGF Tops TRF Sophomores By 14-8 Monday

East Grand Forks scored the game-winning touchdown with about two minutes remaining Monday in a 17-8 sophomore high school football win over visiting Thief River Falls.

A first quarter East Grand Forks touchdown stood until near the midway mark of the fourth quarter when Thief River Falls went ahead 8-6 on a 30-yard Bill Desrocher touchdown pass to Gus Miller and a Joe Blankenfeld two-point conversion.

Thief River Falls then stopped East Grand Forks inside the Thief River Falls 1-yard line, punted the ball to about the 25 and had East Grand Forks in a fourth-and-12 situation when the game-winning touchdown was scored.

It was the second loss in two outings for the Thief River Falls sophomores, who will host Grand Forks Central Thurs., Sept. 29, at 7 p.m.

Thief River Falls junior varsity, 0-1, will host Crookston Monday at 7 p.m. Thief River Falls freshmen, 0-1, will host Crookston Thursday at 4:15 p.m.

Youth Hockey Coaches Meet Tuesday Night

Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) coaches meeting will be held Tuesday in Room 507 at Franklin middle school.

TRFAHA is currently looking for individuals to coach in the youth hockey program for the 1983-84 season.

Coaches interested in working with the Tiny Mites, Squirts and Intermediates In-House programs will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday. A meeting will be held at 8 that same night for coaches interested in working with the Pee-Wee and Bantam A and B traveling teams.

Prowler Relays Swim Meet Is Set Saturday

Thief River Falls' annual Prowler Relays girls high school swimming meet will be held Saturday beginning at 2 p.m. in the Franklin middle school pool.

A small three-team field will again be on hand for the event, with the host Prowlers joined by Bemidji and Park Rapids. Those were the participants a year ago when the Lumberjills were easy winners with 58 points, followed by Thief River Falls with 39 and Park Rapids 38.

This year, however, the Prowlers rank as the pre-meet favorite based upon their recent 109-63 dual meet victory here over Bemidji. Thief River Falls also beat Fargo North 97-74 to stand 2-0 in dual meet competition. They will be at Grand Forks Red River for a 4:30 p.m. meet Thursday.

Football Milestone Is Noted By MSHSL

History was made in Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) football circles during the opening week of the 1983 season earlier this month in Mound-Westonka's 26-12 overtime victory over Chaska when Mound scored a touchdown on a 90-yard run-back of an intercepted pass.

Mound had earlier scored a touchdown and a two-point conversion in its overtime offensive series.

It marked the first time ever that a defensive team had scored a touchdown in overtime, according to MSHSL director of publications and information Larry Larson. Overtime games have been played in the MSHSL ever since 1973.

Explaining the rule that allowed Mound-Westonka to post its second overtime touchdown, Larson quoted from MSHSL rules as follows: "After a fumble or an interception of a pass, the ball remains alive until that down is ended. . ."

There were six overtime football games played that opening week and five more the following week. Houston and Lewiston came close to tying the state overtime record on Sept. 2 when Houston scored an 18-12 victory in a game that went four overtimes before being decided. MSHSL record for a number of overtimes in a single game is five, which has occurred on five different occasions.

MSHSL Notes

There are 486 Minnesota high schools competing in interscholastic girls volleyball, with 113 of them in Class AA and 373 in Class A. A decade ago only 111 schools were playing volleyball. The current figure of 486 teams ranks seventh nationally in the number of schools participating in the sport. The number of girls participating in volleyball in Minnesota last year was 13,214.

New head girls volleyball coaches: Oscar Ellason, Cromwell; Wanda Renner, Dassel-Cokato; Anne Anderson, Detroit Lakes; Karn Olen, Dodge Center; Bev Morton, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart; Kala Bergeson, Echo-Wood Lake; Cindy Lonneman, Elmore; Rick Linnell, Hawley; Linda Theisen, Holdingford; Robin Carlson, Jackson; Darol Sandbakken, Jordan; Dan Davids, Lake Park; Jody Bergner, LeCenter; Mary Jo Graphenteen, Luverne; and Kay Wohlhuter, Lyle.

Julie Fautsch, all-around Spring Lake Park athlete who helped guide the Panthers to the state girls basketball tournament last March, is a member of the University of Wisconsin volleyball squad.

Mel Branch, 43, is the new St. Paul City Conference director of athletics, succeeding Wayne "Lefty" Gilleland, who retired. Branch, who formerly was the head football coach at Mechanic Arts and Central high schools in St. Paul, was the assistant principal at Johnson High. A graduate of Indiana University, he captained the Hoosier football team in 1965 while playing guard.

Len Olson, who has served as an assistant boys basketball coach at Duluth Central and East high schools, has been named the new head boys mentor at Duluth East, succeeding Irv St. John, who coached teams to five state tournament berths since 1972. St. John will become East's new athletic director, replacing the retiring Glenn Rolle.

Laddie Carda, head football coach at Chandler-Lake Wilson high school, joined the 100-Victory Club when his team defeated Hendricks, 18-6 in Chandler. Carda, now in his 22nd season as a head coach, has a career won-lost record of 100-90.

Carl Hendrickson, ex-Crosby-Ironton high school and St. Cloud State University athlete, is the new head boys basketball coach at Brainerd replacing Mike Morgan, who will work on a graduate degree at St. Cloud State.

Craig Kusick, ex-Minnesota Twin during the 1970's, is in his second year as defensive line coach at Rosemount high school under head coach Bob Sadek.

Mike Hunt, the Ortonville high school all-around athlete who was a standout player for the University of Minnesota and Green Bay Packers before an injury curtailed his career, has joined a firm in Ortonville that deals with the distribution of fastener products in the United States.

Toads in your garden should always be a welcome sight, says National Wildlife's "Ranger Rick" magazine. One toad eats up to 10,000 insects in one summer.

Cross Country Alumni Meet Set Saturday

Lincoln high school varsity-alumni cross country meet is scheduled to be held Saturday at 11 a.m. at the Thief River Country Club.

Competition will start with the girls' race, followed by the boys' race. Alumni are encouraged to participate in the meet, with a special invitation extended to "older" alumni.

Competitors should come dressed ready to run, pointed out Thief River Falls cross country coach Lynn Dyer.

The Prowlers competed in a rescheduled Crookston Invitational Friday, a meet moved back one day because of rain on Thursday.

John Drury To Receive Honors

Navy. He is a 1969 architectural drafting and 1980 mechanical drafting and design graduate. He is employed as a draftsman for Steiger Tractor Co. in Fargo.

Dahl, a first team National Junior College Athletic Association All-American in 1972, was an all-conference defensive lineman for the Wildcats. He played for North Dakota State University after graduating in auto body in 1973. He signed with the National Football League's San Diego Club in 1974. He is presently the owner of an auto body repair business in New London.

Each year, the nation's largest estuary, the 4,400 square mile Chesapeake Bay, yields an average of 125 pounds of seafood per acre to sport and commercial fishermen, including 90 per cent of the country's soft-shell crabs, according to the National Wildlife Federation. The Chesapeake is also the dumping ground for 400 million gallons of municipal sewage every day.

State Duck Hunting Prospects Improved

Prospects for the duck hunting season are brighter than they were earlier this summer, the Department of Natural Resources said recently.

Waterfowl specialists said fall water conditions in Minnesota are favorable for ducks, particularly in the western part of the state. They also said breeding habitat in key areas of the U.S. and Canada improved for the second consecutive year.

They conclude that while the fall flight of ducks in the Mississippi Flyway will not be significantly larger, it will contain more young birds — and young birds are less wary and therefore easier to bag.

Surveys show there will be a 10 per cent increase over last year in the number of young mallards this fall, and reports indicate a noticable rise in the abundance of blue-winged teal in western and south central Minnesota.

Hatch of ring-necked ducks appears to be about average. However, it is feared that heavy rains in June and July may have cut the production of some overwater nesting ducks in Minnesota, particularly canvasback and redhead.

Wood ducks, which make up an important part of the average hunter's bag during the early part of the season in many areas of the state, are difficult to census because of their secretive habits. Figures show state hunters bagged 115,000 of them last season and the population of the species has been on a general rise in recent years.

Fall water and food conditions for ducks in Minnesota are currently excellent, but this could change before the opener.

Conditions on the Canadian prairies this year have also been an improvement over last year. The number of ponds holding water in May was slightly above average and a July survey showed a 37 per cent increase above the norm.

Not so rosy, however, is the outlook for goose hunting. The hatch of geese in Canada this year is considered a near failure. Production of Canada geese from the Churchill area was cut 90 per cent from last year due to a late, cold spring. Hatch of snow geese was also very poor.

Waterfowl experts noted that recent studies show the importance of duck production in North Dakota on hunting success in Minnesota. It is now believed that during some years about 50 per cent of the mallards bagged in Minnesota were hatched in North Dakota.

Add Session To Swimming Aerobics Class

In addition to the Thief River Falls AVTI's Tuesday and Thursday evening swimming aerobics classes, a Wednesday session has been scheduled to accommodate those interested in attending once a week. The class will start on September 28, meeting from 7 to 8:30 p.m. for six weeks at Franklin pool. Tuition is $11.25.

DNR NEWS

Hunting, Fishing Day

Sat., Sept. 24, has been proclaimed Minnesota Hunting and Fishing Day by Governor Rudy Perpich as part of an annual national observance to recognize the contributions of sportsmen toward the protection and management of wildlife and other natural resources.

He said sportsmen were among the nation's first environmentalists having traditionally held strong views about clean air, pure water and habitat for wildlife.

"Anglers and hunters are justifiably proud of their heritage and I urge citizens to join in helping to promote sportsmanlike behavior by setting an ethical example and by reporting violations of game laws to the Department of Natural Resources," said Perpich.

Hawk Migration

Minnesota's annual hawk migration is underway, according to wildlife officials at the Department of Natural Resources.

Carrol Henderson, DNR non-game wildlife specialist, said the best place to view the migration is Hawk Ridge Nature Reserve in Duluth.

Managed by the Duluth chapter of the Audubon Society, the reserve is at the intersection of Skyline Parkway and the Seven Bridges Road.

To reach the observation area after entering Duluth on Superior Street, turn left on 45th Avenue East and follow 45th until it enters on Glenwood Drive. Turn left on Glenwood and proceed to Skyline, turn right and proceed along the Parkway to the observation point.

Henderson said it is also possible to see bald eagles and peregrine falcons passing over Hawk Ridge. He noted that the "hawk watch" at Duluth has become increasingly popular in recent years as people have become more interested in preserving birds of prey.

Henderson pointed out that all hawks, owls, eagles and falcons are protected by state and federal laws and that heavy fines and even jail sentences have been levied against killers of hawks and eagles in recent years.

He said anyone seen killing hawks or eagles should be reported to the DNR and that the department should be notified of dead or crippled raptors so the birds can be treated or used for scientific or educational purposes.

Three Wheelers

An option survey was conducted earlier this year on the use of three-wheeled all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) on snowmobile trails during winter months.

Survey was funded by the Motorcycle Industry Council, the International Snowmobile Industry Association and the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Interviewers contacted landowners adjacent to grants-in-aid snowmobile trails, and survey findings demonstrate the complexity of finding good solutions for three-wheel vehicle use.

For example, although 55 per cent of the survey population either "agreed" or "strongly agreed" that "the time has come to develop trails for three-wheelers in Minnesota," and a majority of landowners surveyed said they would not cancel their grants-in-aid snowmobile trails if three-wheelers were permitted during the winter months, a significant number said they would cancel.

"Clearly," said DNR trails officials, "a carefully developed policy for three-wheel vehicles used for recreation is needed that addresses the concerns of all. The survey has identified issues where more investigation is necessary."

Presently, under a mandate from the 1982 Legislature, the Department of Natural Resources is carrying on a study of the use and impact of recreational motor vehicles, including the three-wheel ATV.

Those who have further questions regarding the landowner survey may contact: Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, Trails & Waterways Unit, Box 52, Centennial Building, St. Paul, MN 55155-1679.

As you take a seemingly solitary stroll in a typical one-acre field, you may be watched by as many as 40 million ants, beetles, wasps and other insects, says "International Wildlife" magazine. The eyes of 100 mice, a squirrel, some rabbits, a few songbirds and maybe a hawk circling overhead might also be watching you.

NOT ALL OF the cars entered in the International Fifty 567 Club car show held Saturday on LaBree Avenue in Thief River Falls, were completely original. Tilt front end on this 1955 Chevrolet sedan delivery, owned by John Noakes of Winnipeg, Manitoba, gave it a wild appearance but also contributed toward its being chosen as the best 1955 model. With membership in the club limited to owners of 1955, 56 and 57 Chevrolets and Pontiacs, officials note that common admiration of the cars' styling and efforts of the owners usually over-ride any differences they may feel over how the car is personalized.

Agri-Growth Council To Hear Secretary Dole

Elizabeth Hanford Dole, U.S. secretary of transportation and considered one of the most influential women in the Reagan administration, will be the featured speaker at the 1983 annual meeting of the Minnesota Agri-Growth council Monday, November 14, at the Radisson South hotel in Bloomington.

According to Agri-Growth president Russel G. Schwandt, secretary Dole will make her speaking appearance at the evening banquet that traditionally is the final event in the day-long annual meeting.

"The Agri-Growth council," Schwandt stated, "is proud to be the first organization in the Upper Midwest to obtain Secretary Dole for a major appearance in this region of the country." Schwandt said the council worked for six months to obtain a confirmation on the Dole appearance. The organization worked closely with Senator Rudy Boschwitz in obtaining Dole's commitment.

Secretary Dole, who is married to Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, became the eighth secretary of transportation on Feb. 7, 1983. She is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Duke university and a former member of the federal trade commission. Prior to being named to head of the U.S. department of transportation, Mrs. Dole was a White House assistant to President Reagan for public liaison.

Secretary Dole's appearance will mark the second major member of the Reagan administration who have headlined Agri-Growth events. Secretary of agriculture John Block was the featured speaker at the group's 1981 annual meeting.

The Agri-Growth council's November 14 annual meeting is open to both members and non-members associated with Minnesota's agricultural industry. Information and advance registration for the meeting and the speaking appearance by Secretary Dole can be obtained by contacting the Agri-Growth Council, 2850 Metro Drive, Bloomington, MN 55420 or calling 612-854-1665.

The Minnesota Agri-Growth council is the umbrella trade association representing Minnesota's agriculture industry from the farmer's field through the processor to the consumer's dinner table.

Home Missions Homecoming At Ev. Covenant

Several mission workers with Thief River Falls roots will be featured at a "Home Missions Homecoming" scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Evangelical Covenant church in Thief River Falls. Host pastor is Rev. Donald Peres.

Special emphasis will be placed on several areas of mission work with "Timber Bay Night" on Friday, "Wilderness Night" on Saturday and "Indian Night" on Sunday.

Featured at the opening program at 7 p.m. Friday will be Mark and Wayne Thyren and Steve Erickson of the Timber Bay outreach program headquartered in Bemidji. Mark Thyren has served as area director for Youth Investment Foundation at Bemidji for the past 10 years. His work is with young people experiencing conflict in home, school and community.

Young people referred to Youth Investment by several agencies are taken to Timber Bay camp where they are introduced to religious attitudes and experiences. After their return from camp, they are followed up with a program of Bible studies, discipleship groups, prayer groups and other activities. The Thyrens and Erickson also spent time in chemical dependency counseling.

Following the Friday night session, coffee will be served and a fellowship period will be conducted.

Jim Koch of Thief River Falls will speak at the 7 p.m. service Saturday. He is involved with the American Missionary fellowship and the building of Camp Wilderness in the Grygla area. Participants may attend the fellowship hour following the service at which they can make their own ice cream sundaes.

Koch will speak at the 8:30 a.m. service Sunday and missionaries will teach at the 9:45 a.m. Sunday school session. Dennis Anderson of St. Hilaire will speak at the 11 a.m. worship service.

Sunday evening Anderson will be guest speaker at the Indian night program. He is involved with the Northern Canada Evangelical mission headquartered at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan. Fellowship period will follow with coffee being served.

State Row Crops Nearing Maturity

By the end of the week, when the prolonged spell of hot, dry weather appeared to be coming to an end, row crops were already approaching maturity, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service.

Most of the corn crop will soon be out of danger from frost. However, corn borer damage is widespread and reports of stalk breakage and ear droppage continue to come in from areas that have had windstorms. Corn producers are afraid that if harvest is delayed or if there is a lot of wind, yield losses will climb sharply.

Soybeans are also maturing rapidly; some very limited combining has begun in the west central district but most beans have at least a week or two before harvest begins. In some of the southern-most counties, short plants with pods near the ground are expected to present problems at harvest time. A localized wooly-bear caterpillar infestation in Pipestone county was damaging soybean plants before it was controlled by aerial insecticide spraying.

Rainfall during the week followed the pattern of previous weeks and continued to be sparse in a belt from Moorhead through Staples and in southwestern counties. In these areas, topsoil moisture is generally short to very short. Last-crop haying was still active in much of the dairy region. Plowing of stubble fields and PIK land was very active.

Topsoil moisture as of September 9 was rated eight per cent very short, 18 per cent short, 67 per cent adequate and seven per cent surplus. An average of five days were suitable for field work during the week.

An estimated 99 per cent of field corn has reached or passed the dough stage compared with 96 per cent for the five-year average. Denting or beyond at 88 per cent compares with last year's 69 per cent and the five-year average of 70 per cent. Maturity stands at 20 per cent versus six per cent last year and 11 per cent for the five-year average. Field corn for silage is 14 per cent harvested versus seven per cent for the five-year average. Field corn condition is rated 11 per cent poor, 48 per cent fair, 38 per cent good and three per cent excellent.

Soybeans are 74 per cent turning yellow compared with 64 per cent a year ago and 69 per cent for the five-year average. An estimated 21 per cent of soybean plans are shedding leaves versus 13 per cent last year and 25 per cent for the five-year average. Soybeans are rated six per cent poor, 43 per cent fair, 49 per cent good, and two per cent excellent.

Dropping of sunflower petals has reached 93 per cent compared with 79 per cent for both 1982 and the five-year average. Sunflower bracts are 71 per cent turning yellow or beyond and 28 per cent turning brown; five-year average are 59 per cent and 30 per cent, respectively.

Winter wheat and winter rye seedings for 1984 are 60 per cent and 56 per cent complete, respectively; five-year averages are 44 per cent for winter wheat and 41 per cent for rye. Fall tillage of small grain and hay stubble is 63 per cent complete versus 48 per cent for the five-year average. Dry edible beans are 17 per cent harvested compared with nine per cent a year ago. Flax at 63 per cent harvested compares with the five-year average of 35 per cent. Potatoes are 16 per cent harvested versus 13 per cent for the five-year average. Sweet corn for processing is 88 per cent harvested compared with the five-year average of 77 per cent.

WEATHER failed to cooperate for the final flea market of the year at Floyd B. Olson Park in Thief River Falls on Saturday, with cold blustery winds keeping many shoppers' hands in their pockets and rain finally forcing sellers to close up and take down their displays. However, the first few times that showers threatened, flea marketers merely broke out the plastic sheeting, with the more determined continuing business as usual.

GOSPEL MUSICIAN Mark Johnson of Detroit Lakes will be in concert September 25 at the Best Western Inn at 7:30 p.m. Johnson and his wife Janalee have recently completed a three-month, coast-to-coast tour, singing and speaking at street meetings and churches of various denominations.

Task Force Is Appointed For Jobs Program

A nine-member task force has been appointed as an advisory group for Minnesota's $70 million jobs program.

Appointments were announced recently by Minnesota emergency employment development (MEED) program coordinator Joe Samargia. Task force members will serve for the duration of the two-year program, which began July 1.

Samargia, who will chair the group, said the task force members are: Barbara Beerhalter, commissioner, department of economic security; Mark Dayton, commissioner, department of energy and economic development; Steve Keefe, commissioner, department of labor and industry; Len Levine, commissioner, department of public welfare; Jeff Farmer, Minnesota AFL-CIO labor coordinator, who will represent labor interests; Patrick McFarland, executive director-chief operating officer, Anoka County Community Action Program, Inc., who will represent non-profit employers; Paula Mannillo, co-owner, Northland lodge, Leech Lake, and business consultant for Growth Ventures, Inc., who will represent the business sector; and Michael Gunderson, employment and training director, Arrowhead economic opportunity agency, who will represent MEED employment administrators.

The MEED legislation states that Samargia and the four department heads will serve on the task force and required Samargia to appoint the remaining members.

MEED program, enacted by the 1983 legislature to provide approximately 12,500 jobs over the next two years, subsidizes a worker's wages for up to $4 an hour for up to six months.

Samargia said that to date 690 persons have been hired by private and public sector employers under the program. "Our objective is to have 4,000 Minnesotans employed by November 1," he said. "In the weeks ahead, we expect an acceleration in number of workers coming on board the program."

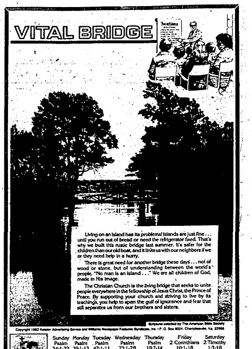
VITAL BRIDGE



Living on an island has its problems! Islands are just fine . . . until you run out of bread or need the refrigerator fixed. That's why we built this rustic bridge last summer. It's safer for the children than our old boat, and it links us with our neighbors if we or they need help in a hurry.

There is great need for another bridge these days . . . not of wood or stone, but of understanding between the world's people. "No man is an island . . ." We are all children of God, made in His image.

The Christian Church is the living bridge that seeks to unite people everywhere in the fellowship of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace. By supporting your church and striving to live by its teachings, you help to span the gulf of ignorance and fear that still separates us from our brothers and sisters.

PRIZE-WINNING PEANUT RECIPES

Every cook, amateur and professional, loves a recipe contest. From state fairs to gourmet competitions, chefs have long relished experimenting with various ingredients and sharing their favorite dishes. The prize at the end of the contest may be a blue ribbon or a cash award, but the simple satisfaction of pleasing the palate is often reward enough.

Peanuts and peanut butter have always been prizewinners with children and adults with peanut butter passions. And now chefs from around the country have also turned on to the crunch and flavor of peanuts. Over the last year, the Peanut Advisory Board has sponsored several contests asking chefs and amateur cooks to be creative with peanuts. The prize-winning recipes from these contests will be coming to you this fall in the form of a new recipe booklet called "PRIZE-WINNING PEANUT RECIPES."

Enjoy the winning ways of peanuts and peanut butter by sending 50¢ to Winning Recipes, Peanut Advisory Board, P.O. Box 7528, Tifton, GA 31793. In the meantime, enjoy this recipe for Peanut Chicken Dijon.

PEANUT CHICKEN DIJON

8 tablespoons butter
5 tablespoons Dijon mustard
3 chicken breasts, boned, skinned, split and pounded thin
1 1/2 cups finely chopped salted cocktail peanuts
3 tablespoons peanut oil
1 cup sour cream
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

In a saucepan over medium heat, melt 6 tablespoons butter. Whisk in 3 tablespoons mustard until smooth. Dip chicken breasts in mustard mixture, then coat completely with chopped peanuts. In a large skillet, over medium heat, melt remaining butter. Stir in oil. Add chicken breasts, three at a time, and saute 3 minutes on each side or until done. Remove and keep warm. Repeat with remaining chicken breasts. Discard butter and oil and any dark brown peanuts that remain. Add sour cream and remaining mustard to skillet. Stir in parsley, salt and pepper. Stir until smooth and sauce is heated through. Spoon a portion of sauce over each chicken breast.

Makes 6 servings.

Eager To Take Offense

As many people as profess a strong dislike for Howard Cosell, a surprising number are springing to his defense in a recent incident where he has been charged with racial bias. Most of his "defenders" are willing to list the uncomplimentary things they believe Howard is, but bigoted is not one of those non-attributes.

Cosell, it should be noted for the record, was taken to task by some leaders among black Americans for referring to a small but talented NFL pass receiver as "a little monkey" in commenting on the athlete's play. Apparently that ruffled the feathers (no offense to birds intended) of some folks looking for a cause to defend and the feud was on.

The Grand Forks Herald editor noted that "For anyone to see such a description as a racist derogation is really stretching things. Anyone who has not called a mischievous but lovable child (or been personally called; a monkey is lacking in something. There are a lot of other animals which, if applied to someone, might seem an insulting description. But I cannot imagine anyone taking offense at Cosell's use of the term 'monkey' in the way he used it.

"It seems to me that people are going out of their way to find evidence that other people are proved, by their speech, to be racist, sexist or otherwise bigoted. In 99 per cent of the cases no offense is meant and none is warranted... In fact, I believe that those who search another's speech for such imaginary prejudice are more offensive than the person they criticize..."

Publisher Dane Nordine of the North Star News at Karlstad adds to that assessment when he notes: "We recall one time writing in this column about sports at Northland community college in Thief River Falls. We suggested that perhaps they should do more of their recruiting for athletes in the home area rather than in states miles and miles from here. Guess we were suggesting they'd do better in public relations by recruiting here even if they didn't do as well on the athletic field.

"The week after that column came out, we got an unsigned letter calling us a racist. Racism was absolutely the furthest thing from our mind when we wrote the article, but we couldn't help but feel that the person who wrote the unsigned letter must have had some very strong racist feelings."

There have been several other examples in the past few years where public officials have made comments or repeated stories which would be accepted with a chuckle and without a second thought almost anywhere, but where they have been taken to task when the comments or stories have been construed as racist, sexist, demeaning or whatever.

Most recent (up to this writing, at least) was the President's suggestion that it is time for people to "get off their kiesters" and show initiative. It is an innocent figure of speech, well-intentioned and certainly widely used in common conversation. Lo and behold, some congressman comes out of the woodwork to demand an apology (and merciful heavens, to get one!) because the town of Kiester in his district is offended by the remark.

We suppose that if the President had chosen to tell people to get off what most other people would tell them to get off, there would be religious indignation about demeaning a beast of burden which transported the object of their faith to the city of his crucifixion. Any other substitute term would draw complaint from residents of any city called Pratt, and person named Duff, former secretary of agriculture Earl Butts (or was that Butz), etc., etc.

We think that people are a little too willing to leave their nerve endings exposed in the hope that someone will rub them and they can complain about the pain. There are too many important things to be done and too many large problems to be solved to get caught up in the magnification of insignificant, unintentioned and generally harmless conversational comments. It takes small people (no offense against stature intended) to make a big thing out of an offhand remark. We agree that those eager to be offended are more offensive than the offenders.

Small Change

Following thoughts are from Patrick J. Moore:

Meaningful change comes from within. It starts at the ground level and grows up from there. Meaningful change is manifested in our daily lives, in our values and lifestyles, in how we win the basic necessities of food, shelter and clothing. By the time something gets to the level of political change it is watereddown and artificial, full of human vanity and pride, tenuous and temporary.

Chalk it up to good ol' human nature, fickle and fanciful as ever, that we are always looking outwards for the changes and solutions that have to start with ourselves. I'm not talking about political change, I'm not asking for more local control, no, I'm talking about the basic need for changes in our collective sense of decency and respect. Decency and respect for ourselves, for other human beings, and for our environment.

Perpich's Inward Vision

Minnesota Gov. Rudy Perpich continues to mystify us by selecting a majority of his appointments to committees and commissions from the Minneapolis-St. Paul seven-county metropolitan area.

The most glaring example of this is the Minnesota Tax Commission, which is charged with making a thorough review of state and local taxes in Minnesota and to recommend a complete overhaul of the system by December 1984.

Taxes press heavily on the pocketbook of every taxpayer in Minnesota. In view of Minnesota's unenviably high position on the tax list of states in the nation, changes will have to be made if the individual and the corporate tax climate of the state is going to be eased.

So the State Tax Commission has an important task ahead, and the word is that its recommendations for drawing the confusing, unfair and burdensome taxing system into an orderly system will have great impact.

Thus, it would seem that knowledgeable citizens in all parts of the state should provide their input and views on how to accomplish this. The taxing situation is not the same throughout Minnesota. What occurs on the Iron Range is different from that on the North Dakota border, and agricultural taxes are quite remote from the most urban neighborhood in Minneapolis.

But that was apparently not the governor's thinking when he put together the tax commission. Of the 16 members of the original commission, 14 are from the Twin Cities area. This week, two members who resigned, one from Hibbing and one from Edina, were replaced by one from St. Paul and one from Anoka, to narrow the difference further.

Politically, the makeup of the original committee is nine DFLers, one Independent Republican and six independents. The chairman is St. Paul Mayor George Latimer, not famed for his knowledge of rural Minnesota.

It is not surprising that a governor packs his committees and commissions with members of his own party, although it should be pointed out that Perpich's predecessor, Independent-Republican Al Quie, included people from the DFL persuasion for his appointments.

How 14 metropolitan area members of a 16-member committee can know or even be able to research the tax characteristics of the number of regions in the state is hard to visualize. How much more efficient, informative and equitable it would be for citizens from all parts of the state to join together in this important effort, particularly when taxes, raised to resolve the state's budget deficit, are hurting so many Minnesotans.

While this commission is perhaps the most flagrant example of metropolitanitis, the governor has neglected the outside on his many other committees as well. It might be added that there are only one or two appointments from Moorhead or Clay County, and Moorhead is one of the key cities in northwestern Minnesota.

The work of commissions which are weighted heavily with Twin Cities members does not reflect Minnesota, with its vast variety of influences and interests such as farming and dairying, mining, tourism, forestry, shipping vocational education, native Americans, hunting and fishing. Even Main Street small business is not quite the same as small business in Minneapolis-St. Paul and its environs.

We urge the governor to look north, south and west when making his appointments. Minnesota knowledge and experience is not all found in the Twin Cities.

Borrowed Nonsense:

"If there are seven flies on your desk and you swat one," the math teacher asked, "how many flies would remain?"

KIWANIS INTERNATIONAL

To honor the volunteer commitment by over 300,000 members in 8,000 clubs in 78 nations, Kiwanis International President John T. Roberts lent support by purchasing $1,000 worth of the US Postal Service "Volunteer, lend a hand" commemorative stamps.

A survey, conducted by the organization, recently revealed that this is the average time donation of each member. Additionally, more than $35 million in cash was raised through fund-raising activities throughout the world this year.

The entire K-family includes two coed youth affiliates, Circle K International and Key Club International. Circle K is a college service group of 9,000 members in 800 clubs. Key Club's 107,000 members are active in 3,500 high schools.

U.S. Senator

Rudy Boschwitz reports to Minnesota

The U.S. Department of Commerce estimates that at least 20,000 businesses in this country could export their goods and services but do not. In fact, only one per cent of American manufacturers account for over 80 per cent of our exports. That's too bad.

It is imperative that small businesses become more active exporters because the U.S. now faces record trade deficits. We are all aware of the contributions small business makes to the U.S. economy in terms of jobs and innovative technology. So, it should be an easy step for small businesses to export; however, it is not. Export financing has not been readily available. Small businesses have the potential to be leading contributors in U.S. exports if they had better access to competitive financing.

As chairman of the Senate Small Business Subcommittee on Export Promotion, I introduced an amendment to make more financing available for small business exports. My amendement would give them a better shot at securing export financing through programs of the Export-Import Bank. Because ExIm is the primary federal export financing agency, small business must be allowed adequate, effective participation in its programs. Currently, only 3 per cent of ExIm's financing goes to small business. And, ExIm does business with only about 300 banks — out of some 15,000 banks in the country. It's clear that there is a need to change ExIm's programs, so that they are more accessible to small business.

Small business exporters want to export and compete. They can compete in those areas where they excel — quality, service, and price. But they can't compete against subsidized export financing offered to their foreign competitors by foreign governments. Given ExIm's refusal to finance small business exports, direct action is needed. We must get ExIm to finance more small business exports — this will mean more jobs.

When the Senate Banking Committee considered the Export-Import Bank bill (S. 869), it recognized the importance of small business exporters by accepting two small business amendments. One requires ExIm to create a program that "gives fair consideration to making loans and providing guarantees for the export of goods and services by small business." The other amendment established the position of liaison between ExIm's Board of Directors and the small business community. The Senate Banking Committee also decided to extend ExIm's charter until September 30, 1989.

It is my feeling that these amendments improve the standing of small business with ExIm, but they don't provide the immediate access to export financing that is needed now. The admendment I introduced will require ExIm to readily finance small business exports.

First, ExIm must establish a small business setaside for FY 84 equal to 10 per cent of the aggregate direct loan, guaranteed loan and insurance levels provided in appropriations acts. The setaside will increase one per cent for each fiscal year for the next five years until it equals 15 per cent.

Second, ExIm would be required to develop a program to provide lines of credit or guarantees to any combination of small and medium sized banks, export trading companies, state finance companies and export financing institutions. Such a consortia would use the line of credit or guarantee to finance small business exports as one way to meet the requirements of the seaside. The costs and responsibilities for processing, servicing and credit evaluation would be shared by the consortia and ExIm.

Thief, ExIm would be required to promote small business exports and its small business export financing programs in cooperation with the Department of Commerce, through mailings, education seminars and the like. The Small Business Administration (SBA) and the private sector should also be actively involved in this effort. ExIm would work with small business organizations, state agencies, chambers of commerce, banking organizations, export management companies and export trading companies to promote its programs.

Finally, my amendment would require ExIm to report annually to the Congress in general, and the Small Business Committee specifically, on how the program is working, what ExIm has done to promote its small business programs and how to get more small businesses and local banks involved in ExIm financing. This report will provide the information needed to evaluate the program and increase small business exports.

ExIm's charter must be renewed by September 30, so the Senate will consider my amendment this month. Since I first introduced my amendment nearly 20 Senators have cosponsored it. I will continue to seek support for my amendment so small business will win the fight for better access to export financing.

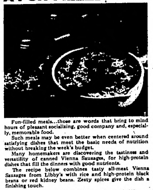
A FUN-FILLED MEAL



Fun-filled meals...those are words that bring to mind hours of pleasant socializing, good company and, especially, memorable food.

Such meals may be even better when centered around satisfying dishes that meet the basic needs of nutrition without breaking the week's budget.

Many homemakers are discovering the tastiness and versatility of canned Vienna Sausages, for high-protein dishes that fill the dinners with good nutrients.

The recipe below combines tasty all-meat Vienna Sausages from Libby's with rice and high-protein black beans or red kidney beans. Zesty spices give the dish a finishing touch.

VIENNA SAUSAGE WITH RICE AND BEANS

1/4 cup olive oil
1 medium onion, chopped
1 small green pepper, chopped
1 can (5 oz.) Libby's Vienna Sausage, drained
1 can (15 oz.) black beans or red kidney beans, drained
2 beef bouillon cubes, dissolved in 1-1/2 cups boiling water
4 cups cooked white rice
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon ground cumin
Salt and pepper to taste

Sauté onion and green pepper in oil in a large saucepan until onion is golden color. Cut each sausage in 3 pieces. Add with remaining ingredients to pan. Mix well. Cover and cook over low heat until beans are as tender as you like. Makes 6 economical, delicious servings.

To obtain other economical canned meats recipes, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Kathy Goles, LIBBY'S C.M. Recipes, Chicago, IL 60643.

Creamery At Goodridge Notes 75th Anniversary

LONG-TIME PATRON of the Farmers Co-op Creamery in Goodridge is Albert Grabowska (left), who has been selling milk to the creamery for more than 30 years. He milks about 25 cows and ships milk to the creamery in 10-gallon cans. The creamery is one of only four in northern Minnesota accepting milk in cans, and will continue to do so until at least July 1, 1985, when new milkhouse regulations become effective, according to Orlin Hanson (right), office manager of the creamery. This visit took place during the creamery's 75th anniversary open house last Thursday.

One of only four creameries in northern Minnesota still receiving milk in 10-gallon cans, Farmers Co-op Creamery association of Goodridge observed its 75th anniversary with an open house and dinner Thursday at the creamery.

According to Orlin Hanson, office manager for the cooperative for the past 17 years, only the creameries at Goodridge, Leonard, Erskine and Rindahl in northern Minnesota still accept milk in cans. Goodridge creamery also serves as a buyer of bulk milk but is not involved in pickup or delivery. It is picked up at the farm and trucked to Fosston for processing there and the creamery at Goodridge handles the bookkeeping.

Hanson said the milk volume of the creamery is now about 40,000 pounds a day, including about 30,000 picked up at the farms in bulk and another 10,000 pounds brought to the creamery and picked up by the bulk truck there. In 1982 the creamery handled a total of 6,277,000 pounds of milk and this year (the fiscal year ends September 30) the volume will be over eight million pounds. In 1984 Hanson looks for increase in volume to about 11 million. June of this year was the creamery's first million-pound month.

Like most of the rural creameries, Farmers Co-op Creamery at Goodridge ran into financial difficulties in the 1950's. There was a period of 10 to 12 years when the cooperative showed no earnings on its operations and there was talk of closing. In 1962 the creamery stopped churning butter and began shipping out the product it collected.

Hanson served on the creamery board for six years and held a firm belief that the creamery should continue to operate. For two years he worked for the cooperative without any salary at all, even donating the use of his truck to haul supplies as the cooperative diversified its operations to include handling of other products.

"If we haven't got it, you don't need it," is the motto of the cooperative now, Hanson said. The creamery handles feeds, seeds, chemicals, fertilizer, twine, tillage equipment, hydraulic equipment, gloves, boots and other items. It owns two portable feed mills for on-farm feed mixing and they are in constant demand by area farmers. A fertilizer spreader for use with dry fertilizer is also owned by the creamery. The co-op even sells butter, milk and ice cream, and if it doesn't have the items you want, the fellows at the creamery will order it for you.

The white frame building on the west side of the highway going through Goodridge is a rather unassuming structure, and it belies the volume of business done there. Last year the creamery had gross sales of $1,371,000 and a net income of $62,000. This year the sales are expected to be well over the $1.5 million mark.

But the impressive thing about the operation is the extremely low overhead. In 1982, the last year for which total figures are available, the operational cost was only $51,000 — a mere two and one-half per cent of gross sales. Included in that $51,000 are all salaries (Orlin's son Dale has been creamery manager the past seven years), insurances, taxes, depreciation, electricity, fuel and related items.

Orlin admits that the salaries are low, but he isn't complaining. "We're farming, too," he explains, "so this isn't our total livelihood." Yet the creamery is open seven days a week much of the year and six days a week for the remainder. Running the operation is certainly a full-time job.

Origin of the creamery goes back to 1906 when the Enterprise Cooperative Creamery association was formed by farmers in Reiner township at the community of Torgerson, located half a mile south and six miles east of Goodridge. Ole Newflat was the first buttermaker and the first members of the cooperative were Anton Knutson, G.T. Helle, Carl Wahlin, Torjus Halvorson, Ole Vraa and John Stenbeck.

The railroad came to Goodridge in 1915 and three

Through the services of a new mobile unit purchased and staffed by Mobile Imaging, Inc., of Fargo, ND, Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls is now able to offer computed tomography (CT) scanning as part of its range of diagnostic services.

Contract has been signed by Northwestern hospital with TNI for the mobile unit to be in Thief River Falls three days a week. The van will be here on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week, arriving the previous evening and available for emergency work if necessary, whenever it is here. The present contract is for a three-year period.

Mobile Imaging was formed as a corporation by six radiologists from the Fargo community — Dr. Dale Shook, Dr. Roger Gilbertson, Dr. Bruce Aaleson, Dr. Richard Marsden, Dr. Cameron Stokka and Dr. Mark Whitman, all of whom have experience in performing and interpreting CT examinations. Dr. Marsden was in Thief River Falls with the unit on its first visit here Friday. The van was parked near the emergency services entrance on the south side of the hospital.

Addition of the CT service to the existing services of x-ray and ultra-sound provides the hospital and the community's medical staff with the full range of such diagnostic capabilities. Mobile Imaging will also supply the backup radiologic support, as desired by other radiologists of the hospitals served, for education and interpretation.

The CT unit's equipment utilizes precisely directed radiation to take photographic slides of cross-sections of the body. It has many applications in the area of studying the pancreas, spine, spinal canal and brain, as well as other areas of the body. It is used where it can provide information not as well obtainable by normal x-ray or ultra-sound procedures.

At present the unit — which requires an initial investment of $1.1 million will visit Thief River Falls, Crookston and Fergus Falls. A number of other hospitals have also expressed an interest in having the services available and a second unit is expected to be needed. Dr. Marsden said that a unit of this type could logically be expected to be used within a 160 to 180-mile radius of its base location.

Ten years ago CT was a revolutionary advance in medical imaging. Because of the cost, however, it was thought to be applicable only to major medical centers. Over the past decade it has become increasingly evident that it is a vital part of the diagnostic evaluation of multiple disease states, Dr. Marsden noted.

Due to the wide acceptance and importance of CT scanning, it was desirable that smaller hospitals should have ready access to this diagnostic tool. Increasing availability of younger physicians trained in use of CT information in smaller communities made it more desirable to have CT scanning locally available if possible.

Technical Neurological Institute (TNI) of Fargo pioneered CT with its initial installation of a scanner in

City Eligible As Enterprise Zone Finalist

Mayor Bob Carlson announced this morning that he had been notified that Thief River Falls has been recommended by the state department of energy and economic development (DEED) for designation as an enterprise zone, under a program which would provide approximately $400,000 in tax relief for industries located within the designated area.

Notification was received by the mayor in the form of a congratulatory letter from Mark Dayton, commissioner of the department of energy and economic development. The letter noted that Thief River Falls was one of six cities recommended for designation, from a field of 11 applicants. Other cities selected were St. Paul, Mankato, Minneapolis, Mountain Iron and Virginia.

Carlson noted that selection of the cities was made on the basis of two areas in their applications: the establishment of economic hardship, and the city's ability to perform submitted investment activities. With only one city to be designated in each congressional zone, Carlson noted that Thief River Falls has been in direct competition with Little Falls for the selection.

Although the final selection has not yet been made, and remains up to the discretion of Dayton, Carlson expressed optimism, stating, "I don't think there's any doubt that Thief River Falls will be one of the enterprise zones."

Recommendation of the DEED will be reviewed by the legislative advisory committee, which must return its advice and input to Dayton, no later than October 15. Carlson emphasized that the committee has no power to change the recommendation, but merely reviews the application and advises Dayton.

Although his decision is not required until October 31, Dayton indicated in the letter that he intended to make the announcement of the final awards shortly after the committee recommendations were returned.

Connie Dahl New Miss Middle River

With every one of the only eight girls in the senior class at Middle River high school participating as candidates, the ninth annual Miss Middle River pageant was conducted before a full house at the school gymnasium there Saturday evening.

Connie Dahl, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dahl, was selected Miss Middle River to succeed Paula Hodne. She will reign over the community's fall Goose Festival activities next weekend, represent Middle River at area events and celebrations and compete in the Miss Thief River Falls pageant next summer.

First runner-up was Diane Black, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Black, and second runner-up was Paula Rantanen, 17, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Rantanen.

Division winners included Paula Rantanen, personal interview; Connie Dahl, swimsuit; Twila Kolden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Kolden, talent; and Diane Black, evening gown. Selected as Miss Congeniality in a vote among the contestants was Vonda Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Peterson. Other candidates were Jody Christofferson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Christofferson; Darlene Veselka, daughter of Donald and Christine Veselka; and Tammy Sorter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luverne Sorter.

Welcome was given by Howard Hodne, president of the Middle River community club, and Phil Scott of Thief River Falls served as master of ceremonies. Entertainment was provided by Bev Rustad, Miss Thief River Falls, and Alice Krueger, Miss Greenbush, as well as the retiring Miss Middle River, Paula Hodne. Candidates for the Miss Middle River title also appeared in two show numbers. Pageant theme was "You're Never Fully Dressed Without a Smile."

As winner of the Miss Middle River title, Connie Dahl receives $200 cash, a crown and trophy from the community club and more than $150 in gifts or gift certificates from cooperating businesses in Middle River and Thief River Falls.

Judges were Natalie Dagen of Karlstad and Dianne Matson, Curt Quesnell, Gary Trogstad and Marvin Lundin of Thief River Falls.

City Council Budget Review Held Tuesday

Thief River Falls city council held a short meeting with department heads last Tuesday night in city auditorium, to review a preliminary budget for 1984, and take care of some routine business.

Major business items included the approval of a permit to allow Lon's restaurant and cocktail lounge to serve alcoholic beverages in the sports arena for the Ducks Unlimited banquet on Monday. This was the first such permit issued under a new ordinance permitting liquor in city owned buildings.

Preliminary budget review was presented by city finance officer Roger DeLap. He noted that if the city levied the maximum amount of $327,791 the city should be able to eliminate its current $31,734 budget deficit, and end up with a positive balance of approximately $24,000. However, he noted that a five per cent increase in employee wages could leave the fund with approximately a $24,000 deficit.

City council will have to adopt the levy by October 10, so department heads and committee members were instructed to take the preliminary budget into account as they prepare their budgets for the coming year.

In other business, the council approved hiring Terry Cork on a six month probationary basis to replace Hazel Cloutier, who resigned under the early retirement program; approved paying a $53,719.39 bill from Nelson Plumbing for improvements to the water plant; and heard that negotiations with Roseau county for use of their landfill were proceeding, with an interest expressed in trying out a crawler loader which the city of Thief River Falls has for sale.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Dawn Anderson Weds Mike Knoll At Warren

Dawn Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Anderson of Viking, became the bride of Michael Knoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Knoll of Warren at a 3:00 p.m., ceremony on July 23 at Zion Lutheran church at Warren.

Rev. John Klieve officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 350 relatives and friends. Sheila Nelson was the organist and Wendy Blazejewski, the soloist. Acolytes were Kim and Kelly Olson, friends of the couple.

Forming the chancel setting were candelabras, with greenery and babies' breath, and baskets of white gladioli accented with light blue carnations. Bows in white and light blue marked the pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white organza gown styled in empire fashion with a bouffant skirt bordered with multi-tiered organza ruffles. Re-embroidered Chantilly lace, seed pearls and iridescents outlined the Queen Anne neckline, trimmed the lantern sleeves and graced the skirt which flowed into a semi-cathedral length train. Her headpiece, a Victorian hat trimmed with Venise lace, was turned up in back by a bouffant bow of bridal illusion. She carried a cascade of yellow and white roses with blue tipped carnations, sweetheart roses and daisies, accented with stephanotis, babies' breath and blue and white ribbon streamers.

Maid of honor was Denise Helm, Newfolden, a friend of the bride. Other attendants were Gloria Anderson, Viking, a sister-in-law of the bride; Tammy Hanson, Minneapolis, a friend of the bride, and Jenny and Becky Knoll, Warren, sisters of the groom. All wore light blue spaghetti strapped gowns featuring off-the-shoulder flounce and bustle-back effect. In their hair they wore a cluster of light blue baby carnations and babies' breath. They carried white lace fans topped by flowers similar to those in the bride's bouquet.

Wearing similar attire and carrying a miniature fan arrangement was the flower girl, Tiffany Saunders, Grand Forks, N.D., a cousin of the groom. The rings were carried by Eric Knoll, Warren, a brother of the groom. Like the groom, he was attired in a white tuxedo with tails, white shirt and bow tie and a blue rose boutonniere.

Best man was Bruce Laymon, Warren, a cousin of the groom. Kevin and Mike Anderson, Viking, brothers of the bride, Greg Knoll, Warren, a brother of the groom, and Lyndon Schultz, Red Lake Falls, a friend of the groom, were groomsmen. Serving as ushers were Scott Anderson, Viking, brother of the bride, and Brian Laymon, Warren, a cousin of the groom. All wore navy blue tuxedos with light blue wing-tipped shirts and navy bow ties.

The mother of the bride wore a blue street length dress complemented by a rose corsage. A similar corsage was worn by the groom's mother, who was attired in a blue long-sleeved, street-length dress. Their flowers at the wedding were made by Linda Helgeland.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson, Viking, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Aasand, Argyle, grandparents of the bride; Mary Flaten, Stephen; great-grandmother of the bride; Lucy Knoll, Warren, grandmother of the groom; Jeanne Horter, Thief River Falls, great-grandmother of the groom; and the bride's personal attendants: Denise Haug, Grafton, cousin of the bride, and Tami Swan, Newfolden, a friend of the bride.

Hosts and hostesses at the reception were Lorne and Marlene Johnson, godparents of the bride; and Maynard and JoAnn Laymon, godparents of the groom. Angela Rabenhorst registered the guests and Richard and Tawna McGregor served the punch.

The pillared, three-tiered wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Clarence Moiskness of Thief River Falls, was flanked on either side by round cakes connected by stairways with miniature replicas of the bridal party on the steps. At the base was a flowing water fountain. Blue roses trimmed the cake which was cut and served by Phyllis Jorgenson, Warren, aunt of the bride, and Carmen Olson, Warren, aunt of the groom. Dorothy Malm, Fergus Falls, aunt of the bride, poured the coffee.

Gift bearers were Julie Knoll, sister of the groom, and Donna Laymon, a cousin of the groom. Waitresses were Connie Aasand, Debbie and Vicki Johnson, Lynette Jorgenson and Tammy Haug, cousins of the bride. Pinning flowers were Leigh Veasley, Candy Passer, Jason Torgerson and Ken Johnson. At the gift table was Rebecca Malm, cousin of the bride. Becky Aasland, another cousin of the bride, distributed the wedding programs. Serving the reception were the women of the Immanuel Lutheran ladies aid of Radium.

Following a wedding trip to Union Lake, the couple is at home in rural Thief River Falls. The bride is a graduate of Marshall County Central high school, Newfolden, and the Thief River Falls AVTI, sales and marketing. She is employed at Elaine's. The groom is a graduate of Warren high school and the East Grand Forks AVTI. He is engaged in farming. Photo, Hofstad Photo, Plummer.

Local Venture Is Outlined At BPW Club Meet

Information on Project Heritage Design, a new-non-profect venture in this community, was presented at the dinner-meeting of the Thief River Falls Business and Professional Women's (BPW) club held Tuesday at the Best Western.

Representing the venture were Milly Dallmann, general manager, and Mary Follett, design manager. It was noted that the purpose of the venture is to provide employment for area women unable to seek work outside the home. They also displayed samples of various quilts which will be made and marketed throughout the United States.

Diana Josephson, first vice president and chairman of the program committee introduced the guest speakers.

President Edie Brandll presided at the meeting and called for reports from the standing committeemen: Mary Johnson, finance; Anita Paulson, legislation; Clarice Gallihor, scholarship; Lova Kraemer, Business Women's week; Pat Thompson, membership; Marilyn Winters, public relations; Ellen Spray, foundation; Lydia Dahlen, sunshine; Lois Janes, emblem; and Vicky Erickson, parliamentarian. Vicky Erickson also volunteered to serve as historian for the year.

Welcomed into the club as a new member was Lois Janes, who is employed at Norwest bank. Maxine Motrom, instructor in the cosmetology department at the local AVTI, was a guest.

Announcement was made that the district meeting will be held October 9 at Fergus Falls.

Mrs. Kraemer announced that in observance of National Business woman's week, Edie Brandll and Anita Paulson will appear on Coffee Time on October 13, promoting the Business and Professional Women's club. She also announced that the Women of the Year will be selected at the October 18th meeting of the club.

Working women occupy the same relative earnings position compared to men as in years past, averaging about $6 for every $10 earned by men, according to "Women at Work: A Chartbook," published by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Tollefson And LeMoine Vows Said At St. Hilaire

Darla Sue Tollefson and John Patrick LeMoine exchanged marriage vows at 4:00 p.m., Saturday, June 18, at Calvary Lutheran church, St. Hilaire.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Tollefson, Red Lake Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard LeMoine, Thief River Falls.

The traditional wedding march was played as the bride was escorted to the altar by her parents. The couple was given in marriage by their parents. During the ceremony, long-stemmed roses were given to the mothers.

Lona Tollefson, Red Lake Falls, attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Stephanie LeMoine, sister of the groom, and Jeannie Gustafson. Jennifer Heroff, White Bear Lake, a niece of the bride, as flower girl.

Best man was Jon Furuseth, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Lance Tollefson, Red Lake Falls, a brother of the bride, and Gary Mosbeck, Red Lake Falls, a friend of the couple. Seth Martell, a nephew of the groom, carried the rings.

Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Giles, Osnabrock, N.D., the bride's godmother and her husband. The bride's personal attendants were Natalie Swanson and Sylvia Nilson.

Host couples at the wedding and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Heroff, White Bear Lake and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Harbott, brothers-in-law and sisters of the bride and groom, respectively. Jodie Helt, a sister of the groom, was at the guest book. The gifts were carried by Todd and Cindy Tollefson, Glyndon, nephew and niece of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Tollefson, Glyndon, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, were at the gift table. Ladling punch were Ramona Sjovall, Karlstad, and Terri Hangaleben, McIntosh, friends of the bride.

The wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Vernon Wold, was cut and served by Linda Mireault, Hugo, sister of the bride, and Mary Martell, sister of the groom. At the coffee service were Renae Tollefson, Circle Pines, sister-in-law of the bride, and Susan LeMoine, sister-in-law of the groom. Waitresses were Kara LeMoine, niece of the groom, Stacy Tollefson, Glyndon, niece of the bride, and Brenda and Laurie Huot, St. Hilaire, friends of the bride.

September meeting of the Moccasin Garden club will be held Tuesday at 7:00 p.m., at the Joan Nelson home.

On the agenda will be the collection of state and district dues. Roll call will be answered by naming the favorite month and why.

The last meeting of the club was held at the Alice Lendobeja home with Olga Nelson presiding. At that meeting, final plans were made for the flower show. Eva Lendobeja gave the secretary's report. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Informational Job Seminar Planned At NCC

This fall Northland community college will be offering a job information seminar, which has been designed to aid individuals who are interested in conducting a thorough job search or are considering retraining.

Some of the topics covered will include: self-awareness, comprehensive resume and letter writing skills, plan for generating interviews, interview skills, negotiation considerations, identification of career and industry options, contacts and job openings, marketing assessment, "helping agencies", job campaign and personal support groups.

While the course was designed in response to the needs of those groups of individuals who have been displaced by current economic conditions, it is also applicable to all potential graduates of colleges and technical schools and to the under-employed.

Current format of presentation include: lecture, group activity, audio-visual, guest speakers, interest aptitude testing, referral and home activities.

Ultimate purpose of the seminar is to provide the emotional and physical background to conduct an individual career decision making process through a realistic and sensitive approach.

Class will meet Wednesday to Friday, October 26 to 28 and Wednesday and Thursday, November 2 and 3 from 6 to 10 p.m., at Northland community college, room B37.

Instructors are Pat Ueland and Mike Petek. Fee for the seminar is $5. For more information or to register, call Northland community college at 681-2181.

Professor To Speak On Early Childhood

Dr. Dan Gartrell, director of the child development training program and professor of early childhood at Bemidji state university, will be the guest speaker at a reception honoring the Northwest chapter of the Minnesota association for the education of young children (NwMnAEYC).

The reception will be held at the Northwest regional development center, 425 Woodland avenue, Crookston, on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Membership in MnAEYC is not required for attendance, only an interest in young children.

Ose Is Chosen Commended Student Here

David Ose, a senior at Lincoln high school, has been designated a commended student in the 1984 National merit scholarship program. He placed in the top five per cent of over one million participants in the 29th annual merit program. Although commended students will not receive further consideration for merit scholarships, each has demonstrated unusual academic promise and will be honored with a letter of commendation.

HAPPY 34th
BIRTHDAY

Love You

KISS YOUR BABY MONTH is being promoted nationally by the Jaycee Women organization as part of their cystic fibrosis awareness project. The objective of the special act is for parents to find if their child's skin has an excessively salty taste — one of the symptoms of the inherited respiratory and degenerative disease. If such a condition is noted, a medical check-up is advised. While there is no cure for the disease, there are treatments which can often extend life many years beyond previous life expectancy. Demonstrating for the above photo are Mrs. Debbra Swanson, President of the Jaycee Women chapter in Thief River Falls, and son Trevor Joseph who was born September 20 at Northwestern hospital.

Hume Member Of Sorority

Connie Hume, Thief River Falls, was among 14 UND students who recently became pledge members of Delta Delta Delta at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

Delta Delta Delta is a national social sorority and is one of eight sororities on the university campus.

MCC Students Score High In Math Testing

Marshall County Central (MCC) school's fourth and eighth grade student scored higher than average in basic mathematics testing conducted during spring quarter through the Minnesota educational assessment program.

Tests are designed to measure group and individual performance on everyday mathematics skills, in order to identify strengths and weaknesses so that appropriate instruction programs could be designed. Testing was done as part of the PER (planning-evaluating and reporting) project.

Twelve areas of measurement in the tests were: (1) solving word problems, (2) applying math and money, (3) applying math and travel, (4) estimation and prediction, (5) number facts and numeration, (6) computation with whole numbers, (7) common fractions, (8) decimal fractions, (9) geometry, (10) measurement in customary units, (11) measurement in metric units, and (12) interpreting graphs and tables.

MCC fourth graders had a 87.7 per cent accuracy score on the 12 objectives, compared to a Minnesota average score of 81.6 per cent and an average score of 82.3 per cent for the 40 schools in the Northwest educational cooperative service unit (ECSU). Eighth graders at MCC had an average score of 83.2 per cent correct while the Minnesota average was 74.9 per cent and the 40 ECSU schools averaged 75 per cent.

MCC fourth graders showed a positive significant difference from state averages in 11 of the 12 areas measured. Metric unit measurement was the only area where they scored the same as the state average. Eigth graders at MCC showed a very significant positive difference in the area of metric measurement, however, which school officials attribute to more instructional emphasis on metrics during grades five through eight. MCC eighth graders had 10 strength areas and two which were acceptable on the tests.

Testing planned for the 1983-84 PER program will be in the area of writing.

Creamery At Goodridge Has Anniversary

years later the creamery building was skidded across the frozen ground with horses to a site east of the highway in Goodridge. The site is now occupied by the county highway department shed. Al Poppenhagen was president of the cooperative at that time with M.J. Stephenson as secretary. The cooperative was then called the Goodridge Cooperative creamery, later changed to Farmers Cooperative Creamery association.

In 1938 the present building was constructed west of the highway and one of the feed storage sheds was moved from the old site. The cooperative borrowed $3,500 to build the frame structure. Three years ago the building was covered with new siding and new doors and windows were installed. The creamery has storage for 16,000 pounds of milk in refrigerated bulk tanks.

Thursday's open house was attended by 207 registered visitors with wives of the board of directors assisting in serving the dinner.

NW Hospital Has Service Of Mobile Scanner

1978. Meteoric growth of technology soon made the older scanners outdated. As new replacements were made, a potential market developed in less costly second-hand units.

"Investigation of the used units available, and previous experience with early units, indicated that these would not serve the best interest of the hospitals or their patients," Dr. Marsden said. "We felt that state-of-the-art scanning was as important for community hospitals as it was for the larger centers, the used units lacking the quality and capability the medical profession was growing to expect."

A few hospitals then asked about mobilizing a modern scanner which could be cost-shared by several hospitals to make it economically feasible. Formation of Mobile Imaging and construction of the special mobile unit were results of this interest. Mobilizing the scanner is more expensive than basing it in a hospital or clinic, but the ability to share expenses makes it competitive.

A number of advantages of the mobile unit have been cited by hospitals and physicians as follows:

—Physicians and patients are provided with the ability to schedule CT scans locally;

—Availability of CT service should help recruit more young physicians to smaller communities since they are accustomed to availability of the CT as an integral part of their practices;

—Local physicians may more accurately assess the need for referral of a patient to tertiary care facilities;

—Hospitalized patients are saved the costs and inconvenience of ambulance transfer to a scanner location and back — often long distances;

—Well-trained radiologists may enter the CT examinations with available experienced backup as requested;

—CT services can be provided with sophisticated, up to date modern scanning capability rather than compromising on a lower cost but lesser unit installed in the facility.

The van containing the unit is 45 feet long, 13 feet six inches high and eight feet wide. It is specially insulated and lead-lined to meet the rigid specifications for radiological work. It has its own heat and power sources and can be operated independently, although it will usually be connected to a hospital power source. There are hydraulically operated posts at each corner for leveling and the unit is equipped with air ride suspension to reduce jarring during transport. The van is pulled by a new truck-tractor.

With Dr. Marsden during the stop by the van here were Cathy Funovits and Ken Dalen, registered technologists; Wally Simmons, driver; and Beverly Sharkus, applications training specialist for the firm selling the CT equipment. At least one procedure was performed by the team while the van was here Friday.

HANDS CLENCHED tightly together, three senior candidates for homecoming queen at Marshall county central school awaited the moment when one would feel the weight of the crown being placed on her head by last year's queen Debbie Kukowski. As soon as the decision was official the clasped hands turned to embraces, as Shanna Broderson was congratulated by her competitors Nancy Nelson, left and Stacey Gonshorowski.

ANNIVERSARY PLAQUE in the form of a painted milk can cover and congratulatory plaque was presented to Orlin Hanson of the Farmers Cooperative Creamery association of Goodridge Thursday by Orville Hanson of Northern state bank in Thief River Falls. The creamery observed its 75th anniversary with an open house Thursday.

"SHEKINAH" Gospel team from Detroit Lakes will be appearing at the Lifeline Christian center at Newfolden on October 1 at 8 p.m. People of all ages are welcome to attend. The group will also appear in Thief River Falls on November 13.

Bank Staff Seminar Set Here Oct. 5

Minnesota bankers association (MBA) will present its 1983 bank staff seminar entitled "Communication Strategies for the '80s" at the Best Western at Thief River Falls, on October 5.

MBA's annual bank staff seminars are open to all staff, officers, and supervisors who work for member banks. Seminar is designed to address techniques and strategies for improvement of bank staff communication abilities and will be scheduled at 20 locations throughout the state during October 3 and November 10.

Speaker for the 1983 bank staff seminars will be Mary Pat Cvinar, a program director of the Employer Education Service at the University of Minnesota. Cvinar is a frequent speaker on supervision skills, communications, new employee orientation, and on-the-job training program design and delivery.

Minnesota Bankers Association is the professional trade association representing nearly 750 full service Minnesota banks.

Alumni Named To Receive Awards At UMC

Clay county's King Agassiz and UMC's mechanized agriculture instructor are among this year's recipients of the personal achievement and personal service awards, the highest honors the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) gives distinguished alumni.

Awards will be presented at the fourth annual UMC alumni recognition banquet on Friday, October 7 as part of the college's 1983 Homecoming celebration. Social hour begins at 6:30 p.m. followed by a 7 p.m. banquet in the food service building.

Receiving the personal achievement awards are Donald Martodam and Paul Aakre. Martodam is owner and manager of the Clay-Becker implement company of Hawley. He is the 1983-84 Clay county King Agassiz and was president of the Hawley Chamber of Commerce in 1982. A 1969 graduate of UMC he majored in agriculture in the crop production program. He is active on community committees projects, Lions Club, Knights of Columbus, and Viking Heritage Society. He is married to Sandi.

Aakre is a mechanized agriculture instructor at UMC. He received his master of science degree from North Dakota State university in agricultural mechanization and agricultural education. A 1970 UMC graduate he majored in agriculture in the dairy production program. He and his wife Janet are members of the Melo Lutheran church in Angus.

Receiving the personal service awards are Sherry O'Gorman and John "Butch" Schleicher. O'Gorman is an accountant with the William Paradise of Crookston. She has served UMC as its alumni association president from 1981 to 1983 and has been a long-time member of the board of directors. A 1969 graduate she majored in business in the sales and marketing management and small business management programs. She is married to Bill O'Gorman of Crookston.

Schleicher is UMC athletic equipment manager. He is active in the Crookston Jaycees, UMC Booster club, Crookston community theater, and plays Santa Claus each year for the children's center and for staff functions. A 1976 graduate he majored in hotel, restaurant, and institutional management in the restaurant management program.

An added attraction at this year's homecoming celebration is an open house at the White house alumni center on Saturday, October 8, from 11:30 to 1:30 p.m. Former Northwest school of agriculture superintendent's home, the white house, is now the permanent home of the UMC and NWSA alumni associations. Center will house the alumni office, and be used for alumni archieves, library, entertainment, and meetings.

Alumni are reminded that again this year two package choices are available. Package A for $14 includes the alumni recognition banquet on Friday, Saturday's game, the all-college social, and the dance. Package B for $8 includes Saturday events only — game, all-college social, and dance. Packages may be ordered by calling UMC's alumni office (218) 281-6510, extension 433. Cost for the recognition banquet is $7.

Local Students Get Lakehead Scholarships

Seventeen students at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks were awarded scholarships for the 1983-84 academic year through a program supported by the Lakehead pipe line company.

Lakehead contributed $2,500 to UND for scholarships this year, and since 1968, has contributed $36,000 to UND.

WIC And EPS Schedule Set For October

Schedule for women, infants and children supplemental nutrition education program (WIC) and early periodic screening (EPS) has been set for the month of October.

Clinics will be held October 6 at St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls, October 17 at the community center in Oklee and October 21 at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Immunizations will be given from 9 to 9:30 a.m. the day of each clinic.

Appointments for the clinics must be made one month in advance, and can be made by writing or calling the Four county EPS service, 206 E. Colvin, Warren, MN 56762, 745-4004.

Infants and children up to the age of five and women who are pregnant or nursing are eligible for the WIC program.

The EPS program is offered to children six months through 13 years of age. EPS checks any or all of the following: hearing and vision, hematocrit determination, urinalysis and physical assessments, Denver developmental testing, dental assessments and instruction in the care of teeth.

Color Analysis Workshop Set At Northland

Learning how to express your individuality through the use of color and wardrobe apparel is the subject of workshop being offered at Northland community college (NCC).

Workshop meets on Thursday, October 13 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at NCC in room B37. Instructor for the course is Annette Hrdlicka. Individual appointments will be available. Fee for the workshop is $40. For more information call NCC at 681-2181.

Through the development of an individualized color card, Sazama Couture provides you with concrete knowledge of the correct shades of colors for you to wear for open communication and physical comfort. These are separated into the shades which work best for you for fullbody clothing, e.e. suits and dresses, and those which will work best for accessorizing. As an added benefit, you will also know which shades of colors are best for your surroundings and can be used for decorating your home or office.

Selma Winter Services Held In St. Hilaire

Funeral services for Mrs. Selma Winter, 91, of Minneapolis and formerly of St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls, were held Friday at 2:00 p.m., at Calvary Lutheran church in St. Hilaire. Mrs. Winter, a former postmistress at St. Hilaire, died Monday, September 19, at her home in Minneapolis. Services were held Thursday at 1:00 p.m., in Minneapolis at the Albin Funeral chapel.

Rev. Gary L. Moore officiated at the services in St. Hilaire. Phyllis Dalager was the organist and Jack Winter, a son of the deceased, sang. Interment was in Calvary cemetery, in Rocksbury township.

Pallbearers were Klemens Gigstad, Malcolm Magnuson, Clarence Isaacson, Roy Engh and Vern Lindquist.

Mrs. Winter, the former Selma Hoff, was born Feb. 20, 1892 in St. Hilaire to Sever and Berit Hoff. She received her education in this community, graduating from Lincoln high school, Thief River Falls, in 1910 with the distinction of being St. Hilaire's first graduate from the Thief River Falls high school. Later she taught in the elementary schools, in Black River and Polk Centre from 1910 to 1914, and at the White Earth Boarding school from 1914 until 1918.

On Jan. 1, 1919, she became the postmistress at St. Hilaire, a post she held until 1933.

She married in 1928 to Harry Winter of Hillsboro, N.D. They lived in St. Hilaire until 1948, when they moved to Thief River Falls. They resided here until Winter's death in 1962. Four years later, Mrs. Winter moved to Daystar Ministries in Minneapolis, where she resided until her death.

Surviving are two sons: William Winter, Annandale, Va.; and Jack, St. Louis Park; a daughter, Mrs. Joan Magnuson, Anoka; seven grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Blanche Davis of the Minneapolis area.

Services Held For Jeanette Langness, 98

Funeral services for Mrs. Jeanette Langness, 98, of Minneapolis and formerly of this area, were held Tuesday at 12:30 p.m., at the Bethesda Lutheran Brethren church, near Grygla. Mrs. Langness died Thursday evening, September 15, in Minneapolis where services were held September 19 at Luther Hall chapel.

Rev. Charles Johnson, pastor of the Thief River Falls Lutheran Brethren parish, officated at the services at Grygla. Mrs. Melvie was the pianist and Rev. and Mrs. Johnson sang. The Albin chapel, Minneapolis, was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Langness was born Nov. 3, 1884 in Indroy, Norway. She lived in the communities of Viking, Grygla and Thief River Falls, and more recently in Minneapolis, where she was a member of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Iver (Myrtle) Olson, Minneapolis; four sons: Harvey Langness, Grygla; Ned, Faribault; Ernest, Faith, S.D., and Wilfred, Colorado Springs, Colo.; several grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and one great-grand-grandchild.

She was preceded in death by her husband, one daughter and a son.

Rites Held For Mrs. Vincent Pulczinski, 71

Funeral services for Mrs. Vincent (Frances) Pulczinski, 71, of Greenbush, mother of Mrs. Craig Lindahl, Thief River Falls, were held Tuesday at 10:00 a.m., at the Blessed Sacrament Catholic church in Greenbush. Mrs. Pulczinski died Friday evening, September 16, at her home in Greenbush. She had been in failing health for the past three months.

Rev. Ray Palcisko offered the Mass. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Collins Funeral home, Greenbush, in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were fellow members of St. Ann's Sodality.

Active pallbearers were grandsons: Roger and Brian Kjos, Andrew and Hector Reese, Jr., Vincent Meyer and Bart Duray.

Mrs. Pulczinski, the former Frances Pietruszewski, was born April 3, 1912 in the Leo community of Roseau county to John and Laura Pietruszewski. She attended school in the Leo community and was baptized and confirmed in the St. Aloysius Catholic church in that area.

She was married Oct. 16, 1934 at Leo to Vincent Pulczinski. The couple farmed in the Greenbush community until 1964, when they moved into Greenbush where she was employed for 16 years at the Greenbush Community hospital.

For the past 19 years, she had been a member of the Blessed Sacrament Catholic church and St. Ann's Rosary Sodality.

Surviving are her husband, two sons: Henry Pulczinski, Lancaster, and Dominic, Greenbush; eight daughters: Mrs. Clayton (Toni) Kjos, Mrs. Hector (Bernie) Reese, and Joette Kasprowicz, all of Greenbush; Mrs. Robert (Marie) Ravera, West Covena, Calif.; Paulette Hanson, Audubon; Mrs. Bruce (Bette) Duray, Billings, Mont.; Mrs. Donald (Janice) Ryan, Williston, N.D., and Mrs. Craig (Marci) Lindahl, Thief River Falls; 48 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are three sisters: Mrs. Adrian (Theresa) Borowicz, Cottage Grove; Mrs. John (Elizabeth) Mlodzik, and Mrs. Alvin (Mary) Pulczinski, both of Greenbush; and four brothers: Joe Pietruszewski, Chisholm; Edward, Park River, N.D.; Sylvester, Donaldson, and Raymond, St. Paul.

She was preceded in death by her parents, a son, three grandchildren, one sister and a brother.

Services Here Today For Mrs. Lilly Lappi, 84

Mrs. Lilly Lappi, 84, of Thief River Falls and formerly of Minneapolis, died Wednesday at the Hillcrest Nursing home in Red Lake Falls.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lappi will be held today (Monday) at 2:00 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel with Rev. Robert Amundson, pastor of the Gatzke Lutheran parish, officiating. Mrs. Dale Rokke will be the soloist and Mrs. Gerald Duray, the organist. Interment will be in the First Lutheran cemetery at Middle River.

Pallbearers will be Elworth Maki, Harold Maki, Morris Moen, Kenneth Moen, Bill Wagner and James Wagner.

Mrs. Lappi, the former Lilly Moen, was born Jan. 28, 1899 in Spruce Valley township, Marshall county, at Middle River, to George and Emma Ellingson Moen. She attended school in Middle River and the Success Business college at Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada.

On March 31, 1933, she was united in marriage to Clarence Johnson. The couple lived in Minneapolis, where she was employed as a seamstress for Dayton's. Her husband died in 1949.

On Jan. 31, 1953, she was married in Minneapolis to Leonard Lappi. They continued to live in Minneapolis. After the death of Lappi in 1962, Mrs. Lappi continued to live in Minneapolis. In 1968, she moved to Thief River Falls and later was admitted to the Hillcrest Nursing home in Red Lake Falls.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Sophie Swenson, Jamestown, N.D., a sister-in-law, Mrs. Elida Moen, Newfolden, and several nieces and nephews.

In addition to both husbands and her parents, she was preceded in death by six sisters and two brothers.

REFLECTI NS

Don't be afraid to take a big step if one is indicated. You can't cross a chasm in two small jumps. We can spend our lives avoiding challenges . . . playing it "safe" but by doing so we'll never know the thrill of daring, the joy of achieving that which at first glance we thought impossible. 'Tis better at times to leap into challenges and even if we fail we'll know we had the courage to try.

GOODRIDGE CO-OP CREAMERY

75TH ANNIVERSARY was noted by the Farmers Cooperative Creamery association of Goodridge with an open house and dinner Thursday. The building housing the creamery was built in 1938 and provided with new siding, doors and windows three years ago. The sign on the building at right proclaims: "75 Years of Service — Everything from Milk to Nuts — Farmers Co-op Creamery — Goodridge, Minnesota — 1908-1983." More than 200 people attended the open house event.

$50 SCHOLARSHIPS were presented recently through the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute from the John A. Helley Sr. scholarship fund. Recipients were Kyle Gustafson, who is enrolled in the farm mechanics program, and Barbara Helley, who is enrolled in cosmetology. Both are graduates of Pershing high school in Plummer.

Lynn Knutson Services Held At Zion Friday

Lynn Knutson, 20, of this city, died Wednesday afternoon at his home on North LaBree.

Funeral services for Lynn Knutson were held Friday at 2:00 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church with Rev. Clifford Kalmoe officiating. Jerry Joringdal was the organist and Mrs. William Penning, the soloist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Serving as active pallbearers were Andy Holmes, Kirby Schmitgall, John Nessen, Rodney Nesson, Steve Homme and Ryan Harger.

Lynn Stuart Knutson was born in Thief River Falls on Sept. 11, 1963 to Lloyd and Seleen Nessen Knutson. He was baptized and confirmed at Zion Lutheran church, and attended school here, graduating with the Lincoln high school class of 1981. He had worked part time at Dwight's Hartz, and enjoyed playing guitar and visiting planatariums.

He is survived by his parents, two sisters: Mrs. Glenn (Yvonne) Ekman, Newfolden, and Mrs. Roger (Arlene) Johnson, Blaine; four brothers: Larry Knutson, Stillwater; Dale, Chisago City, Dennis, Thief River Falls; and Terry, Spring Lake; six nieces: Sherry and Tammy Ekman, Kristi and Jennifer Johnson, and Rhonda and Robin Knutson, and several aunts and uncles.

He was preceded in death by a sister, Carol, two nephews and his grandparents.

Walter Nelson Rites Held At Middle River

Funeral services for Walter Nelson, 62, of Middle River, who died unexpectedly on Saturday afternoon, September 17, at Northwestern hospital, were held Wednesday at 10:00 a.m., at the First Lutheran church in Middle River.

Rev. Donald Fredine officiated at the services. Mrs. Richard Luoto was the soloist and Mrs. Danny Geer, the organist. Interment was in the church cemetery. The Collins Funeral home, Middle River, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Conrad Olson, Leonard Olson, Wally Mattson, Walter Rasmussen, Morlyn Kolden and Sylvester Hemp.

Walter Nelson, a son of the late John and Ida Nelson, was born Nov. 20, 1920 near Middle River. He attended school and grew to manhood in that community.

On April 12, 1947, he was married at Greenbush to Bertha Rasmussen. Since then, they have lived and farmed in Huntly township of Marshall county, near Middle River. In addition to farming, Nelson was also employed for many years by the Ernie Nelson Construction company of Newfolden.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Gordon Nelson, Middle River; four grandchildren, a brother, Leonard Nelson, Thief River Falls and two sisters: Mrs. Alfred (Emma) Gustafson, Newfolden, and Mrs. Edith Anderson, Minneapolis.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, two brothers and one sister.

H. C. Haugen Services Held At Newfolden

Funeral services for Hjalmer C. Haugen, 90, of Newfolden were held Saturday at 2:00 p.m., at the Westaker Free Lutheran church. Haugen, a lifetime resident of the Newfolden community, died Tuesday at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Larry Haagenson officiated at the services. William Wagner and Reuben Hagen were the vocalists and Mrs. Stanley Holmaas served as organist. Interment was in the Oak Grove cemetery, rural Newfolden. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Serving as active pallbearers were Roy Bakke, Harlin Bakke, Magnus Bakke, Arthur Johnson, James Engelsrud and Raymond Bakke.

Military honors were accorded by the Newfolden American Legion.

Hjalmer Christian Haugen, a son of the late Christian and Mathea Aarnes Haugen, was born April 11, 1893 in Marsh Grove township of Marshall county. He was baptized and confirmed at the Westaker Free Lutheran church, and received his elementary and high school education in Newfolden.

Haugen was a veteran of World War I.

On June 19, 1932, he was married at Newfolden to Elizabeth Kleppe. The couple made their home in Newfolden, where Haugen served as mail carrier from 1913 until 1965. He also did some farming.

He was very active in community affairs. He served as village assessor for many years, was an active member of the Bethlehem Lutheran church, and later of the Westaker Free Lutheran church, and served as a member of the Bible camp board.

He is survived by his wife, three sisters: Mrs. Conard (Anna) Engelsrud and Mrs. Albert (Clara) Knutson, both of Newfolden, and Mrs. Marion (Mary) Shaff of Bemidji; a brother, Carl Haugen, Newfolden, and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by two sisters and two brothers.

Allen Iverson, 70, Dies Sun.; Services Wed.

Allen Iverson, 70, of Thief River Falls, died Sunday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Allen Iverson will be held Wednesday at 2:00 p.m. at the Silver Creek Lutheran church with Rev. Nancy Lund officiating. Mrs. Larry Gustafson will be the organist and Rev. Rick Lund will sing. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home on Tuesday from 1:00 until 9:00 p.m., with a prayer service at the funeral chapel at 8:00. The body will also repose at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in the Wednesday edition of the Times.

Nora Anderson Services Held At Greenbush

Funeral services for Mrs. Nora Anderson, 81, of Stephen were held Monday, September 19, at 2:00 p.m., at the Collins Funeral chapel in Greenbush. Mrs. Anderson died Wednesday evening, September 14, at the Greenbush Community hospital. She had been a resident of the Greenbush Community Nursing home since 1972.

Rev. Burton Rygh officated at the services. John Gaukerud was the soloist and Mrs. Gilman Paulson, the organist. Interment was in the Stephen City cemetery.

Pallbearers were Marvin, George and Gerald Didriksen, Iver Iverson, Leonard Swart and Harry Gregerson.

Mrs. Anderson, the former Nora Cornilia Stale, was born April 2, 1902 near New London to Nicoll and Clara Stale. She attended school and grew to womanhood near New London. In 1924, she moved with her family to a farm in Soler township of Roseau county, north of Greenbush. She worked through the years as a housekeeper.

On June 23, 1952, she was married at Stephen to Adolph O. Anderson. The couple made their home near Stephen. Following his death in January of 1954, Mrs. Anderson continued to live in the Stephen community until she became a resident of the Greenbush Community Nursing home.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Paul (Selma) Linert of Badger, and several nieces and nephews.

In addition to her husband and parents, she was preceded in death by two brothers and two sisters.

SEVERAL DEFENDERS closed in on Breckenridge ball carrier Andy Deal, but it was Thief River Falls linebacker Steve Wiskow (96), who hauled him down after a short gain in the fourth quarter of Friday's high school football game player here. Also eyeing the action for the Prowlers were Todd Ortloff (58), Jeff Johnson (77), Jeff Hamerlinck (76) and Jeff Langan (21). The Cowboys won the game 7-6.

Busy Weekend Opens 1983 Northland Volleyball Season

Northland community college volleyball team opened its 1983 schedule over the weekend and the Northwomen got in a lot of court time, hosting the annual season-opening Northwest Division quadrangular Friday night and participating in a 12-team University of Minnesota-Crookston invitational tournament Saturday at UMC.

And when it was all done, Northland coach Deb Jacobson said, "I'm pleased. We're very optimistic."

She was particularly happy with Friday's results when Northland, Fergus Falls and Brainerd all wound up with 2-1 records while UMC went 0-3. The Northwomen beat UMC 15-9, 15-10 and defeated Brainerd 15-6, 15-13. Fergus Falls outlasted Northland 15-17, 15-3, 15-2.

"I was really pleased with the way we played," noted Jacobson. "We were fairly good, but we have a lot of room for improvement."

In Friday's other matches, Brainerd rallied to beat Fergus Falls 0-15, 15-9, 15-10 and handled UMC 15-6, 15-11 while Fergus Falls swept UMC 15-7, 15-3.

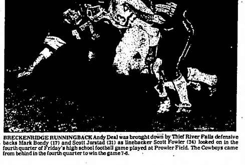
Previewing the Northwest Division race, Jacobson figured the Northwomen should be capable of challenging for a divisional title.

Saturday's format at UMC featured two 6-team pools with round-robin competition. Top four finishers in each pool moved into the tournament's final round. Preliminary matches were based on 15-point games or 15-minute time limit.

Within the pool format, the Northwomen lost to NDSSS-Wahpeton 15-2, 15-14; lost to Vermilion 14-12, 15-0; split with Anoka-Ramsey 15-10, 6-7; beat the Mayville State junior varsity 15-4, 15-5; and split with Fergus Falls 15-8, 6-12.

Under the point system being used, that qualified the Northwomen for the finals with a fourth place pool finish. They drew the No. 1 finisher in the opposite pool and played good volleyball in losing to Willmar 15-10, 15-12.

Northland returns to action Wednesday, hosting the Moorhead State University junior varsity at 6:30 p.m., with Brainerd visiting Thief River Falls Friday for a 6:30 p.m. Northwest Division match.



BRECKENRIDGE RUNNINGBACK Andy Deal was brought down by Thief River Falls defensive backs Mark Bondy (17) and Scott Jorstad (31) as linebacker Scott Fowler (34) looked on in the fourth quarter of Friday's high school football game played at Prowler Field. The Cowboys came from behind in the fourth quarter to win the game 7-6.

National Wildlife Federation News Release

Endangered bald eagle is showing strong signs of recovery after years on the decline, according to the result of the National Wildlife Federation's (NWF) 1983 bald eagle survey.

This year's survey, taken from January 2 to 17, counted 12,098 bald eagles in 46 states, about the same as last year's count. In 1979, the NWF's first survey counted 9,815 bald eagles.

"It's encouraging that bald eagles may be finally recovering from the grave threats of pesticides, habitat loss and illegal killings," said Jay D. Hair, NWF Executive Vice President. Hair noted that there remain major threats to the nation's symbol.

Bald eagle is officially endangered in 43 states and threatened in five others. Only in Alaska is the bald eagle plentiful. (There are none in Hawaii). After a drastic decline in the 1960s due to pesticides and dwindling habitat, bald eagle populations in some areas are beginning to make a comeback, according to the NWF raptor biologists.

Considered to be the most complete midwinter bald eagle count available, the National Wildlife Federation survey provides eagle experts with data on where the birds live during the winter and the habitat they need to survive.

Brian Millsap, National Wildlife Federation raptor biologist and coordinator of the survey, said that this year's unusually mild weather in the eastern U.S. apparently resulted in many northern states having higher than usual bald eagle counts, and many southern states having lower counts.

"During mild winters, bald eagles seem to overwinter farther north and remain more dispersed than during cold winters," Millsap said.

This year's survey found bald eagle populations in Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota and Wisconsin. It found decreases in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and Texas.

The largest population was in Washington state, with 1,158 birds. Next largest was Utah with 1,042, followed by Florida (684) and Idaho (644).

National Wildlife Federation, whose logo features a bald eagle in flight, has long been associated with eagle protection. Federation offers $500 for information leading to the conviction of anyone who illegally kills a bald eagle.

Cardinals Lose To Eagles In 2-1 Volleyball Match

Plummer saw its 1983 high school volleyball record fall to 2-3 Thursday in a 2-1 loss at Red Lake Falls, but coach Dean Miller is quick to point out the losses have all been at the hands of highly regarded opposition, and in each case the Cardinals have played them all tough.

Red Lake Falls, one of the District 31 favorites this fall, triumphed 18-12, 12-18, 18-12.

"Super matches," described Miller. "It was very well played on both sides. We have some trouble receiving the serves near the end that cost us."

Senior Helen Jaeger collected 13 service points for the Cardinals, with Miller also citing the play of Jody Pahlen at the nets and the setting of Lori Braaten and Jodi Malwitz.

Plummer, a participant in the Roseau Invitational Saturday will be at Warren Tuesday and will visit Middle River Thursday.

Middle River — Roseau

Considered one of the top North Border Conference teams at the start of the season, Middle River saw its conference record slip to 2-4 Thursday as Roseau beat the host skippers 18-14, 18-15.

"It was a good volleyball match; a good game all the way," reported Middle River coach Julie Helgeson, whose team is 3-4 overall.

Middle River will try to climb back among the top conference teams Tuesday when the Skippers host rival Marshall County Central. The Nordics won the first encounter 18-6, 18-8 to start the Skippers' problems. Middle River will also be at home Thursday vs. Plummer.

Grygla — LOW

Lake of the Woods pulled off a milk North Border Conference surprise Thursday with an 18-13, 18-15 victory over Grygla at Baudette.

"We actually played pretty well," mentioned Grygla coach Kurt Vandermeer. "We were real tough defensively, but we were not aggressive on offense."

Grygla let a 15-2 second game lead slip away as the Eagles fell to 3-2 for the season.

Sophomore Janie Verbout had a string of 11 straight service points in helping produce that second game lead, including seven aces.

Grygla will be busy this week, hosting Clearbrook tonight (Monday), visiting Warroad Tuesday and entertaining Marshall County Central Thursday.

MCC — Warroad

Marshall County Central breezed by Warroad 18-6, 18-12 Thursday in the Nordics' homecoming week volleyball match at Newfolden.

Senior Shelly Anderson had 12 service points in the two games for the winners, including six aces, with Becky Knutson collecting nine points and Paula Gustafson six. Junior Gay Moose came off the bench in the second game to lead a balanced Marshall County Central attack at the net.

Stacey Gonshorowski had four set assists for the night, while Anderson and Barb Garthus had blocks.

It was the Nordics' fifth straight win after a season-opening loss at Stephen. They'll play at Middle River Tuesday and at Grygla Thursday in a pair of key North Border Conference matches.

Goodridge — Fisher

Goodridge took Fisher to three games, but wound up on the short end of a 2-1 decision as the visiting Flyers won the Polar Conference match 14-18, 18-3, 18-11.

"We looked real good in the first game," pointed out Goodridge coach Patti Johnson. However, the winless Huskies were whistled for a number of illegal hits in the second game and lost ground at the end in the third game to lose for the sixth straight time this fall.

Junior Cheri Nelson and sophomore Tami Miller had 10 service points each for the Huskies, who will be at Red Lake Falls Tuesday.

LHS Cross Country Team Runs At Detroit Lakes

Detroit Lakes invitational high school cross country titles were won by Staples and Wadena Thursday.

Staples, the No. 1-rated team in Class A state-wide, ran away with the boys' portion of the race by placing five runners among the top ten finishers for a 28-point afternoon, followed by Fergus Falls with 59, Detroit Lakes 113, East Grand Forks 114, Crookston 120, Thief River Falls 133, Park Rapids 139 and Wadena 234.

But while the Wadena boys trailed the pack, the Wadena girls were winners with 34 points, followed by Staples with 66, Thief River Falls 77, Park Rapids 147 and Fergus Falls 148.

Rhonda Reichel, Randy's sister, emerged as the titlist in a three-way first place battle among the girls. Reichel, plus Wadena teammates Bonnie Steinback and Missy Beaver were all clocked at 12:04 for the two-mile run.

"The girls lost to very strong Wadena and Staples teams," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Lynn Dyer. "I though they did a good job being only 11 points behind Staples."

He had special praise for eighth grader Jackie Smith, senior Paula Wilkens and junior Stacie Kruta, the Prowlers' top three girls who placed 6-12,13, respectively.

"Jackie, Paula and Stacie have been running consistent for us, and have dropped their times each meet. All three ran their best race," explained Dyer.

He wasn't quite as impressed with the Prowlers' showing in the boys race where senior Kevin Kezar was the top finisher in 18th place.

"Our boys are very inconsistent," noted Dyer. "It's hard to judge what we are capable to doing because we can't compare time for our new people. At times we've shown we can run with teams like East Grand Forks and Detroit Lakes, but today we looked terrible. We are always slow starters, improving during the second half of the season. I hope this year won't be any different."

"For the second meet in a row the junior high stole the show for us," he pointed out. "Our young runners — both boys and girls — are running very well."

For the Thief River Falls junior high girls it was their second win in three meets. The Thief River Falls junior high boys finished third, behind Fergus Falls and Detroit Lakes.

Thief River Falls runners will compete in the East Grand Forks invitational Thursday at 4 p.m.

Prowlers Win Streak Ended By Lakers 4-1

Thief River Falls' six-match dual meet unbeaten string was snapped Saturday morning when Detroit Lakes beat the Prowlers 4-1 in a rescheduled high school girls tennis match.

Weather forced postponement of the match from Tuesday to Saturday in Thief River Falls, and the lone winner for the Prowlers was senior Kim Lawrenz with a come-from-behind 3-6, 6-0, 6-1 victory over Chris Holland at No. 3 singles.

But despite the loss, Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson wasn't terribly disappointed.

"It was a good tennis match," he said. "There was some excellent matches played. Detroit Lakes played very well. Now we know where we stand."

Detroit Lakes 4, TRF 1

Singles — 1. Lori Berenz (DL) def. Michelle Olson 6-3, 7-5; 2. LeAnn Johnson (DL) def. Penni Johnston 6-0, 6-0; 3. Kim Lawrenz (TRF) def. Chris Holland 3-6, 6-0, 6-1.

DNR NEWS

Itasca Lodge Open

Douglas Lodge in Itasca State Park will remain open until October 9 this fall, the Department of Natural Resources announced.

Consideration had been given to closing the lodge early this season for remodeling. However, the starting date for the project has been delayed.

Roseau Area Project

Construction work at the Roseau River Wildlife Management Area near the Canadian border in Roseau county will limit waterfowl hunting there this season, the Department of Natural Resources reports.

Work on the dikes and replacement of water control structures is continuing as part of a major rehabilitation project. Wildlife officials said the improvements will make it possible to do a better job of managing water levels and habitat in the marshes.

Ken Kramer, manager of the 73,700 acre wildlife area, said results to date are encouraging.

"We have observed increased use by waterfowl of the east half of Pool 1, which was drawn down last year. This year we have drawn down the west half of Pool 1 and all of Pool 2. Hunting will be very limited in these pools this season.

"Pool 3 is not affected and has an excellent water supply." Roseau River is one of the state's largest managed waterfowl areas, attracting hunters from throughout Minnesota.

Shade Tree Damage

Storms and heavy winds that have occurred in many parts of Minnesota this summer have caused severe damage to thousands of valuable shade and yard trees.

But the Department of Natural Resources says many people are unaware that any injury incurred by a shade tree not only reduces its aesthetic value but also reduces its other benefits. Foresters said trees minimize noise, filter impurities from the air and add oxygen to it, save energy by moderating temperature extremes, control wind and water erosion, and provide habitat for wildlife.

Although Minnesota seems to have had more than its share of severe weather this summer, said foresters, some of the more damaging storms will occur during the winter. Many injuries to shade trees result from heavy snow and ice.

There is help for property owners seeking advice on how to repair the damage done to their shade trees or what trees to use as replacements. DNR forestry offices have personnel available to assist property owners with questions concerning their yard trees.

For suitable replacement trees, the DNR forester might refer to literature that is also available to the homeowner, including the "Minnesota Tree Line" series put out by the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Minnesota.

Included in this series is information describing which species of trees should be planted in nine geographical areas of the state.

If DNR foresters cannot answer a question involving the repair or replacement of a shade tree, they will refer the property owner to a knowledgeable consultant or tree service.

Homeowners should also be aware that the decrease in property value due to the damage or destruction of their shade trees might qualify as a casualty loss with the IRS.

Despite recent changes in what is defined as a casualty loss, property owners should seek the advice of a professional forester or arborist to determine if the damage to their shade trees is enough to render a tax credit. Shade trees are an important factor in real estate evaluation.

Property owners can get an idea of what their shade trees are worth by referring to Extension Folder 445, "Shade Tree Evaluation". It is available through the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Minnesota.

Local arborists and consulting foresters can make an appraisal of the property damage to confirm whether or not it is severe enough to qualify as a casualty loss.

Copies of the "Minnesota Tree Line" series and Extension Folder 445, "Shade Tree Evaluation", can be obtained from local DNR forestry offices or from Communication Resource Distribution at the University of Minnesota, (612) 373-1615.

TIP Program

Nearly all of the arrests made by the Department of Natural Resources in August that were based on information supplied through the Turn In Poachers (TIP) program were for fishing violations.

Seventeen arrests were made through the TIP program during the month and 15 of these involved violations of the fishing laws.

Ten of the arrests were in northeastern Minnesota and five in central counties served by the Brainerd regional headquarters.

Rewards totalling $800 were paid out to tipsters during the month, who provided the DNR's enforcement division with the information needed to investigate suspected violations.

Persons who supply information to the DNR remain anonymous.

A special toll-free number has been set up for tipsters: 1-800-652-9093.

Enforcement officials noted that the TIP program completed its second year of operation August 31. To date, the DNR has made 651 arrests through the TIP program, and TIP Inc., a non-profit group which raises funds to pay rewards.

Prowlers' Defense Plays Well

That was a tough loss for the Lincoln high school football team Friday when the Prowlers played an outstanding defensive game only to lose a 7-6 decision to Breckenridge.

Anytime you hold the opposition to under 100 yards for the night and limit them to a mere 32 yards rushing, you deserve better fate. The offense, though, has to pull its own weight. In the three losses the Prowlers have scored just three touchdowns. As the results indicate, that's not enough.

It's not a matter of the defensive team getting mad at the offensive team for lack of support, either, since eight Prowlers start both ways — offensively and defensively.

Thief River Falls' offense better start producing in a hurry since the Prowlers now face a string of three highly-regarded Class AA opponents. Moorhead will be here Friday and Bemidji visits Thief River Falls the following week before the Prowlers travel to Fergus Falls.

Moorhead, of course, is always a tough assignment for the Prowlers. The Spuds are 2-1 for the year, with an open date last week. Moorhead beat Superior, Wis. 24-16 in its last start when the Spuds' defense scored twice — once on an interception and once on a fumble recovery.

Bemidji is also 2-1 for the year. The Lumberjacks had an open date two weeks ago and Friday night ran into a strong Park Rapids team, losing 28-12. That was the final meeting between the two schools, a 39-game series that dates back to 1916. The Panthers ended the series, which is being discontinued because of next year's football realignment into sectional competition, with a bang since the Panther's only other win over the Lumberjacks came back in 1950.

Fergus Falls, meanwhile, is 4-0 for the year, including a 34-23 victory over Crookston Friday when Runningback Len Kretchman rushed for over 200 yards.

Swimmers Have Successful Start

A very young Lincoln high school girls swimming team has enjoyed a surprising amount of success during the early portion of the 1983 season.

Coached by Jay Forney and Jody Dallmann, the Prowlers began the year with a solid showing at the Fargo Shanley invitational, then beat Bemidji, Fargo North and Grand Forks Red River in one-sided dual meet wins before adding an easy victory Saturday in the three-team Prowlers Relays at the Franklin middle school pool.

"We've been very pleased with the way the girls are swimming," acknowledged Forney, the second-year head coach. "We didn't know what to expect when we started the year. It's been fun. The girls are having fun; they're an enthusiastic group. They cheer for each other during the races; they let their emotions go."

While the wins have been a pleasant surprise, Forney takes the early season success with a grain of salt.

"We have to keep things in perspective," he warns. "We haven't really been tested yet. We've got a lot of young swimmers. They're progressing real well, but this is still a building year for us."

Forney expects the Prowlers to receive their toughest regular season challenges from Moorhead, Grand Forks Central and Fergus Falls, and he figures Alexandria will be the post-season Section 3 favorite.

Thief River Falls has regular season outings left Oct. 1 at the Bemidji invitational; Oct. 4 at Moorhead; Oct. 6 at Bemidji; Oct. 13 vs. Detroit Lakes; Oct. 18 vs. Grand Forks Central; and Oct. 25 at Fergus Falls. The state meet-qualifying Section 3 swimming and diving championships will be held Nov. 11-12 at Bemidji State University.

Miscellaneous

+A reminder that persons interested in coaching youth hockey in the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) program this winter should attend a coaches meeting Tuesday. Persons interested in coaching Tiny Mites, Squirts and Intermediates In-House teams are asked to meet at 6:30 p.m., with coaches interested in working with the Pee-Wees and Bantams A and B traveling teams meeting at 8 that night. Both meetings will be held in room 507 at Franklin middle school.

Roseau Title Won By Cards

Plummer defeated host Roseau 18-4, 18-15 Saturday night in the finals of the eight-team Roseau high school invitational volleyball tournament.

Greenbush outlasted Badger 18-11, 6-18, 18-2 for third place honors and Lake of the Woods stopped Thief River Falls 18-11, 18-3 for the consolation prize.

Coach Helen Anderson's Prowlers saw their losing streak hit five matches in opening round play when Roseau emerged with an 18-13, 18-13 victory. Thief River Falls bounced back to beat Warroad 18-13, 18-11 in the consolation bracket semifinals before losing to Lake of the Woods.

Anderson was naturally most pleased with the Prowlers' performance in their win over the Warriors. "We played very well on defense in that one," she mentioned. "We picked up everything. The girls were excited over the win. They needed it."

But after a solid performance against Roseau and the win over Warroad the Prowlers fell into the mistakes that had produced a 1-4 record coming into the tournament in their final start against the Bears.

Top scorers for the Prowlers were Leslie Weigand, with nine service points vs. Roseau; Missy Bondy and Kelli Olson, 10 and 8 points, respectively, vs. Warroad; and Weigand with five points vs. Lake of the Woods.

Roseau Results

Quarterfinals — Greenbush def. Warroad 18-12, 18-10; Roseau def. Thief River Falls 18-13, 18-13; Plummer def. Lake of the Woods 18-7, 18-16; Badger def. Rainy River 18-14, 18-8.

Semifinals — Roseau def. Greenbush 18-15, 10-18, 18-16; Plummer def. Badger 18-7, 18-3.

Finals — Plummer def. Roseau 18-4, 18-5.

Third place — Greenbush def. Badger 18-11, 6-18, 18-2.

Consolation semifinals — Thief River Falls def. Warroad 18-13, 18-11; Lake of the Woods def. Rainy River 18-3, 18-8.

EXCELLENT BLOCKING allowed Thief River Falls runningback Tim Bottem (43) to break loose on a 58-yard touchdown run just 3:33 into Friday's high school football game against Breckenridge. Bottem benefited from blocks thrown by halfback Ryan Drees (27) and tackle Dan Upham (70) on the Cowboys' Scott Petermann (60); from tight end Tim Kruse (87); and from fullback Scott Fowler (34), who knocked Todd Brady (40) off balance. Downfield, Bottem picked up another big block from wide receiver Steve Wiskow to give the Prowlers a 6-0 lead. That margin stood until the fourth quarter.

Cowboys Edge TRF 7-6 On Fourth Quarter Touchdown, Conversion

Breckenridge scored two fourth quarter touchdowns Friday, and although just one of them counted, it was enough to give the Cowboys a 7-6 come-from-behind high school football victory over Thief River Falls.

Foiled moments earlier when a holding penalty erased an apparent tying touchdown pass, Breckenridge went to the well once more and came up with not only the touchdown but also the game-winning conversion kick 3:51 into the final period.

It was the third win in four starts for the visitors, who have given up just 12 points in the process. Thief River Falls fell to 1-3, meaning the Prowlers have lost 23 of their last 24 games.

Thief River Falls nursed a 6-0 lead through most of the game as Tim Bottem read his blocks and dashed 58 yards down the right side to score with 8:27 left in the first quarter. That climaxed a wild start in which there was a 38-yard kickoff return, three fumbles, a high snap on a fourth down punting situation and finally Bottem's long touchdown run all in the first 3½ minutes of the game.

It seemed inconsequential at the time, but the Prowlers missed what would eventually become the game-deciding conversion. They lined up for a kick attempt by Gary Cornell, who has been reliable in the all-to-unfrequent opportunities he has had to kick for the low-scoring Prowlers. But they picked up a 5-yard offside penalty before the play even got underway. Moved back to the Breckenridge 8-yard line, the Prowlers opted for a two-point conversion. The play was a bust from the start as quarterback Mitch Semanko scrambled and threw a hurried incomplete pass into the end zone.

Thief River Falls had only one other real scoring threat the rest of the way. A fumble recovery by defensive tackle Dan Upham at the Prowlers' 45-yard line began a drive that produced a first down at the Breckenridge 16-yard line when Semanko hit wide receiver Steve Wiskow over the middle for a 16-yard gain on fourth-and-15 situation near the end of the first quarter. They reached the 11 on a seven-yard run up the middle by fullback Scott Fowler, but then lost five yards and Semanko had a pair of incomplete passes in the end zone to end the drive.

Meanwhile, Breckenridge was having just as much trouble with the Thief River Falls defense that had been shredded the week before in a 13-0 loss to Mahnomen. Until their touchdown opportunity the Cowboys never went farther than the Thief River Falls 38-yard line.

And that "drive" was set up when 200-pound junior defensive lineman Jim Christensen came up with his second consecutive fumble recovery — this one on a first down Thief River Falls snap from the Prowlers' 15-yard line.

Now facing a fourth-and-11 from the 16-yard line, the Cowboys went with the same play, only to the right side and Hiedeman once again got behind the cornerback — this time Semanko. And this time it counted. Mark Caspers drilled the conversion kick straight through the uprights for the winning point with 8:09 remaining.

Hiedeman sealed the decision by collecting a pair of interceptions to stop the final two Thief River Falls possessions in the last 3½ minutes.

"We were told Thief River had a good ball club, and now we know for sure; they have an excellent football team," offered Breckenridge coach Mike Belseth afterwards. "They really played us tough. We came to air it out tonight, but we didn't throw as much as we wanted to simply because of the pressure they put on us."

Thief River Falls' defense did have a good night in limiting Breckenridge to just 86 total yards. The Cowboys netted just 32 yards on the ground and finished with only six first downs. The Prowlers fared a little better with 130 yards worth of offense, 96 rushing yards and seven first downs against a team that has allowed just one touchdown in 16 quarters (a season-opening 6-0 loss to Wahpeton came in overtime).

"We played hard," said disappointed Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz. "We played well enough to win."

Both sides were guilty of mistakes in the game that produced 13 penalties, eight fumbles and three interceptions.

Thief River Falls tackles Moorhead Friday at 7:30 p.m.

A DEFENSIVE play by Thief River Falls safety Scott Jorstad (31) knocked the ball away from Breckenridge wide receiver Mark Caspers (87) in the end zone during the fourth quarter of Friday's high school football game player here. However, two plays later the Cowboys did come up with a touchdown pass as they pulled out a come-from-behind 7-6 victory over the Prowlers.

A FAMILIAR sight Saturday during the Prowlers Relays girls high school swimming meet was the victory celebration by the Thief River Falls swimmers. The Prowlers won six of the nine events to win the three-team event that also included Park Rapids and Bemidji.

Swimmers' Record Remains Unbeaten

Thief River Falls, 3-0 in dual meet outings won seven of the 11 events as six different individuals, plus a relay team finished in the winner's circle.

Thief River Falls also won the meet-opening 200 medley relay as Geatz, McGann, Puetz and sophomore Janelle Smidt swam a 2:11.09.

Puetz, with a 6:15.15 in the 500 freestyle, and McGann, with a 1:18.78 in the 100 backstroke, were added to the growing list of Thief River Falls post-season Section 3 qualifiers who have met or surpassed qualifying times in the various events.

Cards Top Cougars 28-22 To Remain Undefeated

Another fourth quarter come-back by Plummer Friday produced a 28-22 high school football victory over Erskine-Mentor and kept the Cardinals as the only unbeaten team in the North Tri-County Conference.

Coming off an open date last week, Plummer had scored in the final minute of play in a 14-8 Sept. 9 win over title-challenging Grygla-Goodridge. This time the Cardinals struck for two long range touchdowns in a 2½ minute span late in the fourth quarter to knock the Cougars, a 12-8 loser to Grygla-Goodridge the week before, out of the conference pennant race.

Plummer trailed 22-14 after a David Hanson 4-yard run for Erskine-Mentor with 9:33 remaining in the game. And it didn't look too promising when the Cardinals faced a fourth-and-four at midway moments later.

But that's when things began to happen for the host team as Russ Fisher sprinted 40 yards for a touchdown on a reverse to make it 22-20 with 6:22 left.

"We were just hoping to get the first down, and he scores on it!" exclaimed Plummer coach Gary Brantl.

Then with 4:06 to play, quarterback Tim Gagner teammed up with Brian Fisher on a 45-yard touchdown pass to put the Cardinals on top.

That wasn't the end of the dramatics, however, since Erskine-Mentor promptly reached the Plummer 3-yard line and had a third-and-one situation for a first down. The threat ended, though, when Troy Gustafson broke through and hit quarterback Marc Plante, forcing a fumble that was recovered by Mike Konickson.

"It looked bleak for a while," admitted Brantl, "but they just will not quit. They're a super bunch of kids."

Plummer finished the night with 234 total offensive yards. The Cardinals gained 170 on the ground, led by Gustafson with 74, and had 64 yards passing on a 4-for-10 night by Gagner. Brian Fisher had 58 yards on two receptions.

Defensively, a front line trio of Karl Mattison, John Maki and Gary Torkelson were the leaders," said Brantl. "Our tackles did a heck of a job for us," he said, especially in light of a definite Erskine-Mentor size advantage.

"We're just very pleased with the outcome," acknowledged Brantl.

Plummer, 3-0, will be at Fisher for a 3:15 p.m. game Friday.

Clearbrook 36
Middle River 30

Middle River watched a 24-0 first quarter lead disappear Friday afternoon in a 36-30 North Tri-County Conference loss to visiting Clearbrook.

Clearbrook was able to cut the gap to 24-14 by halftime and when the Hornets took the first possession of the second half downfield for a touchdown they had the momentum, even though Middle River still owned a 24-22 lead.

"That first touchdown of the second half took the wind right out of us," acknowledged Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We lost the momentum and we couldn't get it back."

After falling behind, Middle River gained a 30-30 tie when Kevin McKeever hit Sheldon Peterson with a 20-yard touchdown pass near the midway mark of the fourth quarter.

But back-to-back mistakes in punting situations wound up costing the Skippers the game. They were able to stop Clearbrook the first time after a bit snap kept them from getting the kick away and pinned them deep in their own territory. But faced with another punting situation moments later, Middle River had this one blocked, giving the Hornets the ball at the Skippers' 8-yard line. Bryon Nelson quickly punched it into the end zone for the victory.

"That was a heart-breaker," said Sparby. "The kids felt bad after that one. But even with the loss I was much happier with this game than I was last week (a 20-6 loss to Oklee). We put in a good effort this time."

Middle River collected 204 yards worth of offense, including 149 yards on the ground as McKeever picked up 62 yards on 16 carries, John Scheff 45 on 15 tries and Mike Coltom 42 on 12 trips. McKeever was 2-for-5 in the passing department, with two completions going for touchdowns and 55 yards.

McKeever was also the leader on defense from his safety-linebacker positions with 11 tackles and an interception. "Kevin played an excellent ball game both offensively and defensively," pointed out Sparby, who also praised the defensive play of Scheff, who had 13 tackles and a fumble recovery.

In falling behind 24-0, Clearbrook was playing without quarterback Pat Noeill, who apparently shook off an injury to begin the Hornets' second quarter comeback. "He got things turned around for them," confirmed Sparby, who said on numerous occasions Noeill threw completions to receivers who were well-covered and sometimes faced double coverage and yet still made the catches because of a considerable size advantage.

Middle River 1-3, will be at Gonvick-Trail Friday for a 3:30 p.m. game.

Grygla-Goodridge 8
Fisher 6

Grygla-Goodridge scored a first quarter touchdown and then let the defense take over Friday afternoon to preserve an 8-6 North Tri-County Conference victory at Fisher.

"Other than our touchdown drive, offensively I wasn't real pleased," admitted Grygla-Goodridge coach Rick Nelson, "but our defense really played well."

A familiar Tony Wiseth-to-Scott Groven passing combination produced the Blue Devils' touchdown, a 5-yard job late in the first quarter. Wiseth hit Wayne Byklum with what proved to be the winning two-point conversion pass.

Fisher cut the lead to 8-6 in the third quarter, but failed to add the conversion. The Flyers threatened to pull it out at the end with a first-and-goal situation at the Grygla-Goodridge 3-yard line. However, on fourth down Byklum came up with an interception in the end zone with about four minutes remaining to protect the lead.

Grygla-Goodridge was limited to 53 yards rushing and 82 yards passing. Doug Schultz, the team's top runningback, and Byklum were both injured during the game. But the winners forced Fisher into five turnovers to hold onto the lead.

Rick Mosher was in on 11 tackles for the Blue Devils, including five solo stops, while Byklum had six tackles, a fumble recovery and two interceptions. Groven also made his presence felt on defense with nine tackles, an interception and a hit that caused a fumble.

Grygla-Goodridge, 3-1, will host McIntosh-Winger Friday in a 7:30 p.m. homecoming game at Goodridge.

Prowlers Blank Green Wave In Tennis By 5-0

Sixth straight 5-0 dual meet victory of the 1983 season by the Lincoln high school tennis team was recorded Thursday as the Prowlers swept host East Grand Forks in straight sets, losing only eight games in the process.

Thief River Falls will be at Bemidji Tuesday for a quadrangular meet beginning at 12-noon.

Crookston Is 22-6 Winner In Frosh Game

It was the 1983 home opener for Thief River Falls, 0-2 for the year.

A scoreless game was broken when Crookston reached the end zone from nine yards out on the final play of the first half. The visitors added touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters before Thief River Falls struck on a 60-yard Nathan Dalager pass to Ricky Rosetta with about six minutes remaining.

Thief River Falls will be at Valley junior high in Grand Forks Thursday for a 4:15 p.m. game.

SWIMMING THE opening butterfly leg on the 600-yard individual medley relay, Thief River Falls sophomore Michelle Puetz staked the Prowlers to a lead they never relinquished in winning the event with an 8:06.05 clocking during Saturday's Prowlers Relays girls high school swimming meet at the Franklin middle school pool. Shelley McGann and Connie Geatz were also members of the 600 I.M. squad. The Prowlers won the three-team meet by a 24-point margin over running-up Park Rapids.

Nordics Edge Bears 19-18 In Overtime Ball Game

Marshall County Central high school football team broke into the win column for the first time this fall in dramatic fashion Friday night with a 19-18 Top of the State Conference overtime victory over Hallock.

It looked like it might be Hallock celebrating at the end when the Bears gained a 12-12 tie on a 15-yard Paul Bloomquist touchdown pass to Darryn Fredrickson with just five seconds remaining in regulation time. The Nordics stayed alive, though, and forced overtime by stopping the Bears' two-point conversion attempt.

Winning the coin toss and electing to go on defense to start the overtime session in which teams have four downs to score from the opposition's 10-yard line, Marshall County Central gave up a third down 2-yard touchdown run by Scott Klein. However, for the third time in the game the Bears failed to add the two-point conversion.

Marshall County Central scored on the second snap of its offensive possession as Kevin Boe raced 12 yards around the end. Ken Krohn broke the tie with the conversion kick — the Nordics' first extra point kick of the season.

"He was sure he'd get it," explained Gebhart, who didn't hesitate to call for the kick instead of the two-point try. "We've been working on it in practice. I was pretty set on kicking it if we scored," he pointed out.

Overtime games are quite an experience, noted Gebhart, whose team lost a double-overtime decision to Argyle a year ago. They wound up in a first place tie for the conference title, but the Eagles went into post-season play based upon that outcome.

"If you lose in overtime it really gets you down," mentioned Gebhart.

It was a big-play night for the Nordics. Kevin Boe scored on a 54-yard run in the first quarter and scored from 28 yards out in the fourth quarter after a long kick return.

Boe finished the night with 140 yards rushing on 12 carries. The Nordics had 210 yards on the ground and 64 passing as Dan Halvorson was 5-for-10 in the air. Hallock finished with 144 yards rushing and 56 passing.

Defensively, Brian Rud was credited with 11 solo tackles, six assisted tackles, two quarterback sacks and a fumble recovery. Halvorson had two interceptions, setting up Marshall County Central's scoring opportunities. Brent Magner and Krohn each had nine solo tackles and four assisted tackles.

Marshall County Central will be at Greenbush Friday.

LEAD LEG on the Thief River Falls 800-yard freestyle relay team was handled by eighth grader Pete Kuyath during Saturday's annual Prowlers Relays girls high school swimming meet. Kim Kenville, Connie Geatz and Denice Anderson rounded out the first place relay team. The Prowlers emerged with the meet's trophy with 114 points, followed by Park Rapids with 90 and Bemidji with 76.

Prowlers Win Title In Three-Team TRF Relays

Thief River Falls won six of the nine events Saturday to easily win the three-team Prowlers Relays girls high school swimming meet at the Franklin middle school pool.

Superior depth helped Thief River Falls accumulate 114 points, followed by Park Rapids with 90 and Bemidji 76.

Thief River Falls swimmers won the 200-yard backstroke, 200-yard breaststroke, 800-yard freestyle, diving, 200-yard medley and 600-yard individual medley relays.

Park Rapids had two first places, with the Panthers winning the 200-yard butterfly and the meet-ending 400-yard freestyle relays, while Bemidji won the 200 freestyle.

Vermilion Beats Northland 35-7

Vermilion put 28 points on the scoreboard in the first half and coasted to a 35-7 win over Northland Saturday in a Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) football game played at Ely.

Northland scored on a four-yard quarterback sneak by Steve Blanc in the third quarter, with Kent Kainz adding the conversion kick, and kept Vermilion out of the end zone in the second half until the final minute of play.

"Our players gave it all they had," reported Northland coach John Helley. "I was extremely pleased. They played as hard as they could. We improved; we eliminated a lot of our mistakes. But we were just out-manned. They (Vermilion) have a real big, real strong team. They're very physical."

It was the third straight loss this fall for the Northmen, who are 0-2 in MCCC Northwest Division-counting play. They will play their first home game of the 1983 season Saturday when the 1:30 p.m. Northland homecoming game on Prowler Field will feature Hibbing.

Vermilion, the preseason favorite in the Northeast Division this fall, limited Northland to just 83 yards on the ground Saturday. Freshman Kevin Roehl (Nevis) had 67 of those yards on 22 carries. Blanc put the ball in the air 41 times, with the freshman from Columbia Heights completing 14 for 191 yards. He was intercepted four times. Sophomore wide receiver Todd Graalum (Fargo, N.D.) caught eight passes for 124 yards.

Meanwhile, Vermilion racked up 378 yards worth of offense, rushing for 191 and passing for 187 more on an 11-for-20 afternoon that included two touchdowns and three interceptions. Vermilion had a 19-16 first down edge.

"They never quit. I really admire the guys," said Helley in post-game praise for the Northmen, who have 10 players starting both ways — offensively and defensively. "We out-played them in the second half."

Graalum was named Northland's offensive player of the game and sophomore end Greg Langerud (Edinburg, N.D.) was named the team's defensive player of the game with 22 tackles, including 11 solo stops.

In other Northwest vs. Northeast Division match-ups Saturday, the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) routed Hibbing 44-0 and Brainerd blanked Mesabi 23-0 for Northwest Division wins, but Itasca edged Fergus Falls 14-6 for a Northeast Division victory.

On Saturday, in addition to Hibbing being at Northland, UMC will be at Mesabi, Brainerd at Itasca and Vermilion at Fergus Falls.

DNR hotline

1. How do you decide who does what in the DNR?

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is divided into five divisions: forestry; parks and recreation; waters; soils and minerals; enforcement; and fish and wildlife. It also has smaller units called bureaus in charge of lands and information and education.

Minnesota is divided into five administrative regions with regional headquarters at Bemidji, Grand Rapids, Brainerd, New Ulm and St. Paul. These headquarters house representatives from all five divisions.

Each region is divided into areas for the administration of forestry, wildlife and enforcement programs. Within the division of forestry, each area is divided into districts which may encompass a few townships or a full county. Harvey Tjader, District Forester, Northome.

2. What is the status of the muskie planting program for Lake Bemidji?

Lake Bemidji was initially stocked with 500 muskies in 1978. Several of those fish have been reported caught and released by walleye anglers but the number introduced was too small to establish a fishable population.

Mississippi strain muskellunge eggs were obtained from wild fish in Leech Lake during 1982. Six lakes statewide received plants from the offspring, including a percent return to Leech Lake. Lake Bemidji was among this group and received 2,700 muskies last year. The lake is scheduled to be restocked with Mississippi strain fish when they become available. No muskie strains will be stocked in Lake Bemidji. Howard Latvala, Area Fisheries Supervisor.

3. Do you have a question, a complaint, or a suggestion regarding how your natural resources are managed?

DNR Hotline is your direct channel to a representative who will answer you, whether it concerns parks, fish, wildlife, forests, waters or minerals. Write: DNR Hotline, 2115 Birchmont Beach Road NE, Bemidji, MN 56601; telephone 755-3976.

Tallest tree in the world is as high as a 36-story building, says National Wildlife's "Ranger Rick" magazine. The tree? The coast redwood of California and Oregon.

STATE OF MINNESOTA
COUNTY OF PENNINGTON
PROBATE COURT
COUNTY COURT
PROBATE DIVISION
Order and Notice of Hearing on Petition for Appointment of Personal Representative in Supervised Administration and Notice to Creditors

In Re: Estate of Blanche A. Peterson, Deceased.

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS:

It is Ordered and Notice is hereby given that on the 5th day of October, 1983, at 2:45 o'clock P.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the appointment of Orville M. Hanson whose address is 420 Merriam Avenue, South, Thief River Falls, Minnesota, 56701, as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration, and that any objections thereto must be filed with the Court. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes and expenses, and sell real and personal property, and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Clerk of the Court within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

Dated: September 13, 1983.

National Day Of Unity Set For October 1

National coalition against domestic violence, a network of community based programs for battered women and their children and supportive persons, has declared October 1 as the third National Day of unity.

In previous years, communities within the seven county area served by the Ripley Shelter for battered women have honored this day in various ways, including the distribution of information on domestic violence. Many churches have held special candlelight and prayer services, with a moment of silence broken by the ringing of church bells.

Ripley shelter representatives will again be contacting religious organizations, former battered women, state representatives and supportive persons, urging them to participate in observance of ceremonies mourning women who have died by acts of domestic violence and celebrating the work which is being accomplished by programs for battered women and their children. Recognition will also be given to courageous battered women who, in sharing their experiences, are able to reach out to other abused women.

National day of unity is intended to be a statement of over 300 member organizations working to change attitudes and values that support violence against women. Members believe that this consciousness raising work must accompany emergency services provided to victims of domestic violence, and urge public participation in the observance of national day of unity.

Persons desiring further information may contact the Ripley shelter by calling 681-5596.

Exemption Is Filed For Use Of Paraquat

Crisis exemption for the use of the pesticide Paraquat has been issued by the Minnesota department of agriculture to facilitate the harvest of this year's dry edible bean crop valued at more than $8.4 million.

Paraquat now is being used to combat the results of this year's unusual weather. Northern Minnesota's dry edible bean crop is at hazard due to extremely wet weather, while most of the nation's crops are being decimated by drought conditions.

Late summer rains have rejuvenated the bean plant growth when the plants should be withering to permit effective combining. Paraquat application will arrest plant growth and enhance natural dry-down of the standing bean vines.

Crisis exemption approval of the pesticide use on dry edible beans by the Minnesota department of agriculture will not only relieve the threat of severe economic loss for the growers, but will also cushion the impact of this year's already short national crop of dry edible beans in future consumer prices.

Minnesota is the seventh leading state in dry edible bean production. This year's bean crop is currently forecast at 56.1 million pounds, nearly four per cent of the U.S. total. This year's national crop is forecast 33 per cent less than the 1982 dry edible bean harvest.

Use of Paraquat as a dessicant for the dry bean crop had been approved in past seasons by the environmental protection agency under section 18 of the federal insecticide, fungicide and rodenticide act, according to the application for the Minnesota crisis exemption filed by the Red River edible bean growers association.

Heart Research Scholarships Are Available

Minnesota affiliate of the American heart association announced recently that VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars; heart scholarships are available to enable students to work with a heart association health science researcher next summer.

All applications must be submitted no later than November 1. To be eligible for the scholarships, applicants must be Minnesota residents and either graduating high school seniors or college freshman and juniors who have an interest in the health science area.

Minimum of three scholars will be chosen on a merit basis by a heart association committee of medical professionals and lay people. Each will be awarded $1,200 for an internship to work on a research laboratory during June, July and August. Assignments will be made according to interests of the student and openings available.

Established in 1981, the scholarship program is sponsored by the Minnesota affiliate of the American heart association and funded by the VFW and Ladies auxiliary.

For further information or application forms for the VFW heart scholarships contact local college or high school counselors; write to the American Heart Association, Minnesota Affiliate, 4701 West 77th Street, Minneapolis, MN 55435; or call (612) 835-3300.

Auto-dialing Devices May Not Be Legal

Automatic emergency telephone dialing equipment may sound like a good idea, but Minnesotans should be aware that state law requires written permission to be obtained from local law enforcement offices, fire departments or emergency response centers before their numbers can be programmed into the equipment.

Devices in question are generally attached to a telephone in a convenient location, such as at bedside. In case of a night-time emergency such as a fire or burglary, the individual activates the equipment which automatically dials a preprogrammed number and delivers a personally recorded request for help.

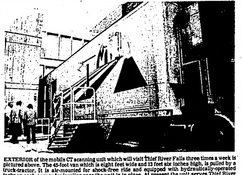
Reason for the law, according to the Minnesota department of public safety, is that the emergency systems may be incompatible with operating procedures of some official emergency telephone dispatching centers.

Thief River Falls police chief Ken Froschheiser stated that people considering purchase of one of the devices should contact his office first, since they discouraged their use except under unusual circumstances. "False alarms caused by accidental triggering of the devices can needlessly tie up officers who might be needed somewhere else," he commented. In addition, dispatchers may need to ask specific questions in order to allow them to make the proper response to a particular emergency.

Department of public safety officials note that many communities do not have full-time dispatchers, and will channel their night calls to a dispatching station in another community, requiring an individual with one of the dialing devices to gain further permission from the night dispatcher.

An estimated 116.3 million persons worked at some time during 1982 and 26.5 million encountered some unemployment, according to data from the annual work experience survey reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

COMPUTER INSTRUCTOR David Peterson, standing, introduced about 100 of his fellow teachers to his subject during workshops held at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls on Friday. Working with 17 to 18 teachers in a group, Peterson taught them basic operation of the machines, in order to give them a better understanding of what's available and how they could utilize it. In addition to instructors from grades 7 to 12, some of the school office personnel also took the class. Size of the computer department was increased this year, with construction of a special room to house the computer modules, which were increased from two to 20 this summer.



EXTERIOR of the mobile CT scanning unit which will visit Thief River Falls three times a week is pictured above. The 45-foot van which is eight feet wide and 13 feet six inches high, is pulled by a truck-tractor. It is air-mounted for shock-free ride and equipped with hydraulically-operated jacks on each corner for leveling once the unit is in place. At present the unit serves Thief River Falls, Fergus Falls and Crookston from its Fargo base of operations.

MANAGER of the Farmers Co-op Creamery at Goodridge for the past seven years, Dale Hanson is pictured at the co-op's warehouse. Rather than build a storage building, the creamery purchased a semi-trailer van and utilizes it for storage of feeds and seeds. The creamery, which noted its 75th anniversary with an open house Thursday, had a sale volume of $1,371,000 in fiscal 1982 and expects to be well over the $1.5 million mark in the year ending September 30, 1983. Last year the co-op had a net profit of $62,000 and operational costs of only $51,000.

Art Adventure Volunteers To Meet On Wed.

Organizational meeting of volunteers in the "Art Adventure" program conducted in the Thief River Falls elementary schools will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Gretchen Beito home, 2211 Nelson Drive.

Some new assignment of volunteers will be made due to the closing of Knox elementary school. New volunteers are needed in the program and potential participants may contact Mrs. Beito prior to the Wednesday meeting.

The program emphasizes appreciation of art in grades three, four, five and six by bringing reproductions of art works into the classroom and discussing the artist, his or her work and related information.

Among participants in the 1982-83 art adventure program are Diane Krepp, Carol Tranby, Ina Thorsgaard, Judy Dimich, Beth Blankenfeld, Melvine Dagg, Sande Drevlow, Margaret Saetre, Mary Evans and Mrs. Beito.

Median annual earnings for wage and salary workers who usually worked full-time year-around were $17,559 in 1982, up from $16,563 in 1981, according to the annual work experience survey reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

NCC Class On Desserts Set For October 6

New non-credit course entitled "flaming desserts" will be offered by Northland community college on Thursday, October 6, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Lincoln high school in the home economics room. Instructor for the course is Glenna Hanson.

Flaming desserts using fruits is the newest class in the series "super foods for super (busy) people." Three flaming desserts and one flaming punch along with a couple of quicky dessert ideas will be presented.

These classes are unique in that you will have an opportunity to prepare a recipe with a partner and sample all recipes. You will gain familiarity with the recipes to serve them with flair.

These classes are designed for busy people who want to get out of the kitchen or simply don't have time to cook, but want to serve luscious, healthful meals for their families and other special people in their lives.

Cost for the course is $3 plus cost of materials. You may pre-register by calling Northland community college at 681-2181. Class is limited to 15, so pre-register by October 4.

NCC Classes Still Taking Registrations

Registration for all community service classes offered by Northland community college is still open at the first class meeting.

By starting date, classes offered are: September 26, knitting and crocheting; September 27, beginning and intermediate ballet, jazz dance, quilting, and basic wood carving; September 28, how to use your camera, and beginning conversational Spanish; September 29, macrame and beginners and intermediate karate.

Radio Station Changes Name

Radio Station KAVS, operating from the Area Vocational Technical Institute in Thief River Falls, has received permission from the federal communications commission (FCC) to change their call letters to KSRQ.

KAVS was granted a license to broadcast in 1971 by the FCC. Under its new call letters, the station will continue to broadcast from 7 a.m. until 10:15 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

KAVS-KSRQ is a public, non-profit radio station, governed by school district 564 in Thief River Falls.

Material Pack Available To MN Teachers

Newly developed package of curriculum enrichment materials, for kindergarten through grade six, are soon to be available for elementary school teachers in Minnesota. Materials were developed by the governor's council on rural development and are available, free of charge, to Minnesota elementary school teachers who attend any one of the 15 in-service workshops to be held across the state this fall.

The curriculum materials were developed to assist teachers and students, in both urban and rural areas of the state, about the need to protect agricultural land from soil erosion and the conversion of farmland to other uses.

Series of teacher in-service training workshops will be held to familiarize elementary school teachers and principals with the council's package of materials, as well as other free teacher materials from the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) soil conservation service, Minnesota department of natural resources, agricultural extension service, the state soil and water conservation board, and Minnesota women for agriculture. Meeting will be held at Lon's, Thief River Falls, on September 26.

The $10 registration fee will cover the cost of refreshments and dinner. For registration materials and more information, please contact your regional Educational Cooperative Services Unit (ECSU) or Laura Noy, project consultant, at 630 Sherman avenue, North Mankato, MN 56001.

NCC Observes This Week As Homecoming

Homecoming will be celebrated at Northland community college with a variety of activities throughout this week, culminating on Saturday with a 1:30 p.m. football game against Hibbing community college at Prowler Field; a social gathering from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at Lon's, with complimentary hors d'oeuvres; and a student-alumni dance at the golf club from 9 p.m. to 1 p.m.

Various dress codes will be observed in the days preceding homecoming, with Tuesday designated as Western Day, Wednesday as Hometown T-shirt Day, Thursday as Punk Day, and Friday as Dress Up Day.

Coronation of homecoming royalty will be conducted in the Northland theater at 2 p.m. on Friday.

Car Club's Love Limited Only To Three Years

Ian McDonald, president of the international Fifty 567 Club, says that it was actually started as a joke about 10 years ago, when owners of cars made after the early 1940s were not allowed to participate in car shows because their vehicles weren't old enough.

"We had to park across the street," he says, adding that they "just decided to start our own club." His wife Annie, who is the main promoter for the club, says that street rodders laughed at them, saying, "Your car's okay for a driver."

No one is laughing at them anymore. The club has grown to become one of the most successful car clubs in Canada, with 1,074 members and 1,333 vehicles registered. "That's not bad, eh?" Annie says, noting that membership is limited to only Chevrolets and Pontiacs made in 1955, 56 and 57. They also have members in England, Australia, Finland, New Zealand and the United States, with Thief River Falls holding the distinction of having the only full fledged chapter in this country.

Membership in the club costs $25 per year, with the only requirement being ownership of a qualifying car. All family members are included in one membership, but she notes that their youngest member is seven years old, having been given a 1955 Nomad by his father, along with a membership in the club. The oldest member is over 70.

All members receive a subscription to the "567 News," a magazine which Annie laboriously puts together by herself every month. Presently in black and white, she notes that they intend to go to full color pictures on the cover, possibly next month. The August issue was 23 pages long, and was very well layed out, considering the limited equipment which she has to work with. Pictures and coverage of the last event was clipped from the newspaper in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, where it was held, and arranged to fit the magazine format. She types editorials, news articles and ads on a typewriter. Classified ads are free for members, and therefore numerous.

Ian notes that the club is subsidized through sales of T-shirts and other paraphernalia, noting that they may be one of the more financially solvent car clubs because of it. They recently purchased a copying machine, and are considering getting a word processor to enable Annie to work more efficiently. She is presently the only payed employee of the club, and Ian notes that she "earns every penny of it."

When the club was first started, only Chevrolets were eligible for membership, but Canadian Pontiacs were later admitted since they are very similar in body style. "Actually, American Pontiacs are huge compared to the Canadian versions," Annie notes, "but the Canadian cars are almost identical except for the front end, trim and tail lights." Members petitioned later to allow American Pontiacs to join. Ian, however, is strongly opposed to expanding the basis for the club beyond cars and trucks made in 1955, 56 and 57. "Keeping it limited has been the reason for our success in the past, and I intend to try and keep it that way," he said.

What's so special about the cars made in those years? Nearly everyone asked mentions the styling first. "It's a classic design," says Annie. "Chevrolet did some very innovative things in 1955, like the stylish lines of the Nomad wagon. They're just beautiful." Others note that 1955 was the first year that Chevrolet became really performance oriented, with the introduction of the overhead valve V8 engine. "They really dominated the racing scene during those years."

Talk among members at the meets generally revolves around the cars. Reasons for being there vary from one person to the next. Some come to look for parts while others are there to party. What they all share, however, is a common interest in what they feel is the greatest car ever made. Some good natured teasing occurs over who drank too many beers last time around, or maybe over how much someone paid for a part, but the talk always comes back to their cars.

Popularity of the models is undisputed, and many fans can determine whether part of a car is an original or a copy just by looking at it. Ian, who helps pay his way to the various meets by selling reproduction parts, notes that many of the new ones are even better than the originals. He also estimates that only about the only part that isn't presently being copied is the frame, adding, "I think somebody in California is working on it."

Competition for the club exists in the United States, in the form of the Classic Chevys club, which also limits its membership to 55, 56 and 57s. I asked Bruce Timchuk, area representative for the Fifty 567 Club, and member of the Thief River Falls chapter why they didn't join that organization instead of the Canadian group. "We attended some of their meets, he said, "but these people just made us feel like we were all one big family."

Members of the "family" behaved like one too. They all stayed in the same motel (at least until it was full), played together, ate together, and even traveled great distances to be together. Brent Graham drove his '57 four-door wagon over 900 miles from Medley, Alberta to attend the meet.

Inheritance Tax Replaced By Estate Tax

If you are the beneficiary or the administrator of an estate, certain changes in Minnesota tax laws that took effect after Jan. 1, 1980 will affect you, according to John Zangs, group chief of the estate tax group. Minnesota no longer has an inheritance tax and now taxes the estate instead of the share that each beneficiary receives.

Return must be filed only if the gross estate exceeds $275,000 for a person who died in 1983. This amount gradually increases each year to $600,000 in 1987. Return is due within nine months from the decedent's date of death. If a return cannot be filed within this period, extensions of up to five years can be applied for.

Form ET-1, Minnesota resident estate tax return, is used to file your estate tax. These forms are available by writing: Minnesota department of revenue, estate and fiduciary tax group, Centennial office building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55145.

If you need further information about how to file, or the filing requirements, call toll free 1-800-652-9747 and ask for extension 296-3475.

These law changes have substantially reduced the number of people required to file a return, and the amount of tax due, says Zangs.

Minnesota also has repealed the gift tax for gifts made after December 31, 1979.

Aviation Data Network Gives Weather Info

A private Minneapolis company and the Minnesota department of transportation, division of aeronautics, have joined forces to establish a unique computer data network in 51 key locations throughout the state which will provide realtime weather information for pilots.

The data terminals, located in both small and large towns, including Thief River Falls, Roseau, Baudette, Crookston and Bemidji, give pilots access to the meteorological division of Kavouras, Inc. called Realtime Atmospheric Monitoring (RAM).

The RAM weather data base computer is located at Kavouras' headquarters in the FAA building in Minneapolis. Utilizing the network, pilots may obtain weather information, weather graphics, and computerized flight plans from the terminal locations or from their own home computers.

The network is reported to be the first project of its kind in which private enterprise has combined with a state department of aviation to provide this type of weather information to enhance safety in the air.

"Safety is the ultimate goal," said Mr. Jan Peterson, vice president and general manager of RAM. "While the FAA has flight service stations across the state, the increase in private the corporate aircraft, they are hard-pressed to serve the entire state, especially the smaller cities," he added. "In this computer age, the RAM data network is most efficient in solving the problem for today as well as for the expanding needs of tomorrow."

Weather information from the national weather service and the federal aviation administration is available to data base users on a 24-hour-per-day basis, providing pilots with the most current data available.

To optimize usage of the system, software for the date terminals has been programmed for simplicity. A listing of new items added to the data base system operation instruction are contained with the program for the user to access. Simply typing "HELPOUT" at the terminal causes the system to prompt the user in all applications.

In addition, a number of seminars are being conducted throughout the state for pilot weather indoctrination. Along with providing weather date to non-urban and metropolitan airport sites and compatibility with pilots' home computer terminals, the network will afford access to information for Minnesota pilots when they are outside the state. Access from the 51 data terminals will be available to pilots at no charge. Pilots may also receive the weather service at their home computers for a monthly fee.

The project is being financed by user taxes paid by Minnesota's aviation community, not the state's general revenue funds.

"The aviation trust fund gets its resources three ways," points out Dick Keinz, state commissioner of aeronautics. "Users pay registration fees, airline flight property taxes, and aircraft fuel taxes. This project is funded from those sources."

In discussing the importance of the network, he said: "Nearly one-half of all air traffic accidents are weather related. Having this type of weather date available to all of Minnesota's pilots must be looked upon as a program that will save lives. It clearly is money well spent."

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration awarded $18.4 million during the 1981 fiscal year to employer organizations, labor groups, educational institutions and nonprofit firms interested in upgrading their safety and health competency through training, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's annual report.

FACTUAL NEWS REPORTING EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

Computer Theft No Game

Following editorial is from the Sacramento Union:

There's been so much emphasis on legislation to protect the individual's right of privacy from computers that little thought appears to have been given to protecting computers from individuals.

That is, until the hit summer film, "War Games," glorified a teenage computer whiz from Seattle who almost starts World War III by gaining access to the NORAD defense system with his home computer and telephone. His mischief apparently inspired a group of Milwaukee teenagers who were caught tapping into a computer at the Los Alamos, N.M., nuclear weapons laboratory as well as New York's Memorial Sloan Kettering Center.

The bizarre developments on film in "War Games" and in real life in Milwaukee are becoming all too frequent in our computer-oriented society.

Much of it isn't reported by major firms because the loss of business resulting from the adverse publicity might be worse than the theft. Small business firms are particularly vulnerable from the break-ins because they have fewer resources to devote to security and to withstand losses. But guess who pays for the losses? We all do.

Don Parker, a senior consultant at the Stanford Research Institute and the author of several books on computer crime, predicts a sharp escalation of computer theft in the future because the computer has replaced the bank vault, it only takes seconds to execute a crime with the help of the telephone and the criminal community is getting more technically educated. (Prison systems, for example, now teach data processing.)

A number of steps are being taken to stem this chilling scenario. Computer information firms do place a high priority on developing new security systems to thwart the break-in artists and quickly spot cases of theft.

There are also approximately 40 different federal statues that currently apply to various aspects of computer theft, generally viewing it in terms of fraud. Laws in 18 states, meanwhile, have redefined the concept of property to include computer information. A 1979 California statute treats any unauthorized computer access as felony trespassing, for example.

A tougher national policy is necessary because of the obvious dangers to national security and the nation's economy. What is needed is federal legislation recodifying the statutes to protect computer information in the same way. Legislation sponsored by Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla., intends to do just that. Another worthy measure, sponsored by Rep. Ron Wyden, R-Ore., would create a task force to outline how computer fraud specifically affects small business.

In the meantime, those "rambusters," "chipheads," and "security hackers" from Milwaukee deserve more than a wrist-slapping.

Blue Collar Tax Revolt

Following editorial is from the Wall Street Journal:

The folks who've been writing off the politics of tax cuts and limited government had better go talk to Jim Butler of Munroe Falls, Ohio.

The wiry 39-year-old Mr. Butler, a hoodlatch assembler in the nearby Chrysler plant in Twinsburg, is active in his United Auto Workers local. Someday he'd like to be on its executive committee. He went to Washington in labor's 1981 Solidarity Day protest against President Reagan's Social Security cuts. Now he is a county leader in Ohio's roaring tax revolt.

Just last week, a statewide group called Ohioans to Stop Excessive Taxation handed in more than half a million signatures, apparently a record, on two initiatives for the November ballot that have shocked the state's establishment. The first would roll back nearly two years of constant state tax increases. The second would require a three-fifths vote of the legislature, instead of the present majority, to pass any further tax rise. The state Department of Taxation puts the cost of the measures at well over one billion dollars of revenue. Yet right now the initiatives look like they'll win in a landslide, with the overwhelming support of union Democrats like Jim Butler. Mr. Butler says he found only two people in his plant of 3,000 who refused to sign the taxcut petitions.

The reason is deceptively simple. Ohio has hard times, and nearly everyone has been hit. When a struggling Chrysler asked for contract consessions, Mr. Butler lost $2.35 an hour from his paycheck. Double-digit unemployment and plummeting tax revenues demolished Ohio's state budget. When two successive governors raised the income tax rates some 90 per cent to compensate, the state tax bite on Mr. Butler's weekly stub soared from around $5 to $11.38.

To make things worse, the new Democratic governor, Richard Celeste, wrapped all his Republican predecessor's temporary increases into a tidy permanent income tax rise this February. The issue came up shortly afterward at a meeting of the UAW Community Action Program council in Mr. Butler's county. Recalls Mr. Butler, "One guy raised his hand and said a lot of people were out of work already and these taxes were going to force companies to leave Ohio. He made a motion from the floor to get the taxes repealed, and everybody said 'Yes'."

But they didn't have just taxes on their mind. Talk to Mr. Butler a little longer and you hear about Chrysler, about the Japanese, about changing technology. The company's apparent rapid recovery makes him wonder why workers had to give up so much. The pressure is up at the plant, he says; "I told my foreman I don't live in Japan. Treat me like an American." He's worried about the automation of a plant that's already shrunk from 4,700 workers to just over 3,000. "Robots can build a better car," he says," but they damn sure can't buy one."

Mr. Butler probably speaks for almost all his fellow workers when he says, "I have 17 years at the plant, and I don't feel secure yet." But far from being a free-floating alienation, this anxiety is leading him to some very specific conclusions about taxes and government. He wouldn't mind paying some increase, he says, if he could see what it went for. But he can't. He's all for education, he says, "but I've never seen schoolteachers give up concessions." He isn't worried a bit about the highly probable threat that a large cut in state revenue would reduce the state program of local property tax relief (the largest sacred cow in the state budget). If localities try to make up the difference in real estate tax raises, he says, "You still have to vote for it."

Somehow things weren't suppose to turn out this way last fall when the Democrats swept the state house on the back of the recession. Union men weren't supposed to begin talking the language of fiscal limitation, and progressive taxes weren't supposed to be the kiss of death for a liberal young governor. Mr. Butler and his peers are still a long way from supporting President Reagan and the GOP. But they've found an outlet for their frustrations in the Tax Revolt, and it could be more than enough to make them heard loud and clear.

Taxing Situation

If there's one thing certain, it's that Americans don't like to pay taxes. And there are some taxes they dislike paying even more than other taxes.

This was brought out by a Gallup poll commissioned by a federal-state panel, the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. It showed that the income tax, considered by most economists as the most progressive form of taxation, is viewed by the public as the least fair tax it pays.

What sort of tax, then, do Americans prefer? This is assuming, of course, their gruding acceptance of the tax burden.

Well, according to the poll, a majority of Americans would prefer a new national sales tax over higher income taxes if soaring budget deficits force the government to find new sources of revenue. Not surprisingly, people with higher incomes gave much more support for the sales tax than lower-income respondents.

Asked what would be the best way to raise federal taxes, 52 per cent of those polled chose a new national sales tax on all purchases except food. Only 24 per cent preferred higher income taxes, and another 24 per cent said they didn't know.

The same trend showed up in a question about potential state and local tax increases. Queried on state taxes, for example, 57 per cent favored the sales tax, 23 per cent the income tax, and 20 per cent said they didn't know.

Where the pollsters really missed the boat was in not asking Americans whether they favored cutting government spending instead of raising taxes. It's a safe bet that the answer to that question would be a resounding yes.

Mutual Fund Investors Overwhelmingly Satisfied

MUTUAL FUNDS

Some 97.7 market fund shareholders said "yes" when they were asked if they were satisfied with their mutual fund service. So did 96.6 percent of stock and bond fund investors.

Is everybody happy?

Very nearly all mutual fund investors are, according to a shareholder survey recently released by the Investment Company Institute, the national association of mutual funds.

More than 2,000 investors in stock and bond mutual funds and more than 600 money market fund investors were asked if they were satisfied or dissatisfied with the service, communication, and performance of their funds.

Fund service satisfied 97 percent of both groups. Similarly, communications from their respective funds satisfied 96 percent of all those surveyed.

Investment performance was considered satisfactory by 99 percent of money market fund investors, and 79 percent of stock and bond fund investors.

Since the survey was conducted, in 1982, performance figures for stock and bond funds have further enhanced their attractiveness as investments. Many investors have decided the best way to take advantage of the stock market is through mutual funds, which spread risks and are run by professional money managers.

The rate of return from mutual funds investing in common stocks increased to an average of 20.8 percent a year for the five year period ended in June. During the same period, the Standard & Poor's 500—a measure of how the stock market as a whole behaves—rose 18 percent a year.

The increase in values has helped spur a steep increase in sales: in just the first six months of 1983, sales of mutual funds other than short-term funds totaled $22.4 billion—40 percent above the whole of 1982, itself a record year.

STRAIGHT TALK

Albert D. Hattis, Associate Professor of Business and Holder of the Schwan Endowed Chair for Free Enterprise, Southwest State University, Marshall

Walking along a hotel corridor at about six one morning, I noticed signs on door knobs saying, "Do Not Disturb." Waiting for breakfast, I thought about those signs. Many of us do not want to be disturbed by anything because we just don't care and involvement signifies some degree of caring.

There are those who don't want to make any commitments because they fear the penalty of taking sides. Some want to wait and hop on the bandwagon of a sure winner. (We even have some politicians who try to determine where the public opinion parade is heading, and then quickly run to the front of that parade so that they can be "leaders.")

Then there are those who feel that we must be givers and doers as well as takers, and who want action to get problems resolved. These Americans are the responsible people who get things done. Doers always run the risk of making a mistake. The uncommitted, who do nothing, never run that risk.

Today we are living in a world with significant problems. The Russians are agitating and upsetting conditions everywhere based on a clear desire to dominate. They continue to build up their military strength as they sponsor "peaceniks" worldwide campaigning for everyone else to cut back.

Our economy is in trouble. Interest rates are too high. Unemployment is excessive. Large numbers of American companies are not producing at competitive prices because of excessive wages and benefits, as well as low productivity and a lack of investment in up to date plants and equipment.

Our dollar has gotten so expensive in the world markets, that our already high priced products and services are even more costly, because foreign customers must buy expensive dollars to get American products. Our international trade deficit gets bigger and bigger because we buy more than we sell... it is a time bomb waiting to blow.

Our government continues to spend much more than it takes in, building up steam for an ever increasing inflationary bubble that will burst.

Some 320,000 Americans die due to smoking every year, and the figure grows, and nothing effective is done about it. We even have government providing assistance to tobacco farmers.

Many of the third world and less developed countries are in serious financial trouble and have other internal political problems trying to adjust to independence and the responsibilities it imposes.

Looking at individuals, the marriage rate is stable at about 11 for every 1,000 people, but the divorce rate has almost tripled in the last 20 years. Families are breaking up at an ever increasing rate. The deterioration of the family has brought a reduction in individual responsibility, dumping family problems on the government's doorstep.

With all of these problems needing attention, the indifference of our people is significant. Like those signs on the door knobs, many of us have posted "Do Not Disturb" attitudes. We have become conditioned to these problems. We know they exist. But we don't want to dirty our hands with them or the need to come up with meaningful answers based on reality.

Facing reality includes: (1) Recognizing that unilateral nuclear freezes and arms reduction will not achieve anything; (2) the economic problems we now are experiencing require a cooperative effort on the part of management, labor and government, to reduce wages, increase productivity, and make our businesses competitive; (3) a positive program to balance our trade deficit must be instituted, even if that means that mature trading partners must be willing to buy as well as sell, so that we can "even out" our trade and bring the dollar down to a fair value level; (4) our government must operate with balanced budgets, so that if we make demands on the government with an open outstretched hand, we must be willing to make the added tax payments with an open downturned hand; (5) to have hundreds of thousands of Americans dying from cigarette smoking is just plain stupid . . . it makes us look dumb; (6) we must do a better job of family living, loving and caring, with greater tolerance and understanding, to keep the American family alive and responsible (Many of our social welfare programs are really substitutes for families doing what they ought to be doing for other family members).

What it really gets down to, as I see it, is everyone being willing to be disturbed, take an interest, realistically listen and try to understand, issue by issue. Our problems will not depart with a positive mental attitude. They require action. They will get solved, one way or the other, but I believe that we will get better answers from doing something instead of not wanting to be disturbed, and letting problems "slide."

That's Straight Talk!

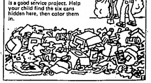
Pointers For Parents

On The Trail To Helping Others



TRAILS TO HELPING PEOPLE!

Many of America's parents are encouraging their children to become good citizens at an early age by joining them in a national program for youngsters that makes helping other people a pleasant adventure.

"Giving service" is one of the most important parts of the Camp Fire experience. Camp Fire, founded in 1910 as Camp Fire Girls, is a program open to boys and girls of all ages who want to learn new skills, explore the outdoors and serve their communities. Parents can become a part of the program, too, by working as adult volunteers.

Camp Fire children are helping to save an endangered wildlife species, the bluebird. They're making friends with senior citizens. They're participating in community clean-up and recycling projects.

Adventurers are Camp Fire members in fourth, fifth and sixth grades. With the guidance of trained leaders, the youngsters in the program work and play together through projects they help plan, while learning about themselves and their world.

You and your child can find out more about this special group of young people—and how you can become a part of it—by contacting the Camp Fire Council in this area.

Two Businesses Are Awarded SBA Contracts

Celso C. Moreno, district director of the Minnesota U.S. small business administration (SBA), announced two Minnesota small businesses have been awarded federal contracts totaling over $1,500,000.

Rollins Container Corp. of Bloomington, received two contracts valued at $1,079,000 from general services administration for box and shipping fiberboard products; and Kenko, Inc. of Blaine, received a contract valued at $460,000 from general services administration for water control structure replacement.

These contracts were made under the agency's 8(a) program which is designed to assist firms owned and operated by economically and socially disadvantaged firms.

Moreno said the contracts are an example of the "far greater emphasis" the SBA is placing on its procurement assistance programs; those programs which assist small firms obtain a greater share of the federal procurement dollar.

"Minnesota has not obtained its fair share of the federal procurement dollar in the past," Moreno said, "therefore our office intends to go well beyond what's required of us to insure the federal procurement dollar finds its way to the Minnesota small businesses."

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL people representing a wide variety of career fields, met for an evaluation session following their participation in Career Information Day on Wednesday at the facilities of Northland community college and the area vocational technical institute. Thirty-seven speakers met with small groups of Lincoln high school juniors to explain various aspects of their jobs. Evaluation session was conducted under the direction of Sverre Solheim, standing at right. Whitey Olson, standing at left, thanked the participants on behalf of the high school, noting that it provided students with one more tool which they can use in selecting career goals for themselves.

Arctco Options Arctic Purchase For 60 Days

Officials of Arctco, Inc., of Thief River Falls will be scrambling in the next 60-day period to assemble a financial package to enable purchase of the former Arctic Enterprises plant facilities in Thief River Falls.

William Ness, board chairman and chief executive officer, announced this week that Arctco has negotiated a 60-day first option to purchase the complete Arctic Cat facility from Minstar, Inc. He noted that Irwin Jacobs and other executives of Minstar have been very cooperative in negotiating the option.

Cost of the acquisition has been set at $2 million and the purchase would include six buildings in the Arctic Cat complex — the main manufacturing plant, engineering building, office building, cold storage building and two other smaller buildings of about 8,000 and 6,000 square feet. Total square footage of building area purchased would be in excess of 550,000 square feet.

At present, Arctco, Inc. is using about 100,000 square feet in the main assembly plant for manufacture of Arctic Cat snowmobiles. The production run is on schedule and is expected to continue until about mid-November.

Arctco officials stressed the importance of having the availability of a building uniquely suited to snowmobile manufacture available for that operation. Since the present contract with Minstar is for use of the building for this year only, Arctco officials are naturally concerned about available facilities for anticipated expanded production next year and in the future.

Chris Twomey of the Arctco management team also noted that it is important to the company to remain in Thief River Falls. "The availability here of high quality, dedicated and experienced employees will guarantee that Arctco continues to produce the highest quality snowmobiles on the market today and in the future," he said. "Those employees exist only in Thief River Falls."

Twomey said the 60-day option with Minstar runs through November 30 and that terms of any sale have not been included in the agreement. Arctco could neither substantiate nor disprove rumors of imminent sale of the facilities here and the option was obtained to safeguard the company against having to look elsewhere for a manufacturing facility.

Recent announcement of Thief River Falls' apparent selection as an Enterprise Zone city was not a deciding factor in the Arctco effort to secure the option, he said, but such designation and the advantages it provides could be of assistance in the future.

Board chairman Ness said that Arctco will be examining every internal financing possibility in order to complete the acquisition within the 60-day period. He said the company intends to vigorously pursue city, county and state governments for their assistance in the investment which Arctco intends to make in Thief River Falls and Minnesota.

Lincoln high school yearbooks will be distributed Friday in the high school cafeteria from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m.

Career Day Is Held Here Wed. For HS Juniors

Career information day was sponsored by the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce, Northland community college and the area vocational technical institute on Wednesday, September 21, for approximately 200 Lincoln high school juniors.

Thirty-seven speakers volunteered their time to attend the session, held at the college and AVTI facilities, where they explained various aspects of their jobs to the students, offering them an opportunity to learn first-hand what requirements were for the job, and what the work really involved. Speakers represented 12 broad career areas such as: business and related areas, health services, outdoor related, human services, criminal justice, law enforcement, communications media, education, and trade and industry. These were each divided into more specific areas from which the students chose three of interest to them.

Committee responsible for planning the activity included Northland community college representatives Sverre Solheim and Madalyn Novellino, AVTI representatives Rollie Boldt and Vern Treat, Chamber of Commerce representatives Jane Mackenroth, Jim Fisher and Roger Shaffer, and Lincoln high school representative Whitey Olson.

Bemidji Airlines

TICKET COUNTER for Bemidji Airlines in Thief River Falls occupies the area formerly used by Republic Airlines during its service at the terminal building at the Thief River Falls regional airport. Visitors to the terminal during the open house conducted by Bemidji Airlines Saturday and Sunday were invited to register in a drawing for a free round trip to Minneapolis and were served coffee and doughnuts. At the counter is ticket agent and weather observer Cindy Holmes.

CAB Dismisses Objections To Bemidji Airline

Meeting in regular session this morning, the federal Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) in Washington, DC, voted 4-1 to dismiss the petitions for reconsideration filed in objection to Bemidji Airlines as replacement carrier for Republic Airlines in Thief River Falls.

The action reaffirms the CAB decision to grant the service to Bemidji Airlines and provide subsidy for its operations. Word of the board action was received by the Times from Bernard Calure, industry economist for the CAB in Washington, shortly after the board action this morning.

Petitioning for reconsideration of the Bemidji Airlines appointment were the city of Thief River Falls, Minnesota department of transportation and three unsuccessful bidders to provide the service — American Central Airlines of Waterloo, IA; Executive Airlines of Boston, MA; and Mesaba Airlines of Grand Rapids, MN.

Bemidji Airlines general manager Barb Berggren, who had said earlier she expected the CAB to stand by its original decision, was elated by the board action today.

"We look at the decision as a very positive action by the board in affirming their confidence in our ability to provide essential air service to Thief River Falls," she said. "It has always been foremost in our efforts to provide the scheduling and service which meets the needs of the community and we will continue to do our best to merit community support."

Berggren also said she was encouraged by the large turnout for the company's open house Saturday and Sunday at the Regional airport here. She said acceptance of the special $09 one-way cash only fare to Minneapolis has been good and expects to announce other special rates for families and servicemen in the next few days.

Mn. Waste Management Board Receives Comment

Five regular members and three temporary members of the Minnesota waste management board were joined by the local project review committee for Marshall county and about 50 other interested persons from a five-county area for a hearing on the draft of the hazardous waste management report Monday evening at the community center in Newfolden.

Purpose of the hearing was to provide an opportunity for the local project review committee and other interested area citizens to provide information to be considered in preparing the hazardous waste management report for the Minnesota legislature.

Kenneth Price of Stephen, chairman of the local project review committee, opened the meeting and turned the proceedings over to Tom Johnson, assistant to chairman Robert Dunn of the waste management board. Johnson introduced Alan Shilepsky who showed a series of slides on the hazardous waste problem in the state, types and amounts of waste produced, who produces it and where, and how wastes are presently handled.

It was pointed out that presently an estimated 15 per cent of the hazardous waste produced in the state goes down the sewer untreated, that 10 per cent is handled on site where it is produced, that 14 per cent is properly disposed of off-site, that 35 per cent of the hazardous waste is used oil and that disposition of approximately 25 per cent is presently unknown.

The estimated 174,000 tons of hazardous waste presently produced annually in Minnesota is expected to increase to 233,000 tons by the year 2000 if no further action is taken. If present technology is applied, the total could be reduced to about 160,000 tons by the year 2000.

While the waste management board prefers that hazardous waste first be reduced and the remainder recycled or pre-treated, it is recognized that there will always be a certain amount which is untreatable and must be disposed of safely.

Tom Jorgens of the Northwest Regional Development commission read a statement prepared by that organization setting forth reasons for opposition to location of a hazardous waste disposal site in East Park township of Marshall county. The East Park site is one of four sites being considered for above ground hazardous waste disposal.

Norma Hanson of Goodridge, a member of the local project review committee questioned costs involved in the disposal program, asking what the costs would be and who would pay them.

Lawrence Sunsdahl of Stephen, a temporary member of the state waste management board, cited uncontaminated water as a main concern of the area. He noted that Stephen receives water from the East Park area which is used for drinking purposes and that the proposed disposal site has an extremely high water table.

Mayor Earl Hougard of Strandquist expressed concern about wording in the WMB draft which indicated that training of area fire and ambulance crews "might" be

The Monday evening hearing was to permit additional local input into the report being prepared by the board for the Minnesota legislature.

School Board Airs Use Of Facilities

Discussion of a facility use policy, acceptance of several major insurance bids and notation that settlement appears to have been reached with aides and confidential employee units took place at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening in the school district service center.

The facility use policy will be presented to the board again after it has been investigated further with representation from the city of Thief River Falls.

Insurance bids accepted were in the amounts of $7,640 for bus fleet coverage from the Sam Genereux agency, effective October 1; $33,415 for general, board and aircraft liability and umbrella, crime, property and boiler coverage from Northern Employers agency, effective October 1; and $33,309 for worker's compensation coverage from Thune-Upham, Inc., effective October 1.

While it was noted that agreement appears to have been reached with the confidential employees and aides, it was also noted that negotiations session with principals and directors scheduled for September 30 had been cancelled. Also canceled was the October 5 special board meeting to discuss the October 6 mediation session with the Thief River Falls Education association and state mediator.

NCC To Crown Homecoming Queen Friday

Coronation of a queen selected from among five candidates will open the Northland community college homecoming festivities Friday at 2 p.m. at the college theatre in Thief River Falls.

Queen candidates include freshmen Carol Skarison and Margaret White and sophomores Ann Odegaard, Mindy Green and Roberta Svir. Candidates were selected by class vote and the queen will be selected by vote among the student body. Kristie Brosseau, 1982 queen, will crown her successor at the ceremonies. Skits will be presented and Steve Dalager will sing to the new queen.

Escorts for the queen candidates (in the order in which they are listed above) at the coronation will be Jim Dillon, Avery Dahl, Dan Odegaard, Bob Rockwood and Kent Kainz. Escorts for the royal court on the field during Saturday's homecoming football game against Hibbing community college will be Jeff Olson, Tom Pederson, Tim [illegible], Jon [illegible] and Alan Lull.

Kick-off time for the football game is 1:30 p.m. From 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. a social hour with hors d'oeuvres and cash bar will be conducted at Lon's restaurant with a dance to be from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Thief River golf club. Music for the dance will be provided by "Spirit". The homecoming observance is under sponsorship of the Northland student association.

Revenue Share Hearing Draws Many Requests

Thief River Falls city council heard requests last night for funding under the 1984 state and federal revenue sharing budget which far exceeded the expected allotment of approximately $80,000. Attempts by various city departments to balance their budgets by shifting expenses to the fund, and requests by outside agencies to balance lost state aids, exaggerated the split between what was requested and what was available, leaving council with some difficult decisions to be faced in the months ahead.

City finance officer Roger [illegible] commented that the proposed use hearing was one of two which council is required to hold. Hearing to establish the revenue sharing budget will be set at a later date, probably in November. He noted that the 1983 revenue sharing budget had projected revenues of $110,483 and expenditures of $108,377, leaving an unbudgeted balance of $2,106. He commented that budgeted items were coming in very close to projections, leaving little room for additional expenses.

Since 1972 the city has received $863,246 in revenue sharing funds which, through investments, have earned $44,251.31 in interest. Of the resulting $907,497.31 in that account, the city has expended $886,270.21, leaving a cash and investment balance of $21,227.10.

Among those making requests for a portion of the 1984 revenue sharing funds were: Tri-Valley para-transit bus program, requesting approximately $5,100; Tri-Valley senior meal program, requesting $10,232; Falls delivered meals, requesting $3,500; City sanitation committee, requesting $2,000 for garbage rate subsidies; Council on aging, requesting $1,500, including an increase of approximately $1,200 to plan for construction of a senior citizen center; transportation committee, requesting $6,500 for senior citizen cab subsidies; and Pioneer Village, requesting $3,000 for salary expenses;

Filings Open For Election This Week

Filings opened yesterday for candidates to be elected to city offices on November 8.

Positions to be filled by election in the city of Thief River Falls include the office of mayor, currently held by Bob Carlson, four-year term; First ward alderman, currently held by Milan Borsheim, four-year term; Third ward alderman, currently held by Ambrose Wysoski, four-year term; Fifth ward alderman, currently held by Clayton Restad, four-year term; and Alderman at large, currently held by James Womack, four-year term.

City clerk's office reports that all five incumbents have already filed for re-election. In addition, Anthony Madunich has filed for the office of third ward alderman.

Filings will be accepted between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, at the city clerk's office until October 11.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Karen J. Johnson Weds Roger Asselin At Oklee

Lighted candelbra graced the altar at Zion Lutheran church, Oklee, for the wedding of Karen Jillaine Johnson of this city and Roger Allen Asselin of Oklee.

The double ring ceremony took place on August 20 at 7:00 p.m., with Rev. Charles Gunderson officiating. At the organ was Mrs. Barb Melby, playing "Nadia's Theme," and Wagner's "Bridal Chorus" for the processional. The recessional was "Joy," by J.S. Bach. During the ceremony, the groom's nephew Wade Linnertz sang "Wedding Song (There Is Love)" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She was attired in a gown of white organza and Chantilly lace styled with a fitted lace bodice, a mandarin lace collar and an imported tulle yoke accented with English embroidery and edged with a Chantilly lace ruffle. A vertical band of lace trimmed her organza bishop sleeves, cuffed in lace. Her bouffant organza skirt which flowed into a semi-cathedral length train, was edged at the hemline by a lace ruffle. Topping the skirt was an overlay of crystal pleated lace, in apron effect. A pearl trimmed Juliet headpiece held her veil of imported bridal illusion, edged with Chantilly lace. She carried a cascading bouquet of silk lavender and white carnations, pale lavender roses, lavender daisies and white stephanotis, with lavender and white ribbon streamers.

The bride selected her only sister, Michelle Johnson, Lake Bronson, as maid of honor. Bridesmatron was Virginia Olson of Thief River Falls; and bridesmaid was Lana Christianson, also of this city. Both are friends of the bride. Their flounced off-the shoulder gowns of lilac polyester and cotton voile were fashioned with slightly raised waistlines. A deep flounce, edging the flared skirts, was secured in back at the waistline, to create a bustle effect. In their hair, they wore matching floral clips of roses and carnations. They carried white lace fans complemented by lavender, purple and white flowers and streamers, matching those in the bride's bouquet.

Carrying a white lace basket filled with similar flowers, was the flower girl, Kandice Bresser, Saskatoon, Sask., Canada, a niece of the groom. Her long-sleeved, street-length gown of white organza featured a bibbed yoke with high neckline, and a crystal pleated skirt with lettuce hemline. In her hair, she wore a miniature floral clip.

The rings were carried by Christopher Johnson, Thief River Falls, a nephew of the bride. Like the groom, he wore a gray tuxedo with a white ruffled shirt and a double-rose boutonniere.

James Lessard, Brooks, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Greg Whalen, Oklee, and Dave Bourque, Brooks, also friends of the groom. The ushers were Kevin Johnson, Lake Bronson, brother of the bride, and Wade Linnertz, East Grand Forks, a nephew of the groom. All wore gray tuxedos with white ruffled shirts accented in lavender.

A reception for approximately 160 guests, followed in the church parlors. Hosts and hostesses were Lowell and Lorna Johnson, Thief River Falls, brother and sister-in-law of the bride; and Ron and Val Bresser, Saskatoon, Sask., Canada, brother-in-law and sister of the groom. Renae Hendrickson, Moorhead, friend of the bride, was at the guest book. Serving punch were Rita Hartl, sister of the groom, and her fiance, Steve Linder, Oklee. The gifts were carried by Carrie Johnson and Dawn Bresser, niece of the bride and groom, respectively.

The four-tiered wedding cake, supported by pillars, and decorated with lavender roses, was topped by a silver Christogram. It was cut and served by Adeline Lusignan, Thief River Falls, aunt of the bride; and Therese Linnertz, East Grand Forks, sister of the groom. Pouring coffee were Phyllis Spilde, Moorhead, aunt of the bride, and Judy Aaknes, South Milwaukee, Wis., a sister of the groom. Lynn Pederson, Thief River Falls, a friend of the bride, distributed the wedding programs. Kathy Goodman, a cousin of the bride, pinned the flowers.

Following the rehearsal, the groom's parents hosted a buffet luncheon at their home for the wedding party and their families.

After a wedding trip to the Twin Cities to Valley Fair, Minnesota Zoo and the Minnesota State Fair, the couple is at home at Rt. 1, Brooks.

Roy Langevins Observe Their 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Langevin, of this city were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house Sunday afternoon, August 15, at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Les (Marlene) Snetting.

Hosting the open house were the couple's children, Marlene and Les Snetting, Dick and Gayle Langevin, Rochester; and Jim and Rita Langevin, New Franken, Wis.; assisted by seven grandchildren: Becky Moe, Yuma, Ariz.; Cheryl and Merle Friesen, Butterfield; Don Langevin, Rochester; Lisa and James Langevin, Jr., New Franken, Wis.; and great-grandson, Benjamin Moe, Yuma, Ariz.

The day began with the family attending Mass at St. Bernard's Catholic church where the couple renewed their marriage vows. Rev. Dave Super officiated.

A garden reception followed at the Snetting home with lunch served from the gazebo. Centering the serving table was a two-tiered anniversary cake topped with a gold cross. On either side of the cake were gold votive candles and large arrangements of gold mums and white carnations, gifts from the children and grandchildren, as were the corsage and boutonniere worn by the couple. The guest book, a gift from their great-grandson, Benjamin Moe, was attended by him and his mother, Becky.

During the afternoon, the couple and their family had the opportunity of visiting with many relatives and friends. Out-of-town guests were from Spokane and Richland, Wash.; Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Blackduck, Roseau, Warren, Willmar, Richmond, Ottertail and St. Hilaire. They also received telephone greetings from a number of relatives and friends who were unable to attend. Included were two grandsons: Bruce Langevin, Rochester, and Pvt. Todd Langevin, who is stationed in Maryland.

The Langevins, were married in Thief River Falls on Dec. 1, 1933 with Msgr. A.I. Merth officiating.

Rona Cook-D. Kukowski Wed At St. Bernard's

Rona Theressa Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gayle Cook of Viking, became the bride of Dennis Kukowski of Brooklyn Park, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kukowski of Viking at a two o'clock ceremony July 30 at St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city.

Rev. Dave Super officiated at the double ring ceremony with Mary Amundson serving as organist and Bud Fontes and Jackie Helms singing "Wedding Song," and "Truly".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a long-sleeved wedding gown featuring a sheer yoke with a high neckline. Lace enhanced the bodice, sleeves and Juliet headpiece that held her fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias, amethyst roses and babies' breath.

The bride's attendants were Sharon Cook, her sister as maid of honor, Debbie Kukowski, a sister of the groom, and Angie Cook, another sister. All are residents of Viking. They wore spaghetti strapped, violet floor-length gowns topped by white satin jackets featuring stand-up ruffled collars and puffy sleeves. They carried amethyst carnations, white roses and babies' breath.

Attired like the bride in a long white dress and veil and, carrying a bouquet of white carnations and purple roses, was the flower girl, Meloni Olsonoski, Lancaster, a cousin of the groom. The rings were carried by Jeremy Kukowski, Brooklyn Park, a nephew of the groom. Like the groom, he wore a white tuxedo with tails and a purple rose boutonniere.

The mother of the bride wore a lime colored floor-length gown complemented by a white carnation corsage. A similar corsage accented the peach colored gown worn by the groom's mother.

Special guests were the grandparents: Mr. and Mrs. Casmir Olsonoski of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cook, Viking and Mrs. Marion Kukowski, Greenbush. Paula Kukowski, Brooklyn Park, was the bride's personal attendant.

A reception in the church parlors followed. For the occasion, the dining area was decorated with lavender and white flowers and matching crepe paper streamers. Centering the serving table was a tiered, fountain wedding cake, also decorated in lavender and white.

Serving as hosts and hostesses were Carol Kukowski, Alroy Monsrud and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Olson. Terry Kukowski and Kelly Johnson were at the guest book; Pam Kukowski and Emily Anderson served the punch, Jodi Heggan and Sheryl Kukowski arranged the gifts, and Rena Peters, Susan Anderson, Donna Kukowski and Ramona Knutson were waitresses.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Virginia Anderson, Ruth McGregor, Florence Knutson and Pat Heggan. Beatrice Cook and Evangeline Gramstad were at the coffee service.

Following a wedding trip to Lake of the Woods, the couple is at home at 5513 Brookdale Drive, Brooklyn Park, where the groom is employed by Twin City Produce. The bride is a graduate of Warren public high school and the groom is a graduate of Marshall County Central high school, Newfolden. Photo, Thomas Anderson, uncle of the groom.

Zehlians Hear Hugh O'Brian Seminar Leader

Information on the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation was presented at the organizational meeting of the Zehlian club of the General Federation of Women's clubs, held recently at the home of Margaret Saetre.

Presenting the information was Karen Myron of Hawley, ninth district education secretary and chairman of the Hugh O'Brian youth leadership seminars. She stated that the purpose of the Minnesota Youth leadership seminars is to seek out, recognize and reward leadership potential among high school sophomores, by developing greater leadership ability, promoting pride and understanding of America's free enterprise system, and by improving their potential contributions to society.

She said that tomorrow is in the hands of the young and that they should be trained to set goals, aim high, and work towards success. She urged members, parents, teachers and the community to recognize the leadership potential in the community and to motivate the future leaders to attend the training seminars available through the O'Brian Foundation.

Maxine McEwen, who is chairman on the local level stated that information on the training seminars, open to Lincoln high school sophomores, will be available at the school sometime in October. It was noted that the Zehlians, together with Northern State Bank and the Kiwanis club had sponsored the last O'Brian recipient, Cynthia Sollem.

Numerous reports were given by the various chairmen. Gretchen Belto reported on the art program and stated that a meeting of the volunteers was scheduled for October 28, at her home. Bunny Dondelinger announced that the health care clinics will be held October 4 and 5; Dee Forney gave a review of the programs planned for the year, and Nancy Tofte listed the books to be reviewed. Complete listings will be published in the Zehlians program books.

Report was also given on the state GFWC convention held May 7 at Willmar. It was noted that Jean Hogan had received second prize on a knitted suit and Margaret Saetre was awarded a blue ribbon on her Norwegian bell pull. Mrs. Saetre stated that the importance of volunteerism had been stressed at the sessions. Attending the convention with Mrs. Saetre was Gretchen Belto.

Committees were also appointed. Bonnie Poissant and Mary Evans were selected to serve on the club magazine reporting; Sam Rasmussen, Carol Tranby and Kathy Winjum on the nominating committee; Jean Hogan on community development; Marge Hanson and Maxine McEwen, student art at the fair; Bunny Dondelinger health care clinic; and Marilyn Adams was appointed to notify Don Fugleberg that there will be a student art division for grades seven and eight at the district convention.

Guests at the meeting were Vi Bergan of Malta, Mont., and Marilyn Adams, Thief River Falls. Of special interest was the book, "Around Hawley with Ingrid," written by Karen Myron. During the social hour, Marge Hanson took individual pictures of the members for the club's scrap book.

The next meeting of the club will be held October 5 at the home of Ann Duckworth. On display will be many wooden gift items made by Mrs. Duckworth.

REV. HERRIS Heidenreich will be a guest speaker at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, October 2, at the Assemblies of God church, 315 North Duluth, Thief River Falls. He and his wife Phyllis have been missionaries in Lesotho, Southern Africa since 1973. Before missionary appointment, Heidenreich traveled more than 100,000 miles, through 26 different countries, as an assistant missionary evangelist. Special music and a slide presentation will highlight this special service which is open to the public.

Marilyn Olson Chosen Goodridge Lioness Of 1983

Marilyn Olson was presented the Lioness of the year award at the Goodridge Lioness September supper-meeting held recently at the Trapper and Trader Steak House. In addition to receiving the golden crown charm, for being the year's most outstanding Lioness, she also was presented with the past president award.

Numerous awards were also distributed to the members. Receiving the gold on white enamel emblem for the first year's perfect attendance were Jean Berndt, Marilyn Olson, Janice Peterson, Gladys Pittman, Doreen Sigerud, Dorothy Wayne, Sharon Wayne, Elaine Wiseth, Marie Wiseth and Ethel Wiseth.

Twenty-one members received the "Three in '83" awards for participating in at least three community functions, plus achieving five other established goals.

Samples of the club pins were displayed and members voted to order 500 Lionstone pins designed by Ethel Wiseth.

Plans were made for a pumpkin creativity contest with the exhibits to be displayed at the school lobby during the children's Halloween party. The contest, "Just for Kicks, Create a Monster," is open to everyone, regardless of age. Judging will be by people's choice, by contributing money in the container of their selection.

A progress report on the children's Halloween party was given. It was noted that the chairmen of the seven committees planning the event had met with third vice president Tony Bryl, head chairman, and plans were progressing satisfactorily.

Members established a Read-and-Return book rotation within the club. Members interested in participating in the exchange of books are asked to bring a book with the owners name inside the front cover.

President Doreen Sigerud presided at the meeting. Janice Peterson read the poem "Late Summer," Holly Manderud reported on the completion of the school play ground project in which the club had participated, and first vice president Elaine Wiseth and secretary Marlys Drangstveit gave an account of the September zone meeting held at the Best Western, Thief River Falls. A silent auction concluded the meeting. Peggy Hoffman received the door prize, Marilyn Olson, the dollar, and Audrey Rogalla, the free supper.

The October meeting will feature a mask judging contest. Tail twister Jean Berndt will issue a fine to members not wearing a mask.

The October board meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m.

25th Anniversary Observed Sept. 4 By Loren Races

Mr. and Mrs. Loran Race were honored on their 25th wedding anniversary at a surprise party on Sunday, September 4, at the Senior Citizen center at Goodridge.

For the occasion, their children Craig Race, Jennifer Race and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Race, presented them with a matching corsage and boutonniere of fresh flowers.

Fresh flowers also graced the tables, scattered around the room, for the convenience of the guests.

The three-tiered anniversary cake, baked and decorated by Helen Holen, Lorraine Stenvik and Janyce Bakken, was cut and served by Race's sister, Mrs. Albert Grabowska. Mrs. Ernest Race and Mrs. Norman Blackstad, sisters-in-law of the couple, poured the coffee and punch.

Relatives and friends registered at a guest book, a gift from the hosts and hostesses: Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Holen, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stenvik, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bakken.

The couple received many cards and gifts which were viewed by the guests. They also received numerous cards and gifts from those unable to be present.

Relatives and friends attending were from Hampden, Devils Lake, Cando, and Mayville, N.D.; Minneapolis, Grygla, Thief River Falls, Trail and the Goodridge community.

Blazejewski Twins Honored At Baby Shower

Mrs. Dennis Blazejewski and twin daughters: Jennifer and Jenessa, were honored at a shower recently at the Ray Schindler home.

Hostesses for the event were Marlys Schindler and Jennifer Davidson. Upon her arrival, Mrs. Blazejewski was presented with a bib corsage. Games were played, gifts opened and viewed, and a salad luncheon was served.

Those present were Mavis Jansen, Mary Beth Reay, Inez Mathson, Shelly Mathson and girls, Dodee Torkelson, Corrine Bjorge, Charissa Ralter, Janet Davidson, Jackie Davidson, Jean Marquis, Mary Ann Schindler, Ann Kraemer and Linda Joppru, all of Thief River Falls;

Robert Ferris Reunited With His Brother

As an infant, Ferris was placed for adoption by members of his family. After much searching, he located his brother, the only one of 15 brothers and sisters whom he has met. He expects to become acquainted with his remaining brothers and sisters in the near future.

Harris was accompanied to Washington by his wife, the former Iris Newell. While there, they visited with Mrs. Ferris' relatives. They also spent time at Yakima where they were guests at the home of their former pastor and family, Rev. and Mrs. Norman Compton, who served the Apostolic Faith church in Minneapolis.

The Ferrises visited in Thief River Falls over the Labor Day weekend. While here they were house-guests of Mrs. Betty Dow. They are presently making their home at 3448-20th Avenue South, Minneapolis, MN 55407, and would like to hear from their friends. Their plans are to move to Yakima in the spring.

Horticultural Workshop Scheduled At Badger

Rites Held At Red Lake Falls For Emma Huot

Mass of Christian Burial for Mrs. Emma Huot, 85, of Red Lake Falls, was offered Monday at 11:00 a.m. at St. Dorothy Catholic church in Dorothy. Mrs. Huot died Friday at St. John's hospital in Red Lake Falls.

Monsignor Victor Cardin was celebrant at the Mass. Serving as con-celebrants were Rev. Gerald Foley and Rev. Jerome Fellon. Music was provided by Tim and Lori Beyer and the St. Dorothy choir. Interment was in the Huot cemetery. The Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were eight grandsons: Curtis Beyer, Daniel Hagl, Bruce Huot, Stacey Gibson, Scott Gjerstad, Todd Glass, Jeffrey Grenier and Marc Ruth.

Mrs. Huot, the former Emma Benoit, was born Sept. 22, 1898 in Poplar River township of Red Lake county, to Joseph and Florida Corbeil Benoit. As a child, she moved with her family to Red Lake Falls, where she attended school and grew to womanhood. She married Ernest I. Huot on Aug. 27, 1923. The couple settled in Huot where they operated a store for many years. Following her husband's death on Oct. 17, 1958, Mrs. Huot continued to operate the store until she retired in 1978 and moved to Red Lake Falls. Since May 22 of this year, she had been a resident of the Hillcrest Nursing home in Red Lake Falls.

She was a member of St. Dorothy Catholic church, St. John's hospital auxiliary, and the Red Lake County Historical Society.

Surviving are three sons: Ernest Huot, Thief River Falls; John, Red Lake Falls; and Thomas, rural Crookston; seven daughters: Mrs. John (Lillian) Grenier, Mrs. Patricia Ruth; Mrs. Verner "Bud" (Dolores) Glass, Mrs. Kenneth (Rita) Hagl, and Mrs. Jean Beyer, all of Red Lake Falls; Mrs. Wallace (Mae) Gjerstad, rural Crookston; and Mrs. Steve (Sharon) Gibson, Duluth; 48 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

Also surviving are two brothers, Armond and Arthur Benoit, both of Red Lake Falls; and one sister, Mrs. Phil (Lorena) Duport, Moxee City, Wash.

In addition to her husband and parents, she was preceded in death by four grandchildren, three brothers and three sisters.

Carl Knutson Dies Sept. 28; Rites Pending

Funeral services for Carl Knutson are pending. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

A complete obituary will follow in a later edition of the Times.

Laurel Anton Rites Held At Zion Tuesday

Funeral services for Laurel J. Anton, 56, of rural Thief River Falls, were held Tuesday at 2:00 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church in this city. Anton died unexpectedly Friday night in the emergency room at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Clifford Kalmoe officiated at the service. Vocal selections were provided by Susy Courneya, Michael Sculley and Glenndy Sculley with Jerry Joringdal as organist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery. The Belmont Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Serving as active pallbearers were Phillip Rondorf, Richard Hruby, Sr., Clarence Samanko, Hans Anton, Knute Nesland and Albert Koop.

Military honors were accorded by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, post 2793.

Laurel James Anton was born Oct. 16, 1926 in Thief River Falls to Nis and Irene Fuller Anton. He grew to manhood in Rocksbury township. On December 12, 1952, he enlisted in the U.S. Army and served in Korea. Following his discharge in 1954, he returned to Rocksbury township, where he farmed. During the winter months, he worked as a heavy equipment operator and welder, most recently for Hedeen construction.

He was a member of Zion Lutheran church and the VFW post 2793.

Surviving are his mother, who is residing at the CNC unit at Northwestern hospital; five brothers: Calvin Anton, Lexington Village; Nis, Jr., Rapid City, S.D.; David, Lakeville; Douglas, Thief River Falls; and Dwight, Burnsville; three sisters: Mrs. Robert (Audrey) Thomas, Bloomington; Mrs. James (Margery) Hruby, Rapid City; and Mrs. Glen (Patricia) Ose, Coon Rapids, and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his father and one brother, Robert.

H. Engstrom, Middle River, Dies Saturday

Harold E. Engstrom, 69, of Middle River, died Saturday morning at Northwestern hospital. He had been in failing health for the past three years.

Funeral services for Harold E. Engstrom were held Tuesday at 10:00 a.m., at the First Lutheran church in Middle River with Rev. Donald Fredine officiating. Donovan Ruud was the soloist and Mrs. Danny Geer, the organist. Interment was in the Spruce Valley cemetery, near Middle River, with the Collins Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Harold Ellsworth Engstrom, a son of the late Eric and Ruth Egnstrom, was born March 1, 1914 in Minneapolis. At the age of eight years, he moved with his family to Waukegan, Ill. There he attended school and grew to manhood.

On April 13, 1935, he was united in marriage to Ruth Peterson at Waukegan. The couple made their home there where Engstrom was employed as supervisor at the Johnson Motor plant until he retired in 1974. In March of that year, they moved to their present farm in Whiteford township of Marshall county, near Middle River.

He was a member of First Lutheran church, Middle River, and a former member of Trinity Lutheran church at Waukegan.

Surviving are his wife, one son: Wayne Engstrom, Waukegan; a daughter, Mrs. James (Susan) Posch, Niles, Ill.; three grandchildren, a brother, Raymond Engstrom, Des. Plaines, Ill.; and one sister, Mrs. Kenneth (Irene) Sams, Waukegan.

Funeral services for Clarence R. Carlson will be held Saturday at 10:30 a.m., at Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Berton R. Hushagen officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home on Friday from noon until 9:00 p.m., and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in the Monday edition of the Times.

Allen Iverson Rites Held At Silver Creek

Funeral services for Allen Iverson, 70, of Thief River Falls, were held today (Wednesday) at 2:00 p.m., at the Silver Creek Lutheran church. Iverson died unexpectedly Sunday morning at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Nancy Lund officiated at the services. Rev. Rick Lund was the soloist and Mrs. Larry Gustafson, the organist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

The family considered all those present at the services as honorary pallbearers.

Active pallbearers were Evert Yonke, Lloyd Hogenson, Adolph Steinhauer, Bernard Meyers, Jarvis Torgerson and Larry Gustafson.

Allen Orris Iverson, a son of the late John and Gertie Legvold Iverson, was born Nov. 27, 1912 at Thief River Falls. He was confirmed at the Norwegian Lutheran church at Fosston on May 30, 1926.

On Sept. 27, 1936, he was married at Holt to Irene Rupprecht. The couple lived in Thief River Falls until 1942, when they moved to Klamath Falls, Ore., where he worked in a saw mill during the war. They returned to Thief River Falls in 1943 and farmed in North township of Pennington county until they retired from farming in 1967. They have since continued to live here.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Lowell (Darlene) Swanson, Goodridge; a son, Duane Iverson, Grand Forks, N.D.; five grandchildren; two brothers: Edgar Iverson, Spokane, Wash.; and Clayton Columbia Falls, Mont.; one uncle and three aunts, including Gunder Legvold and Regina Legvold, both of Thief River Falls.

He was preceded in death by a son, Gary, and three brothers.

September 22 — Goodridge school personnel reported that approximately $5 had been stolen from the purses of two girls, who had left them in the locker room during a volleyball game.

Fund Raisers For Stangeland In October

Congressman Newt Gingrich of Georgia will address Minnesota Republicans at two fund-raising events for Congressman Arlan Stangeland at the Moorhead Ramada Inn on Friday, October 7.

Gingrich, a three-term House veteran, was the first Republican elected from Georgia's Sixth Congressional district since reconstruction days.

Gingrich will speak at a 7 p.m. dinner at the kickoff of the annual Minnesota Independent-Republican party convention. Congressman Stangeland and Moorhead Mayor Morrie Lanning will also speak at the dinner. Minnesota I-R chairman Leon Olstad of Ada will emcee the event. Tickets will be $12.50 per person.

The Georgia Congressman will also meet 1983 members of the Stangeland booster club at a 6 p.m. reception at the Ramada on Friday evening.

Reservations for the Moorhead event should be made by calling Gloria Landsverk at (218) 233-9227.

On Friday, October 14, Congressman Robert Michel of Illinois will address a fund-raising dinner for Congressman Stangeland in St. Cloud.

Surplus Cheese Released For Distribution

Congressman Arlan Stangeland said he has persuaded the U.S. department of agriculture to release four truckloads of surplus cheese for distribution in northwest Minnesota this week.

"My office was contacted last week by community groups who heard the cheese was locked up in the Twin Cities," Congressman Stangeland said. "Red-tape had blocked delivery of these commodities."

Working through his Moorhead office, Stangeland contacted USDA officials in Minneapolis and Washington and on Friday afternoon the trucks rolled north towards the three distribution sites, he said.

The surplus cheese will be distributed to needy families by the Tri-Valley community action group in Crookston, Inter-County community action group in Oklee, and the Northwest community action group in Badger.

"The groups who distribute these surplus commodities should not be tied down by frustrating red-tape," Rep. Stangeland said. "They are helping both needy families and our farmers. By reducing the federal commodity surplus, this distribution will bolster dairy commodity prices and reduce U.S. purchases of dairy surplus products."

A ranking member of the House agriculture committee, Congressman Stangeland said he has persuaded USDA officials that identification should be required for persons receiving surplus commodities. "This helps us to guarantee that relief is targeted on needy families," he said.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to express how we feel about our excellent ambulance services. Last October one of our family had a heart attack. When I went to the telephone directory to find the number of the ambulance service, I was so glad to find it separate from the hospital number. I got help immediately. Thanks to the Falls Clinic, we now have the number right on our phone.

When I called the ambulance service, they first asked me where we lived and then what the illness was. When the two attendants came into our house, they knew exactly what to do. They were good to the patient and so kind and understanding to the family. It was a very short time from the time we called the ambulance until our Dad was in intensive care.

Without the ambulance service as it is now, our Dad may not have made it. We want to feel secure in knowing that good ambulance service will be there for everyone. We never got to thank the ambulance crew, so if they are reading this letter we say "Thank you".

We urge all the people of Pennington county to contact their commissioners and let them know how you feel about the ambulance issue. This is a hard decision for them to make, so let them know how you feel.

Japanese Flour Miller To Study U.S. Marketing

Michihiko Nishizawa, assistant manager of the milling department for Nisshin Flour Milling company in Tokyo, Japan, has been selected to participate in a nine-month grain marketing training program at North Dakota state university, under the auspices of the Northern Crops institute.

The program was developed at the request of the Japanese office of U.S. Wheat associates, and Nishizawa's participation is being co-sponsored by Nisshin Flour Mills and the Minnesota wheat research and promotion council.

According to Ed Ross of Fisher, chairman of the Minnesota wheat council, Nishizawa will participate in a specially selected series of undergraduate and graduate-level courses designed to provide an indepth view of the U.S. grain marketing system. Coursework includes inland grain marketing and transportation, grain quality and grading, and the operations of the futures market.

Other topics included in the program relate to exports and include grain inspection and certification; shipping documents, government and private export financing programs and ocean freight. As part of his study, Nishizawa will receive "hands-on" experience in a U.S. flour mill, and with domestic and export merchandising firms.

Ross said, the purpose of the nine-month course is to provide the Japanese milling industry with a better understanding of the various aspects of the U.S. marketing structure and how to effectively make the U.S. marketing system work for them as importers and processors of U.S. wheat. Japan is one of the largest customers for U.S. wheat in the Asian area and competition is great between the various exporting countries for shares of the Japanese market, Ross stated.

In addition, Japan, over the years, has developed its processing industry to be the model for other Asian countries to follow. It is important, Ross said, for the Japanese officials to be as informed as possible of the advantages to utilizing the U.S. as a source for its wheat needs.

I-R Campaign Workshop Set Here Saturday

Training, planning and review workshop for Independent-Republican workers in the upper Seventh district has been scheduled for Saturday at Lon's restaurant in Thief River Falls, beginning with registration at 9 a.m.

Bob Bunger, I-R field training representative for the district, scheduled the meeting which will include Congressman Arlan Stangeland, and state auditor Arne Carlson as speakers.

Others speaking will be Marge Gruenes, state chairwoman; Maryellen Quincer and Kent Zellmer, Seventh district co-chairmen; Lora Schwartz, state I-R campaign chairman; Pat Ellofson, state vice chairwoman; and Loanne Thrane of the Sen. Rudy Boschwitz campaign committee.

[illegible] of future candidates and their campaign managers are urged to attend and other interested Independent-Republicans are invited to take part.

Early Fall Is Harvest Time For Wild Rice

Early fall marks the prime harvesting season for wild rice, Minnesota's state grain. Versatile culinary delight is generally harvested from August 1 through September 30.

Any season is a good one to enjoy the tasty, nutritional, and economical food. Wild rice has traditionally been considered a stuffing or an accompaniment for fowl and game dishes. But, according to Nancy Tetrick, executive director of the Minnesota wild rice council, wild rice is one of the most versatile foods in the kitchen. Many are discovering the distinctive flavor and delightful texture wild rice brings to appetizers, soups, meat and seafood casseroles, salads, vegetables and breads. These wild rice dishes are simple to prepare on the stovetop, in the oven, or even in the microwave.

Wild rice is becoming an increasingly popular breakfast food, too. Served with berries and milk, like a cereal, the state grain makes a nutritional natural breakfast that is high in protein, fiber, and Vitamin B and low in fat. Historically, the Indians, especially the Ojibway and Dakota tribes, depended on wild rice as a source of nutrition during the winter months.

Until 30 years ago, Minnesota's wild rice grew naturally in lakes and rivers and was harvested by non-mechanized means. Today, nearly 90 per cent of Minnesota's wild rice is cultivated in man-made paddies located in north central Minnesota and harvested with modern mechanized equipment. Minnesota produces about three-fourths of all the wild rice in the world.

For further information concerning wild rice or to obtain a wild rice recipe booklet, call the Minnesota travel information center at 1-800-652-9747, or write the center at 240 Bremer Building, 419 N. Robert St., St. Paul, MN 55101.

Gospel Concert Set At Erskine

Grace Lutheran Church, Erskine, will host a gospel concert by the Fosston-based choir "The Ambassadors of Praise", at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Under the direction of Rayome C. Koehler, the group features about 20 singers and instrumentalists from a large number of communities in the Red River Valley area. Members also vary widely in age, ranging from their teens to over 80, and representing many different religious faiths. Concert will be free and open to the public, with a lunch to be served following the program.

'Exempt' Signs On Abandoned Rail Crossings

Drivers no longer will have to stop at railroad-highway grade crossings where rail service has been abandoned and "EXEMPT" signs are installed, the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) announced.

The new EXEMPT signs at railroad crossings mean drivers of vehicles previously required by law to stop at all railroad crossings now may proceed without stopping, said Douglas Differt, assistant commissioner, program management division.

Under a new state law, the signs will allow school bus drivers and operators of any motor vehicle carrying passengers for hire or hauling explosive substances or flammable liquids to proceed across the crossing without stopping unless directed otherwise by a flagperson, he explained.

Drivers are cautioned, however, Differt said, that the EXEMPT signs do not relieve them of the responsibility to use care at these crossings.

There are two signs, one for an advance warning and the other on the railroad crossbuck post at the grade crossing. Both signs are 12 by 24 inches with EXEMPT in black letters.

The advance warning sign has a yellow reflectorized background and will be placed on a post below the yellow and black railroad crossing warning sign in advance of the railroad-highway grade crossing. The EXEMPT sign on the crossbuck post at the crossing will be similar except the reflectorized background is white.

The first new-sign installations will be made by September 30 in Hutchinson. They will be at railroad-highway crossings on a portion of temporarily abandoned track served by the Burlington Northern railroad. Other installations will depend upon future rail line abandonments, unless the track is removed, Differt said.

Congressman Asks Stop To Obscene Mail

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has asked the justice department and the U.S. postal service to assist in stopping unsolicited mailings of "obscene materials by a California pornographer."

Larry Flynt, publisher of "Hustler" magazine, mailed unsolicited copies of his publication to U.S. Senators and members of Congress. Returning the magazine, Rep. Stangeland said he will secure a prohibitory order against Flynt under the "sexually-oriented advertising" act. Congressman Stangeland filed the appropriate forms with the federal government last week.

"Any home-owner can get the same protection by filing this form at the local post office," Congressman Stangeland said. He added that such hard-core pornography stretches the First Admendment to the breaking point.

"In order to preserve the freedoms of the press and free speech, we may have to permit such publications," Congressman Stangeland said, "but they will not be permitted in my office." If Flynt mails more materials to the office, Congressman Stangeland said he will file criminal and civil suits against him."

Steven Fossell Graduates In Defense Course

Airman Steven J. Fossell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan W. Fossell of Brooks, has graduated with honors from the U.S. department of defense fire protection course at Chanute air force base, Ill.

During the course, students were taught basic firefighting techniques, rescue and first aid procedures, operation and maintenance of fire and rescue equipment and also earned credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the air force.

Fossell is scheduled to serve with the 90th civil engineering squadron at Francis E. Warren air force base, Wyo.

He is a 1982 graduate of Pershing high school, Plummer.

Tips Offered On Coping With School Anxiety

School has been underway for one month and your child clings to you, throws a tantrum or complains of a headache each morning. Is this a case of "school anxiety?"

"In most cases school anxiety is caused either by fear of a known traumatic event. . . or by fear of an unknown" say authors Georgia Lewis, coordinator of the early childhood handicapped unit and Patricia Edmister, parent education specialist, both with the Montgomery county Maryland public schools, writing in the October issue of "PTA Today."

Besides clinging to parents, throwing tantrums, having a headache, other symptoms of school anxiety are crying, nausea, general aches and pains, and extreme fatigue, say Lewis and Edmister. Authors offer general tips to parents who recognize these symptoms as "school anxiety":

Be firm and matter of fact about your child's need to attend school;

Work out your own anxieties and feelings about separations and attachment;

Establish some criteria for "illness." Look for medical signs such as a fever;

Teach your child basic safety rules and how to get help en route to school;

Be informed about your child's school experiences.

Edmister and Lewis also offer suggestions to parents for some specific problems.

For example, if a child starts at a new school and shows signs of anxiety, be supportive and help the child find solutions to the problem. Arrange for the child to meet the teacher and a few of his or her peers before the school semester begins. If the child fears a barking dog on the way to school, plan to have the child walk to school with an older child.

Some helpful strategies which parents, teachers, counselors, and students working together can develop through careful school planning are: assigning a "buddy" to a new student; preparing classmates for acceptance of a returning, injured student; providing support groups for the children of divorced and for latchkey children, or others in need; making sure that expectations for children are reasonable.

Copies of the October issue of PTA Today are available for $1 each by sending a check or money order (made payable to National PTA) to National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611 (312) 787-0977.

Four Hazardous Waste Study Areas Selected

Four "study areas" — in St. Louis, Stearns, Redwood and Yellow Medicine counties — have been selected by the Minnesota waste management board for evaluation as potential sites for a crystalline bedrock repository for hazardous wastes, where wastes would be stored in chambers mined deep within granite or similar rock formations.

In taking the action the evening of September 22 at a State Capitol meeting in St. Paul, the board eliminated nine other areas previously under consideration in seven counties: Benton, Morrison, Renville, Sherburne, two areas in Lake county, two other areas in St. Louis county and a second area in Redwood county.

The areas which remain under consideration include a four-square-mile area near highway 53 northwest of Ash lake in St. Louis county, a 3.75-square-mile area in St. Cloud township in Stearns county, a 3.3-square-mile area in Redwood county's Swede Forest township, and a 1.25-square-mile area in Sioux agency township in Yellow Medicine county, adjacent to the Redwood county area.

In a September 23 State Capitol news conference, board chairman Robert Dunn explained that the four study areas will, this fall, be the subjects of on-site drillings to gather further information on their geological and environmental conditions.

"Following the site investigations the areas will be the subject of joint board-pollution control agency hearings on their intrinsic suitability for crystalline bedrock hazardous waste disposal," Dunn said. ("Intrinsic suitability" refers to environmental standards set by the state for candidate hazardous waste disposal sites.)

Dunn added that after the pollution control agency (PCA) certifies the intrinsic suitability of sites proposed by the waste management board as candidate sites the board hopes to select two candidate sites by the spring of 1984.

"For each of the four study areas selected September 22 the governor, within the next month, will appoint special 'local plan review committees,' as required under state law," Dunn explained. "The primary duty of the committees will be to review the hazardous waste management plan being developed by the board. The plan will represent the state's long-term hazardous waste management policy, to be issued prior to the 1984 legislature.

"Those committees will, in turn, send representatives to serve as voting members on the board," the chairman also noted. "They will discuss and vote on the hazardous waste management plan."

Dunn said an open process has been established to enable residents of the four study area counties to apply for appointment to the local plan review committees.

He also noted that not all of the entire area of each of the four study areas would be required for a crystalline bedrock hazardous waste disposal facility. The areas will be reduced in size in the coming months, until two candidate sites selected in 1984 would each be no more than one square mile in size.

In addition, the square mile required for a facility site would not be entirely occupied by a bedrock disposal facility, but would include both the structures and surface operations for such a facility as well as a large surrounding "buffer zone."

According to theoretical designs for a crystalline bedrock repository for hazardous wastes, access and ventilation shafts would be drilled to a depth of from 200 to 1,000 feet, depending on the conditions of the specific site. At the base of the shaft corridors and haulageways would be excavated laterally within the bedrock.

Individual galleries would then be excavated from the haulageways in which segregated types of hazardous wastes would be stored and monitored. The crystalline bedrock disposal option has been proposed to the board for its potential for secure waste containment and for effective monitoring and possible later "retriveal" of the wastes.

The board is also) considering four other candidate hazardous waste dispoal sites which have been certified for other types of disposal technologies. Sites in Aitkin and Marshall counties are being considered for "above-ground storage" facilities for hazardous wastes.

Sites in Carver and Scott counties have been certified as suitable for above ground storage or for secure hazardous waste landfills.

The board's final disposal site, to be selected in 1986, will securely contain those wastes which cannot be further processed or reduced. The board is developing an overall state hazardous waste management plan which emphasizes waste reduction, treatment, processing, re-use and other alternatives to land disposal.

provided to deal with potential hazardous waste spills or accidents. He stated that the nearby community would be expected to provide such service but has no provision to be assured of training.

Armand Westlund of the project review committee suggested color coded trucks for hauling hazardous waste. Floyd Speene, also of the committee, speculated that there is greater danger to the public in transfer of the waste than after it has been placed in storage. He emphasized the distance factor in transporting waste from the Twin Cities metropolitan area this far north and the increased exposure to accident by the greater mileage.

Marcella Gonsorowski of Newfolden, a member of the county board of commissioners as well as the project review committee, also commented on transportation methods and costs. She presented a chart which she had prepared indicating that a savings of $2 million per year could be made on transportation alone each year if a disposal site is used within 100 miles of the Twin Cities rather than 350 miles. She also said that weather conditions had not been addressed in the draft report.

It was also pointed out in testimony that wherever a disposal site is located, people in the area have a right to know what is being deposited, what affect it could have on the area if not confined and how to handle it. Insurance availability as a protection for those in the immediate area of a disposal site was also not addressed in the draft report, it was stated.

Vance Wiseth of Goodridge, chairman, of the Northern Area Fact-Finding committee, stated that the draft report indicated above ground storage is the most expensive type of facility and that crystalline bedrock disposal is the second most expensive. It also notes that crystalline bedrock disposal is the safest form. Why waste hundreds of thousands of dollars on study of above-ground sites when the funds could be used to develop bedrock disposal, he asked.

Also attending the meeting were State Representatives Jim Tunheim and Wally Sparby of Districts 1A and 1B. Rep. Tunheim thanked the board for the opportunity for local input. Rep. Sparby said he considered it unfair for an area which produces less than one per cent of the state's hazardous waste to be considered as a disposal site for the rest of it.

Regular members of the waste management board in attendance were Robert Dunn, chairman; Lawrence Hunter, Milton Knoll, David Hartley and Allan Eide. Temporary members were Lawrence Sunsdahl of Stephen, Richard Anderson of Aitkin county and Richard Eischens of Scott county.

On Tuesday morning a tour was taken to the East Park site with several members of the state WMB, staff members and area citizens participating. Lawrence Sunsdahl showed the site to the visitors and pointed out the type of land, high water table, and source of water flow into the Stephen area.

David and Ed Koehmstedt who farm in the area met the group and showed a field adjoining the site where they had dug trenches with a back hoe to bury rocks and the holes had filled with water seeping up from below.

development of a new softball complex. The board deferred action until after a facilities meeting Tuesday morning (At the Tuesday morning meeting the board denied the request.)

Appointed as replacements to fill vacancies on the small business management advisory committee were Virginia Kruse, RTK Electronics and Computer; Jon Larson, Larson Music, Inc.; Arnold Narverud, Model Laundry, Inc.; Betty Walton, Mr. Duane's; and Sue Fredeen, The Sue Line.

Approval was given to the district's assurance of compliance with state and federal equal opportunity laws and regulations.

Board members Hank Hallstrom, Archie Cameron and Greg Pribula were appointed to a subcommittee to review instructional equipment requests as presented by staff and administration.

Year-end report of the basic skills program was approved following presentation by Glenn Espe, basic skills director.

Bid for electronics equipment at the AVTI as presented by Tektronix, Inc., was accepted. Approval was given to increase contract days from 212 to 222 for AVTI aircraft and powerplant instructors Carl Reed, Don Schoonhoven, Dean Paskewitz and Ray Semrud.

Resignations were received and accepted from Terry Cork, half-time secretary at the AVTI, and Norman Peterson, custodian at Lincoln. Approval was given to post for a full-time AVTI secretary. Betty Walton was hired as one-third time sales and marketing instructor at the AVTI and Bonnie Denly was hired as a regular route bus driver. Hourly rate of $5.59 was approved for substitute cooks effective immediately.

Material was distributed on the five-year evaluation of the AVTI to be conducted Wednesday and Thursday. Discussion was also held on the meeting in St. Paul on AVTI and community college relationships. It appears there are no plans for merger but meetings to consider areas of cooperation are encouraged to continue.

At a special meeting Tuesday morning to discuss school facilities problems and needs, the board approved hiring of an architect to plan for a new roof and installation of insulation in the Lincoln gymnasium.

Next regular meeting of the board will be October 10 at 7:30 p.m.

Safety Week Goal Is To Inform Drivers

School bus-related accidents often happen because a driver fails to see or ignores school bus warning signals, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA).

School bus safety week, October 2-8, was initiated for the purpose of informing citizens about the importance of understanding and observing school bus laws.

"During school bus safety week, we hope to remind and better inform motorists about the school bus lighting system and stop law, and remind school bus drivers of the importance of their task," says Barbara Mittelstadt, AAA traffic safety coordinator.

Mittelstadt says that pupil transportation by bus is statistically safer than auto travel, but there is much room for improvement. "Every school year, bus drivers report thousands of stop arm violations. Every incident could have led to injury or death for a school child," she notes.

State law requires motorists approaching a school bus from either direction to stop if the bus is displaying red lights and a stop arm. Failure to stop for these signals is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of up to $500, up to 90 days in jail, or both. Owner of a motor vehicle, not necessarily just the driver, involved in a school bus stop arm violation may face a fine of up to $100, as well.

"Keeping our children safe on their way to and from school is a big job," Mittelstadt says. "AAA encourages drivers to do their part to protect school children — be extra alert when driving near a school bus."

Bicycle Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Ordean Anderson received information about their grandson Tim's trip by bicycle from Quincy, Ill. to the east coast. Tim is the son of Ordean's daughter, Marian and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Power of Quincy, Ill. Tim is 22 years old and had just completed a 3,000 mile trip that took him to the east coast. He stated that "You've got to be patient with everything when you are traveling at ten miles an hour." Power left Quincy on June 22, on the trip designed to let him renew acquaintances with college friends and to tour historic sites in New England.

He encountered few problems, with flat tires causing him the most hassle. He spent $300 for food and necessities. He had his tent to use on nights that he did not stay with friends. I didn't always stay at a set place or camping area, he said. Some nights he slept in rest areas along the highway. On one occasion, a minister let him camp out near a church. He did discover, however, that Illinois highways are not the best, nor the worst in the country. In the section that took him through Canada, Tim discovered that there are no shoulders along their highways. Power graduated from Cedarville, Ohio college in 1982 with a major in history. He especially enjoyed visiting historic sites, including Plymouth Rock.

Mrs. Ellis Austin, Darrin and Eric of East Grand Forks spent the weekend visiting at the Karl Sundberg home and with other relatives here.

Negotiations At Goodridge Told

(Editor's Note: Following summary of negotiations involving the Goodridge board of education and the School District 561 faculty was prepared by Dr. Donald Langan, superintendent of school and spokesman for the board negotiations team. A mediation session has been scheduled for 9 a.m. Monday in the courthouse in Thief River Falls.)

The school board received notice of intent to open negotiations on Feb. 25, 1983. The board negotiation committee includes Norma Hanson, Paul Troska and Dr. Don Langan (superintendent and spokesman). The Goodridge Education association committee is Duane Howard, Laurie Sweeney, Dan Brinkman and Rick Nelson with Nelson as spokesman.

The initial negotiation meeting was held April 20. Since that date the negotiation committees have met nine times. During these sessions, both language and economic items have been discussed.

The teachers association is bargaining for several language area changes which include re-defining credits eligible for lane advancement, severance pay, association leave and other items. There are several language items that remain on the table.

Economic items have shown the greatest movement through the negotiation sessions thus far. The board's position is to deal with dollars per full-time equivalent (FTE) teacher, as opposed to percentage increases. The teachers' association is also proposing dollar figures. Primary rationale is that a percentage increase is meaningless for comparison purposes unless the question "percentage of what?" can be answered.

Several economic packages were exchanged during the negotiation sessions. The current board offer provides $870 per FTE in 1983-1984 for salary increase, and $1,104 per FTE in 1984-1985. With increases in insurance and association leave, total salary and benefit increase per FTE in 1983-1984 would be $1,110; in 1984-1985, $1,108. Salary schedule would have 1983-1984 beginning base of $15,180 to $19,880 in 16 steps. For master's degree, beginning salary would be $17,260 to $21,980. 1984-1985 schedule would have, beginning base of $16,020 to $20,740 for bachelor's degree, and $18,120 to $22,840 for master's degree, in 16 steps.

The teachers' current proposal calls for a 1983-1984 beginning salary of $16,000 to $21,350 in 16 steps, master's degree starting at $17,950 to $23,300 in 16 steps. 1984-1985 beginning salary would be $18,000 to $23,350 for bachelor's degree; and $20,250 to $25,300 in 16 steps. A comparision of board and teacher proposals reflect an estimated $1,300 difference per teacher in 1983-1984, and $2,410 difference per teacher in 1984-1985.

Goose Festival At Middle River

"Go Where the Wild Goose Goes" is the theme for activity in Middle River this week as the community observes its ninth annual "Goose Festival" Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The event is scheduled each year on the opening weekend of the Minnesota waterfowl hunting season by the sponsoring Middle River community club.

First event of the celebration will be a three-wheeler pulling contest Friday at 5 p.m. on the street leading to the new senior apartment complex. A baked ham supper served by the American Legion auxiliary will be followed by dancing to the music of the Smokey Mountain Boys. Meadowbrook ballroom will have dancing to music by "The Last Resort" and recorded music will be used for a dance from 8 to 11:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Jaycee Women chapter at Middle River will arrange kiddie contests starting at 10 a.m. Saturday and a helicopter number drop will take place at 11 a.m. Booths and concessions will be located along Main street and will include pork barbecue, other hot foods, baked goods and Scandinavian delicacies.

Middle River Jaycees will sponsor a football toss at 12:30 p.m. and the kiddie parade will take place at 1:30 p.m., followed by the full Goose Festival parade at 2 p.m. Other events include the toilet bowl races at 3 p.m., trike-a-thon and snoose-spitting contest at 3:30 p.m., men's and women's tug-o-war at 4 p.m. and Jaycee-sponsored arm wrestling at 6 p.m.

Saturday evening entertainment will include music by "Cathy and the Alley Cats" at the hunters' ball in the American Legion club rooms and by "The Last Resort" at the Meadowbrook ballroom.

On Sunday an all-church worship service will be conducted in the Middle River school gymnasium beginning at 9 a.m. and including messages by several pastors of community churches. Accompaniment for hymn singing will be by a brass ensemble and special music will be provided by the Merle Lorenson family of Strathcona. A breakfast at First Lutheran church will follow.

Competitive events Sunday at 10 a.m. include a mixed softball tournament, qualification for the horseshoe tournament, bicycle races and a five-mile fun run sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist church. An indoor flea market will also open at 10 a.m. in the Ness-Lorenson quonset on south Second street.

Senior citizens will host an art show in the Spruce Valley community center from 1 to 4 p.m. and serve refreshments to the public during the event. Entertainment will be provided all afternoon from a stage in the American Legion club rooms. Beginning at 4 p.m. in the Meadowbrook ballroom the music will be provided by "The Last Resort" and "Back Behind the Barn Boys".

And for those who find time to get out in the fields and marshes to hunt for geese, a contest is provided at the Hardware Hank store for the largest bird and for the successful hunter coming from the greatest distance.

Also, city clerk's office, requesting $3,000 for rental of word processing equipment; fire department, requesting $9,000 for hydrants; park and recreation department, requesting $20,000 for rebuilding east side tennis courts, $20,000 for purchase of a truck and tractor, and $7,500 for the wading pool project; Jobs Inc., requesting $15,000 for funding of its economic development project and $6,000 for preparation of Star City brochures and a slide show by an out of town firm; City street department, requesting $20,000 for a truck; police department, requesting $18,700 for two patrol cars; city clerk's office requesting $300 for annual audit fee; and the Ripley shelter for battered women, requesting $5,000 for utilities and maintenance.

Hearing portion of the council meeting was adjourned by Mayor Bob Carlson, noting that requests obviously greatly exceeded available funds, adding that council would face some very difficult decisions as it considered where to make cuts.

In other business the council:

— Heard a report from Northwest regional library director Barbara Jauquet, who noted that the state was interpreting a rule that the city cannot decrease its funding for maintenance of the library, and including $5,000 which was used from revenue sharing funds to purchase books last year. Under the state ruling, the city will have to give $61,000 rather than $56,000 for maintenance of the library, or risk losing approximately $20,000 in state and federal aid. Council passed a resolution expressing opposition to the rule interpretation, but asked that the library committee examine possible cuts in hours or charges for custodial services to make up the balance of funds.

— Established two handicapped parking stalls, one on the east side of Main Avenue by Norwest Bank, and one on the north side of First Street by the courthouse. Signs designating handicapped parking stalls in the Fourth Street parking lot were ordered removed.

— Granted a gambling license to the Retired Eagles activity club, providing they meet all legal requirements for the permit.

— Entered a purchase agreement with the state, to allow the city to purchase items on state bids. Note was made that although great savings in cost could be realized under the agreements, the city still has the option to buy locally if it so desires.

— Set voting hours for the November 8 election from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. City Clerk Jerry Wigness estimated that the city could save approximately $700 by opening the polls from noon to 5 p.m., but Mayor Bob Carlson expressed concern that some voters would not want to "wait around until noon." Polling places will be the same as usual.

— Authorized hiring of Mitch Hinden as a full-time sanitation employee to replace John Green.

— Ordered the city engineer to prepare an assessment roll for the downtown alley improvement project, for presentation to the council on October 11.

— Authorized a lease agreement with the federal aviation authority for space at the airport, at a cost of $125 per month.

— Promised Earl Tripp that possibility of a cross connection between storm sewers and sanitary sewers near his home would be thoroughly investigated.

— Authorized payment of regular and special bills of $100 to Viking Land USA, for promotions; $3,769.79 to Dorsey and Whitney, for payment on an $800,000 bond issue; and $2,400 from revenue sharing funds for garbage rate subsidies for the poor.

Sexuality Is Topic Of Four Part Program

Four-part program on "Adolescent Sexuality: The Role of Parents" will be offered in two and one-half hour sessions October 6, 13, 20 and 27 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in room 114 at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute.

The deadline for enrollment has been extended to September 30 and the fee is $10 per person or family unit, although arrangements will be made for those who would like to attend but are unable to pay.

Session topics include "What's Going On Out There?", "What Has Always Gone On Everywhere", "What's About To Happen?" and "What Do We Do Now?" Information includes issues and concerns related to teenage sexuality and how to protect adolescents from unplanned pregnancy, emotional difficulties, herpes or other sexually transmitted diseases as well as developmental needs of children and how parents can support their successful transition into adulthood.

In addition to the local program, a special three-part program will be presented on Prairie Public television on October 5, 12 and 19 at 10:30 p.m. A live half-hour call-in program will follow the October 19 broadcast.

Those interested in more information on the local program may call the AVTI adult education department at 681-5424.

FmHA Disaster Loan Deadline Drawing Near

Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) is reminding farmers in Pennington and Red Lake counties that October 5 is the deadline to apply for disaster emergency loans covering actual crop losses caused by adverse weather during the 1982 crop year.

County Supervisor Francis J. Koehmstedt said a six-month period for receiving applications will expire on that date.

FmHA, a U.S. department of agriculture agency, makes disaster emergency loans to farmers who cannot find other sources of credit needed to restore operations to normal. Loans must be based on substantial loss from the designated disaster. Eligibility extends to recognized individuals who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living and are U.S. citizens, or to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

FmHA serves Pennington and Red Lake counties through its office at North Dale Street, Thief River Falls, and serves Marshall county through its office at 105 South Division Street, Warren. Ross Peterson, FmHA county supervisor in Warren, notes that farmers in Marshall county have until February 12 to file applications for disaster emergency loans covering actual crop losses caused by adverse weather during the 1982 crop year.

Homecoming At Plummer Starts Monday

Plummer homecoming activities and "spirit week" this year will begin Monday with a bonfire Monday evening at the football field. At this time the homecoming king and queen will be crowned to reign over the various homecoming activities held each day at the school.

Home volleyball games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday evening with a tournament scheduled on Saturday.

A homecoming parade will be held Friday at 2 p.m., starting at the school, with school and community entries participating. A pep fest will follow the parade at the football field. To climax the week, the football game against McIntosh will begin at 7:30 p.m. with a dance following at the school gym. All alumni are welcome.

Aptitude Test Helps Students In Evaluation

Students taking the preliminary scholastic aptitude test and National Merit scholarship qualifying test (PSAT-NMSQT) this year on October 22 will be able to "learn from their own mistakes" by using information in their score report provided by the college board, according to Whitey Olson, counselor at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls.

"After taking the PSAT-NMSQT, all students receive a "Report of Student Answers" which includes the correct answers and their own responses and scores. "They also receive their own test booklets so that they can review the actual questions, see which ones they got wrong, and try to figure out the correct answer and why they may have missed it," Olson said.

This process can help students learn from their own mistakes by encouraging them to understand the reasoning involved in finding the right answer, an ability which will be useful for future school work. Looking at the kinds of mistakes made on the test can help students identify areas in which they may be weak and need more work.

Before taking the PSAT-NMSQT, students receive a student bulletin containing a complete practice test with an answer key and scoring instructions. After the test, they receive a booklet, "About Your PSAT-NMSQT Scores," that helps them to interpret their test results and to plan for college.

Other services that enable counselors and other school personnel to better understand and interpret the test results to students and parents include school summaries of students' answers, profiles of the academic characteristics and career interests of students taking the test, and a special publication for use with students as part of a general guidance program.

The PSAT-NMSQT is cosponsored by the college board and the National Merit scholarship corporation. Since 1959, more than 26 million students have taken the test, which measures verbal and mathematical abilities.

By taking the test, students discover how they rank among juniors taking the test across the country. It also provides a preview of the college board's scholastic aptitude test (SAT), taken by many college-bound students.

Despite an 0-3 start to open the 1983 season, Northland community college football coach John Helley is still hopeful the Northmen can be a factor in the Minnesota Community College (MCCC) Northwest Division race.

Northland opened the season with an 18-0 nonconference loss to the Bemidji State University junior varsity, then dropped MCCC-counting games to Northeast Division opponents Itasca 32-15 and Vermilion 35-7.

Next two games will determine Northland's status in the divisional standings as the Northmen host Hibbing Saturday and entertain Mesabi the following week, Oct. 8. The Cardinals and Norsemen are not expected to be as strong as the Vikings and Ironmen, so Helley is hoping the Northmen will match-up favorably, with the home field edge going to Northland.

Games against Northeast Division teams are worth one point in Northland's Northwest Division standings, with games against Northwest Division rivals valued at two points. The opportunity is there for the Northmen to split their four-game series against Northeast Division teams and be in position to challenge Brainerd, Fergus Falls and the University of Minnesota-Crookston in the Northwest Division over the final three weeks of the regular season.

"With two home games coming up against Hibbing and Mesabi, we could be in pretty good shape," acknowledged Helley.

Northland will have to improve upon its performances no matter who the opponent, however, declared Helley. "We have to eliminate the mistakes to be competitive," he said. Things have improved, mentioned Helley, but after correcting the fumbles and offside calls that plagued the offense in the first two games, the Northmen were caught making errors on defense against Vermilion.

University of Minnesota-Crookston has lived up to the preseason predictions that made the Trojans the Northwest Division favorite. They've given up just three points in three games, beating the Moorhead State University junior varsity 22-0, Vermilion 19-3 and Hibbing 44-0. Brainerd has been an early season surprise, bouncing back from a 17-12 first-week nonconference loss to Anoka-Ramsey to shut out Hibbing 38-0 and Mesabi 23-0.

In post-season MCCC play, Sat., Nov. 5, match-ups will find the Northwest Division champion playing the Northeast Division winner while the Southern Division champion tackles the Central Division representative. Those winners will meet in the MCCC state championship game Sat., Nov. 12.

Miscellaneous

+ Park Rapids' first football win over Bemidji since 1950, a 28-12 Friday night decision in a match-up of unbeaten teams, was helped in part by a number of Bemidji mistakes, including nine fumbles, six penalties and an interception. The Panthers rushed for 207 yards while the Lumberjacks, who will be in Thief River Falls next week for the Prowlers' homecoming game, netted just 50 yards on the ground.

+Fergus Falls runningback Len Kretchman rushed for 226 yards Friday in the Otters' 34-23 high school football victory over Crookston, a match-up of future Thief River Falls opponents. Fergus Falls rolled up 387 yards on the ground to remain unbeaten in four starts. Crookston's Rick Dahle rushed for 110 yards on 26 carries.

+ Since the current Thief River Falls-Moorhead high school football series was resumed in 1976, the Spuds have won six of the seven games heading into Friday's scheduled eighth meeting at 7:30 p.m. on Prowler Field. It's been a series that has alternately featured lopsided Moorhead wins and strong Thief River Falls challenges, despite the lone win by the Prowlers. Moorhead won 34-6 in 1976 when the two teams picked up the series that was discontinued after the 1965 season. Thief River Falls played the Spuds tough in 1977, losing a close 14-8 decision here. Moorhead romped to nearly identical 40-14 and 41-14 wins in 1978 and 1979, respectively, before the Prowlers shocked the Spuds 33-21 with a near-flawless performance at Moorhead in 1980. Thief River Falls wasn't that far out of it, either, in a 16-0 loss here in 1981, but last year in an afternoon rain it was a poor showing by the Prowlers that led to a 47-6 drubbing. The Prowlers will try it again Friday. It's a challenge they seem to enjoy. Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz knows the odds, but insists the Prowlers can win. "There wouldn't be much sense in scheduling them if we didn't think we could beat them," he has said in the past.

Northmen Play Hibbing In Homecoming Game

Two long road trips to play strong competition is not the ideal way to open a season. Northland community college football team found that out the hard way with back-to-back Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) losses to Itasca 32-15 at Grand Rapids and to Vermilion 35-7 at Ely the last two weekends.

Six-hour bus rides and one-sided losses don't do much for team morale.

However, now the Northmen are hoping to take advantage of a more favorable draw with home games against Hibbing and Mesabi the next two Saturdays. The fact that the Northmen will be at home against two teams they figure they can match up with physically should renew their enthusiasm, indicated Northland head coach John Helley.

"We've played two teams definitely better than us, and we played them on the road," explained Helley. "Two games at home will help tremendously. They (Northmen) are looking forward to the chance to play at home in front of their parents and friends."

Hibbing, Saturday's opponent in the 1:30 p.m. Northland homecoming game at Prowler Field in Thief River Falls, is in the same boat as the Northmen. While Northland opened against the apparent best in the Northeast Division, Hibbing started off against the supposedly best in the Northwest Division and suffered one-sided shutout losses at the hands of Brainerd 38-0 and the University of Minnesota-Crookston 44-0.

"The players are getting fired up for homecoming," noted Helley. "It should be a close matchup. It should be a good afternoon of football."

Defensive alignment still has a number of variables, depending where everyone else is playing, either offensively or defensively.

THIS WOULD BE a welcome sight for hunters starting Saturday when the 1983 waterfowl hunting season gets underway at 12-noon in Minnesota. The Times' camera "shot" this flock of Canada geese Tuesday by Nelson Slough near Strandquist. Hunters are reminded that the daily limit on Canada geese was reduced from two to one this fall due to declining numbers, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

LHS Volleyball Team Tops Pirates

Lincoln high school volleyball team rallied for an exciting 16-18, 18-2, 20-18 come-from-behind victory over Crookston Tuesday in front of a large Parent's Night crowd for the Pirates.

"It was just great," reported Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson. "That's the best these girls have ever played together. It was great teamwork; an all-out effort by the entire team both on offense and defense."

Crookston emerged with a narrow two-point victory in a see-saw opening game, 18-16, but the Pirates had trouble with the serves — both their own and the Prowlers' — when Thief River Falls rolled to an easy 18-2 second game rout.

After ties at 7-7 and 11-11 in the tense third game, Crookston opened up a 16-12 cushion. Nora Hushagen served the Prowlers back within 16-14, but Crookston gained a 17-14 lead and had a chance to win it.

However, Thief River Falls twice broke Crookston service with the Pirates sitting at 17 points and again when Crookston could have won it with an 18-17 lead.

With junior Leslie Weigand at the service line, the Prowlers tied it 18-18, went ahead 19-18 on an ace serve and won it 20-18 when the Pirates hit a final spike into the net.

It was a much-appreciated victory for the Prowlers, who hadn't won a dual meet match since a season-opening decision over Detroit Lakes back on Sept. 2. The Prowlers lost four straight after that, then won one of three decisions in an eight-team invitational tournament at Roseau Saturday.

Thief River Falls will be on the road Thursday, playing a 7:30 p.m. match at Fergus Falls.

Lincoln junior varsity record slipped to 3-3 Tuesday as Crookston won a pair of close games 18-14, 18-15, and the Lincoln C squad record fell to 0-6 when Crookston won by 18-11, 18-9 margins.

Bemidji Wins Tennis Title

Host Bemidji finished the day with 12 points, while Thief River Falls collected, 11, Crookston 7 and East Grand Forks 0.

It was kind of like winning the battle, but losing the war for the Prowlers, who beat Bemidji and Crookston by 3-2 margins and blanked East Grand Forks 5-0 in head-to-head competition, but still came up one point short under the tournament scoring system.

"In effect, we beat everybody else," noted Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson, "and when you beat everybody you expect to win it. Not this time. But the important thing for us is the fact that we were able to beat everybody. We played well. We're very happy with the way we played. You couldn't ask for anything more."

Two dual meet outings await the Prowlers to close out the 1983 regular season schedule, with Crookston here Thursday and Roseau here Monday.

Prowlers Face Moorhead Challenge Friday Night

A schedule that has already featured two very strong opponents in Grand Forks Red River and Mahnomen, will present another formidable challenge for the Lincoln high school football team Friday when the Prowlers take on Moorhead in a 7:30 p.m. game that is the fourth of five straight home games for the Thief River Falls squad.

Red River beat Thief River Falls 21-12 and Mahnomen won 13-0. In the process, the Roughriders and Indians both impressed Prowlers coach John Schmitz, who expects more of the same caliber of competition this week from the perennially strong Spuds.

"No doubt they're a good football team," confirmed Schmitz. "They have a good program, they play good competition and they had an open date last week so they've had plenty of time for injuries to heal and to prepare for us."

Moorhead will bring a 2-1 record into Thief River Falls, sandwiching wins over Fargo South 10-9 and Superior, Wis. 24-16 around a loss to Fargo North 13-7.

Thief River Falls, in addition to the losses to Red River and Mahnomen, owns a win over Detroit Lakes 20-0 and a loss last week to Breckenridge 7-6.

Friday's loss to the Cowboys was typical of the Prowlers' play this fall. Defensively Thief River Falls held Breckenridge to just 32 yards rushing and only 82 total offensive yards. But offensively the Prowlers netted just 96 yards on the ground and had only 130 total yards for the night.

In their three losses the Prowlers' offense has shouldered most of the blame, producing just 18 points while averaging just 50.7 yards rushing and only 130.3 total yards per loss. In their lone victory the Prowlers rushing for 296 yards and had 343 total offensive yards against Detroit Lakes.

"We self-destruct," said Schmitz in analyzing the Prowlers' offensive problems. Mostly it's a matter of missed blocking assignments, he said. "Defensively we've played well, but offensively its just a case of a play here or a play there, a block here or a block there. We have to eliminate those things. Against someone like Moorhead we cannot make mistakes."

Schmitz said the Prowlers won't be adding any special wrinkles to surprise the Spuds.

"We'll just try to do what we do best," he explained. "If we can't beat them with solid football, we can't beat them with trickery. You don't fool a good team."

There are no line-up changes anticipated for the Prowlers this week. Senior runningback-defensive back Rick Spong, who has missed most of the 1983 season to date with back problems, will be in uniform Friday after sitting out the Breckenridge game, but his availability is almost a play-to-play situation. Senior offensive guard Ryan Bakke, who suffered a leg injury in the Detroit Lakes game, is still sidelined.

This week's game is designated as "Parent's Night" for the Prowlers, who will observe homecoming next week against Bemidji.

Outlook For Deer Hunting Is Excellent, Reports DNR

Word on deer hunting in the state of Minnesota this year is terrific. Department of natural resources reports a record population increase of deer in Minnesota, and predicts a record harvest for the upcoming season.

Deer population boon is the result of more strict hunting regulations in recent years, and several relatively mild Minnesota winters that permitted higher pregnancies, healthier fawns and a greater survival rate.

Minnesota's geography divides the state into four hunting areas — the agricultural section in the southwest; the hardwoods in the southeast; the transitional zone that cuts the state on a diagonal from Minneapolis and St. Paul to the northwest; and the forested northeast section.

According to the wildlife division of the Minnesota department of natural resources, the longest deer hunting season is in the forested northeast, while the larger deer can generally be found in the agricultural southwest section of the state.

Although most of the land in the northern forested area of Minnesota is public land, the southern agricultural areas tend to be privately held land and permission from landowners is necessary.

Nordics Win Volleyball Decision Over Skippers

North Border Conference rivals Marshall County Central and Middle River squared off Tuesday in high school volleyball action at Middle River, with the Nordics outlasting the Skippers 16-18, 18-11, 19-17.

It was the Nordics' second win this fall over the Skippers, but the rematch was much closer than the earlier Marshall County Central 18-6, 18-8 victory, and winning coach Julie Tunheim was quick to praise the play of the Skippers.

"They were a much-improved team," she explained. "They found spots open in our defense nobody else has all year."

Despite the closeness of the score, though, neither coach was ready to call it a particularly good volleyball match.

Mistakes at the service line were abundant. The Nordics missed 17 serves the first game and had a season-low 75 per cent service mark for the night.

"We played well, but we just couldn't serve," said Helgeson. "It could have been one-sided if either team could have served."

Middle River watched a 10-1 third game lead disappear, falling behind 16-14 at one point before forcing overtime.

"We did some good things," acknowledged Tunheim. "We came back and attacked when we were down."

Junior Jodi Nelson sparked the Marshall County Central comeback with 11 ace attacks over the final two games. Shelly Anderson contributed seven for the night. Stacey Gonshorowski and Nancy Nelson had nine and eight set assists, respectively, and Gonshorowski proved to be the winner's most consistant server. The Nordics were credited with six blocks on defense, with Jodi Nelson and Barb Garthus each getting two.

For Middle River, senior Paula Rantanen racked up 13 spikes and Connie Dahl had nine.

Marshall County Central, 6-1 with a six-match winning streak, will be at Grygla Thursday and will host Greenbush Monday. Middle River, 3-5, will host Plummer Thursday and visit Badger Tuesday.

Grygla - Warroad

Grygla snapped a three-match losing streak Tuesday with an 18-12, 18-8 win at Warroad.

Playing at home that night before the Eagles came out on the short end of an 18-10, 18-14 match with Clearbrook, "the best team we've faced," according to Grygla coach Kurt Vandermeer.

Results left Grygla with a 4-3 season record.

"We played good defense against Clearbrook, but our offense just wasn't there," explained Vandermeer. "We finally got aggressive against Warroad."

Grygla will host Marshall County Central Thursday and will entertain Warroad Monday before going to Roseau Tuesday.

Goodridge Plans For Homecoming

Second homecoming celebration of the 1983 season for the first-year Grygla-Goodridge cooperative high school football program will be observed Friday at Goodridge when the Blue Devils host McIntosh-Winger in a 7:30 p.m. North Tri-County Conference Nine-Man game.

Earlier this fall the Blue Devils celebrated homecoming at Grygla, winning the Sept. 16 encounter with Erskine-Mentor by a 12-8 margin.

Although Grygla-Goodridge has lost just once in four starts, the Blue Devils' offense has been struggling, producing just four touchdowns in three North Tri-County Conference outings. After opening the season with a 20-6 nonconference victory over Marshall County Central, Grygla-Goodridge lost to Plummer 14-6, beat Erskine-Mentor 12-8 and edged Fisher 8-6 last Friday.

To keep pace with unbeaten North Tri-County Conference-leading Plummer, Grygla-Goodridge will have to continue to win while waiting for the Cardinals to stumble. And that task would be made easier if the Blue Devils can complement their strong defensive play with some offensive production.

Meanwhile, Plummer, after having recorded back-to-back emotional wins over title contenders Grygla-Goodridge and Erskine-Mentor (28-22 last Friday), will have to avoid a let-down to maintain its pennant-winning pace. The Cardinals will be at Fisher Friday afternoon.

Key game in the Top of the State Conference Nine-Man race will be played Friday when unbeatens Tri-County and Argyle tangle at Argyle. The game features the league's most potent offense (Tri-County, averaging 43 points per game) vs. the league's strongest defense (Argyle, giving up an average of just 11 points per game).

Tri-County and Argyle meet just once this fall, and both teams have season-ending open dates, meaning Friday's winner would be assured of a conference title and a post-season playoff berth by winning two of their remaining three games.

Marshall County Central, a first-time winner this fall Friday in a 19-18 overtime thriller against Hallock, will be at Greenbush Friday afternoon.

PLUMMER EDGED Erskine-Mentor 28-22 Friday in a showdown of North Tri-County Conference title contenders at Plummer to highlight last week's area Nine-Man high school football action. In these photographs for The Times by Alice Hofstad, Plummer runningback Troy Gustafson sprinted past the Erskine-Mentor defense en route to a third quarter touchdown (top photo), while Erskine-Mentor receiver Mike Stennes stretched, but couldn't reach an overthrown pass as Plummer's Russ Fisher defended on the play (bottom photo). The unbeaten Cardinals will be at Fisher Friday for a 3:15 p.m. game.

Urge Skating Club Members To Attend Monday Meeting

General membership meeting of the Thief River Falls skating club will be conducted Monday at 7 p.m. at the downstairs meeting room of the law enforcement center in Thief River Falls.

Program, rules and regulations for the precision line and DPFS skaters will be explained and discussed and the meeting is considered a "must" for all such skaters and at least one of their parents. Club dues for the United States Figure Skating association (USFSA) will be collected at the meeting and the skating club also has the responsibility of collecting skating fees for the coming skating season. Refunds will be paid to those who paid for summer skating ice time.

Election of directors will be conducted and videotape of the 1983 world figure skating competition in Helsinki, Finland, will be shown. Club parties and projects will be discussed and lunch will be served. All current and prospective members and interested skaters are urged to attend. Those with questions may call Ray Nelson at 681-2351 (days) or 681-7139 (evenings).

A bull would be just as infuriated by a matador's green cape as by a red one, says "International Wildlife" magazine, since a bull has little or no color vision.

Controlled Hunt Area Will Have New Regulation

Minnesota's 1983 duck and goose hunting season starts Saturday, and waterfowl hunters are reminded of an important change in one of the special conditions for those hunting the Elm Lake — Agassiz controlled hunting zone (CHZ).

Old regulation stated that no more than one hunting party may occupy a single hunting station. Effective beginning this fall the regulation will be no more than three persons may occupy a single hunting station.

This Department of Natural Resources regulation was initiated in 1982. However, it was not enforced that year. The regulation will be enforced in 1983.

Agassiz refuge manager Joe Kotok, says this Minnesota Department of Natural Resources regulation change was made to create safer hunting conditions, reduce waterfowl crippling losses, and to help standardize CHZ regulations statewide.

Kotok said the other regulations remain the same, including the requirement to use steel shot. The controlled hunting zone is located on the southeast corner of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge.

If you have any further questions, call the refuge headquarter, 449-4115, weekdays from 7:30 to 4 p.m. Maps and regulations are available at the headquarters, 11 miles east of Holt.

Recreational Skating, TRFAHA Programs . . .

Skate Exchange, 83-84 Registration Set Oct. 6

Annual registration and skate exchange for the Thief River Falls Recreational Skating (Rec Skating) and Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association (TRFAHA) programs will be held Thurs., Oct. 6, from 4 to 8 p.m. at the city auditorium.

Figure skates, hockey skates and hockey equipment to be sold can be brought to the auditorium after 3:30 p.m. and tagged. Money or unsold merchandise can be picked up later that evening.

Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association offers programs for Tiny Mites, an In-House program for 5-6-year-olds; Squirts, In-House teams for 9-10-year-olds; Pee-Wees, A and B traveling teams for 13-14-year-olds; and Intermediates, a new program featuring In-House teams made up of Pee-Wees and Bantams not on the traveling teams.

Fall clinic for the Recreational Skating program will be held for ten sessions beginning Mon., Oct. 24, at the old arena. Evening classes will be held Mon., Oct. 24; Wed., Oct. 26; Thurs., Oct. 27; Wed., Nov. 2; Thurs., Nov. 3; Mon., Nov. 7; Wed., Nov. 9; Thurs., Nov. 10; and Wed., Nov. 16. Testing will be done Thurs., Nov. 17.

Pre-school classes will be held for ten sessions from 8:45 to 9:15 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning Oct. 18. There will also be a pre-school class for children of working parents from 6 to 6:30 p.m. during the fall clinic.

Classes taught during the clinic and on Thursdays throughout the Recreational Skating program, include:

1. United States Figure Skating Association (USFSA) basic test program — consisting of the 12 badges as taught in the past. There is a $5 fee for the ten clinic sessions and a $5 fee for the ten season lessons. There will also be six lessons for the annual Ice Revue, with the fee to be announced at a later date.

2. Jump and spin class — designed for skaters who passed the 12th badge during the 1982-83 season, or for those who complete the 12th badge during the upcoming 1983-84 season. Skaters in upper badge levels who are interested may sign up and will be accepted on class space availability and badge level, with the highest levels accepted first for the program that is limited to 20 participants. Clinic fee is $9 and season fee is $12.

3. DPFS and precision — with all those interested in one or both programs encouraged to attend the Thief River Falls Skating Club meeting with a parent on Mon., Oct. 3, at 7 p.m. in the Law Enforcement Center. A skater need not have passed 12 badges to participate. Plans are to start a second precision line.

5. Private lessons — available for skaters who enjoy learning more skills than can be covered in a group, or for those who may need individual help in working out a particular problem. Private lessons are available on first-come, first-served basis, with a fee paid to the professional skating instructor on hand. Lessons are held during the day on Thursdays, and students may be excused from school for the instructions. Some private lesson time may also be available during the early morning hours. If interested, sign up with Jan Nelson during the Oct. 6 registration. Professional instructors will be Cathy Halgrimson, Inger Kroeplin and Denise Anderson.

6. Recreational Skating lessons practice (RSLP on schedules) — Tuesdays from 3:30 to 5 p.m. beginning in December. A weekly schedule for ice time will be printed and available at the arena. Participants are urged to pick one up each week to know when extra skating time is available outside of scheduled lessons.

When registering for the Recreational Skating program Oct. 6, parents should know the last badge your child passed and approximate time of day your child would like to attend class. You will be asked to sign up for a class time at the

Mrs. Walter C. Peterson, Plummer, 465-3415

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Koskela left last Friday for Bismarck, N.D. to visit at the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Darol Braagalia and children. While there they attended the Folkfest held that weekend with a parade. Their grandson Tim marched in the Bismarck school band and on Sunday they went to a trip on the Missouri river on the paddle boat and saw the fireworks ending the festival. They returned home Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Paquin of Cudahy, Wis. came Thursday afternoon to visit at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lee and her brothers, the Clarence and Alvin Johnsons'.

Mrs. Art Leining entered Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls last Wednesday and on Thursday she had major surgery.

Mrs. Marie Olson of Roseau came Monday and visited until Tuesday at the home of her brother, the Joel Simonsons'.

Mrs. Leo Eskell entertained at a meeting at her home on Sept. 19 for the Finnish-American Historical society. The following attended Mildred Ness and Vienna Grondahl of Holt, Ina Hanway, Lois Peterson, Hazel Smith and Salma Halme of Thief River Falls, Florence Anderson and Thelma Ness of Newfolden, Alyce Konickson and Marion Patenaude of Red Lake Falls, Lillian Waltonen, Salma Wappula and Helga Tuura of Middle River and Wilma Huotari and Amelia Eskell of Plummer.

Mrs. Phil Kreuter and son Thomas and Kristi Wallbeck of Thief River Falls called Friday afternoon at the Elmer Lee home.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Retzer and Whitney of East Grand Forks visited over the weekend at the home of her parents, the R.H. Pahlens'.

Mrs. Marie Olson of Roseau and Mr. and Mrs. Joel Simonson visited last Monday evening at the Ollie Mattison home.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Paquin and children Andrew and Shelly of Oak Creek, Wis. came Thursday evening to visit at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson. They returned home Monday.

Friday evening dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lee were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Paquin of Cudahy, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Paquin, Andrew and Shelly of Oak Creek, Wis. and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson.

County Board Proceedings

September 28, 1983
Official Proceedings
Pennington County
Board of Commissioners
Tuesday, August 9, 1983

Pursuant to adjournment, the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, August 9, 1983. Members present: Hoffman, Koop, Stenberg, Tasa and Grabanski (all present).

Viola Rud appeared before the Board to discuss the 1984-85 Plan for the Quin County Community Health Services.

Commissioner Tasa introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED that the Quin County Community Health Service Plan for the years 1984-1985 including the Plan for Pennington County, be approved according to the Plan before the Board. Commissioner Stenberg seconded the foregoing resolution and upon vote, declared unanimously adopted.

Discussion was held on a proposal by the Minnesota Department of Health that Quin County provide for a Public Health Sanitarian for the five county area. This person would be in charge of licensing and inspection of food, beverage and lodging establishments instead of the Minnesota Department of Health. The County Board did not feel we should get into the inspection and licensing of the establishments.

Fran Collison, Tri Valley Chore Service, was in to discuss the budget for the services of the coming year. Budget is up $781.75 with Pennington County's share being $3,578.75. A decision was held over to the next meeting, September 23, 1983.

Sheriff Richards appeared before the Board to discuss the On-Sale Liquor License application to transfer the Trapper & Trader Liquor license to Edward Sjulestad and Bonnie Mangus. Motion by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Koop, to approve the transfer of the Trapper & Trader Liquor License to Edward Sjulestad and Bonnie Mangus pending approval of the County Sheriff. The Board also requested that within 3 months after takeover, the new owners submit a written report on the operation of the restaurant portion. Motion unanimously carried.

Minutes of the meetings held June 28 and July 12 were read and approved.

County Engineer Olson was in to discuss the policy and procedure on legal ditch maintenance. Engineer Olson also discussed the possibility of using two railroad car floorings to replace the bridge over the ditch by Harold Matzke's property. The Board approved and directed the Engineer to estimate the cost of installing and buying the two railroad cars.

The County Engineer then brought up the proposed ditching into County Ditch No. 51 on Section 33 & 34 in Goodridge Township. The Engineer was instructed to write to interested parties advising them not to ditch water across a watershed divide.

County Board then discussed the gravel pit that Marvin Grover has for sale in Section 22, Johnson Township near Trail. The price has been negotiated at $35,000. The Board suggested that the County Attorney check into getting a right-of-way access back to that land and to see if any other problems exist.

Jerry Wigness, City Clerk of Thief River Falls, was in to discuss the Enterprise Zones. Pennington County could apply under the competitive zone area.

County Assessor DeHaan was in the tax abatements:

Ronald Sukaukas - Homestead - Wrong code in computer

Goodridge Historical Society - Exempt - Error in recording

Motion by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg, the applications be approved as presented. Motion unanimously carried.

Tom Williams, Blue Cross-Blue Shield Representative, was in to discuss the different methods of providing health insurance coverage for county employees. He could not estimate the premium amount for 1984 at this time.

Motion by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg that the Road, Bridge and Culvert Committee met on Friday, August 19, 1983 at 9:00 a.m. to inspect roads, bridges and culverts. Motion unanimously carried.

The following bills were read, audited and approved for payment:

Official Proceedings
Pennington County
Board of Commissioners
Tuesday, August 23, 1983

Pursuant to adjournment, the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the meeting room of the Courthouse in Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on Tuesday, August 23, 1983 at 10:00 a.m. Members present: Hoffman, Tasa, Koop, Stenberg and Grabanski.

Moved by Commissioner Stenberg, seconded by Commissioner Koop to accept the minutes of the July 26th meeting as mailed.

A letter from the Black River Township Board was presented to the Board approving the sale of the Harlan Hallstrom property to the Department of Natural Resources in Section 9, Black River Township. Commissioner Grabanski introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County do hereby approve the State's proposed acquisition of the following described property:

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Koop and upon vote, declared adopted with Commissioner Tasa abstaining.

A delegation of land owners was in to discuss County Ditch No. 60 in Sanders Township going across Section 21. This ditch flows into County Ditch No. 1. They were referred to the highway engineer for a petition to clean the ditch.

Joseph Vene, Superintendent of the Northwest Juvenile Training Center appeared before the Board to review their activities and explain the increase in Joint Counties Subscriber Share Budget as approved by the Training Center Board. Pennington County's share would be $13,222 or an increase of 6 per cent over last year's 12,474. Moved by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg that an amount of $13,222 be approved as Pennington County's payment for 1984 to the Northwest Juvenile Training Center. Motion unanimously carried.

Motion was made by Commissioner Stenberg, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski to appropriate $3,538.75 to the Valley Chore Service for the 1984 budget. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Koop introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners appoint Penny Langland, M.D. as Medical Consultant to the Quin County Community Health Service Board.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Stenberg and upon vote, declared unanimously adopted.

Barbara Jauquet, representative of the Northwest Regional Library, was in to discuss the 1984 library budget. There is a 10 per cent mandatory increase raising the appropriation to $19,965. Moved by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski to appropriate $19,965 to the Northwest Regional Library for 1984. Motion unanimously carried. Ms. Jauquet also submitted the 1982 annual report to be filed with the County Auditor.

A delegation from the Pennington County Fair Board, with spokesman Skip Swanson, appeared before the Board. Dick Anderson, Treasurer of the Fair Board, advised the County Board that the Fair was $8,000 in the red at this time. At least $14,000 is needed each year from the County in order to break even. The Fair Board requested $8,000 from the County for this year and at least $14,000 for 1984. No action taken by the County Board.

Sandy Vandermay, representing AT&T, was in to present a new communication system for the entire Courthouse. No decision was made at this time.

Representatives from the Zeigler Company were in to discuss the road grader on which the transmission has failed for the third time. The warranty had expired from Caterpillar and they could find nothing to link the transmission failure to one another as each time it was a part entirely separate from the previous time. The other failures were covered under warranty. The Board had denied payment for the repairs of this transmission and no further action was taken at this time.

County Engineer Olson was in to discuss the Highway Department. Discussed the legalities of "Slow Children Playing" signs; the purchasing of used mowers from the State and spraying ditches with Amitrolt for control of cattails.

Duane Valsaas, Merle Dagen and Pete Carlson were in to discuss cleaning of County Ditch No. 70. This brought up the problem of the need to review the benefits of this ditch so that if it is cleaned who is to pay for the cleaning. Moved by Commissioner Grabanski, seconded by Commissioner Koop to review the benefits of County Ditch No. 70 and that the viewers be Sam Bratteli, Charles Rodekuhr and Edgar Naplin. Motion unanimously carried.

Terry Courneya was in to discuss the County Extension Budget and the possibility of signing an agreement for employment of County Extension Agents. Pennington County would pay 30 per cent of the average agent's salary to the University of Minnesota under this agreement. Moved by Commissioner Tasa, seconded by Commissioner Koop to authorize the Chairman to sign the Agreement for Employment of County Extension Agents as presented. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Extension Budget was reviewed and Commissioner Koop introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the sum of $44,167.00 be set apart from the General Revenue Fund and appropriated subject to the office of the Dean of the Institute of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota for support of County Extension work in agriculture and home economics in Pennington County, for the year beginning January 1, 1984, in accordance with Chapter 202, Laws 1953 and Acts supplementary thereto.

Commissioner Stenberg seconded the foregoing resolution and upon vote, declared unanimously adopted.

Moved by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Grabanski to adjourn until Tuesday, September 13, 1983 at 10:00 a.m. Motion unanimously carried.

Maps Offered By State For Fall Canoeing

No other state in the continental U.S. has more rivers and lakes than Minnesota for canoeing. There are almost 29,000 miles of rivers and streams, and nearly 12,000 natural lakes to choose from. And to make the choice even easier this fall, the Minnesota office of tourism is offering 40 canoe maps of the state free for the asking.

Minnesota has 18 state-designated canoe routes that total over 2,900 miles of thoroughly-mapped and marked access points, campsites, rest areas, portages, drinking water sites, and hazardous areas. According to the department of natural resources, there are 1,700 public accesses to make canoeing more convenient.

To help make canoeing even safer, the maps clearly identify hazards such as waterfalls, white-water rapids and dams. Each map includes safety tips for family, wilderness and white-water canoeing. Canoers can also telephone the river water level report service at (612) 296-6699.

Some of the most popular canoeing areas in the state include Voyageurs National park, the Mississippi and St. Croix rivers, and this country's only federally-protected canoe wilderness, the Boundary Waters canoe area.

For any of the 40 free canoeing maps, write the Minnesota travel information center, 240 Bremer Building, 419 North Robert St., St. Paul, MN 55101.

Eagle Survey At Chippewa Forest Finished

Young bald eagles and ospreys were observed in their nests in July during aerial surveys on the Chippewa National Forest, report officials. A survey earlier this spring revealed that eagles were incubating their eggs on 101 nests in the area, the most since record-keeping began 20 years ago.

Osprey nests are less permanent than eagle nests, making inventory more difficult, but it was determined that slightly over half of the forest's 176 known osprey nests were also active.

A total of 131 eaglets were counted during the 1983 survey, compared to 106 last year, according to wildlife biologist John Mathisen. Young were produced on 68 per cent of the nests considered to be active this year.

Average number of young per active nest was 1.30. The best year for eagle production in the Chippewa National Forest was 1980, when nesting success reached 80 per cent and an average of 1.46 young were produced per active nest. Eagle production in 1983 was about average.

Ospreys however, were less successful in 1983 than in recent years. Only 52 per cent of the breeding pairs were successful, with slightly less than one young per active nest being produced. Breeding success for ospreys varies considerably from year to year compared to eagles.

Bald eagle nesting information has been compiled each year since 1963, while osprey surveys have been done each year since 1968. Bald eagles are classified as a threatened species in Minnesota, ospreys as a sensitive species in national forests.

States Receive Boating Safety Matching Funds

Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Dole recently announced the issuance of the first matching grants in a $12.5 million program of assistance to the states for recreational boating safety.

Funds are for use by the states in their boating safety education and law enforcement programs.

To date, funds have been obligated to 44 states and four other jurisdictions by the U.S. Coast Guard, which administers the program. Coast Guard is now processing requests for payment as received from these states.

This year marks the resumption of federal funding of the grant program which was initiated in 1971. No federal funds were appropriated during the period from 1980 to 1982.

Congress appropriated $12.5 million for the program in Fiscal Year 1983 and a similar amount in Fiscal Year 1984. The money predominantly comes from the federal fuel tax paid by boaters.

Dole said the continued growth of recreational boating underscores the importance of state boating safety programs. She pointed out that the safety programs of the states and the Coast Guard since their start in 1971 have helped to cut the boating fatality rate by more than half, from 20.2 to 7.9 deaths per 100,000 boats in 1982.

Federal funds are made available under a formula which takes into account the amount of state funds devoted to each state's recreational boating safety program and the number of boats numbered by each State.

In addition to the 44 states now being approved for payments, applications are being processed for four states, Arizona, California, Iowa and Massachusetts, and two territories, American Samoa and Guam. Two states do not have qualified boating safety programs.

Fiscal Year 1983 funds obligated to date: Alabama $264,678; Arkansas $226,652; Colorado $112,747; Connecticut $206,149; Delaware $131,059; District of Columbia $153,261; Florida $389,066; Hawaii $94,946; Georgia $278,434; Idaho $129,438; Illinois $230,747; Indiana $243,743; Kansas $125,686; Kentucky $213,914; Louisiana $389,541; Maine $149,458; Maryland $480,591; Michigan $639,758; Minnesota $479,663; Mississippi $190,470; Missouri $298,719; Montana $98,433; Nebraska $104,044; Nevada $110,792; New Hampshire $100,031; New Jersey $288,743; New Mexico $102,166; New York $703,412; North Carolina $225,697; North Dakota $97,884; Ohio $390,762; Oklahoma $261,897; Oregon $211,781; Pennsylvania $318,267; Rhode Island $103,641; South Carolina $188,862; South Dakota $101,079; Tennessee $223,545; Texas $637,155; Utah $120,543; Vermont $96,026; Virginia $163,450; West Virginia $111,110; Wisconsin $344,414; Wyoming $88,777; Puerto Rico $102,069; Northern Mariana Island $77,814; Virgin Islands $87,919 for a Total of $10,887,453.

A wild rabbit's first line of defense against a predator is to lie flat on the ground and remain absolutely still, says "International Wildlife" magazine. If that doesn't work, a wild rabbit can jump a distance of at least eight feet, clear obstacles five feet high, and reach speeds of more than 40 miles an hours.

State Pheasant Stamp

When Minnesota pheasant hunters open the season on Oct. 22, they will, for the first time, be required to have in possession the new pheasant stamp mandated by the 1983 legislature.

New law requires all pheasant hunters except those under the age of 18 or over the age of 65, who are otherwise required to possess a small game license, to have the stamp in possession while hunting pheasants.

Enforcement officials at the Department of Natural Resources noted that the law requires that each stamp be validated by the signature of the licensee written across its face.

Stamp costs $5 and may be purchased wherever hunting licenses are sold. The law directs that the funds derived from sale of the stamp be used for "development, and private lands and the reimbursement of landowners for setting aside lands for pheasant habitat . . ."

In anticipation of the funds to be produced by sale of the stamp, the legislature appropriated $500,000 for fiscal year 1984 and another $500,000 for fiscal year 1985 for pheasant habitat work to be accomplished under the new act.

Minnesota's pheasant season this year extends through Dec. 4 with bag limits of two cocks daily and four in possession. Shooting hours are 9 a.m. to sunset.

Outdoor School

Anyone interested in improving their outdoor skills will have an opportunity to get some expert help when the Department of Natural Resources Outdoor School conducts its "fall workshop" Oct. 14-16.

Site of the school will be Camp Miller, Sturgeon Lake. Courses will include climbing for non-climbers, wilderness cooking, first aid, backcountry navigation, campcraft skills, canoe trip planning and gear selection.

Courses are offered for everyone from novice to experienced wildnerness travellers.

To register, call 296-3336 or write Minnesota Outdoor School, Department of Natural Resources, Box 46 Centennial Building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

Forestry Program

More than 7,000 owners of private woodlands in Minnesota received assistance from Department of Natural Resources foresters during the past two years.

Ray Hitchcock, DNR forestry director, said more than 100,000 acres of privately owned forest land were improved through the private forest management (PFM) program during the 1982-83 fiscal year.

He said DNR foresters will prepare a management plan for the woodland owner that will select the trees to be harvested, determine planting needs, show where timber stand improvement practices should be carried out, provide information on cost-sharing assistance and taxes, and maximize benefits to wildlife and recreation.

Hitchcock said cost-sharing is available through the forestry incentive program and the agricultural conservation program. He said the objective of these programs is to increase timber production on privately owned land and to conserve soil and water through forestry practices.

It is estimated, he said, that the nation's demand for timber and other forest resources will double in the next 25 years. Much of this increased production will have to come from private lands, said Hitchcock — meaning that private timberlands, if managed properly, could increase dramatically in value during the coming years.

A pamphlet outlining the private forest management program is available without charge from the DNR Forestry Division, Box 44, Centennial Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155, and at local forestry offices throughout the state.

Lincoln JV Is Defeated 21-8 By Crookston

It was the 1983 home opener for Thief River Falls, trailing 21-0 before Kurt Wagner scored on a 3-yard fourth quarter run. Bill Desrocher passed to Dean Brandon for the two-point conversion, the same passing combination that produced a 60-yard gain to set up the touchdown.

After falling behind 14-0 at halftime, Thief River Falls twice marched inside the Crookston 10-yard line but failed to reach the end zone.

Thief River Falls junior varsity, 0-2, will be at Grand Forks Central Monday for a 7 p.m. game. Thief River Falls sophomore squad, also 0-2, will host Grand Forks Central Thursday at 7 p.m.

City Life Not A Health Hazard, Study Indicates

by David M. Maxfield
Smithsonian News Service

For Americans who live today in cities or suburbs — close to 75 per cent of the nation's total population — there is good news indeed.

Reports filtering in from psychologists, sociologists and anthropologists are disproving the widely held belief that city living is hazardous to one's health, both physical and mental.

Recent studies show that in cities life expectancy is higher, infant mortality is lower and the incidence of mental illness actually may be less than on farms or in small towns. City residents have been found to miss no more days of work because of poor health than other people, and studies of life satisfaction indicate that urban residents are just as happy as their rural counterparts.

Furthermore, during the past decade, urban air and water pollution has decreased, and although crime has not declined, urbanologists say that it need not be synonymous with high density living, as demonstrated by the low crime rates in some cities.

Related urban studies underscore that potentially debilitating personal stress, which all people experience but which urban traffic, pressure, crowds and noise tend to inflame, should be looked upon as a stimulus, a concomitant of urban life; properly controlled, healthy, productive living is the reward.

These and other facets of metropolitan life are presented in a new publication entitled "Cities, The Forces That Shape Them," produced by the Cooper-Hewitt museum, the Smithsonian's national museum of design located in New York City.

More than 100 contributors to the publication, edited by Cooper-Hewitt Director Lisa Taylor, examine why cities look the way they do, how they function, how they affect their inhabitants and how they can be revitalized.

For the millions living in cities, "the evidence collected by scientists indicates that city living does not generally have any harmful effects on our physical, mental or social lives," University of Toronto psychologist Jonathan Freedman states in one of the "Cities" essays. "This is not to say that all is rosy in the cities, or to deny that some of our cities have extremely serious problems."

History of American cities, where life, urbanologists contend, is always more varied and more complicated than in the country, is the key to understanding why so many misconceptions have surfaced about the quality of urban life and health. As the urban frontier in the United States spread from east to west, a distinctly anti-urban attitude arose, an attitude expressed in two ways.

Rural and small town antagonism toward urban life, Columbia university sociologist Herbert J. Gans points out in a "Cities" essay, intensified when the nation's manufacturing centers attracted millions of poor immigrants, principally Catholics and Jews, from Europe and Russia. Their arrival alarmed native-born Americans who viewed the newcomers as a threat to Anglo-Protestant culture, political and social power.

Partly as a result of this attitude, cities and their inhabitants were politically penalized. Until 1964, when the Supreme Court handed down its "one person, one vote" decision, the U.S. Congress and most state legislatures were gerrymandered to favor rural populations.

Anti-urban attitude, Freedman writes, also sprang from the belief that the farms, small towns and forests were the source of American strength and romance: Here was the "pure life, the healthy life and the productive life" in contrast, cities were considered "somehow unhealthy and unnatural."

Freedman shatters these myths. "To begin," he declares, "city people are not less healthy, physically, than those who live in small towns or on farms." Though the United States does not have an outstandingly low infant mortality rate, babies born in cities are more likely to survive than babies born anywhere else, he points out. And at the other end of the lifespan, the life expectancy of urban residents is actually somewhat higher than that of people living in small towns and considerably higher than that of people who live on farms.

And what of mental health? Surely life in the urban fast lane is enough to drive anyone crazy. But in fact, the rates of severe mental illness such as schizophrenia seem to be virtually constant in all environments, Freedman reports. In one extensive mental health study that compared residents of crowded mid-town Manhattan to those in several small towns, researchers found that "if anything there was a slightly higher rate of mental disturbance in the towns."

Two explanations are possible; Freedman concludes: first, that genetic or other physical diseases are more a cause of mental disturbances than environmental stresses. Second, that the burdens of life involving interpersonal relations, individual needs and concerns (age, health, social and financial standing), which can lead to mental disorders, are probably about the same wherever one lives.

Moreover, while the tensions of the city may be a strain in one sense, "the boredom, lack of variety and low level of stimulation found on a farm may be equally stressful," he says.

Polls of city residents conducted to determine life satisfaction reveal that many would prefer to live "in the country." But studies show that those who live there are no happier than people in the cities. And clearly, Freedman says, cities are better for those who thrive on high levels of stimulation, just as small towns and farms are suited for folks who prefer a more peaceful way of life.

Recent studies also have shot holes in another myth — that city living is socially cold, typified by superficial relationships. The best available evidence suggests that city people have more friends — and more intimate friends — than those who live in smaller places and that the typical urbanite knows a wide range of people of varying economic, ethnic and national backgrounds, different occupations, religions and political beliefs.

As for crime, there is no dispute that the crime rate in American cities is higher than in small communities. Yet this is not true everywhere in the world; cities in Japan, Canada, Switzerland and other nations, for example, have lower crime rates than some small U.S. towns. "In fact, there is no evidence that urban living itself produces crime," according to Freedman. He suggests that the actual causes are related to such factors as unemployment and poor education, which "tend to be prominent in our cities."

Like crime, stress is an undeniable part of urban living. Indeed, the very types of personalities attracted to metropolitan centers bring along stress-related baggage. The personality who is drawn to cities in the pursuit of excellence does well until thwarted in his goals, Manhattan pyschiatrist Herbert E. Walker states in a "Cities" essay. Prominent among frustrations for the achiever is how he or she handles competitive situations, and for the perfectionist, the matter of luck — of simply not being the right person in the right place at the right time.

"Excellence does not exempt people from psychosomatic diseases," Walker says. "A setback, a real or imagined slight, or an oversight . . . can suddenly bring on stress and its possible results."

The person who likes city living for the amount of privacy it affords may wind up in a stressful dilemma when pressed for sociability. A person sensititive to privacy, for example, might be bothered by the working conditions of an open, undivided office.

Physicians advise that people who participate in vigorous exercise are less likely to suffer from stress-related diseases. They also recommend that city folk vary their routines — seeing and doing new things, walking different routes, leaving the office for lunch — to avoid the effects of urban stress. And improving a problem physical environment can improve one's response to stress — using chairs that are comfortable and produce a healthy posture, for example.

Learn to adapt to the city without being angry about adapting, specialists also say, and, finally, understand that assertiveness is an important technique to relieve stress. "To avoid urban stress," Walker advises, "city dwellers must learn to state their needs and feelings early, in a calm and resonable manner, before frustration and anger build up."

Borer Problem In Corn Worse Than Expected

According to the manager of the seed corn program for the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, the corn borer problem is much worse than most farmers realize.

Don Houghton said that five weeks ago a farmer could brush against a cob in the field and it fell right to the ground. "Because of little plowing last year due to weather and PIK, the corn borers had the ideal wintering place — right in the stalk itself," said Houghton.

The main problems in corn is standability. 'Since the borers attack the main stalk, any kind of a strong wind will blow the stalk over. Low test weights can also be expected, since this massive infestation destroyed many plants prematurely," he added.

Another problem facing corn growers is that many popular seed corn numbers won't be available for next year.

"The acreage reductions had the effect of farmers planting more of their favorite hybrids and there was less experimentation. So, while there may be a lot of seed available, if you want a particular number you'll be paying top dollar," Houghton said.

"The best way to ensure your variety is to order early, and tie it down as soon as possible," he said. "Emergency plantings are going on now down south, but that won't totally replace the damaged and destroyed seed corn fields from the midwest. Prices will rise, and there is talk of $80 per unit seed corn next year."

Highway Two Information Center Closing

Fisher's Landing travel information center, located on highway two between East Grand Forks and Crookston, will close for the winter on October 16. Rest area facility will remain open on a 24 hour basis throughout the winter.

According to Gladys Sondrol, supervisor of the center, over 60,000 travelers have visited the center since it reopened for the 1983 summer season on May 13. This number is up 104 per cent from the center's first season in 1981. At the center, they were able to learn of the many attractions throughout Minnesota and were quite possibly persuaded to spend more time and money in the state than they would have otherwise.

Center is being closed at this time because the number of visitors declines in the winter and staffing the center during this time is not considered by department officials to be cost effective.

Information about winter activities is available at the center until the October 16 closing, Sondrol said. People planning a winter vacation can stop at Fisher's Landing or call the center at (218) 773-7879 to get brochures and travel information for the winter season.

No Place For Referendum

A lot of people with a sincere interest in the best management of this nation's wildlife resources are concerned about an election scheduled for November 8 in Maine.

Voters will decide if moose hunting is to continue in that state. Results could have far-reaching consequences in the area of professional game management. Voters will actually decide if the state's valuable wildlife resources are to be managed by experienced professionals or by special interest groups.

Illegal hunting and habitat changes were among the reasons the Maine moose herd reached a low point in the 1930's. The season was terminated in 1936. Changing climatic conditions and forestry practices, however, began favoring the moose. The department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife was strengthened, and most of the illegal hunting was stopped.

With these factors in its favor, the moose population in northern Maine grew steadily until there are an estimated 25,000 in that region today. It became necessary to do something to avoid over-population, habitat deterioration and the subsequent die-off in the herd.

Considering the annual increase in moose numbers and the fact that the herd could provide public recreational benefit as well as food, the department recommended a closely-regulated hunting season. Limits were set to harvest some of the annual increase, and Maine held its first moose season in 43 years in 1980.

SMOOSA (Save Maine's Only Official Animal) charged onto the scene to lead a campaign by anti-hunting forces. SMOOSA filed enough signatures on a petition to the Maine secretary of state to send the question of moose hunting to the voters. The Sportsmen's Alliance of Maine contested the legality of the petition filing in court, but the state supreme court ruled in May, 1983, in favor of the anti-hunting group's demand for a referendum.

It will be the first referendum on big game hunting in the United States, and it presents alarming possibilities. A referendum may seem a simple and effective way to decide wildlife seasons. But it completely overlooks the extensive research and experience of officials trained to make such judgments. People with only a casual interest and understanding of wildlife problems should not decide management issues.

Unfortunately, there are many self-proclaimed wildlife experts, so determined to wipe out hunting that they ignore time-tested techniques and the recommendatinns of seasoned prof ssionals. They do not see — or are unwilling to accept — that hunting can be used to keep overall animal populations in check and remove diseased specimens from healthy herds.

Great progress has been made in managing natural resources. It will be a shame if that knowledge and judgment are replaced by the whims of voters in elections.

Reform Federal Pensions

Following editorial is from the Morris Tribune:

The Civil Service Retirement System's unfunded liability — its projected benefit payments minus its current assets — topped $500 billion this year. Less than 20 per cent of the cost of the system is contributed by federal workers; the taxpayers have to bail out the system every year. And since 1960, the cost of the system has grown nine times faster than the inflation rate.

It is no wonder that members of Congress and the Reagan administration have made several recommendations for changing the system.

According to Donald Devine, Director of the Office of Personnel Management, the federal government is spending more tax dollars on the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) than it spends to provide basic welfare assistance to the nation's truly needy people! Last year, CSRS spent $31.4 billion on 1.9 million beneficiaries. By comparison, total spending for food stamps, housing assistance, and Aid to Families With Dependent Children was $26.9 billion; and these programs benefited more than 25 million needy Americans.

The taxpayer-supported CSRS is far more generous than the vast majority of pension plans offered by the private sector. Big federal pensions were originally designed to compensate for the fact that government workers were paid less than their private industry counterparts. But federal workers are now paid on a scale comparable to the private sector; yet the federal pension advantage persists.

For example, a federal worker making $7,500 a year who retired in 1975 had contributed a total of $6,000 in 42 years on the federal payroll. Since retiring, he has collected $142,000 in pension benefits — over $17,000 a year.

The CSRS imposes no penalty for early retirement. A federal worker retiring in 1974 at 55, who had been earning a $20,000 salary, could expect to collect $600,191 in twenty years. On the average, his private sector counterpart stood to collect less than one-third of that. And the public-private pension gap is widening.

Congress is considering two basic changes that would go a long way toward getting the CSRS off the backs of the taxpayer. First, the age for full retirement benefits would go from 55 to 65. Second, the federal employee's contribution rate would gradually rise from seven per cent to 11 per cent. We believe both measures should be adopted.

And Now This

It may be that the ECTSM&SP has done its work too well. That is the Ely Committee To Save Minneapolis and St. Paul which was organized during the 1978 BWCA controversy to save the Twin Cities from the blight of not having a neighborhood wilderness. Forsooth, the ECTSM&SP outlined a lot of ways the people in that unenlightened area could "save" their wildlife, trees, grass, silence, pristine beauty, etc., etc. It may be that they took the suggestions to heart.

At least we have been informed that they now intend to dispose of their hazardous wastes a long way from where they are created, preferably in northern Minnesota, 250 miles or more from the source. Indeed, two of the sites under consideration are less than 10 miles from Ely, just outside the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness, which the Twin Cities press and citizenry were so determined to "save" in 1978. At that time we were told they were "saving" it from the blight of fishermen with outboard motors on their canoes. Perhaps less attention should have been given as to what they were saving it "from", and more to what they were saving it "for". As it now turns out, it seems they may have been saving it for a waste dump in which to dispose chemicals and other items which might be termed "hazardous to your health."

We have yet to see firey editorials in the Twin Cities press decrying such dumps next to the BWCA, editorials such as were printed in regard to the supposed degredation of the wilderness by outboard noise.

Or perhaps we merely misunderstood the earlier editorials. Possibly "saving" the wilderness can accommodate hazardous waste dumping as long as it is done silently. We watch with wonder.

Why Down On Watt?

One of the many contradictions concerning Jim Watt's controversial role as Interior secretary is his standing with outdoorsmen.

Although Watt likes to hunt and President Reagan is an outdoorsman, Interior's policies are often criticized by hunting and fishing interests. This is difficult to figure out because Watt has been one of the few higher-ups with the courage to tackle the preservationists.

We doubt, for example, that Interior would have ever gotten off its duff to return management of the timber wolf to Minnesota with the preservationist types of other administrations in control. We also doubt that trapping in Black Bay would be an issue with the preservationists in control — there would be no trapping.

So, why are some outdoorsmen down on Watt? Perhaps it stems from other issues or the bad press that the controversial Watt generates. Whatever, outdoorsmen should be supporting this friendly Watt.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Husband: "I'll tell you one thing, honey. If the boss doesn't take back what he said to me today, I'm looking for another job."

Wife: "What did he say?"

Husband: "He told me to look for another job."

Pointers for PARENTS

Helpful Information For You

Simple, satisfying creative projects for preschoolers.

It's important for preschoolers to accomplish simple tasks on their own. Whether it is coloring a picture or tying a shoe, the ability to master a project independently improves a child's sense of self-worth.

Parents can play a big role in helping their youngster achieve independence and develop a healthy self-concept. Selecting activities that are consistent with their preschooler's level of ability is the first step. Forcing too much on a young child too quickly may only lead to frustration when either your child's or your own desires exceed his or her capabilities.

Look over the education-oriented preschool products on the market. They are primarily designed to get children ready for school, teaching important skills for reading and writing readiness. Make sure the projects are both simple and satisfying, however, so learning does not become a chore. Recommended materials are those that help teach children to solve problems, follow directions and use their imaginations in a playtime atmosphere.

The Scribbler's line of preschool products combines a simple approach to learning fundamental skills with an assortment of colorful activities that children perceive as fun.

For example, color-cut-play and color-cut-paste books each contain several creative projects children can make on their own and then play with, display or share. Coloring, cutting, folding and pasting are favorite playtime activities of preschoolers. They also help develop the manipulative skills that are so important in preparing for school.

On the back of each book is a message to parents explaining the uses and benefits of the product. Clear, easy-to-understand instructions and diagrams help guide the parent and child through each exercise. The important thing is that your child has created something on his or her own which can proudly be displayed.

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer Society and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Q. I don't understand how a person can have cancer in one part of the body and then have it show up somewhere else completely separate.

A. Cancer can start in any organ or tissue of the body. Its main characteristic is an abnormal, seemingly unrestricted, growth of cells that destroys or otherwise harms surrounding normal tissue or organs. These cells form a cancerous tumor or mass, sometimes called a primary cancer. Cancerous tumors are different from benign (non-cancerous) tumors in that they can invade neighboring tissues or spread (metastisize) to other parts of the body.

Cancer cells from a primary tumor may break away and be carried by the blood or lymphatic system to other, sometimes distant, parts of the body, producing secondary tumors known as metastases.

The lymphatic system is a part of the body's immune (defense) system. Lymph nodes are found throughout the body. Under normal circumstances, the nodes act to remove foreign cells or substances from the body. The nodes are connected by channels which contain a fluid called lymph. The lymph circulates through the body and ultimately is drained by the lymph nodes. Sometimes cancer cells that are shed by a primary tumor are carried by the lymph to nearby or distant lymph nodes, thereby spreading the cancer.

The cell structure of these secondary cancers resembles that of the original primary cancer. By examining the cancerous tissue with a microscope, a physician often can determine whether a tumor is a primary or secondary cancer. When a second cancer is discovered in a patient already known to have cancer, it most often is the result of metastasis, rather than another primary tumor. Metastatic cancers may appear at about the same time as the primary tumor, or they may not become evident until months or sometimes years later. Treatment for metastatic cancer depends on the site of the primary tumor and many other considerations, such as the general health of the patient.

Dear Readers:

One of the strongest recommendations the National Academy of Sciences made in its report, "Diet, Nutrition and Cancer" was that people should try to reduce the amount of fat they eat. Diets high in fats were found to be strongly associated with cancers of the breast and colon.

Most people think of butter, margarine, cooking oils and meats as the main sources of fats in foods. But many other foods contain fats like milk, cheese, nuts and peanut butter. Fats account for about 40 per cent of all calories the average American eats. The NAS panel recommends cutting that amount by about one-fourth.

Since it's difficult to visualize what it means to cut the amount of fat we eat by one-fourth, here are some suggestions for simple substitutions. These suggestions are based on a fairly typical adult daily diet of about 2,000 calories.

— If you usually drink two glasses of whole milk each day, you could cut your fat consumption by one-fourth just by switching to skim milk.

— A four-ounce serving of hamburger contains one-fourth of an average day's fat. Four ounces of haddock or cod has only one-third as much fat.

— An average serving of french fries could contain as much as one-half of the fat you normally eat in a day. By substituting boiled or baked potatoes seasoned without butter or sour cream, you could eliminate the fat.

— Most vegetables seasoned without butter contain no fat.

— Be careful with salad dressings. Two tablespoons of bleu cheese dressing, for instance, contains enough fat to account for one-fourth of an average day's amount.

— Cream soups contain a lot of fat, but broths and vegetable soups including tomato and pea are low in fat.

Use these suggestions to make some simple substitutions and modifications in the foods you eat, and you can easily cut one-fourth of the fat from your diet.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The Tax Revolt Spreads

Georges Clemenceau, the prime minister of France, looked out over the carnage that was World War I and observed that "War is much too serious a matter to be entrusted to generals."

French military leadership lost hundreds of thousands of lives fighting a modern war against barbed wire and machine guns while using the tactics of the 1870s — massive frontal assaults.

The history of stagflation in the 1970s has added a corollary to Clemenceau's observation. Just as war is too important to be left to the generals, tax policy is too important to be left to the politicians.

The interests of those young men who fight and die in the trenches are not always those of the generals who plan stragegy in the war room. And life in the economic trenches for working men and women who must pay taxes provides a different viewpoint from that seen by politicians who enact higher and higher taxes each year. Charge that hill! Pay that tax! You can do it. (I'll supervise.)

It is easy to raise taxes: Raise your hand and say "Aye." It is not easy for families with mortgages, car payments and grocery bills to pay those taxes. As taxes — income taxes, sales taxes, property taxes — have risen, the gulf between taxpayers and politicians has widened.

As a result, American taxpayers have moved to put some meaning back into the phrase, "consent of the governed." In 1978, California's citizens gathered hundreds of thousands of signatures to place Proposition 13 on the ballot. Despite the opposition of virtually every leading politician in the state, Proposition 13 passed by a two-to-one margin and property taxes were halved.

At the national level, the calls and letters of taxpayers forced Congress to pass President's Reagan's 1981 tax cut, and when the government threatened to impose withholding on interest and dividend income, an unprecedented 20 million letters descended on congressional offices. Congress got the message and repealed the withholding tax.

But the tax revolt is not yesterday's headline.

Taxpayers in Ohio were furious when Governor Richard Celeste increased the state income tax by 90 per cent — mimicking Herbert Hoover's attempts to close a deficit by raising taxes. Ohioans, hard hit by the recession, were handed a double whammy with a sharp tax increase. Down, but not out, Ohio's taxpayers collected more than 500,000 signatures on two initiatives. The first will repeal all the tax increases passed in the last year. The second will require any further tax hikes to be passed by three-fifths of both houses of the state legislature. Both initiatives will be on the November ballot and are expected to pass overwhelmingly.

The tax revolt has spread into Michigan as well, where an initiative to repeal Governor Blanchard's massive tax hikes has garnered over 250,000 signatures to date and the initiative will appear on the November 1984 ballot. The Michigan initiative also has an interesting feature: It would require any new tax increase to be approved by a vote of the people. Michigan taxpayers will not have to pay any new taxes they don't vote for themselves. That is true "consent of the governed." Similar efforts are under way in Oregon and Florida.

Governors, congressmen and state legislators should take note that the patience and bank accounts of the taxpayers are running out.

Taxpayers simply will not "take it any more." They don't have to. In those states that allow the initiative process, excessive taxes can be repealed by the people. In those states without an initiative, the solution is equally simple — retire those politicians who think they need your paycheck more than your family does.

Apple Harvest Season Starts In Minnesota

Colors, smells, and tastes of autumn are in the air. Days are cooler and shorter, the leaves are beginning to display brilliant colors, and the craving for crisp Minnesota apples is insatiable.

Apple harvest season, which began in August, will peak in October and continue through November. A scenic drive to one of Minnesota's more than thirty apple orchards this fall will yield tantalizing rewards — samples of more than a dozen varieties of tree-ripened apples — Jonathans, Cortlands, Prairie Spies, Delicious, Firesides, Wealthy, Honeygolds, and MacIntosh.

Minnesota apple growers associations has offered some tips to note when making your apple purchases this fall. Don't rely upon color as an indicator of flavor and ripeness. Many good eating apples are not solid red in color. Be sure to taste and check the firmness of the apples you are selecting. Some varieties are better for eating and others are better for freezing and baking. Make your selection based upon your intended use for the apples.

When deciding on the quality of your apple purchase, remember a bushel contains 40 pounds or 120 medium-sized apples. It's recommended to buy Jonathans, Haralsons, Firesides, Cortlands, Red and Golden Delicious, and Regents in a large quantity because they store well. Peck contains about 30 apples and an experienced baker will tell you a nine-inch apple pie requires six to eight apples.

Throughout the metropolitan area, down to the southern Iowa border, west to Slayton, and north to Buffalo and White Bear Lake, Minnesota's orchards are stocked with much more than samples, pecks, and bushels of apples. You will find carmel apples, fresh and frozen apple pies, maple syrup, apple butter, plus two special treats: apple cider and apple honey. Orchards' apple cider is a unique blend of whatever apples they have in stock. Apple honey is produced from bees who work just apple blossoms during the spring. Honey experts generally rate apple honey higher than regular clover honey. Apple honey is milder and lighter in color.

Minnesota's apple orchards are also a source of autumn recreation and entertainment. Some orchards host hay rides and special events such as Johnny Appleseed days and other apple festivals.

For further information on Minnesota's apple orchards, apple products, or apple festivals, contact the Minnesota travel information center. Free directories from the department of agriculture listing Minnesota's orchards, farmers markets, and roadside stands are available for northern, southern, and central Minnesota. Directories contain valuable information for all seasons, listing the spring and summer strawberry and raspberry farms, plus the summer and fall fresh vegetable and fruit locations. For your free copies, call the Minnesota travel information center at 1-800-652-9747, or write the center, 240 Bremer Building, 419 North Robert Street, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

Bus Safety Week Slated Oct. 2 To 8

"Wheels are rolling-watch your step" is the theme of the 1983 school bus safety week in Minnesota, October 2 to 8, according to public safety commissioner Paul Tschida.

Minnesota places considerable emphasis on school bus safety including reminding children, parents and bus drivers about proper safety procedures and stressing a high quality bus maintenance program to those who have that responsibility.

This year's theme is directed primarily to youngsters who ride school buses but it is equally important for parents to refresh their memories about school bus safety rules.

Motorists should also remember that coming from either direction, they must be prepared to stop when they see flashing amber lights on a school bus. These lights are a pre-warning that the bus is about to stop. Flashing red lights and an extended stop arm means that the bus is stopped to either load or unload school children.

Tschida said that the majority of children injured or killed in pupil transportation are not injured or killed on the bus, but outside the bus. Many are struck by motorists who fail to stop for the flashing red lights and extended stop arm.

The continuing attention given to school bus safety occurs with the hope that all who see buses, whether while driving or walking, will remember the significance of all aspects of the safety program.

North Country Trail System Expanded

Autumn has arrived in northern Minnesota, and an enjoyable way to view the fall scenery is to take a hike on the North Country Trail.

Over 50 miles of this trail are now completed at the Chippewa National Forest, report officials. The North Country Trail will eventually span the northern U.S. from New York to North Dakota, a distance of 3,200 miles. Chippewa National Forest segments are located on the Walker and Deer River ranger districts. They are available for non-motorized use during all seasons of the year.

North Country Trail passes along many small lakes, across streams, past pot holes, beaver dams and lodges, through coniferous and hardwood forests in various stages of succession and through openings in the forest. Many man-made features and examples of multiple use management also provide an enjoyable experience. These include wildlife openings, hunter walking trails, waterfowl impoundments, nesting boxes, plantations, aspen regeneration on recently cutover areas, timber stand improvement projects along with developed and dispersed recreation sites.

Hikers may happen to see some of the area's wildlife: white-tailed deer, snowshoe rabbit, beaver, ruffed grouse, bald eagle, osprey and numerous species of hawks, waterfowl and song birds. Hunters have found that the clover-seeded trail, with its location through a variety of forest conditions, makes for good grouse hunting.

North Country Trail system was first formally proposed by Congress in 1968. An environmental impact statement for the trail corridor was completed by USDI-Bureau of Outdoor Recreation in 1973. Trail construction on the Chippewa National Forest began in 1977, and segments have been completed since then whenever funding was available.

Seven miles were constructed this past summer, with five additional miles of trail construction planned in 1984. Fifteen miles of the trail are yet to be constructed on the forest. Longest continuous stretch of trail on the forest is 34 miles — from the boundary with the Paul Bunyan State Forest west of Walker, to County Road 84 north of Longville.

Human resource program employees have made an enormous contribution to construction and maintenance of the trail across the forest, including the Youth Conservation Corps, Young Adult Conservation Corps and Senior Community Service Employment Program. Those enrollees have all provided enthusiasm and skills to the project.

Trail is located as much as possible on national forest land, but state, counties and individual landowners have granted 15 different rights-of-way (3¼ miles) where needed.

Access points with parking are located off Highway 34 southwest of Walker at the Shingobee trailhead, and at the Lake Erin picnic ground off Highway 371 between Walker and Hackensack. Additional access points are off State Highway 6 north of Remer, and where other county and forest roads intersect the trail.

There are two stopover areas off the main trail, with more planned at six to ten mile intervals. Forest Service provides a cleared tent pad, fire ring and wilderness toilet at these sites. Camping is also allowed at other spots along the trail.

Use of the North Country Trail is presently light but has been increasing and is bound to get a boost from the Walker north Country marathon race coming up on October 8. Seven miles of the marathon course will traverse the trail, with about 50 runners and many more spectators expected. For more information about this marathon and associated 10-kilometer run, contact the Leech Lake Area Chamber of Commerce at 547-1313.

Cass County Izaak Walton League has actively publicized hiking opportunities on the North Country Trail by sponsoring a number of introductory hikes. Last of these is scheduled for Sunday, October 9, the day following the marathon run, in the Shingobee area southwest of Walker. For more information on the introductory hike, call 547-1694. For general information on the North Country Trail on the Chippewa National Forest, contact the Walker ranger district office at 547-1044.

Looking ahead to winter, cross-country skiing is another potential use of the North Country Trail. Grooming is now done only where the trail passes through the Shingobee and Goose Lake ski trail systems, but the Forest Service is willing to permit grooming of additional segments by those willing to volunteer time and-or equipment to the effort.

Meanwhile, there are still plenty of days before winter sets in to enjoy a quality hiking experience on the North Country Trail, invite officials.

Cost-Sharing Funds Received In Grygla Area

Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district has recently received its' 1983-84 allocation for cost-share assistance through the state cost-share program. The district received a total of $3,795 to be used for projects to help get conservation practices applied on the land.

Applications are now being taken and the monies will be encumbereed on a first-come, first-served basis, according to Cheryl Sistad, district clerk. The program is open to individuals, groups or units of the government and will pay up to 75 per cent of the costs of the following practices:

(1) Erosion Control Structures — Structures such as grade stabilization structures, floodwater retarding structures and multi-purpose dams.

(2) Stripcropping — A cropping system which provides for planting row crops with the contour where practicable and using alternative strips of row crops, close sown, and sod crops.

(3) Diversions — A channel with a supporting ridge on the lower side constructed across the slope.

(4) Stormwater Control Systems — A system of components such as waterways, diversions, sediment control structures, stabilization structures, culverts, channels and floodways to convey storm run-off to a constructed or natural outlet in a non-erosive manner.

(5) Field Windbreaks — A strip or belt of trees, shrubs or grass barriers established within or adjacent to a field.

(6) Animal Waste Control System — A planned agricultural waste management system to contain and manage liquid and solid wastes including run-off from concentrated animal waste areas with ultimate disposal in a manner which does not degrade air, soil or water resources.

(7) Critical Area Stabilization — Planting vegetation such as trees, shrubs, vines, grasses and legumes on sites subject to severe erosion.

District farmers interested in any of the above practices are encouraged to sign up while funds are still available. Contact the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district in Grygla by calling 294-6144 or stop by the office to discuss the program.

Nigerian Pupil Sponsored At Baking School

Minnesota wheat research and promotion council, in conjunction with U.S. wheat associates, is sponsoring training of a Nigerian student at Dunwoody industrial institute's baking school in Minneapolis.

Zacchaeus Adio Ola-Oluwa, of Lagos, Nigeria, began the ten-month training program in early September. Upon completion, he will return to Nigeria to assist in the development of a baking program for the Nigerian institute of baking, which is being constructed with the assistance of U.S. wheat associates.

In addition to the funds for Ola-Oluwa's training, the Minnesota wheat council is contributing $5,000 toward development of a baking resource library for the new Nigerian school.

According to council chairman Red Ross, Fisher, consumption of wheat and wheat products in Nigeria is steadily increasing. While per capita consumption is still low, wheat and wheat flour imports by that country have grown nearly six-fold, from 250,000 tons in 1970, to about 1.6 million tons in 1982. With additional mills planned, Nigeria is expected to import over 2.1 million tons of wheat by 1985.

Ross notes that the support given by Minnesota wheat council and U.S. wheat associates in establishment of the baking school in Nigeria will serve to demonstrate our genuine interest in servicing that market and thus, reinforce the dominant position of U.S. wheats in this important commercial market."

Cattlemen To Hold Meeting In Crookston

The 21st annual beef cattlemen's institute is scheduled for October 27 in the winter shows south arena. The program theme this year is "Tooling up for survival of the livestock industry in the 1980's." Registration and coffee will begin at 2:30 p.m. Demonstration on computer capability and value to beef cattleman with specific topics on recordkeeping, cash flow information and ration balancing will be conducted from 3 to 5 p.m. by Bill Penning, area extension agent, Thief River Falls.

Roast beef supper will be served at 5:30 p.m. followed at 6:30 by a panel of livestock producers on the topic, "survival of the livestock producer in the 1980's". Speakers will be Allen Ruzicka, Lankin, ND; Loiell Dyrud, Thief River Falls and Ed Disterhaupt, Pequot Lakes. Panel will be moderated by Harvey Peterson, ag division, Technical college, Crookston. Each producer will present slides and a commentary on how he is operating his cattle business.

Feeder cattle demonstration will be presented by Central livestock assoc. with commentary on the animals by Walley Eide and Mel Kirkeide, extension livestock specialists from NDSU, beginning at 7:45 p.m. Prior to the demonstration will be a weight guessing contest on one of the animals. Be sure to register for the prize.

Institute is sponsored by the Northwest experiment station, Minnesota agricultural extension service, North Dakota extension service, Central livestock association, Fargo and a considerable number of northwest Minnesota banks. Coffee and doughnuts will be provided courtesy of Crookston PCA.

Cycle Deaths Being Studied By State DPS

Analysis of 1983 motorcycle crashes has been started by the Minnesota department of public safety, according to Commissioner Paul Tschida, in order to improve motorcycle safety, through training, testing and public information and education.

"We are beginning our study by taking a close look at fatal motorcycle crashes," said Tschida. "I am particularly concerned over the fact that we have had an increase in fatalities this year compared to 1982."

— Total of 45 motorcycle operators and passengers were killed compared to 35 for the same period in 1982;

— Age of operators killed ranged from 12 to 63, and all were male;

— Forth-three of the 45 fatal crashes occurred on dry roads;

—Eleven of the operators (including those driving when a passenger was killed) did not have a valid motorcycle endorsement on their license;

—Ten crashes occurred on roads posted with a speed limit of 30 mph or less;

— Thirty-four of those killed were not wearing helmets;

— Forty-two per cent involved illegal-unsafe speed on the part of the motorcycle operators. This was the largest single contributing factor. Alcohol was also a major factor, though degree of involvement is not yet known;

— Twenty-one of the fatal crashes involved another vehicle, with 14 of those contributed to by the drivers of other vehicles. Failure to yield right-of-way, driver inattention and drinking were primary contributing factors of other drivers; — Of the 24 single vehicle crashes, 15 involved hitting a fixed object, five involved overturning, one involved hitting an animal, one involved a passenger falling from the bike, and two cases were unspecified.

Tschida emphasized that there are preliminary findings, noting that a more complete study will be available after all of the 1983 accident reports have been analyzed.

SOURCE OF BEAUTY

When we look upon the grandeur of nature—when we gaze with awe at a masterpiece of art—when we are thrilled with the sounds of great music—then we often wonder about the source of all this beauty.

Undoubtedly, our energy and ability is God. It is He who is the real source of beauty in our culture. Human spirits, touched with divine inspiration have given the world treasures untold.

Consider Da Vinci's The Last Supper. Consider Handel's Messiah. Consider the marvelous literature of the Holy Bible. Truly some of the very finest of man's creations have come as the result of an awareness of God.

Indeed today our culture continues to be enriched by the expression of man's faith in the Eternal. Our churches bring us faith in God which is still a vital source of inspiration and beauty. Let the church enrich your life. Attend this Sunday and every Sunday.

Scientists Study Crab Life Cycle

by Madeleine Jacobs
Smithsonian News Service

After a morning near Delaware's Cape Henlopen at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay, Tuck Hines has caught all the blue crabs he needs.

"Blue crabs," he allows with a broad smile, "are among the best-eating animals in the world."

But it is not visions of lunch — perhaps steamed "hard shells" seasoned with Old Bay spices, washed down with a cold beer — that fill his head. These crabs are destined for the laboratory, not the dinner table.

Hines is a zoologist at the Smithsonian environmental research center near Annapolis, Md., where his enthusiasm for crabs extends beyond their well-deserved gastronomic reputation to their basic biology.

Unlike a taxonomist, who revels in the classification and examination of often exotic animals, Hines concentrates on the "white mice" of the crustacean world — the common, run-of-the-mill crabs. By discerning patterns in their life styles and biology, he hopes to answer some fundamental questions about their evolutionary strategies and life histories.

Crabs warrant attention, Hines says, for their sheer diversity and numbers alone — 5,000 species of "true" crabs, ranging from the tiny pea crab which makes its home inside an oyster to the gigantic South Australian crab weighing in at 30 pounds, heavier than all but the largest lobsters.

Moreover, crabs live in almost every conceivable habitat — from the deep oceans to freshwater streams to large land burrows — over much of the world, except in Antarctica. Actually, there are even crabs in lands near that frozen continent. However, as scientists are quick to point out, these are not "true," or "brachyuran," crabs, but "lithodid" crabs. Gourmets would argue that a crab is a crab, and among lithodids found elsewhere is a well-known favorite, the succulent Alaskan king crab. Nonetheless, lithodids differ structually and evolutionarily from true crabs.

Taken together, the brachyuran and lithodid crabs are economically impressive. In 1982 fisherman hauled nearly 350 million pounds of crabs from U.S. waters, including 195 million pounds of blue crabs, 32.9 million pounds of Dungeness crabs, 38.5 million pounds of king crabs and 68.8 million pounds of snow crabs. Total value of this catch: a whopping $282.2 million, making crabs the third most important seafood group in terms of value, exceeded only by shrimps and salmon. Crabs are also important seafood resources in Europe, South America, India and the entire Indo-Pacific region.

Partly because they're interesting critters and partly because crabs are a valuable food and economic resource, scientists have long been interested in determining the factors that influence the number and size of individuals within a given crab population.

"It's surprising what we still don't know about crabs, even about such well-studied species as the blue crab," Hines points out. "Why, for instance, do some blue crabs grow so large in parts of the Chesapeake Bay but not in other parts? How does an individual blue crab spend its day — how far does it move, what does it do? Why are there large crab catches one year and poor catches in other years?"

A key to answering many of these questions, Hines believes, is the reproductive strategy of different species of crabs. All true crabs are endowed with a basic physical layout: a broad, squat, compact body covered by a tough, calcified cuticle making up an "exoskeleton" that helps protect it from predators. There are, of course, many variations on this scheme.

Females brood their eggs externally in the abdominal area located on the underside of their bodies. "But, in some ways, a crab is like a hard box," Hines says. Unlike an animal with soft body parts, a female crab cannot increase the amount of space available within her body for producing eggs. What can vary is the way the egg mass is packaged: the size and number of eggs, as well as the number of broods produced in a year.

Here is where size becomes an important factor, Hines says. "Crabs can vary enormously in size: Within the same species, the largest adult crabs may weigh 10 times as much as the smallest ones." That, he points out, is an extremely unusual situation in animals. If this were true in humans, for example, the smallest adult human might weigh the same as a baby.

"Now, obviously, a big crab can produce more eggs than a small crab," Hines continues, "but the question is, does a large female produce proportionally more or less, as a percentage of her of her body weight, than her smaller counterpart? And what does this mean?"

To answer these questions, Hines studied 20 species of crabs collected from the East and West coasts. These included spider crabs plucked from the murky, underway kelp forests off the coast of California, fiddler crabs gathered from intertidal bays in Maryland and Delaware, blue crabs from the Chesapeake Bay and Dungeness crabs brought up from the depths off the northern California coast.

For each of the species he weighed and measured the eggs and counted the number of eggs and broods in a year.

Numbers varied dramatically. One very large blue crab, for instance, produced 2,750,000 tiny eggs in one brood; an average-size blue crab produced about 2 million eggs and no more than two broods a year. In contrast, one species of spider crab produced a mere 150 eggs, each egg six to eight times larger than a blue crab egg, and four to 10 broods a year.

Important number Hines was searching for was determined: All crabs, regardless of their size, produced broods that amounted to the same proportion — 10 per cent — of their body weight.

"It's unusual to see this kind of limitation in animals," Hines says. "Other crustaceans may have five to 20 per cent of their body weight going into egg production. This constraint in crabs does indeed appear to be a function of anatomy: The abdominal cavity can only accumulate and store so much mass in the form of yolk."

An important exception to the 10 per cent rule is Pinnotheres ostreum, the tiny pea crab that actually lives inside an oyster. This thin-shelled crab has ovaries that extend out of its constraining boxlike body and into the abdomen; it also has an extremely large abdominal flap to accomodate large broods. The result: egg masses which are 15 to 20 per cent of this crab's body weight.

Hines also found that the number of eggs per brood was the main predictor of how often a crab reproduced. Crab species producing fewer eggs consistently had more broods. This, too is an unusual feature of the crab's biology. Many animals reproduce more frequently when food is readily available. But crabs do not appear to be influenced strongly by this kind of evolutionary pressure.

In addition to continuing studies on reproductive strategies, Hines is investigating factors that determine adult size by raising crabs from their larval stages and following them to maturity. In these studies, he measures the size of each "molt," the exoskeleton periodically shed by crabs as they grow. Mud crabs work best because they are small, easy to raise in the laboratory and commonly found intertidally in bays and along shorelines. But he expects the findings to be applicable to larger crabs as well.

Hines and other scientists interested in the basic biology of crabs acknowledge that a lot more information must be gathered before such fundamental studies can be applied to managing commercially important species.

"So much remains a mystery about crabs," says Dr. Austin B. Williams, an expert on crabs, lobsters and shrimps with the National marine fisheries service and a research associate at the Smithsonian's national museum of natural history in Washington, D.C.

"Many scientists are studying the migration of crab larvae as a clue to population dispersal," Williams says. "Still others are interested in learning how crab populations are affected by changes in weather, such as catastrophic rainfalls that drastically alter the salinity of bays."

In these and other areas, he notes, scientists are aided by studying preserved crabs at the national museum of natural history, which has one of the world's major research collections.

"We do know one thing from the fossil record," Williams says. "Crabs are pretty adaptable creatures. They've been around for more than 200 million years."

Let Them Eat Cake

Sometimes it takes more than a bread to say "congratulations". When that extra special effort turns into success, it's time for a family tribute. So celebrate with a Banana Bonanza Cake. This recipe, developed by the Home Economists in the Kraft Kitchens, features that ever favorite combination of bananas and chopped nuts in a moist cake topped with a creamy brown frosting. It only takes some basic ingredients highlighted by the banana nut flavor, but it creates a treat that says "great job" with every bite.

Banana Bonanza Cake

2/3	cup Parkay margarine	1-1/4	teaspoons baking powder
1-2/3	cups sugar	1-1/4	teaspoons soda
3	eggs	1	teaspoon salt
1-1/4	cups mashed bananas	2/3	cup buttermilk
2-1/4	cups flour	2/3	cup chopped nuts
			Brown Sugar Frosting

Cream margarine and sugar until light and fluffy; blend in eggs and banana. Add combined dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk, mixing well after each addition. Stir in nuts. Pour into greased and floured 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Bake at 350°, 45 to 50 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool; frost with:

Brown Sugar Frosting

1	cup packed brown sugar	1/4	cup milk
1/2	cup Parkay margarine, melted	3	cups sifted confectioners' sugar

Combine brown sugar, margarine and milk in saucepan; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; cool 10 minutes. Gradually add confectioners' sugar, beating until well blended.

Silverton

Mrs. Clarence Peterson
Rt. 4, City, 681-1359

Mrs. Lester Chapman and Mrs. Vernon Sorenson attended the home council meeting Tuesday afternoon held in the courthouse meeting room.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wagner, Lisa, Lana and Lora attended open house Sunday afternoon for Kenneth's aunt, Helga Brandon, on her 85th birthday. The open house was held at Our Savior's church at Thief Lake.

Coffee guests Wednesday morning of Estelle Grinde were Mrytle Stenberg, Sally Knutson, Ruth Tucker and Elvira Samuelson.

Jared, Kay Lynn and Jason Kainz of Mavie were weekend guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. David Dupree. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Kainz spent the weekend in Grand Forks and returned to the Dupree home Sunday afternoon and there they celebrated Mrs. Kainz's birthday. Her mother, Mrs. Frances Oski, also was there for the birthday party.

Mrs. Estelle Grinde attended open house Sunday for Helmuth Schlenker at his home on his 80th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dupree Sr. were Saturday dinner guests of Mrs. Dupree's aunt, Marie Kaplor at Wheaton and in the afternoon they attended the 45th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Dupree's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Veloris Parrow of Chokio which was celebrated with open house at their son's home, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Parrow's. That night they were overnight guests of Harold's sister, Pearl Anderson at Donnelly and they returned home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Odin Hanson motored to McIntosh Sunday afternoon to visit Mrs. Hanson's brother Oscar Klemmetson, who is a resident at McIntosh Manor.

Thursday eveing visitors at the Edward Berard home were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Kees of Thief River Falls.

Casey Enge Is Two Years Old

Casey Enge celebrated his second birthday Wednesday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Enge and his guests were Mrs. Gary Reed, Meghan and Stephen of Agder and Mrs. Mark Stenseth and Jeane of rural Goodridge. Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Enge hosted a birthday supper in Casey's honor and guests were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Enge of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Silas Hanson, also Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Vigen, Stephanie and Andrea and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hunt, Nathan and Joshua. Birthday cake and ice cream were also served.

Sunday afternoon visitors at the Vernon Sorenson home were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hovie of Thief River Falls.

Thursday Mrs. Lester Chapman and Mrs. Marguerite Chapman of Thief River Falls enjoyed dinner together at the Country Kitchen. In the evening Mrs. Chapman was a supper guest at the Vernon Sorenson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger DeLap, Karl Jo, Lisa and Lori were Saturday evening visitors at the Clarence Peterson home.

Mrs. Arnold Peterson was among the Saturday afternoon guests at the Jerome Nelson home of Newfolden bringing birthday greetings to him. He is a brother of Mrs. Peterson.

Mrs. Estelle Grinde attended the Northland Educators meeting Wednesday afternoon held in the library meeting room. Friday morning she and Mrs. Helen Christianson called at the Lloyd Knutson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Berard were Friday dinner guests at the Jerome Cota home in Thief River Falls and in the afternoon they visited at the Valley Home with Mr. and Mrs. Delore Berard.

Susan Peterson and Lana Wagner together with other 4-H leaders and officers of the Silverton 4-H club met Tuesday evening at the James Sorter home to plan the program for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Skime, Troy and Jodi visited Friday evening at the Alvin Skime home at Wannaska and Saturday with the Harold Skimes, also at Wannaska. In the afternoon Mrs. Skime, Troy and Jodi called at the Hal Zutz family at Roseau.

Mrs. Archie Ptacek called on Mr. and Mrs. Art Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Delore Berard and Mrs. Jim Hruby Sunday afternoon at the Valley Home and also at the Nels Holmberg home. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Holmberg and Mrs. Ptacek visited and had coffee with Hilda Wetterlund at her home in town.

Lori DeLap was among the birthday guests Friday afternoon at the David Morken home in town for Lydia's 7th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ness visited Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Ronald Bucholz at the rehab center in Grand Forks and in the evening they visited at the Harold Aker home in Crookston.

Members of the Sugar N' Spice homemakers enjoyed a salad supper followed by their regular meeting Monday evening last week at the Roger DeLap home.

Mrs. Archie Ptacek visited Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Mabel Urdahl and her house guests.

Wednesday morning Mrs. Archie Ptacek was among the breakfast guests of Mrs. Florence Droits at the Best Western. Later she was a dinner guest of Myrtle Sackett at her home in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ness accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Rudie Rude of North to Ottertail on Thursday to be dinner and afternoon guests of Mrs. Marge Benson.

Karl Jo DeLap was among the guests to a roller skating birthday party Wednesday after school for Teresa Johnson on her 10th birthday and Sunday afternoon she was among guests for swimming and supper birthday party at the Best Western for Karin Carlson who was 10 years old that day.

Sara Kusmak of Thief River Falls visited Monday evening last week at the Oscar Johnson home. Thursday evening guests there were Mr. and Mrs. Art Johnson who spent a few days there, Mr. and Mrs. Algot Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. Nels H. Nelson, Rodney Rothschadl, Linnae and Shawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hanson and Judith Wold spent the weekend visiting with Mrs. Hanson's son-in-law and daughter, Rev. and Mrs. Kevin Meyer at Fox Lake, Ill.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. Bena Gudmundson of Lake Bronson and Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Gudmundson and family of Hallock brought gifts, cake and ice cream for Kermit Boyd, a resident at Johnson's Riverside boarding home to celebrate his birthday.

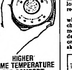
Proper Humidity Warms Wintertime Homes

If you try to conserve energy this winter by lowering your thermostat, but everyone complains about being chilly, then maybe your home has a humidity problem.



HIGHER HOME TEMPERATURE FOR COMFORT

A recommended room temperature of 68 degrees can be a comfortable setting during the cold months — if the indoor relative humidity is maintained at a proper level.

However, if your home doesn't have proper humidity, dry air steals moisture from everything in it, including you. This thirsty air evaporates moisture from your skin, a cooling process that makes you feel chilly even at high thermostat settings.

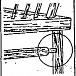
Whenever outside air is heated by any method, its capacity for holding moisture increases rapidly. Air heated to 70 degrees can hold 22 times as much moisture as air at 0 degrees.

The term "relative humidity" is the amount of moisture actually present in the air, compared to the maximum amount it can hold at that temperature. Relative humidity of 50 percent means that the air is only half-saturated.

Most heated homes without a humidifier have an average relative humidity of about 13 percent all winter long, compared with the recommended 30-35 percent.

It's understandable, then, why so many families feel chilly, even when their thermostats read 72 or even 75 degrees. The dry air is evaporating the water from the skin too quickly.



FURNISHINGS BECOME BRITTLE AND JOINTS SEPARATE

Perhaps you've noticed other clues to low humidity in your home. Loosening of glued joints in furniture, cracking of walls and ceilings, excessive static electricity, unusually dry noses and throats. . .all are signs of a humidity problem.

Wood framing around doors and windows will shrink, causing open spaces which let cold air in and heated air out. The result: drafts and increased fuel costs.

If any of these complaints sound familiar, you should consider installing a central humidifier.

FAMILY SUFFERS FROM DRY NOSES AND THROATS

If you have a forced air heating system, you will want a central unit that is installed on the furnace and sends humidified air through existing ducts.

A typical model for use in a home without forced air heating is installed out of sight on the basement ceiling, or in a closet, crawl space or utility room.

Before selecting a humidifier, check with your local heating and air conditioning dealer on five key points: capacity, control, operational efficiency, ease of maintenance, and ease of installation.

For your copy of an informative booklet on relative humidity in the home and how to choose a humidifier, call toll free: 1-800-356-9652.

Senior Citizens News

The Newfolden seniors, who were going on the bus trip awoke the morning of Sept. 16 to a cloudy sky and rain which dampened out spirits for our planned trip. We had cancelled our plans in July and August due to the heat and we were going to go someplace on the 16th. When we had all gathered at the center we decided to go to Grand Forks. Those who went were Bertha Tunheim, Lucille Skadsem, Mayme McLaughlin, Marcella Tale, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Magner, Norman Folden, Mabel Hanson, Elaine Roering, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Lee, Pearl Boe, Bertha Ordahl, Agnes Sjoquist, Ruth Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Lind. Our bus driver was Tony Mdunich from Thief River Falls and he was very pleasant and cooperative. Thank you Tony for helping us have a good day. Upon arriving in Grand Forks we went to Columbia Mall where we scattered to shop. At noon we went to the International cafe where we all enjoyed a very good meal which was a treat from our senior citizens inc. fund. We shopped some more and then we met and decided to go to the Salvation Army surplus store where some of us shopped for baby clothes for the layettes which the Bethlehem ALCW packs and sends to Missions every fall. We then headed for home. We all enjoyed the picnic supper at the meal site after we got back. This was the meal we were suppose to have taken with us on the trip and it was very tasty. It was a fun day despite the rainy weather and we hope to have better luck next year with the weather. Mrs. Helmer Lind, reporting.

Homecoming Week Starts At Lincoln

Homecoming week gets underway today at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and will be climaxed by a queen coronation, football game and dance on Friday. The annual event is sponsored by the student senate at Lincoln.

Monday well be "Sweats Day" with students encouraged to wear their favorite sweatsuits to school. At 6:30 p.m. a volleyball game will be played between the seniors on the football team and the varsity volleyball team. Following the game a snake dance will be held from Lincoln to the sports arena where a bonfire and pep rally will be held.

Tuesday has been designated "Favorite Sport" day and students are requested to wear something representing their favorite sports.

Wednesday will be "Blue and Gold Day" when wearing of the school colors will be in vogue. Powderpuff football game between the girls of the junior class and girls of the senior class will take place about 6 p.m. at Lincoln field. Coronation practice will be conducted at 8 p.m. at Lincoln.

Thursday is "Hat and Tie" day when students will be encouraged to wear dress-up attire. Varsity volleyball game between the Prowler girls and Red Lake Falls will start about 7:30 p.m., preceded by C squad game at 5:30 and junior varsity match at 6:15 p.m.

Coronation of the homecoming queen will take place in the Lincoln high school auditorium at 1:30 p.m. Friday with a parade to follow at 2:45 p.m. Homecoming football game will feature the Prowlers against the Bemidji Lumberjacks at 7:30 p.m. "Tyrant" will provide music for the homecoming dance in the cafeteria following the game and the theme is "It Might Be You" from the musical "Tootsie".

Candiates for homecoming queen include Teresa Nelson, Bonnie Delage and Melissa Bondy. Escorts at the coronation will be Ryan Bakke, Jeff Langan and Tim Kruse while escorts on the field during halftime of the football game will be Brian Johnston, Jeff Mattson and Allan Ness.

Junior attendants will be Stacie Kruta and Paula Bergan with Mark Bondy and Scott Fowler as escorts in the auditorium and Bob Breiland and Jeff Wilkens as escorts on the field.

State's House Ag Committee To Meet Here

State Representative Steve Wenzel of Little Falls, chairman of the Minnesota House agriculture committee, today announced that the agriculture committee will hold a public hearing in Thief River Falls to discuss farm disaster relief with area residents.

The meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 12, at 2 p.m. in the Northland community college theater.

Cy Carpenter, president of the Minnesota Farmer's Union, and Russ Bjorhus, state director of the Farmers Home administration, will be present to receive comments and supply information.

Wenzel urges area farmers and residents to participate in the hearing.

The House agriculture committee, said Wenzel, will be considering statewide legislation to improve Minnesota's farm economy.

Other Counties Asked To Share In Ambulance

County governments in Marshall and Red Lake counties are being asked to share in the subsidization of the Northwestern hospital ambulance service, according to Pennington county commissioner Donald Grabanski and associate hospital administrator Robert Stevens.

Letters from the Pennington county board and the hospital are being sent to the county board of commissioners in the two neighboring counties, asking for their share in support of the ambulance service. The hospital has asked the Pennington county board for a $56,000 subsidy in 1984 to permit it to operate the ambulance service as it does now. Without that subsidy, hospital officials say, they will sell the service to another operator who will utilize volunteer attendants.

During 1983 (fiscal year from May 1 to April 30) the Northwestern hospital ambulance service made a total of 543 runs. This included 321 in Thief River Falls, 71 elsewhere in Pennington county, 28 in Marshall county, seven in Red Lake county and the remainder generally in transferring patients to other hospitals, primarily Grand Forks and Crookston.

In 1982 there were 523 runs including 299 in Thief River Falls, 67, elsewhere in Pennington county, 23 in Marshall county and 10 in Red Lake county. In fiscal 1981 there were 323 Thief River Falls calls, 82 elsewhere in Pennington county, 50 in Marshall county and 15 in Red Lake county.

Commissioner Grabanski said he is interested in keeping the ambulance service overating from the hospital and the board is exploring avenues of financing. The hospital administration will meet with the county board again on October 11 at 1:30 p.m. to discuss the matter.

NCC Enrollment Figures Show Sharp Increase

Dennis Bendickson, Northland community college registrar, has released fall quarter enrollment figures that show a sharp 17 per cent increase in head count and a five per cent increase in full-time equivalent (FTE) students.

Seven hundred and twenty-eight students registered for a total of 5,655 quarter hours, constituting 437 FTE students. (FTE equals total quarter hours divided by 15.) Comparable figures for last year indicated 617 students producing 417 FTE. This was the first time in Northland's history that fall quarter enrollment exceeded 700 students.

In addition to its campus-based sessions, the college is conducting classes at Grand Forks air force base (17 FTE), Roseau (13 FTE), Warroad (11 FTE), and Fosston (7 FTE).

Madalyn Novellino, vice provost at NCC, credited the increase in FTE to growth of the school's off-campus programs, Ken Wiebolt, NCC provost, commented that he was pleased with the increase in head count.

City Council To Hear Arctco Proposal Tues.

Thief River Falls city council will hold a special meeting at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday, at the request of Mayor Bob Carlson, to hear a presentation from Lowell Swenson and Chris Twomey of Arctoc Inc.

Arctco Board chairman and chief executive officer William Ness announced last week that the company has negotiated a 60-day first option to purchase the Arctic Cat facility from Minstar, Inc. at a cost of approximately $2 million. In making the announcement, Ness commented that Arctco would be examining every internal financing possibility in order to complete the acquisition, adding that the company intends to vigorously puruse city, county and state governments for their assistance in the investment which Arctco intends to make in Thief River Falls and Minnesota.

STOPPING TO POSE during a stroll along the railroad tracks between St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls last week, this young bull moose seemed quite unconcerned about the presence of the Times camera. While moose are common in the area and are frequently seen during morning and evening hours, the appearance of one in the open during mid-day is somewhat unusual. Whether this fellow was in quest of a new feeding area, looking for romantic activity or just out for an afternoon walk will never be known. Moose can do about what they want to do when they want to do it. But if this one wants to survive the special moose season opening Saturday and continuing through October 16, he better be a bit more secretive in his pursuits.

A.V.T.I. EVALUATION was conducted at the area vocational-technical institute in Thief River Falls Wednesday and Thursday. The evaluation is conducted by a team of evaluators from throughout the state every five years to assess the school and its programs with a view toward providing top quality post high school education in each vocational-technical institute in the state. Charles Shubat of the state vocational division was co-chairman of the evaluation with Fred Ballou, assistant director of the AVTI. The above session was on vocational equity to assure that all potential students had access to all programs.

New Director Hired For NWRIC Co-Op Program

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Task of revitalizing a cooperative education program which has had dwindling participation and was recently hit by prosecution of its retiring director for theft falls to a determined young Thief River Falls resident with a strong background in special education.

Cindy Stevens, who for the past two years has been director of the special education cooperative headquartered at Granite Falls, was hired effective August 1 to direct the Northwest Regional Inter-District council (NWRIC) program at Newfolden. She moved to this area after her husband, Robert, became associate administrator at Northwestern hospital services.

"I wouldn't have become involved in this if I didn't believe there was a need for the services," she said in a recent interview. "We're here to serve the districts — or more accurately, the children in the districts who have special needs. We are concerned about looking at the present and future rather than the past." (Former director Darrell Peterson was convicted of theft through use of NWRIC funds for personal purposes.)

Founded in 1968 in Thief River Falls and moved to Newfolden in 1972, the special education cooperative once had nearly twice the members it has now. Districts have dropped out over the years, some to form their own programs and others to seek services on a contractual basis elsewhere. Some of the pull-outs were for financial advantage, some were primarily due to personalities.

Presently there are nine school districts involved — Badger, Greenbush, Grygla, Hallock, Humboldt, Karlstad, Kennedy, Lancaster and Newfolden. Mrs. Stevens attempts to personally visit every district on the average of every two weeks and be in the office on Monday and Friday to catch up on the paper work and be accessible for calls. The personal contact by the director is a new direction of the NWRIC program — instituted at the request of the board and with ready concurrence by the new director.

"Although our service staff works directly with personnel in the districts on a regular basis, I think it is important that I get out to hear and see what is going on and what people in the districts believe needs to be done. I find that administrators and teachers in the districts have been very interested in meeting the needs of the handicapped."

Through the nine cooperating districts, NWRIC offers the services of Rik D'Amato, psychologist; Janeen Kalsnes, social worker; Mavis Benson, physical therapist; Debbie Davidson, pre-school teacher at Newfolden and Grygla; Vicky Grove, pre-school teacher at Karlstad and Hallock; and Sue Trangsrud, pre-school teacher at Greenbush. As director, Stevens is assisted by Karen Walseth, bookkeeper-secretary and Pat Mjelde, part-time secretary.

The council has a 1983-84 expenditure budget of $201,250 which includes $68,330 in state aid, $65,606 in federal aid and $67,313 in funds received through assessment of the districts on the basis of average daily membership. The state aid provided 70 per cent of the salaries while the federal funds are those handled by NWRIC as fiscal agent for the cooperating school districts. Assessment to the local districts amounts to an average of $22 per student.

"Federal and state law guarantees that every child should be provided the opportunity to a free and appropriate education in the least restrictive environment," Stevens explains. "School districts are mandated to serve children with learning, speech, hearing, vision, emotional or behavioral problems and physical handicaps. Such service is required from age four to age 21 with service to children under age four being permissive. Our records show

NEW DIRECTOR of the Northwest Regional Inter-District council (NWRIC) which has headquarters at Newfolden is Cindy Stevens of Thief River Falls. She fills the position created by the resignation of Darrell Peterson and most recently was director of a special education cooperative at Granite Falls.

Surfacing On Highway 59 To End This Week

Construction of TH 59 has been progressing to the point where all bituminous surfacing should be complete by the end of this week, October 8, if weather conditions permit, according to Cliff Larson, resident engineer.

Aggregate shouldering operations will continue in the rural areas to Erskine for another week or two. Finishing of the ditches and other work will not be completed until next year when drier conditions exist and at that time the ditch slopes will be seeded. The signal installation will continue this fall and the highway department expects it to be operational about the first of November if there are no other delays in the delivery of materials.

Signing and striping of the roadway from First street to County Road 62 will be done as soon as possible after the final surfacing is placed. The center lane will be a continious left turn land and is not to be used for through traffic. The lanes adjacent to the left turn lane are for through traffic. The outside lanes are for right turn lanes and-or surfaced shoulders. It will be easier for motorists to identify lanes when striping and signing is complete, Larson said.

If anyone desires any information, please call the resident office of Mn+DOT at 681-1902.

"Thank you for your patience and cooperation during this period of construction," he added.

Sr. Meals Open House Thurs.

Open house will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday, October 6, at the thief River Falls National Guard armory, in recognition of the tenth anniversary of the senior meals program.

Representatives from 20 sites in this region are expected to attend with about 500 people already registered for the noon meal. Short program is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. and will include a short history of the program and a humorous presentation by Mylo Carlson of Angus as Charlie.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Johnson-Erickson Vows Spoken At United Meth.

United Methodist church was the scene of the recent wedding of Marlene Ruth Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Johnson, and Kurt Wayne Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leif Erickson, all of this city.

Rev. Melvyn Budke officiated at the double ring ceremony. Kristi Gerardy was the organist and Ron Hanson sang "Colour My World," and "For Baby, For Bobby."

To correspond with the bride's chosen colors of blue and white, the altar centerpiece featured a woven basket filled with blue silk roses, white carnations and babies' breath.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length gown styled with a cathedral train. Schiffli embroidery and pearls graced the bodice and Queen Ann neckline. The modified bishop sleeves were accented with lace trim. Her skirt, edged with lace was complemented in front by a crystal pleated panel. A Camelot lace and pearl headpiece held her fingertip veil edged with Chantilly lace. She carried a silk bouquet of blue and white roses and babies' breath, backed by lace and accented with ribbon streamers.

Diane Hanson was the bride's personal attendant.

Diane Johnson, Roseville, attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Susan Hovde of this city. Their blue gowns with pleated floor-length skirts, were designed with draped front and back necklines creating a cape effect. They carried bouquets of blue roses and white carnations, accented with babies' breath.

Best man was Kent Erickson, Hutchinson, a brother of the groom. Serving as groomsman was Joel Nelson, a friend. The ushers were Curtis Johnson, a brother of the bride, Dan Person of Roseville and Jay Johnson, friends of the couple. The groom was attired in a white tuxedo with ascot tie and a blue rose boutonniere. His attendants wore silver tuxedos with a blue carnation pinned on their lapels.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Johnson wore a lilac colored gown with a V-neckline and a flared skirt. Topping the bodice was an overlay of ribbon striped sheer. The groom's mother wore a yellow sleeveless gown complemented by a white center ribbon.

Unable to attend were the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leif Erickson, Sr.

A reception in the church parlors followed with the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hagen as host and hostess. Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. Blue frosting bows and ribbon graced the bottom tiers and miniature roses trimmed the upper tier supported by Gracian pillars.

Audrey Johnson and Norita Van Wart cut and served the cake as Eileen Johnson and Naomi Monroe poured the coffee. At the guest book were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Srnsky. Kim Nelson and Cindy Madoll served the punch.

Arranging the gifts were Kristy Erickson, Kelly Erickson and Janny Kilen. Jane Wavra and Julie Peterson served as waitresses.

DID YOU KNOW?

ON TOBACCO

By Dr. W. Belingham

I have walked the fields in summer,
Where the sunbeams streamed and broke:
But I never saw the cattle,
Sheep, or horses ever smoke.

I have seen the birds in springtime,
Flying—land on places wet:
But I never saw a sparrow
Puffing on a cigarette.

I have fished in pond and river,
Where the finny tribe are ripe,
But I never saw a catfish
Smoking a cigar or pipe.

I have hunted in the wildwoods,
Seen the squirrels in their pew;
Yet I never saw a rabbit
Or a squirrel ever chew.

I have never seen a monkey
Or an ape or snake or swan
Ever filthy with tobacco,
Like this higher creature, man.

Man, the only living creature,
And some women on their toes,
To go just like the blowing engines,
Puffing smoke from mouth and nose.

Had our Father in the heavens,
When He first invented man,
Then intended this to happen
He would have had a different plan.

He'd have surely built a chimney
In man's head, just like a gate,
Opened wide a smoke consumer
And thus brought things up to date.

But man, made in God's own image,
Pure and wholesome, clean and good,
Puffing smoke from mouth and nostrils;
This cannot be understood.

Willard's Life Is Reviewed At WCTU Meeting

Life of Frances Willard, temperance leader in the United States, who lived from 1839 to 1898, was studied at the meeting of the Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union held Friday at the Riverside Terrace community room. It was noted that she was born September 28.

Several members participated in the program by reading articles pertaining to her life. Hildur Lian read "Frances Willard with her Bible," noting verses underscored and the marginal notes disclosing her consecration and great faith. Valborg Hanson read "Frances Willard and the Lamplighter," revealing her kindness to a deaf lamplighter. The article, "Frances E. Willard, the Individualist," by Edith K. Stanley, was read by Geneva Overum. It showed her independent nature, determined spirit, and that even before women's rights were discussed, she questioned the availability of higher education for young men, and their voting privileges. She was determined to prove that women could plan and manage civic affairs as well as men.

Geneva Overum was in charge of the devotional meditation. She read II Cor. 4:3-6., stressing "For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ," and I John 4:4 "Greater is He that is in you, than he that is in the world." She stated that man without the Holy Spirit, is like a flashlight without batteries. Both are without power to transform darkness into light. She also admonished the members to walk by faith and that even though "we are looking for His second coming, we are not to look up so intently that we can not see the needs around us."

To correspond with the program topic, "Challenge of Knowledge," the meeting began with singing the WCTU Pledge song.

Correspondence, read by Valborg Hanson, included a letter from Mrs. Pearl Loe, WCTU state president; reminding the members of the state convention September 27-29 at the Riverside church in Wannaska.

Cards were signed for Mrs. Marion Green, Mrs. Olga Engelstad and Mrs. Helga Dyrud.

A potluck lunch concluded the meeting.

Zion Leisure Fellowship To Meet Thursday

Zion Leisure Fellwoship group will meet Thursday at 2:00 p.m., at the church fellowship hall in this city.

Mrs. Gary Flynn will be present and will give a demonstration on aerobic exercises for this age group. Vocal music will be provided by Leroy Aaland. Lunch will be served by members of the Deborah circle.

Anyone needing transportation to the meeting may call the church office, 681-3296.

Officers of the group, elected at the September meeting, are Olga Engevik and Bertha Schlinker, co-chairmen; Myrtle Erickson, secretary; Minnie Krause, treasurer; Estelle Grinde, publicity chairman; Signe Nelson, historian. Pearl Haugen was appointed program chairman for September.

Kaydell Eggen Becomes Bride Of Patrick Halling

Kaydell R. Eggen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Eggen of Thief River Falls, became the bride of Patrick R. Halling, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Halling, also of this city, at an outdoor wedding on July 2 at Oakland Park.

Rev. Don Peres of the Evangelical Covenant church officiated. At the electric piano was Deb Holtan, accompanied by guitarist Mark Stenberg. They played "Theme from Ice Castles," and the traditional wedding march for the processional. Lisa Noreen, a friend of the bride, sang "Wedding Song," and "Let It Be Me."

Forming the setting for the bridal party was a white arch with picket fence, made by the bride's father.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white lace gown with a fitted bodice, long, tapered sleeves and a chapel-length train. A matching lace ruffle outlined the sheer front and back yoke appliqued with lace. Her bouffant veil was held by a white derby hat trimmed with lace and pearls. In the old, new, borrowed and blue, tradition, she wore a pair of diamond earrings, her gift from the groom. She carried an arm bouquet of long-stemmed red roses, babies' breath and greenery, tied with white lace and ribbon.

Kathy Langness, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her suede rose gown was in tea-length style with a handkerchief hemline. She wore pearl earrings, a gift from the bride, and carried a long-stemmed red rose with babies' breath and greenery.

Mike Hruby, a friend of the groom, was best man. He and the groom wore Western tuxedos with a red rose boutonniere. Usher and usherette were Tim Halling, brother of the groom, and Theresa Eggen, sister of the bride.

The mother of the bride was attired in a white with blue print street-length dress with a pink rose corsage. A matching corsage accented the cream-colored street-length dress worn by the groom's mother.

Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Adopph Christianson and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Eggen of Grygla, grandparents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. John Aschburger of this city, grandparents of the groom.

The bride's personal attendants were Sharon Noreen, sister of the groom, and Marcie Moe, the bride's cousin, who also registered the guests.

A reception in the park followed. Centering the reception table was a three-tiered, heart-shaped wedding cake decorated with pink roses, love birds and wedding bells. Cutting and serving the cake were Edna Johnson and Vicky Sabo, aunt and cousin of the bride, respectively. Pouring coffee were Rita Cartier, sister of the groom, and Pam Walker, a cousin of the bride.

Luke and Sharon Noreen served the punch. The mint packets were distributed by Chris Langness, nephew of the bride; Jennifer Halling, a sister of the groom; and Nicole Cartier, a niece of the groom. Waitresses were Renae Pilcher and Denise Ayers friends of the couple.

The evening prior to the wedding, the groom's parents hosted a luncheon at their home for members of the wedding party.

Following a wedding trip to Mazalan, Mex., the couple is at home in Alexandria, where they are employed. Photo Peterson Photo, Thief River Falls

Officers Elected By Homemakers Of Rocksbury

Elected to serve as home councilors for the year were Ann Gunderson and Evelyn Nelson. Ella Ranum was selected as secretary-treasurer.

Dues for the year were collected and members volunteered as lesson leaders. For roll call, the members shared interesting events which occurred during the summer months.

Evelyn Nelson read the new homemakers creed and also reported on the home councilors meeting. Fund raisers to help pay for the council's expenditures were suggested. Members decided to give a monetary donation.

Home councilor Ann Gunderson gave the lesson "Holding the Salt," and reminded members of the strawcraft workshop set for October 11 and 12. Bertha Anderson and Dolly Mead were the winners of the door prizes.

Others attending the meeting, in addition to those already mentioned were Clara Voldness, Inga Geving, Ivadelle Reierson, Gena Gunderson and Gladys Heinze.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Gloria Johnson with Evelyn Nelson as co-hostess. The lesson will be "Energy efficient window treatment and draperies."

Ben Andersons To Note 50th Anniversary Oct. 9

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson of this city will be honored on their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, October 9, at an open house at the United Methodist church. Hours will be from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m.

All friends and relatives are welcome to attend. No program is being planned.

The couple requests "No gifts, please."

Officers Are Elected By Happy Homemakers Club

Happy Homemakers elected officers at the September meeting of the club held at the home of Signe Miller.

Elected were Signe Miller, who was re-elected president for another year, Eula Kvikstad and Ellen Peterson counselors; and Regina Gustafson, secretary.

Ten members attended the meeting, together with one guest, Betty Nelson of Arizona. The meeting opened with the reading of the Homemakers creed and roll call. Ann Hanson and Ethel Aase gave the lesson, "Sodium in our diet." Lunch was served by Mrs. Miller.

The next meeting of the Happy Homemakers will be held October 17 at 7:30 p.m., at the Alvera Samuelson home.

Northland Community College will be offering a course on women's issues on Wednesday evenings to begin October 12. Course will look at sex role stereotyping within a social, economic, political, and historical context. Course format will include discussion, lecture, films, and guest speakers.

Class will meet Wednesdays from October 12 through November 9, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., and Saturday, November 12 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Instructor for the course is Mary Ann Reitmeir, instructor at Bemidji state university. Mary Ann has her M.S. from University of Minnesota Duluth in social development and has previously attended Rutgers university, Temple university, and Dumbarton college of Holy Cross in Washington, D.C. She has previously been an instructor at St. Cloud state university and College of St. Benedict's.

Anyone interested in women's issues is encouraged to enroll in the course. Tuition for the two credit course is $43. The 20-hour course is not part of the college's regular offerings.

For more information call Northland community college at 681-2181.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Mrs. Mark Krautkremer
1512 Highway 1 East
Thief River Falls

PTA Chicken

6 cooked chicken breasts or 3 breasts and one chicken
1 box Escort crackers
1 can mushroom soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 8 oz. carton sour cream
1 stick butter or margarine
1 can sliced water chestnuts

Method: Roll and crumble half of the box of crackers and sprinkle on the bottom of a 9x13 inch pan. Place deboned and cut chicken on top of crackers. In a small bowl, mix soups and sour cream. Pour over chicken. Spread water chestnuts over top. Crush remaining crackers and sprinkle over chicken. Spoon melted butter over top. Bake about 30 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Mrs. Krautkremer stated that if one substitues an other brand of crackers for Escort crackers, substitute by weight, rather than size of box, or the casserole may be too dry.

The Krautkremers, who live at Northland Village, are original residents of the Brainerd area. They have been married for six years and during that time she traveled between army bases in Korea, California and Colorado Springs, Colo. Since his discharge from service, they have lived in Thief River Falls where he is enrolled in the aviation mechanics course at the AVTI. He will be completing the course in March. They have one son, Matthew, 2½.

Mrs. Krautkremer enjoys all types of crafts, especially cross stitching, crewel embroidery and photography.

They attend worship service at Evangelical Free church.

Inter-City Gas Agreement To Reduce Costs

Inter-City Gas corporation has announced agreement with Great Lakes Gas Trammmission company on an amendment to take-or-pay provisions contained in the natural gas service agreement between the two companies.

Under terms of the amendment, Inter-City's take-or-pay obligation to Great Lakes will be reduced from 75 per cent to 50 per cent of maximum sales in the 1982-83 contract year. Beginning in the 1983-84 contract year, Inter-City has agreed to take-and-pay for not less than 50 per cent of the volumes it has under contract. The take-or-pay level converts to 75 per cent in the 1985-86 contract year.

Take-and-pay requires that Inter-City pay for 50 per cent of the volumes under contract whether such gas is actually received or not, without the right of makeup. Take-or-pay provides for the right of makeup of gas, paid for but not taken, in subsequent years.

"This amendment will assist Inter-City in adjusting to marketing problems caused by the loss of large volume industrial markets," said Fred Little, Inter-City vice president and general manager for the Minnesota region.

The amendment is conditional upon receipt of all governmental or regulatory authorizations that may be required by Great Lakes and its supplier, TransCanada Pipelines.

When approved, this amendment will serve to reduce the average residential gas customer's annual gas bill by approximately $8. "While this is not a large amount, it is another step in the right direction," Little said. "The Canadian national energy board announced two price reductions in April and July this year. Approval of this agreement will be another indication that the Canadian government recognizes the importance of U.S. markets."

Sorensens Buy Nelson Garage In Roseau

Fred Sorensen of Grygla and his son Lee of Red Lake Falls have purchased the Wayne Nelson garage in Roseau and will take over the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile automobile franchises there. The transition becomes effective today.

Sorensen is a native of Baudette, taught vocational agriculture in the Thief River Falls AVTI, was a vice president and agricultural representative for what is now Norwest bank in Thief River Falls and started the American state bank of Grygla about 10 years ago. He has sold his interest in the Grygla bank and also plans to sell his house there.

Lee Sorenson has been a car dealer for Michael Motors in Thief River Falls for several years. He also plans to sell his home and move to Roseau.

Wayne Nelson had operated the garage for 30 years but had discontinued the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile franchises in 1981.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

The Secret of Japan's Success: Low Taxes

Did you know that there is a country whose productivity is 50 per cent higher than Japan's? That's right. While we have all read and heard about the phenomenal productivity of the Japanese economy, one nation exceeds Japan Inc. by one-half.

Well, come, come you say. Speak up. Where is this economic giant? Is it one of those OPEC countries awash in oil? One of those tiny countries you need a magnifying glass to find on the map?

No, the most productive economy in the world is also the largest. It is the United States of America. Despite our troubles, we lead Japan and all other countries in output per worker — productivity. American agriculture is three times as productive as Japan's. Our construction industry is twice as productive. Basic manufacturing is 25 per cent more productive.

Well, then, why all this fuss? Why is everyone talking so much about Japan? Is all this talk about the Japanese economic miracle just a myth?

No, the strength of Japan's economy is real enough. While our productivity is higher today, Japan's productivity is growing much more rapidly than America's. During the decade of the 70s, Japan's productivity grew at 7.4 per cent each year, America's at only 2.6 per cent. At this rate Japan will overtake us by the end of the century.

What then is the secret of Japan's rapid growth in productivy and GNP? Quite simply it is low federal spending, reduced marginal tax rates and a government which understands that economic growth comes from a strong and vigorous private sector, not from big government.

Sound familiar? It should. In America we call this policy Reaganomics. And while Tip O'Neill and Ted Kennedy are still arguing against lowering the tax burden, and have proposed a budget which would dramatically increase taxes, the Japanese have been demonstrating the truth of supply-side economics for over a generation.

Between 1950 and 1974, the Japanese government cut tax rates by roughly 11 per cent every year. And what happened? Their economy grew from a gross national product of $16 billion to over $300 billion! And as tax rates were falling, the total revenue collection rose to over $83 billion! While the liberal politicians ridicule supply-side economics here in America, the Japanese are laughing too, all the way to the bank.

Another factor in Japan's rapid growth is their high level of savings. The Japanese save over 22 per cent of their disposable income; Americans save only 6 per cent. Should we be surprised that they are able to invest billions in research and development and the latest technologies?

There is no magic here. Congress taxes savings and investment heavily and therefore Americans save and invest less and less. In Japan there is no capital gains tax and virtually no tax on personal savings.

The Japanese are also frugal in their government spending. While our federal government is spending over 25 per cent of GNP this year, the Japanese government spends below 20 per cent. With less money spent by the government there is more left for the people.

We have the largest and most productive economy in the world. And we intend to keep it that way.

Following World War II, the Japanese borrowed a great number of ideas from us: the technology for transister radios, computers and robots. It only seems fair that we learn from our Oriental friends that lower tax rates, limited government spending and less red tape is the prescription for economic growth and job creation. Besides — if we remember the history of the American Revolution — it was our idea in the first place.

In the past two years, over 30 states have enacted improved drunk driving legislation — ranging from increasing the age limits to providing financial incentives to local governments that crack down on drunk driving.

Blood Drive Is Called Success At 125 Donors

Blood drive which was conducted in Thief River Falls on September 19 and 20 was described as "a great success" by Janet Gallagher, donor resources manager for United Blood Services of the Upper Midwest (UBS).

She noted that 136 people signed up to donate blood, with 125 of those able to give approximately a pint of the life-saving fluid. (Some donors must be disqualified for various reasons.)

Crediting the success of the drive to "the work of many dedicated individuals," she expressed special appreciation to Clarice Collins, local coordinator for the drive,; the American Legion Auxiliary, which helped by recruiting donors, publicizing the drive, serving refreshments and aiding in pre-registration; Neil Stone and Dave Fournier who delivered the blood to UBS headquarters in Fargo, ND.; and Northwestern Hospital Administrator Richard Spyhalski, who donated space in which to hold the drive.

Donations collected by UBS are distributed to meet the blood needs of patients in 46 hospitals which are served by United Blood Services of the Upper Midwest.

Kid's Crusade Planned This Week In TRF

Assemblies of God church of Thief River Falls has scheduled a "kid's crusade" with evangelists Dan and Merilee Ottoson, at 7 p.m. each evening, through Friday of this week.

Ottosons are from Willmar, and travel throughout the midwestern United States presenting "kids' crusades" and gospel music concerts in churches of many denominations, using puppets, sing-alongs, magic with a message, Bible stories, prizes, quiz contests, games and Bible verse memorization.

Theme for the crusade is "Jesus is out best friend." Although the program is especially geared for ages 4 to 12, parents and other interested persons are welcome to attend. (Children under four must be accompanied by their parents.) The church is located at 315 North Duluth Avenue.

New Director Guides Co-Op RIC Program

Stevens is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin at Eau Claire with a BS degree in elementary and special education. She earned an MS degree in special education and the emotionally disturbed at the college of St. Thomas in St. Paul. She has taught special education in Sisseton, SD, and taught children with emotional and behavioral problems as well as first and second grade educable mentally handicapped.

"Our board and staff seem to be very dedicated people," Mrs. Stevens observed. "It is difficult for small school districts to provide all the services that the law requires and children need. The cooperative program must continue to be sensitive to the needs of the districts, make compromises and provide flexibility where possible and keep service foremost in mind.

"It seems much better to me for the student to have the needed services brought to him or her than to move the student from a home environment to receive the services at a distant school where the programs are offered."

Board of directors for the inter-district council is comprised of school board members from the cooperating districts. These include Mrs. Leah Meland, Badger; Keith Kilen, Greenbush; Wayne Paulson, Grygla; Barb Bengtson, Hallock; Ken Wiese, Humboldt; James Sollund, Karlstad; Mrs. Kay Turn, Kennedy; Mrs. Claudia Nielsen, Lancaster; and Mark Carlson, Newfolden.

Course On Self Confidence Set At Northland

Two-part self-confidence and skill assessment course will be offered starting October 12 at Northland community college.

Course was designed to help participants gain insight into their feelings and behavior, learn assertiveness skills, and how to apply these skills in their present manner of responding to people and situations in their environment.

Two credit course will begin Wednesday, October 12 with class held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Second session will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on November 12. Course will be graded on a pass-fail basis.

Instructor for the course will be Sue Damme, a licensed psychologist and instructor of human relations courses at Bemidji state university. She has her Master's degree and has been active as a women's advocate and with women's shelter for over four years.

For more information call Northland community college at 681-2181.

Hospital Gets Energy Audit $5,000 Grant

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has secured $453,629 in grants to help 25 school districts and hospitals in northwest Minnesota with energy conservation efforts. Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls is to receive $5,000.

The grants from the U.S. department of energy (DOE) were authorized by the national energy conservation policy act. The funds will be added to local funds and will enable the institutions to control future energy costs.

The first 22 grants will allow the schools and hospitals to adopt energy savings procedures and to purchase and install devices recommended by earlier energy savings studies.

The grants to schools in New York Mills and St. Cloud and the hospital in Thief River Falls will cover technical assistance audits to measure specific costs, payback periods and projected energy savings from installing such equipment and procedures covered by DOE grants.

"I am pleased that these grants will help our schools and hospitals to save tax dollars and precious energy," Congressman Stangeland said. School district grants in this area include: Argyle, $20,000; Bagley, $8,230; Crookston, $26,230; Gonvick, $3,921; and Roseau, $80,000.

Second Phase Of VA Center Is Approved

Funds have been approved for the second phase of contruction for the Veterans administration medical center in St. Cloud, according to information received from Congressman Arlan Stangeland.

Clearance for the project was approved by VA administrator Harry N. Walters and estimated cost for fire and safety improvements in the project is $700,000.

"This paves the way for urgently needed services for veterans in northwest Minnesota," Congressman Stangeland said.

Current schedule for the medical center calls for completion by June of 1986. Architectural and engineering contracts will be awarded in June of 1984 and the actual construction contract will be awarded in May of 1985.

"Demands for VA care will steadily increase as World War II veterans reach retirement age," he said. "This center will help to fulfill America's commitment to the men and women who have served our country."

Dawn Anderson, Tim Bakken Are 1983 Royalty

Coronation was just one of several high points in homecoming festivities at the Goodridge school, with seniors Dawn Anderson and Tim Bakken named as 1983 royalty in ceremonies held in the school gymnasium on Friday afternoon.

They were chosen from a field of three senior couples, which included Tonya Fiedler and Jeff Kriel and Diana Troska and Ross Parnow. Crowning the winners were last year's royalty Rose Johnson and Darin Easthouse. Junior attendant was Janita Sigerud, sophomore attendant was Lori Sjulestad, and ushers were Tim Wayne and Steve Dahlen. Serving as first grade attendants were Jori Manderud and Aaron Miller and Leah Vigen and Ryan Kriel.

Acting as master of ceremonies, Tony Wiseth welcomed spectators and made the introductions. Processional music was the theme from "Chariots of Fire," played by Mrs. Helen Anderson on the piano. She also played the recessional music. Other musical selections were performed by the Goodridge high school chorus, and included "I Got Rhythm" and "Memory."

Evening football game was a tremendous success with the Goodridge-Grygla Huskies defeating the McIntosh-Winger Scots 53-0. Game was followed by a homecoming dance from 9 p.m. to midnight, with music provided by "Deliverance."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I have been reading the articles concerning our ambulance service and would like to let you know how I feel.

Last fall my husband had a massive heart attack. His heart had stopped beating and he had stopped breathing. If we had not had prompt, efficient ambulance service he would not be alive today.

This is not an isolated case. There are many other ailments as well as accidents that depend on our ambulance service.

The idea that we should have anything less than the best obtainable is unthinkable.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Andrew Williams

To The Editor:

On Sunday, Sept. 25, on a return trip to Minnesota from Winnipeg, Canada, my car developed a problem. At this time I'd like to send a halo to first, Mrs. Ronnie Nelson for providing the phone numbers so I could reach someone to help me with my predicament; second to the young man at Anderson's Phillip's 66 gas station for his patience and time; and third a "special" thanks to Mr. Barry Rewertz for his superb care and concern in solving my problem! I was able to arrive at my destination safe and sound!

Again, thank you!!!.

Homemakers Meet

The Silver Creek homemakers met for their September meeting at the Mabel Anderson home Friday evening, Sept. 23. The lesson on "Let's Hold the Salt," was presented by Mrs. Anderson and Myrtle Solberg. They distributed the pamphlets on the topic and also handed out the lesson leaders sheet that was filled in for the coming year. An enjoyable evening was spent as members came dressed as "hobos." Margaret Rupprecht was chosen the best dressed hobo and received a gift. Many pictures were taken of the group. They also sang some hobo songs. Mrs. Anderson and Myrtle served a tasty luncheon using the no salt recipes in the lesson sheets. Edna Gunderson won the door prize. Other members present were Ida Rupprecht, Ethel Nelson, Adeline Moe, Lena Williams, Nanci Reed, Bernice Knutson, Martha Torgerson, Bernice Trochmann, Alice Rodahl, Mary Ann Fuller, Maxine Olson and Ella Overum.

Mr. and Mrs. Rusty Restameyer of Sumner, Wash. arrived Saturday and are house guests at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, the Jerrold Nelsons'.

Mr. and Mrs. Birger Borg of rural Holt were Saturday forenoon callers and coffee guests at the Ray Barth home.

Edgar Lindberg Services Held At Oklee Thurs.

Funeral services for Edgar R. Lindberg, 79, of Waterloo, Iowa and formerly of the Oklee area, were held Thursday morning at 11:00 a.m., at the Salem Lutheran church, rural Oklee. Lindberg died Saturday evening, September 24, at the Parkview Gardens care center in Waterloo.

Rev. Charles Gunderson officiated at the services. Mrs. Alice Skreland was the organist and Mrs. Arnold Hammer, the soloist. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Petterson Funeral home, Oklee, in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Paul Anderson, Duane Baker, William Baker, Erik Lindberg, Karl Lindberg and Kristian Lindberg.

The Parrott-Wood Funeral home, Waterloo, was in charge of the arrangements in Waterloo, where services were held Monday evening, September 26.

Edgar R. Lindberg, a son of the late Christian O. AND Sophia Caroline Halvorson Lindberg, was born Sept. 10, 1904 at New Richland. At the age of two months, he moved with his parents to the Oklee area, where they homesteaded. There he attended school and grew to manhood. In 1923, he attended the Crookston Northwest Agricultural college. Later he served in the Marines.

On Sept. 6, 1928, he was united in marriage to Alice Amundson in Spokane, Wash. The couple moved to Chicago, where Lindberg enrolled in an electrical engineering school. He worked in that field in California for a time before returning to the Oklee and Thief River Falls area, where he farmed from 1931-1936. He then returned to San Diego, Calif., and was employed there as an engineer in the aircraft industry.

In 1941, he married Laura I. Murray at San Diego. She died January 16th of this year. Since her death, he had made his home with his son in Waterloo.

Surviving are two sons: Rev. Duane R. Lindberg, Waterloo, Iowa; and Roger of Augusta, West Australia; nine grandchildren, two brothers: William Lindberg, Warren, and Carl of Paulsbo, Wash.; and two sisters: Mrs. J.R. (Esther) Baker, Racine, Wis., and Mrs. Veleda Malmat of Glasgow, Mont.

In addition to his wife and parents, he was preceded in death by a daughter who died in infancy, four sisters and one brother.

Peter Tandberg Services Held At Newfolden

Funeral services for Peter Tandberg, 68, of Newfolden, were held Friday at 2:00 p.m., at the Bethlehem Lutheran church in Newfolden. Tandberg died Tuesday at his home in Marsh Grove township of Marshall county, near Newfolden.

Rev. Stephen J. Estrem officiated at the services. Music was provided by Mrs. Vernon Nelson, organist, and Deland Elseth, soloist. Interment was in the Bethania cemetery, rural Newfolden, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Peter Tandberg was born June 4, 1915 in Marsh Grove township, Marshall county, to Rolf and Petra Green Tandberg, now deceased. He attended school and grew to manhood in that community.

On Nov. 13, 1942, he married Mary Keogh at Lake Park. The couple farmed in Marsh Grove township until his retirement in 1980. Since then, they have lived in Newfolden spending the winter months at their home in Mesa, Ariz.

Tandberg was active in community affairs, served on the school board for 18 years, was clerk on the town board and had served on the Watershed board.

A sister, Alice, and a brother, Kenneth, preceded him in death.

Carl Knutson Services Held Here Saturday

Funeral services for Carl E. Knutson, 90, of Thief River Falls were held Saturday at 2:00 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Knutson, who at one time farmed in the Holt-Ringbo area, died Wednesday at his home in the Skylite apartments.

Rev. Clifford Kalmoe, pastor at Zion Lutheran church, officiated at the services. Serving as organist and soloist was Mrs. Elaine Idso. Interment was in the Moose River township cemetery in Marshall county.

Pallbearers were grandsons: Brett Brandon, Dean Brandon, Todd Brandon, Chris Daniels, Carey Daniels, Craig Daniels, Wayne Simmons, Willard Simmons, Wesley Simmons, Warren Simmons and Wallace Simmons.

Carl Edwin Knutson, a son of the late Eric and Karen Bruen Knutson, was born May 11, 1893 at Crookston. As a child, he moved to the Randen area where his father homesteaded. He grew to manhood in that community.

He was married to Henrietta Erickson in September of 1928 in North Dakota, where they were employed. Later, the couple moved to Randen, and then in 1936 to Holt and the Ringbo area, where they farmed. After the death of his wife on May 9, 1950, he lived with his daughters. The past four years, he had resided at the Skylite apartments in this city.

Surviving are three daughters: Mrs. Darrell (Avis) Brandon, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Ronald (Viola) Simmons, Roseau; and Mrs. Clifford (Cleo) Daniels, Idaho Falls, Idaho; 16 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

In addition to his wife and parents, he was preceded in death by a daughter, Marian; one brother, Oscar; and five sisters: Lillian, Betsy, Cora, Julia and Ethel.

Services Held For Clarence R. Carlson, 77

Funeral services for Clarence R. Carlson, 77, of this city were held Saturday at 10:30 a.m., at Trinity Lutheran church. Carlson, retired manager of the Farmers Union Oil company Thief River Falls, died Tuesday at his home.

Rev. Berton Hushagen officiated at the services. Organist was Mrs. Dorothy Larson, and soloist was LeRoy Aasland. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Clarence Richard Carlson was born March 27, 1906 at St. Hilaire to Charles F. and Gertie Hauge Carlson. At an early age, he moved with his parents to a farm in Wyandotte township of Pennington county. There he attended school and farmed with his father. Later, he worked on construction crews and as a car salesman.

In 1936, he was married at Halstad to Stella Stenerson. The couple made their home here.

Carlson was manager of the Thief River Falls Farmer's Union Oil company for 25 years. He retired in 1967.

He was a member of Trinity Lutheran church, the United Commercial Travelers and the Eagles.

Surviving are his wife, two sons: Glen Carlson, Minneapolis; and Neil, Thief River Falls; three grandchildren, three sisters: Mrs. Gladys Parenteau, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Doris Stromberg, Grafton, N.D., and Mrs. K.O. (Alyce) Hegland, Thief River Falls; and one brother, Alton Carlson, also of Thief River Falls.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one sister, Lillian Berling.

REFLECTI NS

Did you ever meet someone who at first glance seemed singularly unattractive, only to discover on becoming better acquainted that the same person became quite beautiful in your eyes . . . simply because that person became a close friend. . . . Many a perfect gem has been found in rough terrain and the same principle can be applied to people. Beauty does indeed lie in the eye of the beholder.

Milk Producers Elect Officers At Annual Meet

Thief River Falls milk producers voting unit of Land O'Lakes Inc. held its annual meeting at Thief River Falls on September 19.

Officers elected to the board of directors were Mark Hanson, Thief River Falls, president; John Erickson, Red Lake Falls, vice president; Kory Chervestad, Oklee, secretary; Don Konickson, Plummer, director; and Mrs. Lucille Weiss, Red Lake Falls, director. John Erickson, as voting delegate, will represent members of the voting unit at the district meeting to be held in Detroit Lakes on November 21, and at the Land O'Lakes annual meeting in Minneapolis next February.

Don and Karen Konickson, Plummer, reported on the young farmer "Away-For-A-Day" program they attended in Minneapolis this summer. Main speaker Paul Christ, vice president dairy planning, spoke on the current dairy program status and Land O'Lakes' new total value pricing program.

Differences In Children Topic For Discussion

"No Comarpison" is the title of the "Footsteps" program for the week of October 3, and its topic is how parents' responses to differences in children can help or hinder their growth and development.

Sponsored by community education, "Footsteps" is a parenting program which involves a video tape presentation followed by group discussion. Tapes are broadcast over KTRF cable channel 3, at 8:30 p.m. each Monday, and shown again in room 114 at the area vocational technical institute at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays. Parent group meets to discuss the presentation from 8 to 9 p.m. following the Tuesday showing at the AVTI.

Parents may attend any of the sessions at no charge, but pre-registration is necessary. This may be accompalished by calling the adult education department of the AVTI at 681-5424 before 2 p.m. each Tuesday.

Other topics planned for future presentations include: "Dealing with children's Fears", October 10; "Imagination In Children", October 17; and "Television and Children", October 24.

Social Security Men Here Tues.

Ted Hoversten and Neil Rowe, field representatives of the Grand Forks social security office will be at Thief River Falls city auditorium on Tuesday, Oct. 11, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Starting in January, all cost-of-living adjustments in social security benefits will be made on a calendar year basis. Change from July to January is one provision of recent legislation to restore financial stability to the social security program.

Would Promote Human Rights Through Grants

The state department would be authorized to spend up to $3 million to fund private organizations in other countries that seek to promote human rights and aid victims of injustice under an amendment to be offered by Senator Rudy Boschwitz.

The Boschwitz amendment allows the state department to use its own funds instead of requiring it to apply to AID, as has been past practice.

"The program administered by AID has been praised by many of our ambassadors, especially in Africa," Boschwitz said. "It is a good program that needs more attention — which it can get from the bureau of human rights.

"This allows the U.S. to demonstrate its clear support of human rights in a manner more tangible than mere words," he added.

Boschwitz said that by moving funds from AID to state, human rights would not be forced to compete in the budget process with other humanitarian activities of the AID program.

"By placing both the funding and the administration of this program with the assistant secretary for human rights, this amendment will make absolutely clear the human rights nature of this program."

He said the program provides small grants to private organizations, such as human-rights related groups, law schools, and for seminars on human rights. The typical grant is in the $5,000 range, he said.

Another Pesky Burr

The faithful old pack horse doesn't object to the carrying of a heavy load, but he reacts quite strenuously if there happens to be a burr under the pack saddle.

We felt somewhat like that old pack horse last week when purchasing our state migratory waterfowl stamp ($3) and the new state pheasant stamp ($5). However, that $8 purchase was only a little added weight to the pack saddle — a sack of oats that the carrier hopes will be of personal benefit at some point in the future.

The burr itself was the fact that the $8 purchase cost $9.50 — including the 75-cent issuing fee for each stamp. The fee is exorbitant for the act involved, in the first place, since the clerk selling us the stamps did so without missing a sentence in the telephone conversation he was carrying on at the same time. It doesn't take 75 cents worth of anybody's time to tear off two sides of a perforated stamp or even make change.

But let's not quibble about the amount of the issuing fee; the days of free services for customer good will are probably long gone. The agent is entitled to something for the inconvenience and minimal bookkeeping required.

Where the burr rubs is in the inequity of the situation. If the buyer purchases his or her small game license at the same time as the stamps, the issuer may charge a 75-cent fee for issuing the license but none for the stamps. The stamp fee applies only if the stamps are purchased separately from the hunting license.

Therefore, the agent who can charge $1.50 for ripping off (that term is used advisedly) two stamps can only charge 75 cents for filling out the information on a license AND issuing the two stamps.

Further, the person who purchases a combination sportsman's license (fishing and hunting) in the spring is unable to purchase the stamps at the same time because they are not available at that time. The $1.50 "Discount" for purchasing a sportsman's license as opposed to separate hunting and fishing licenses is lost when the stamps must be purchased separately when they become available later in the year.

From the sportsman's standpoint, it looks like the best bet is to buy a fishing license in the spring, buy a separate hunting license in the fall and purchase the stamps at the same time. It's twice as much work for the issuer, uses twice as much material, takes up twice as much space in the billfold, virtually doubles the bookkeeping but costs the purchaser a net of 75 cents less.

Perhaps the state legislature doesn't have the state's best minds among its membership after all.

Duck Season Rigors

Following editorial by Ken Hickman in the Grand Rapids Herald-Review strikes a couple of timely notes:

There is nothing funny about the use of anabolic steroid drugs to help athletes increase their strength and endurance when you consider the harmful effects on human bodies and on the spirit of amateur athletics.

Any experienced duck hunter could tell these would-be strong men that there is a far simpler way to develop incredible strength, speed and endurance, almost overnight. It's called duck season. Countless wives in this area can vouch for the effictiveness of the method.

Yards standing almost kneedeep in grass are swiftly cut by men whose ailments made it difficult for them to leave the couch a few weeks ago. Unsightly boats, much too heavy to move from the center of the lawn, are suddenly eased effortlessly onto trailers or car-top carriers.

A portly hunter who has trouble tying his own shoelaces during the summer will grab a heavy outboard motor, two sacks of decoys and a thermos bottle, tuck his shotgun under an arm and stride briskly across the yard to the pickup. Instead of gasping for breath, he'll wheel about and head back for another load. Two days earlier he couldn't help his wife carry the groceries into the house.

A normally short-tempered man who grumbles when his wife's fishing line develops a snarl will sit calmly on the living room floor for hours, untangling decoy anchor ropes. If all goes well, he may even pick up the bits of dried weeds which litter the carpet after the decoys are ready.

Men who struggle manfully to get out of bed and dressed in time for work 11 months out of the year will leap nimbly from the sack long before dawn, day after day during duck season. They will dress with unbelievable speed and disappear in the darkness. The father who flinches when the children splash water on him at the beach will stand stoically in icy water within inches of the top of his waders for hours and never complain.

Unknown talents erupt. A husband who can't plan the simplest meal when his wife is away will steer a cart around the supermarket with reckless abandon, heaping it high with all kinds of junk foods and staples. He won't even raise an eyebrow when he pays for it with a check so large it would draw angry bellows under ordinary circumstances. And he'll prepare meals at camp fit for a gourmet.

Many important track and field events depend upon a fast start. There is no better training for short bursts of speed than racing to collar your partner's retriver before it dines on breast of fallen duck.

Many wives pretend to be upset about the general confusion of duck season. Honest, straight-forward types — and there are some — will admit, however, that they look forward to October. After all, it gets the old boy out of the house. Best of all, they know that their husbands are for a brief time more like the boys they married, young, enthusiastic and oh, so happy.

All this is accomplished without the use of a single anabolic steroid. It is something for the United States Olympic Committee to consider.

Be Alert To DRGs

Following editorial is from the Detroit Lakes Tribune:

We don't have much to say in the way of opinion about this, but we do have a word of advice: Be alert to something called DRGs. Their impact is going to be heavy, and anybody eligible for Medicare will be directly affected by this new system of paying for hospitalization costs.

As an article elsewhere in this paper describes in detail, DRGs is a way of lumping hospital patients together according to their illnesses or conditions. The federal government has come up with 467 categories of illness or medical condition. Each category has a fixed payment that is based mostly on a national average of the costs of providing hospital care for that illness or condition.

Essentially, the federal government is in the process of standardizing illness, and hospital care along with it. When a Medicare patient is admitted, a hospital will be paid according to the diagnosis. (DRG stands for "diagnosis related group.") The hospital gets no more or no less than the payment designated for a particular category of diagnosis (one of the 467 DRGs).

The reason for DRGs is simple enough: Medicare costs are soaring into the stratosphere. With the present payment system, no lid can be put on hospital costs. What is done medically is decided on the basis of the need of the particular patient. Frequently the need is for costly medical procedures, and who's to say no when a test or operation could mean the health of even life of a patient: DRGs give the federal government a way of saying no.

All of this might be a fine way for the government to control its Medicare costs except for the obvious problems that arise from DRGs. Hospital administrators ask: What if, as is bound to happen, caring for a patient costs more than the DRG allows? What if, in other words, a patient doesn't fit the standardized slot of his or her illness? What measures can a hospital take to avoid losing money? You don't have to think too long on this last question to see pitfalls or to understand why hospital managers are alarmed.

The DRG system will be phased in over three years, beginning this Saturday. You can expect to hear a lot more about it, and you should listen.

Borrowed Nonsense:

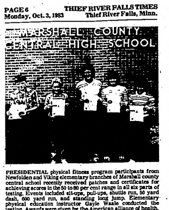
"My husband," the worried woman explained to the doctor, "seems to be wandering in his mind."

"Don't worry," the doctor consoled. "I know your husband and he can't go far."

Leaving his grandmother's house, the young boy asked if he could have a cookie. His father explained it was too close to dinner, he's spoil his appetite, he'd get crumbs in the car and there would be no place to wash his sticky fingers. The boy looked puzzled. "Does that mean no?" he asked.

Interviewing the 100-year-old man, the reporter asked, "How do you feel when you get up each morning?"

"Amazed," the centenarian replied.



MARSHALL COUNTY CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL

PRESIDENTIAL physical fitness program participants from Newfolden and Viking elementary branches of Marshall county central school recently received patches and certificates for achieving scores in the 50 to 80 per cent range in all six parts of testing. Events included sit-ups, pull-ups, shuttle run, 50 yard dash, 600 yard run, and standing long jump. Elementary physical education instructor Gayle Waale conducted the testing. Awards were given by the American alliance of health, physical education and recreation. Qualifying students included Dean Garthus, Kari Boe, Kelly Anderson, Jaci Timm and Denae Bengtson.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I would like to thank Congressman Arlan Stangeland for all he has done to alleviate the problems caused by natural disasters in our area in recent years.

Last week, I attended a Thief River Falls meeting for small businesses who have been hit by the farm losses. Congressman Stangeland brought in officials from the U.S. Small Business Administration who were very helpful.

He also secured the special disaster loans for both farmers and small businesses in the counties affected by last year's disasters.

Congressman Stangeland recently completed a study that shows farmers in Polk, Pennington, Marshall and Red Lake counties have lost over $194 million because of natural disasters during the past four years.

This evidence helped him to secure millions of dollars of low interest disaster loans for our farmers and stores. This meant the difference for many farms and jobs in our towns.

Congressman Stangeland also persuaded the Farmers Home administration to open a new office in Crookston to ease the loads at FmHA offices in Warren, McIntosh and Thief River Falls.

Natural disasters in 1983 have again damaged crops across northwest Minnesota. At the farm disaster summit meeting in Chicago this summer, Congressman Stangeland received guarantees from Agriculture Secretary John Block that requests for disaster relief would be handled as expeditiously as possible.

In meetings with FmHA and commercial lenders, Congressman Stangeland has gained extra leniency and reamortization for scores of farm families.

Arlan Stangeland is doing a good job for the farmers and small businesses that keep our region alive. That's the job we sent him to Washington to do.

Sincerely,
Barry Schulz
Red Lake Falls

Watch Out For Kids Who Ride School Buses

Fred Mykleby, transportation supervisor for the Thief River Falls school district, notes that October 2 through 8 has been proclaimed as national school bus safety week, with the slogan "Wheels are rolling . . . Watch Your Step!"

"During national school bus safety week," he commented, "we urge all motorists in the Thief River Falls school district to be especially alert when approaching school buses which are loading or unloading passengers. Our students deserve the highest degree of safety that we are able to provide, but it will take the cooperation of the motoring public to complement our efforts."

Mykleby issued a reminder to all motorists that the warning light system on the buses has the same meaning as any other traffic signal. Flashing yellow lights mean "caution," the bus is preparing to stop. Flashing red lights mean "Stop," school children are boarding or leaving the bus.

He noted that in addition to normal school bus lighting, Thief River Falls has added two flashing red lights on the stop arm, and a roof-mounted strobe light to buses that load or unload on main highways. These will be used in adverse weather conditions, adding to the safety of students being transported. He stated that it is a misdemeanor to drive past a stopped school bus when the red lights are flashing.

Export-Import Bank To Head Small Business

Small business will receive a $4 billion increase in export financing assistance under an amendment by Senator Rudy Boschwitz to a bill that reauthorizes funding for the export-import bank.

The Boschwitz amendment, which has passed the Senate by voice vote, establishes an eventual 10 per cent small business setaside for direct loans, guaranteed loans and insurance programs offered by the EXIM bank.

Small businesses currently receive just over three per cent of EXIM resources. The new setaside will increase that by one per cent per fiscal year for the next five years.

Boschwitz stressed that the amendment does not increase the EXIM budget, but reallocates resources.

"Instead of giving EXIM more money to spend, my amendment requires EXIM to allocate to small businesses a greater portion of existing programs, he said.

Other provisions of the Boschwitz amendment include:

+ Allowing groups of financial institutions to receive lines of credit or guarantees to finance small business exports;

+ Requiring EXIM to promote the export financing programs in cooperation with the department of commerce, the small business administration and the private sector;

+ Requiring that at least three members of the EXIM advisory committee established in the bill must be small business people. At least one of the five members of the board of directors must represent small business.

+ Urging the foreign credit insurance association to provide insurance against 100 per cent of the loss of export sales up to $100,000; and

+ Providing that EXIM report annually to congress on the effectiveness of the setaside, the small business financing programs, and EXIM's efforts to promote small business efforts.

"In addition to the formal requirements of my amendment, EXIM should be aggressive and creative," Boschwitz said. "My amendment will make more financing available to small business exporters, but EXIM must effectively implement this legislative mandate to help small businesses achieve their full exporting potential."

Projector Is Available For Use At Library

Northwest regional library (NWRL) has just received a slide projector from the Campbell's soup labels for the education program as a result of community members saving labels for the library. Projector is available for check-out by the public under the following policy:

(1) Any resident of the NWRL region who is 16 or older may borrow the slide projector.

(2) Projector may be served in advance by calling or visiting the library.

(3) Projector may be scheduled for a maximum of 24 consecutive hours, though borrowers are encouraged to schedule for as few hours as possible in order to allow the widest possible use of the service. Projector checked out after 3 p.m. Friday or anytime on Saturday may be due at 9 a.m. the next library business day (usually Monday), providing no one has scheduled it for pickup during that period.

(4) Deposit of $10 is required when the projector is picked up. This will be refunded upon return of the projector providing it's in proper working condition (exceptions being burnt out lamps or other normal wear) and that no parts are missing (e.g., the slide carousel or cords).

(5) When scheduling the projector, at least one hour will be allowed between a return and the next pick up.

(6) Projector may not be used where admission is charged or for any profit-making venture.

If you have any questions about the slide projector or any other Northwests regional library services, please call the library at 681-4325 or stop in.

Sen. Stumpf Encouraged By Talk To Block

State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer recently returned from a trip to the nation's capital with Governor Rudy Perpich, state agriculture commissioner Jim Nichols and state Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls in an attempt to get emergency farm aid from the federal government through U.S. agriculture secretary John Block.

"While we didn't get everything we asked for, we did hear some encouraging words about what Minnesota can expect to receive in emergency farm assistance, especially in our own region of the state," Sen. Stumpf said.

The senator said he spent much of his time laboriously explaining to Block the nature of the local problem, and how unique the weather-related emergency has been in northwestern Minnesota.

"We did receive word that the emergency designation for Red Lake and Pennington counties should come in about two weeks, and that farm areas in counties adjacent to these two may also receive similar consideration," Sen. Stumpf added.

During the meeting with Secretary Block and the Minnesota congressional delegation, the state officials outlined the problem facing area farmers, including the following information:

— That farmers in just four area counties have lost nearly $195 million to crop damage over the past year alone;

— An AVTI farm management survey of 102 farms in Pennington, Red Lake and Marshall counties shows an average net loss of over $21,000 more than to farms in surrounding counties; and that — While the average net earnings for adjacent area farms was $5,049, there was a loss of $16,253 in local counties; and that the average loss of net worth because of the disaster was $8,057 in surrounding counties, but approximately $30,329 for the 102 farms in the three-county area.

"Following our presentation on the problems of the region," Sen. Stumpf said, "we called for the release of the $600 million in emergency economic loan funding approved previously by Congress, which has been held up by Secretary Block.

"The governor, Commissioner Nichols, Rep. Sparby and I are firmly committed to not giving up on getting this long-term emergency help for our farmers," Sen. Stumpf added. "People should appreciate how hard the governor and agriculture commissioner have fought for us and helped convince the federal government of the plight of northwestern Minnesota farmers."

Stumpf encouraged area residents and farmers interested in contributing to this effort to contact their Seventh District Congressman and U.S. Senators at the following locations:

— Congressman Arlan Stangeland, 4th Floor, 403 Center Ave., Moorhead, MN, 56560 (phone 218-233-8631); or 1519 Longworth House Office Bldg., Washington, D.C., 20515 (phone 202-225-2165).

— U.S. Senator Rudy Boschwitz, 210 Bremer Bldg., 419 Robert St. N., St. Paul, MN, 55101 (phone 612-221-0904); or 2317 Dirksen Senate Office Bldg., Washington, D.C., 20510 (phone 202-224-5641).

— U.S. Senator Dave Durenberger, 1020 Plymouth Bldg., 12 S. 6th St., Minneapolis, MN, 55402 (phone 612-349-5111), or 353 Russell Senate Office Bldg., Washington, D.C., 20510 (phone 202-224-3244).

Legislators Happy About Zone Selection

Efforts of area legislators — Rep. Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls and Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer — paid off last week when Thief River Falls was announced as one of five Minnesota cities to be designated as a "competitive zone."

The announcement was made by Mark Dayton, commissioner of economic development. Under a 1983 state law, $32 million in tax incentives was set aside for businesses in "enterprise zones" (in economically disadvantaged border cities) and in "competitive zones" (for communities with severe and chronic unemployment problems).

Sen. Stumpf and Rep. Sparby were informed that Thief River Falls is recommended to receive $1.75 million to provide state and local tax breaks to businesses in the competitive zone.

"It is estimated that approximately 500 jobs could be created during the seven-year program," Sparby said. "Of those new jobs, about 80 per cent would qualify the employer for up to $3,000 in tax credits for each employee.

"Thief River Falls is the only city in the 7th District to be granted the designation, winning out over Little Falls," Sparby commented. "We now have the opportunity to establish up to 379 acres within the city for business development which should be especially helpful, for example, to the Arctic Cat plant."

The city's contribution to the program would be approximately 10 per cent of the total funds allocated. Economic hardship and the community's ability to promote investment activity were the criteria used to select sites.

"Some good old-fashioned lobbying didn't hurt either," Sparby quipped.

Sparby and Stumpf jointly expressed the hope that the legislative advisory committee will act favorably on Commissioner Dayton's recommendation.

"We worked long and hard for this much-needed helping hand. Our community needs jobs and needs them soon," Senator Stumpf said.

U of M Looking At Quality Of Undergrad Life

Suggesting ways for improving the intellectual, social and physical life of University of Minnesota undergraduates is the task facing a 25-member panel announced recently by university President C. Peter Magrath.

Magrath announced formation of the task force during a speech at freshman orientation at the university's campus at Morris, a four-year liberal arts college. Panel's report, which is due December 15, is expected to deal with curriculum improvement, new methods of instruction, teaching evaluation, programs for the educationally disadvantaged, career counseling and placement and student services.

Made up of university students, staff and faculty, the group is one of six that will aid in the university's ongoing planning process. Groups to look at the quality of graduate education and research and at impact of the University on Minnesota's economy have already been established. Themes of international education and the effects of new communication and computer technology will be examined by similar panels.

Shift from a decade of record undergraduate enrollments at the university's five-campus system to the predicted decline in enrollment make this "an opportune time to focus on needed improvements," according to the plan for the current cycle of planning, which notes, "The next decade offers the prospect of reduction in the number of undergraduates to levels for which the university's programs are more properly designed and funded."

Magrath has asked the 25 members of the panel to make recommendations for steps that can be taken immediately to improve the quality of undergraduate life and also long-range changes that may further analysis and planning.

Report based on the work of a 23-member task force on the university's role in improving the state's economy was released in July. Recommended changes included raising academic standards and becoming more accessible to newcomers and businesses.

Legislative Manual Free As Supply Lasts

A limited number of copies of the "Minnesota Legislative Manual 1983-84" are now available to the public at no cost, according to the Minnesota secretary of state's office.

The manual, in a new softbound edition, is a historical reference guide to Minnesota government and a handy tool for people having frequent contacts with different levels of government or who want a better understanding of government in this state.

The manual includes:

+ Text of Minnesota and U.S. constitutions;

+ Chronicle of Minnesota history and laws and charters;

+ Photos and biographies of legislators, constitutional officers, supreme court justices, members of congress and commissioners of state departments;

+ Directory of Minnesota counties and county officials;

+ Overview of state departments and agencies;

+ Directory of Minnesota cities;

+ List of Minnesota school districts; and

+ Election results by county and precinct.

The feature article in the 83-84 manual highlights Minnesota Horizons 83, a look at the important issues facing the state.

A single copy of the manual will be made available, as long as the supply lasts, to any member of the public. The book is available at the Office of the Secretary of State or by written request to Election Division, 180 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155.

4H CLUB

Holt

The Holt 4-H was held in Holt on Monday, Sept. 19 at the Holt hall. The meeting was called to order by Barb Garthus, president. Roll call was "What's your favorite winter sport?" Secretary's report was read by Nikki Leach and approved. Treasurer's report was read by Wayne Garthus and approved. Old business was star treasurer kits to get money in from them. Turn your records in to Karen Bennitt. New business was what to do with money from kits. We are going roller skating and to Pizza Hut. The hay ride is in October 20, and there was talk about having talk about a potluck on the next meeting on awards night.

The meeting was adjourned by first Cinda Syverson, second Jason Nelson. Lunch was served and games were played.

There were 16 members and eight parents present.

Mrs. Minnesota Pageant Seeks Candidates

Search is on to find a Mrs. Minnesota to represent the state in the Mrs. America pageant in Las Vegas, NV, in May.

Hannie Delwiche and Jeanne Stoner, Mrs. Minnesota-America state directors, announce that the Mrs. Minnesota-America pageant will be held at Burnsville Center in Burnsville on March 15.

Interested Minnesota wives may participate by contacting the state directors at 6870 Pipewood Curve, Excelsior, MN, 55331; or telephoning (612) 474-1554 or 474-1475 for further details and applications.

Mrs. Minnesota candidates are judged primarily in three categories: poise and personality, intelligence, and appearance; although careful consideration is given to family life and involvement in community affairs. All Minnesota wives are eligible to enter the state pageant.

Reigning Mrs. Minnesota-America Judy List, St. Cloud, will crown the new queen. Many prizes will be awarded to the women selected by a panel of judges to reign as Mrs. Minnesota in 1984, including an all expenses paid trip to compete in the Mrs. America pageant.

Volunteerism Workshop Set

To provide training on the basic elements for planning and implementing volunteer programs and citizen participation efforts, a one-day workshop on "Volunteer Program Management" will be conducted Tuesday at Northland Lodge in Crookston from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The first project of its kind in the country, it is designed to help communities get the maximum benefit of citizen involvement through development of partnerships, coalitions and teamwork. Expected to attend are public and private policy makers and advisors, leaders of voluntary and non-profit organizations, volunteer coordinators and leaders and staff who work with volunteers.

The workshop is open to the public, a $10 fee is charged and reservations (which are required) may be made by calling 1-800-652-9747.

Hamerlinck Heads Region Committee

Lincoln high school principal Frank Hamerlinck was elected chairman of the Region 8AA committee of the Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) at the annual regional meeting held in Detroit Lakes.

Supt. Ben Trochlil of Moorhead and athletic director Jack Luoma of Bemidji were elected to three-year terms on the committee, while Alexandria volleyball coach Denise Anderson was named to a two-term term.

Moorhead school board representative Curt Borgen of Moorhead will serve as vice-president of the committee under Hamerlinck for the 1983-84 season.

Region 8AA committee's financial situation will undergo a change this year because of the MSHSL realignment that shifted Crookston and East Grand Forks from Class AA into Class A. Both have particularly strong hockey programs, and finances generated by those schools that previously went to Region 8AA will now go to Region 8A.

Miscellaneous

+ Spectators are welcome, free of charge, Tuesday for the annual Thief River Falls invitational high school cross country meet. It's the only home meet appearance of the 1983 season for the Prowlers at the Thief River Country Club. Races start at 4 p.m., with competition featured for boys and girls varsity, junior varsity and junior high runners. The Prowlers close out their regular season schedule with Tuesday meets Oct. 11 at Park Rapids and Oct. 18 at Bemidji. The 1983 Region 8AA boys and girls cross country meet will be held Thurs., Oct. 27, at Fergus Falls.

+ Clearbrook, the defending North Tri-County Conference Nine-Man high school football champion, is making another title run this fall. The Hornets, who were 9-0 conference champions last fall, lost their 1983 opener to Erskine-Mentor 18-14 and sat quietly on the sidelines as Plummer, Grygla-Goodridge and Erskine-Mentor were picked as this year's pennant favorites. Clearbrook is now 4-1. The Hornets could be in title contention the final two weeks of the season when Tuesday night games will find them hosting Grygla-Goodridge October 18 and finishing at Plummer Oct. 25.

+ Northland community college volleyball team impressed viewers Wednesday in a 3-2 home court loss to the Moorhead State University junior varsity. Even though the Northwomen lost, they showed good volleyball skills. Great reflex reactions on defense kept numerous hard-hit balls in play and in LeAnn Paetznick, a 5-11 sophomore from Thief River Falls, Northland has an outstanding spiker. Only problem is the schedule. Northland hosts Fergus Falls Friday in a 6:30 p.m. Northwest Division match that is in conflict with the Lincoln high school homecoming football game at 7:30 that night against Bemidji, and will then be on the road for six straight outings until closing the regular season schedule here Fri., Nov. 4, vs. rival University of Minnesota-Crookston.

+ Sixth annual Northern Lights invitational volleyball tournament will be played Saturday in the Lincoln high school gym, with the host Prowlers joined by Greenbush, Bemidji, Roseau, Marshall County Central, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Warroad. Matches start at 9 a.m. and continue throughout the day, with the third place match set for 5 p.m., consolation finals at 6 and the championship match at 7. Admission fee, good for the entire tournament, will be $2 for adults; $1.50 for college and AVTI students; $1 for students in grades 6-12; and 50-cents for students K-5.

+ Fergus Falls' recent 34-23 win over Crookston was the 100th high school football victory for Otters coach Don Steuve. Thief River Falls will be at Fergus Falls Fri., Oct. 14. Stueve is in his 17th year as Fergus Falls head coach.

+ Detroit Lakes high school girls tennis coach Gary Harris was enthused about his team's recent 4-1 dual meet victory over Thief River Falls, a closely contested match that wasn't reflected in the final score. "They (TRF) are the team to beat in Region 8 (Class AA) North Half competition, and I was pleased by the way we played," Harris told Ralph Anderson of the Detroit Lakes newspapers. Coach Whitey Olson's Prowlers close out their 1983 regular season schedule today (Monday) at home against Roseau. Post-season tournament play begins next week, with the Sub-Region 8AA team and individual finals planned Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 11 and 12, at the Grand Forks Racquetball and Tennis Centre. Region 8AA matches will be played Oct. 17-18 at St. Cloud.

Prowlers Surrender Three Quick Touchdowns

Moorhead 28-6 Winner Over Mistake-Prone TRF

Mistake-free football underdog Thief River Falls needed to compete with heavily favored Moorhead never materialized Friday as the error-prone Prowlers fell to the Spuds 28-6 in front of a large rain-soaked Parent's Night crowd here.

Thief River Falls punting game, instead of getting the Prowlers out of trouble, put them in a hole three times in the first half, leading to a 21-0 Moorhead lead.

A low snap and a hurried punt netted the Prowlers just 11 yards to the Thief River Falls 35-yard line just four plays and 2:17 into the game.

Moorhead quickly scored when a 30-yard pass from quarterback Steve Quenette to Darin Kraemer, who was behind the Thief River Falls secondary downfield, set up a 5-yard touchdown run by fullback Dave Hamlin on the sixth play of the hurried drive that took a mere 2:05 to consume. Hamlin was hit at the line of scrimmage on the third-and-goal play but was able to spin away and cross the goal line on the straight-ahead dive. Rob Neilson's conversion kick made it 7-0 with 4:22 elapsed.

Another three-plays-then-punt Thief River Falls offensive series after the ensuing kickoff produced even more problems for the Prowlers when Don Marquart rushed from the outside and blocked Scott Jorstad's punt on a fourth-and-ten situation from the Thief River Falls 22-yard line. Hamlin recovered the ball in the end zone for the touchdown and Neilson kicked the extra point for a 14-0 spread with only 6:04 gone in the opening period.

Thief River Falls' third possession finally produced a pair of first downs, but when faced with another punting situation from near midfield the Prowlers once again were foiled when Jorstad, after reaching for a high snap, hit a pop-up that went for zero yards and gave the Spuds possession at their own 47-yard line.

This time the Spuds took nine plays to score as Quenette gave an inside fake, rolled left and hit a wide-open Don Thompson out of the backfield on a 21-yard touchdown pass. Neilson made it 21-0 with his kick just 57 seconds into the second quarter.

"We didn't anticipate that much success," allowed Moorhead coach Dan Kostich at the end. "That blocked kick was the turning point. That took the wind out of their sails."

Moorhead dominated play in the first half. Only time the Spuds were stopped was when a transformer apparently blew out, knocking out all the lights on the press box side of the field. That came with 5:34 remaining in the second quarter and the Spuds sitting at the Prowlers' 12-yard line. Officials decided to take an early 15-minute halftime break with hopes that full power could be restored for the second half. It was, and those 5½ minutes were played to complete the first half before the teams went immediately into the third quarter.

When play resumed, Thief River Falls linebacker Steve Wiskow intercepted Quenette on a fourth down pass attempt at the Prowlers' 9-yard line to finally stop a Moorhead scoring treat.

Twice more before that 5:34 had elapsed the Spuds threatened, but failed to add to their lead. Disdaining the punt on a fourth-and-one from their own 18 with 2:58 left, the Prowlers were stopped short on a fake kick, but managed to keep Moorhead off the scoreboard only to lose a fumble on their first offensive snap inside the 10-yard line with 1:29 remaining. Moorhead, though, lost 16 yards in three plays and Neilson was wide to the left on a 27-yard field goal attempt.

Moorhead did get another touchdown by marching the second half kickoff 64 yards in 14 plays to score on a 1-yard dive by Hamlin, his third touchdown of the night, with 6:17 remaining in the third quarter. An 18-yard burst through the middle by Thompson that carried to the Prowlers' 6-yard line was the big gainer on the drive, and Quenette hit Jeff Schroeder with a 12-yard pass over the middle to set up Hamlin's fourth down score. This time it was Scott Sarbacker with the kick and a 28-0 cushion, opening the doors for Moorhead reserves.

Thief River Falls scored late in the final period after stopping Moorhead on downs at the Prowlers' 34-yard line. Quarterback Mitch Semanko connected with flanker Tim Bottem over the middle for a 31-yard pass play that got the four-play drive going, carrying to the Moorhead 16-yard line — just the second time all night the Prowlers reached Moorhead territory. On the very next play Ryan Drees broke tackles off the right side on a 15-yard run to the Spuds' 1-yard line.

That prompted a quick return of Moorhead's starting goal line defense in an effort to preserve the shutout, but Semanko scored on a quarterback sneak with 2:30 remaining.

Thied River Falls netted just 39 yards on the ground and had only 121 yards worth of total offense. Moorhead rushed for 184 yards and had 282 yards all together.

"We were happy with our offensive line," mentioned Kostich. "They blocked well, and our backs ran hard. We did a good job defensively, too."

Kostich was generous in victory by praising Thief River Falls' never-say-die effort. "Hey, we got 21 points right away, and then they didn't give us anything. They're big and they hit hard."

Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz, although he acknowledged the Spuds' decisive victory, looked at the mistakes and the Prowlers' game effort to save what appeared to be a complete blow-out in the making at the start.

"Just a couple of mistakes put us in a hole," he noted. "But the kids hung in there."

Thief River Falls, 1-4, hosts Bemidji Friday in the Prowlers' homecoming game. Moorhead, 3-1, has a big game in Fergus Falls that night as the two northern Minnesota Class AA independents collide in what could be a post-season playoff-deciding confrontation.

Moorhead — Dave Hamlin, 5-yard run; Rob Neilson kick, 4:22 first quarter.

Moorhead — Hamlin, recovered blocked punt in end zone; Neilson kick, 6:04 first quarter.

Moorhead — Hamlin, 1-yard run; Scott Sarbacker kick, 5:43 third quarter.

TRF — Mitch Semanko, 1-yard run; kick failed, 9:30 fourth quarter.

ON A WET and slippery field, Thief River Falls runningback Tim Bottem picked his way for a seven-yard gain in the second half of Friday's high school football game against Moorhead. Roger Gonsorowski (51) provided one of the blocks on the play for the Prowlers, who lost the rain-drenched 28-6 contest.

Plummer Shades Fisher To Remain Undefeated

Plummer remained unbeaten in North Tri-County Conference Nine-Man high school football Friday afternoon with yet another in a string of fourth quarter comebacks, this one resulting in a 22-18 rain-soaked decision at Fisher.

After watching a 16-6 halftime lead disappear into an 18-16 third quarter deficit, Plummer struck for the game-winning touchdown on a 45-yard run by Troy Gustafson with 2:58 remaining.

Week before the Cardinals scored the game-winner with 4:06 left in a 28-22 victory over Erskine-Mentor, and before that the game-winner came in the final minute of play in a 14-8 victory over Grygla-Goodridge.

"Somebody up there must be watching over us," quipped Plummer coach Gary Brantl, who once again praised the Cardinals' never-say-die attitude. "Come to the fourth quarter, these kids feel no matter what the score is, they're in the game. They just don't quit," he explained.

It was an outstanding effort by Gustafson that produced the game-winning touchdown, pointed out Brantl. Designed as a simple straight-ahead dive, Gustafson bounced off would-be tackles just past the line of scrimmage, somehow kept his balance, caromed off another tackle and out-raced what was left of the Fisher defense to the end zone.

That effort enabled Gustafson to finish with 142 yards on 13 rushing attempts. Mike Konickson had 78 on 19 carries as the Cardinals racked up 243 yards on the ground. They added 47 more on a 4-for-8 passing performance.

"We moved the ball well, but we had one bad quarter," mentioned Brantl, who was most pleased with the Cardinals' defense against a strong Fisher offense.

"Defensively we did a heck of a job. Fisher has an awfully good offensive team."

Plummer stopped the Fisher attack with four fumble recoveries, an interception and a safety. Middle linebacker Brian Fisher led the way with 11 tackles.

"We didn't play very well in the third quarter; we had a little bit of a let-down in the secondary," noted Brantl. "But the kids came back when they had to."

Gonvick-Trail 36
Middle River 0

Alan Bardwell scored on runs of 2, 73 and 41 yards in staking the host Bulldogs to a 20-0 halftime lead.

"It was our worst performance of the year," reported disappointed Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We just played miserably. They came to play and we just showed up."

Down only 8-0 at the time, Middle River had a chance to make a game of it in the middle of the first quarter with a first-and-goal opportunity inside the Gonvick-Trail 1-yard line. But the Skippers fumbled the ball away and spent the rest of the night getting wet while the Bulldogs, oblivious to the rain, celebrated a successful homecoming.

Middle River, 1-4, faces a tough assignment Friday when the Skippers tackle Grygla-Goodridge at Goodridge.

Tennis Team Beats Crookston By 5-0

A strong Thief River Falls performance led to an easy 5-0 high school tennis victory over visiting Crookston Thursday.

"We played just really great tennis," reported Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "The match didn't start until after 4 o'clock (from an original 3:30 start) and they came out really fired up. It was a good effort."

It was the Prowlers' seventh win in eight dual meet outings this fall. They were scheduled to close out their 1983 regular season schedule today (Monday) with a 3:30 p.m. match here against Roseau.

Thursday's shutout of Crookston included a forfeit win for junior Michelle Olson, the Prowlers' No. 1 singles player, when the Pirates failed to fill the spot in the line-up after their regular starter became ill.

Singles — 1. Michelle Olson (TRF) won by default; 2. Kim Lawrenz (TRF) def. Jenny Hulst 6-2, 3-6, 6-0; 3. Christy Maldment (TRF) def. Nancy Bywater 7-5, 6-3.

Doubles — 1. Penni Johnston-Connie Grovum (TRF) def. Marlene Johnson-Julie Kulawa 6-4, 6-0; 2. Vickie Grovum-Kelly Cornell (TRF) def. Julie Grimm-Marge Elleson 6-1, 6-3.

TRF JV 4, Crookston JV 1

Singles — 1. Carrie Lindstrom (Crookston) def. Karin Schmitz 4-6, 6-3, 6-1; 2. Carl Offerdahl (TRF) def. Christy Hegg 6-0, 6-3; 3. Sharon Dosser (TRF) def. Denice Riedlinger 6-3, 6-4.

Prowlers Win In Volleyball

Buoyed by the success enjoyed two days earlier in a 2-1 victory at Crookston that ended a string of four straight dual meet losses, the Lincoln high school volleyball team collected an 18-14, 18-8 win at Fergus Falls Thursday to continue its new-found success.

"It helps to get the win under their belts," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson, who said her team is playing with more confidence at this point.

"Offensively we had some nice set-ups," she explained. "Our bumps went to the setters and they set it up for the hitters. There was lots of teamwork. They've got the confidence on offense now."

Even though it was a two-game sweep, the match still required 90 minutes to complete as the points came in scattered bunches. Second game was deadlocked at 7-7 for a long period of time, but Thief River Falls scored 11 of the next 12 points to wrap up the win.

Senior Missy Bondy and junior Leslie Weigand both had eight service points for the winners, while junior Paula Bergan had six, senior Nora Haushagen five and junior Kelli Olson four.

Thief River Falls, 3-4 in dual meet outings, will host a strong Red Lake Falls team Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln gym. The C squad match starts at 5 p.m. and junior varsity play begins at 6:15.

Lincoln junior varsity ended a string of three straight losses and improved its record to 4-3 with an 18-9, 18-12 win at Fergus Falls. Lincoln C squad, though, remained winless at 0-6 when Fergus Falls won 18-6, 16-18, 18-7.

Offense Gets Untracked In Blue Devils Victory

Grygla-Goodridge offense, after scoring just four touchdowns in the previous three games combined, got eight of them Friday night in a one-sided 53-0 North Tri-County Conference high school football victory over McIntosh-Winger.

It was the third straight win for the 4-1 Blue Devils, who were appearing in the 1983 Goodridge homecoming game after having earlier played in the Grygla homecoming for the first-year cooperative football program.

"We told them we had to get our offense going, and they responded," explained Grygla-Goodridge head coach Rick Nelson. "I was real pleased with the way the offensive line played. They came off the ball extremely well."

Doug Schulz, a 180-pound senior who did not start the game because of a thigh injury, scored four touchdowns on runs of 6, 9, 19 and 25 yards. He finished with 87 yards on 11 carries as the Huskies rushed for 193 yards and added 60 more on a 4-for-11 passing performance. Rick Mosher had 64 yards on nine carries. Scott Groven had all four pass receptions for the winners and scored twice — once on a pass from quarterback Tony Wiseth and once on an interception.

In fact, the Grygla-Goodridge defense played an important role in the Blue Devils' offense, coming up with two blocked punts, two fumble recoveries and two interceptions.

"Defensively we were super delighted," exclaimed Nelson. Ron Kiesow and Dale Verbout were credited with 11 tackles each.

Grygla-Goodridge didn't start the scoring assault immediately, owning only 6-0 first quarter lead. It was 22-0 at halftime before it ballooned to 47-0 in the third quarter.

Clearbrook 14
Oklee 12

Led by linebacker Duane Baker, Oklee came up with a stellar defensive effort, but the Bobcats' offense never got untracked Friday in a 14-12 North Tri-County Conference loss at Clearbrook.

Baker, a 155-pound sophomore, was credited with a school-record 40 tackles in an outstanding defensive effort.

"We were on defense all night," pointed out Oklee coach Dale Svaren. "I was well-pleased with our defense, but our offense kept us in bad field position all night."

A 22-yard Kevin Enerson touchdown pass to Lorning Mercil gave Oklee a 6-0 first quarter edge, but the Bobcats' offense gave up three interceptions and a fumble in leading to 14 second quarter Clearbrook points. Three times Oklee gave up the ball inside the Bobcats' 16-yard line.

Darrin Tougas scored on a 1-yard run to cap a drive on the second play of the fourth quarter as Oklee narrowed the gap to 14-12, but the two-point conversion attempt was off-target, and when the Bobcats failed to pick up a first down on a fourth-and-two at the Clearbrook 20 midway through the fourth quarter their hopes of upsetting the defending conference champions went by the wayside.

After an open date the week before, the loss to Clearbrook dropped the Bobcats' record to 2-2. The host Gonvick-Trail Friday.

MCC 30
Greenbush 8

Freshman quarterback Danni Halvorson, a 5-11, 155-pounder starting his third game at the Marshall County Central controls, directed an offense that netted almost 300 yards Friday afternoon as the Nordics handled Greenbush 30-8 in Top of the State Conference Nine-Man high school football action at Greenbush.

"He's a real good athlete," described Marshall County Central coach Sam Sebhart in praising the play of Halvorson. "He's got good quickness, he's a good option quarterback and he's starting to throw the ball real well."

It was the Nordics' second straight win after three season-opening losses.

A short Greenbush punt that netted just seven yards set up a quick Marshall County Central first quarter touchdown as Kevin Boe scored from seven yards out. It became 12-0 when Halvorson hit Bret Hanson with a 58-yard touchdown pass still in the first quarter.

Marshall County Central took an 18-0 lead into intermission when Boe broke a 54-yard touchdown run just two plays after an interception by Daren Stokke.

Boe, a 5-11, 145-pound junior, carried the ball 11 times for 104 yards as the Nordics rushed for 203 yards and added 80 more yards in the air as Halvorson, who was the team's second-leading rusher with 48 yards on 11 carries, was 3-for-10 in the passing department.

Greenbush collected 119 yards on the ground, with the pass-happy Tigers limited to 79 yards in the air on a 9-for-29 showing.

"We had a good defensive game," explained Gebhart. "Our pass defense was excellent."

Stokke had two interceptions while Boe and Hanson, the team's safeties, had team-leading 10 and 8 tackles, respectively. Stokke, Jay Nelson and Ken Krohn also excelled on pass coverage as linebackers, said Gebhart.

"It looks like we're coming around," mentioned Gebhart. The 2-3 Nordics have a tough road ahead, though, playing at Stephen Friday, then taking on Tri-County, Argyle and Stephen again to close out the season.

NORTHLAND RECEIVER Todd Graalum bobbled the ball, but was able to find the handle and came down in the end zone with a 19-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Steve Banc despite the defensive efforts of Hibbing's Don Varichak in the first quarter of Saturday's community college football game played in Thief River Falls. Graalum had a pair of touchdown passes in the 27-6 Northland homecoming win.

Northland Continues Success Against Cards, Winning 27-6

Year-in and year-out the Northland community college football team struggles to collect its share of wins in the Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC), but year-in and year-out the Northmen beat Hibbing.

It happened again Saturday as the Cardinals lost 27-6.

Outcome of the 1983 Northland home opener, which doubled as the homecoming game, shouldn't be too surprising. The victory snapped a six-game losing streak for the Northmen dating back to last year's 34-7 win at Hibbing. That was the only victory in a 1-8 season for the Northmen, who have now beaten the Cardinals three straight times, a victory streak that was preceded by a tie between the two schools.

Both teams came into the game looking for their first wins of the year, and at halftime it didn't appear either one would get it as they played to a less-than-inspiring 6-6 stalemate on the chopped-up Prowler Field playing surface, made slippery by Friday's rain.

But Northland dominated play after intermission to win easily. Hibbing netted just 48 yards worth of offense in the second half when the Cardinals, limited to a single first down for 28½ minutes, failed to cross the midfield stripe until the final 1:30 of the half.

"First half was bad," admitted Northland coach John Helley. "We did not play good football in the first half. We made a lot of mistakes. But we came out and played much better in the second half. Our offensive line really did a great job. They really did a good job blocking."

Wade Hruby, a 5-10, 185-pound freshman from Thief River Falls, led the line play, said Helley. "Wade Hruby is an excellent blocker. He was just fantastic out there today," Helley said.

Benefitting most from the line play was Kevin Roehl, a 5-11, 175-pound freshman runningback from Nevis, who rushed for a game-high 128 yards and two touchdowns on 22 carries, including a 37-yard touchdown run to close out the scoring in the fourth quarter.

Roehl, though, had to share the offensive spotlight with Todd Graalum, a 5-11, 170-pound sophomore wide receiver from Fargo, N.D., who caught four passes for 59 yards — two of them for touchdowns.

Hibbing scored first, going 49 yards in 13 plays on its first offensive series. Fullback Emil Renczykowski scored the touchdown on a one-yard dive play with 8:11 left in the first quarter.

But that was the last anybody saw of the Hibbing offense for the rest of the afternoon.

Northland went 68 yards in 14 plays on the ensuing possession to tie it, getting the equilizer when quarterback Steve Blanc hit Graalum in the end zone from 19 yards out on a fourth-and-six situation with 2:45 left in the first quarter. With defensive back Don Varichak dropped on him, Graalum leaped in the air, juggled the ball, but held on to it as he fell to the ground.

There was no more scoring until Blanc and Graalum got together again on a 13-yard touchdown pass with 2:45 left in the third quarter. Graalum got a step behind defensive back Mike Carlson and beat him to the left corner of the end zone, with Blanc putting the ball over his shoulder on a smart-looking play. That capped an eight-play, 42-yard drive initiated by a Jim Jonasson interception.

Northland scored again when Roehl started wide but cut up through the middle on a seven-yard touchdown run with 10:04 left in the game to finish a quick three-play, 17-yard drive just minutes after the Northmen had been stopped four times from inside the Hibbing 1-yard line.

Roehl scored his game-ending 37-yard touchdown on a delayed pitch by Blanc, who was several yards downfield and in the grasp of several defenders when he finally got rid of the ball on the option play to the right.

"We thought we had a good chance against this club coming into the ball game," acknowledged first-year Hibbing coach Don Skoy. "We played a decent first half, but we're playing only 28 kids and in the second half I think the conditioning had a part to do with it. You start to get beat up and you're a step slower getting to where you're supposed to be."

Northland, 1-2 in the MCCC and 1-3 overall, hosts Mesabi Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

DNR hotline

1. What is the outlook for duck and goose hunting for Minnesota season in 1983?

Overall outlook for waterfowl hunting in 1983, is not as favorable as 1982. An extremely late spring in the Canadian provinces resulted in very poor goose production. Duck numbers were affected by a reduced number of breeding pairs in the spring, most notably blue-winged teal, compared to 1982. Jim Breyen, assistant regional wildlife supervisor.

2. Are the beaver populations up, and if so what can be done to help control these populations?

Beaver population has been at a relatively high level for several years. Although the beaver aerial census has yet to be completed for 1983, the results may show a population at or above the all-time level which occurred in 1978. Trapping seasons are the most practical method for controlling beaver numbers. Since 1977, seasons approximately six months long have been established in an effort to encourage more trapping. Poor prices for beaver furs in the past two years have discouraged much trapper effort.

3. What is the status of the moose populations in Minnesota for the 1983 season?

Moose population in northwestern Minnesota has been increasing slightly for the past several years. The 1983 population is approximately 5,000 animals. The population is in excellent shape. This is reflected by an increased number of permits available, and additional open zones for the 1983 hunting season.

Brainerd Tops Northland 3-1 In Volleyball

It was the first Northwest Division-counting match of the 1983 season for the Northwomen, who will be in International Falls Wednesday to play host Rainy River and Mesabi in a 5 p.m. triangular. Northland returns home for another Northwest Division encounter Friday with Fergus Falls, a 6:30 p.m. match in the Northland gym.

Brainerd won Friday's closely-contested match 15-7, 6-15, 15-11, 15-13.

"The first game kind of set the tone for the rest of the night," explained Northland coach Deb Jacobson. "We were too tentative. We weren't aggressive enough."

Northland played better volleyball the second game, noted Jacobson, and led most of the way in the third game before Brainerd came from behind to win. Fourth game was back-and-fourth the entire way.

Dana Klos Is Named To Bear Archery Group

Dana Klos of Thief River has been named to the Bear Archery bowhunting council by world-famous bowhunter Fred Bear, in recognition of his many contributions to the sports of archery and bowhunting, it was announced through the Bear Archery Co., Gainesville, Fla.

Council is composed of selected individuals in each state who help preserve and promote this most ancient of mankind's sports. As member of the Bear Archery bowhunting council, Klos will field-test new developments in the field of archery equipment, serve as a clearing house for outdoor ethics programs, and promote the rules of fair chase and the principles of conservation as set forth by the creed of the Fred Bear Sports Club, the world's largest bowhunting organization.

Klos can be contacted at D & J Bowhunting Center, 1007 North Dewey in Thief River Falls for information about archery and bowhunting activities in this area, point out Bear Archery officials.

Archery Class Being Offered At TRF AVTI

An Introduction to Archery class is scheduled to begin Wednesday at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, (AVTI), with Dana Klos as the instructor.

Class will meet from 7-9 p.m. at the AVTI, room 114, for six consecutive Wednesdays. Tuition is $15 per person.

Three sessions of classroom instruction and three sessions of indoor range will help students become familiar with equipment, styles of shooting and techniques. Equipment is not necessary for the class.

Pre-register by contacting the AVTI adult education program, telephone 681-5424.

EVEN THOUGH she had a height disadvantage, Northland's Lorene Bulzomi still managed to get the ball by 5-1 Moorhead State University junior varsity defender Mary Ecklund during Wednesday's volleyball match played in Thief River Falls. Jenyne Beehler (7) of the Northwomen and Cheryl Kenney (28) of the Dragons watched the action. Moorhead State won the evenly-played match 3-2.

LHS Swimmers Win At Bemidji

A winner for the fifth straight meet, the Lincoln high school girls swimming team out-scored Park Rapids and Bemidji Saturday in a Bemidji invitational-turned-triangular.

Thief River Falls finished with 70 points, followed by Park Rapids with 58 and Bemidji 44. The Prowlers beat the Panthers and Lumberjills a week earlier in their Prowler Relays, another three-team affair.

After opening the 1983 season with a fifth place finish in the 13-team Fargo Shanley invitational, Thief River Falls now owns a string of three straight dual meet victories, followed by a pair of triangular meet wins.

Thief River Falls' winning streak is expected to be challenged Tuesday, however, when the Prowlers visit Moorhead for a 4 p.m. dual meet. They will be in Bemidji Thursday for a 6 p.m. dual.

Sophomore Michelle Puetz had a hand in three Thief River Falls first place finishes Saturday, winning the 200-yard individual medley in 2:30.06; winning the 100-yard backstroke in 1:06.97; and swimming the lead leg on the meet-opening first place 200-yard medley relay team that also featured Jill Lusignan, Shelley McGann and Janelle Smidt. They swam a 2:06.07.

Thief River Falls won the junior varsity portion of the meet with 67 points, followed by Park Rapids with 42 and Bemidji 30.

Freshmen Lose 26-16 Decision Against Valley

In a game that started with rare back-to-back kickoff returns for touchdowns, Valley junior high of Grand Forks emerged with a 26-16 freshman football win over visiting Thief River Falls Thursday.

Valley returned the game-opening kickoff 60 yards for a touchdown, but Thief River Falls answered immediately when Paul Brandt, after originally mishandling the ensuing kickoff, picked the ball up and ran 100 yards for a touchdown. Brandt also added the two-point conversion for a quick 8-6 Thief River Falls lead.

But Valley went ahead 20-16 at halftime and added a third quarter touchdown to close out the scoring.

Griff Newland went six yards for the Thief River Falls second quarter touchdown and passed by Kory Joppru for the conversion points.

Winless in three starts, the Thief River Falls freshmen will be at Bemidji, Tues., Oct. 11, for a 4:30 p.m. game.

Northwomen Play Well, But Lose To MSU Squad

Members of the Northland community college volleyball team exhibited aggressive spiking skills and good setting ability on offense, plus strong blocking and impressive quickness on defense Wednesday against the Moorhead State University junior varsity.

But what the Northwomen didn't do very well was to receive the Dragons' serves, and as a result the visitors wound up with a 3-2 victory in the best-of-five, 15-point game match in the Northland gym.

"Service reception is a basic volleyball skill, and if you can't handle it, you're in trouble," acknowledged Northland coach Deb Jacobson.

Otherwise, she indicated, it was a good night's worth of volleyball.

Moorhead State won the evenly-played match 16-14, 12-15, 11-15, 15-3, 15-9.

"It was still a good match for us," explained Jacobson. "We did a lot of good things, and we did some things that weren't so good. We accomplished a lot, I think. The only thing we didn't accomplish was to win the match."

Northland started slowly, falling behind 10-4 in the first game before gaining a 14-14 tie. But a spike by 6-1 Mary Ecklund produced the Dragons' 15th point and Northland's problems on the receiving ends of the MSU serves gave up with the game-ending 16th point.

Leading from start-to-finish, Northland took the second game 15-12, closing it out on a booming spike by Thief River Falls sophomore LeAnn Paetznick, whose hard hits dominated portions of the match.

Moorhead State came back from a 5-0 deficit in the third game to go ahead 10-7, but Paetznick and Lorene Bulzomi, a sophomore from Fertile-Beltrami, teammed up to collect the 15-11 win for a 2-1 edge in games. Bulzomi assisted on many of Paetznick's spikes with her pin-point setting.

Fourth game belonged almost entirely to Moorhead State as the Dragons breezed to an easy 15-3 victory to tie the game at 2-2, and with the Northwomen continuing to make mistakes on defense the Dragons', after spotting Northland a 3-0 third game headstart, charged in front 7-3.

Ecklund capitalized on Northland's problems handling serves with back-to-back aces to open up a 14-7 gap, and 5-7 Kathy Aarness closed it out with a spike.

While Paetznick and Bulzomi shared the spotlight for the Northwomen, others had their moments, too, including sophomores Joleen Gibson (TRF) and Kelly Wagner (Roseau), plus freshmen Karen Sovde (Greenbush), Brenda Dahl (Newfolden) and Mary Joan Durary (Greenbush). Jenny Borg, a 5-5 sophomore from Red Lake Falls, was the Dragons' best performer.

It was the first dual meet outing of the year for the Northwomen after a pair of multiple-team outings the previous weekend.

Central Beats Sophomores By 32-14 Thursday

Grand Forks Central defeated Host Thief River Falls 32-14 Thursday in sophomore high school football action.

Both teams scored on their first possessions in the first quarter, but Thief River Falls fell behind 18-6 at halftime and trailed 25-6 after three quarters.

Kurt Wagner scored on a 10-yard first quarter run for Thief River Falls, with Bill Desrocher throwing a 20-yard fourth quarter touchdown pass to Dean Brandon. Same passing combination worked for the two-point conversion.

Thief River Falls sophomores, 0-3, will host Grand Forks Red River Thursday at 7 p.m. Thief River Falls junior varsity, 0-2, will be at Grand Forks Central tonight (Monday) at 7 p.m.

FRESHMAN RUNNINGBACK Kevin Roehl of Northland was sent flying when hit by Hibbing defender Don Quirk during the third quarter of Saturday's Minnesota Community College Conference (MCCC) football game played in Thief River Falls. Des Sagedahl of Bemidji, one of the game officials, kept an eye on the play that netted just three yards to the Hibbing 13-yard line. The Northmen connected on a Steve Blanc-to-Todd Granlum touchdown pass on the very next play, however, to take a 13-6 lead. They went on to win 27-6.

Goodridge Breaks 1983 Volleyball Losing Streak

Goodridge ended a season-long high school volleyball losing streak at seven matches Thursday with a 18-16, 18-11 victory at Gonvick-Trail.

It was a welcome victory for the Huskies, who had been playing solid volleyball for the most part this fall, but without any wins to show for their efforts. "We've been playing real well," confirmed Goodridge coach Patti Johnson, "so it was nice to see it all come together."

Goodridge rallied from a 10-0 first game deficit to win. Sophomore Jeannie Boutain had nine service points for the winners, including five aces, while juniors Melissa Iverson and Cheri Nelson led the Huskies' effective spiking attack at the net.

It was a reversal in form for the Huskies, who broke a season pattern with a poor outing Tuesday in an 18-5, 18-6 loss at Red Lake Falls.

Goodridge will be at Alvarado Tuesday, at Grygla Thursday and at the Plummer invitational tournament Saturday.

Grygla — MCC

Grygla surprised Marshall County Central 18-16, 18-8 Thursday, snapping the Nordics' winning streak at six matches.

It was the first Marshall County Central loss since a 2-0 setback in the season-opener Sept. 6 at Stephen, and the winning streak included a 2-1 home court victory over Grygla Sept. 13.

But the host Eagles rallied from a 16-14 first game deficit Thursday en route to their fifth win in eight matches as junior Sonja Amundson came off the bench to collect four straight service points to close out the first game and provide the winners with a spark that carried into the second game.

Grygla, a team chastised earlier by coach Kurt Vandermeer for a non-aggressive offense, won it with hard spikes. "We got a lot of ace spikes — that's what won it for us," reported Vandermeer. Senior Kathy Foss had six of them.

"Everybody played well," mentioned Vandermeer. "Some people said it was the best volleyball they'd ever seen played in Grygla. The fan participation was just great. That's the way volleyball is supposed to be played."

"Grygla played real well," confirmed Marshall County Central coach Julie Tunheim. "We haven't played anyone who has played as well as they did in the second game."

"We're disappointed in the loss because we have played a lot better than that," continued Tunheim. "No excuses, though. We just kept making mistakes."

Grygla will host Warroad tonight (Monday), visit Roseau Tuesday and entertain Goodridge Thursday. Marshall County Central will host Greenbush tonight, entertain Roseau Thursday and participate in the Thief River Falls Northern Lights invitational tournament Saturday.

Middle River — Plummer

Plummer handed Middle River its fourth straight loss Thursday, beating the host Skippers 18-3, 10-18, 18-11.

"It was terrible," described Middle River coach Julie Helgeson. "We were just standing around doing nothing. Our defense was fine, but our serving was really bad."

Middle River, 3-6, will be at Badger Tuesday and at Lake of the Woods Thursday. Plummer, 3-4, hosts East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Tuesday, entertains Oklee Thursday and will stage its invitational tournament Saturday.

Although most people are afraid to eat mushrooms not found on supermarket shelves, white-tailed deer are particularly fond of wild mushrooms, according to the National Wildlife Federation. In fact, during certain times of the year, fungi make up more than 80 per cent of a deer's diet in South Carolina.

A MOORHEAD pass rush forced Thief River Falls quarterback Mitch Semanko to hurry his release and the ball fell incomplete near the end of the first half in Friday's high school football game played at Prowler Field. Dan Upham (70) of the Prowlers trailed the play. The Spuds jumped out to a quick 21-0 lead en route to a 28-6 victory in the rain.

Hornets, Bears, Millers Own Record Streaks

Minneapolis Washburn, Edina and Eveleth own all-time Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) winning streaks in football, basketball and hockey, respectively, reports Larry Larson, MSHSL director of information and publications.

Under head coach George Wemeier, Minneapolis Washburn had a 60-game unbeaten streak (58-0-2) from 1965-1973, while Duane Baglien coached Edina to 68 straight basketball wins from 1966 to 1968 and Cliff Thompson-coached Eveleth won 79 consecutive hockey games in 1947-52.

Other MSHSL notes:

Among the high school football coaches in Minnesota this fall: Peter Duncan, Greenbush; Rick Nelson, Grygla-Goodridge; Gerald Ness, Herman; Russ Horacek, McIntosh-Winger; Brian Kvebak, Mankato East; Todd Cameron, Marietta-Nassau; Dave Mielke, Melrose; Dave Winkleman, Milroy; Howard Herbst, Minnesota Lake; Mike Finco, Fisher; Tom Lawrence, Eveleth; Jim Malcolm, New Ulm; Don Baker, Northland (Remer); Bob Thompson, Parkers Prairie; Terry Taylor, Roseau; John Erickson, Rush City.

National Wildlife Federation
News Release

In a world ravaged by nuclear war, the remains of earth would offer only flaming infernos, frigid darkness and ultraviolet radiation.

As scientists assess the environmental effects of nuclear war, they paint a picture of the ultimate ecological disaster — a dark, barren world in which the temperature plunges 36 degrees, according to International Wildlife, the bimonthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

"A realistic look at the earth after a nuclear attack leaves one guessing that a quick merciful roasting in a personal fireball might be a better way," says George Woodwell, director of the Ecosystems Center at the Marine Biology Laboratory in Woods Hole, Massachusetts.

In October, when scientists gather in Washington at the Conference on the long-term biological consequences of nuclear war, this is the post-nuclear world they'll see, according to International Wildlife:

Night would descend on much of the northern hemisphere — a funereal pall of the kind which may have blanked out the sun 65 million years ago and sent the dinosaurs into oblivion.

Firestorms triggered by a nuclear exchange would last for weeks, sending as much as 20 million tons of extremely fine, light-absorbing particles of soot and ash into the atmosphere. Buring oil and gas wells and refineries would add to the pall, compounded by millions of tons of dust hurled into the atmosphere by nuclear groundbursts.

Results would be "Two or three months of virtual darkness," according to John Birks, an atmospheric chemist from the University of Colorado.

With the sun's warming rays blocked, temperatures would plunge by as much as 36 degrees Fahrenheit, according to International Wildlife. If the months of frigid gloom spanned the growing season, photosynthesis would come to a halt, and vegetation in much of the northern hemisphere would perish.

Life in the oceans would be devastated. Phytoplankton, minute aquatic plants which multiply through photosynthesis, would stop reproducing. Soon the zooplankton, tiny aquatic animals, would devour most of the existing phytoplankton. And once their food supply was gone, much of the zooplankton would die. Since zooplankton sustain larger marine organisms, the entire complex aquatic food chain would soon be decimated.

As the suspended soot, ash and dust settled, sunlight would again start reaching the earth's surface. But, says International Wildlife, the resulting chemical smog and high levels of ozone would create air pollution that would burn human eyes, choke survivors and damage vegetation.

Croplands which weren't incinerated by post-attack wildfires would be contaminated by radioactive fallout. Moreover, the cornerstones of modern agriculture — intensive mechanization, massive use of fertilizer and herbicides, and complex transportation — would have been destroyed, leaving little hope of a quick recovery for farming.

Surviving forest lands would also be devastated by intense fallout, and those destroyed by nuclear blasts would probably never recover. Given potentially massive losses of nutrients, destruction of seed sources and ravages of erosion, some of those former forests might remain impoverished ecosystems of only grass, ground cover and moss.

Many wildlife populations would be decimated in the aftermath of an atomic conflict. Infernos raging over hundreds of thousands of square miles would take a staggering toll, with the destruction multiplied by radioactivity in the immediate fallout zone of nuclear explosion.

Runoff from blasted landscapes would choke rivers and lakes with toxic contaminants, destroying aquatic habitat and poisoning aquatic life. Shallow estuaries and coastal marshes, where natural environmental stresses cause massive die-offs, would be even harder hit.

According to Hampshire College's Arthur Westing, examining the ecological consequences of a nuclear war raises "the possibility that the impact on the biosphere would be sufficiently drastic to lead to the ultimate extinction of the human species."

Although birds and animals evolved on nearly identical time schedules, there are more than twice as many different species of birds, than animals alive today, reports National Wildlife magazine. At last count, there were over 8,700 species of birds, ranging in size from the condor to the tiny hummingbird, compared to 4,000 species of mammals.

Awareness Of Lupus Week Is Slated For MN

Governor Perpich has proclaimed the week of October 16 to 22, as Lupus awareness week in Minnesota. Minnesota Lupus chapter will join with chapters from all over the United States in observance of National Lupus awareness week.

Lupus Erythematosus is a chronic inflammatory disease whose cause and cure are currently unknown. It affects nearly one million Americans, the majority of whom are women in their childbearing years, although men are affected as well.

Lupus may involve the joints, skin, kidneys, lungs, heart or central nervous system. It is common for the baffling array of symptoms to mimic other conditions and make diagnosis difficult. Symptoms vary with each individual depending on which part of the body is affected. Common stymptoms are fatigue, joint pain, low-grade fever, weight loss, skin rash, or frequent infections. Lupus runs a course of remissions and relapses and disease activity can range from mild to life treatening.

Prognosis for the Lupus Patient is much better today than it was even ten years ago. Increased awareness of the disease and improvement in diagnostic procedures makes early diagnosis possible. With an early diagnosis, treatment can be started before damage is done to a vital organ.

Minnesota chapter of the Lupus foundation of America was formed seven years ago to unite and provide moral support and group strength for those individuals diagnosed with Lupus and their families, to promote understanding and education concerning Lupus, and to support and encourage continued research. Membership is open to anyone interested in becoming more aware of Lupus. Members receive bi-monthly newsletters and notices of all meetings. Several support groups are available to patients, families and friends.

For more information write the Minnesota chapter of the Lupus foundation, 640 11th Ave. South, Hopkins, MN 55343 or call (612) 933-4137.

Luncheon guests on Friday afternoon at the Anton Kotrba home were Mrs. James Sherry of Euclid, Mrs. Grace Griffen of California, Ruth Kotrba, Mrs. Bob Sitko of Stillwater, Mrs. George Haberman of Willmar, Elaine Overbye of Phoenix, Frances Mislavic, Aaron and Eric of Detroit Lakes, Marlin Kotrba, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Kotrba, Travis and Deanna, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kotrba, Gena, Nicholas and Amy.

Frances Mislavic, Aaron and Eric of Detroit Lakes are visiting a few days at the Anton Kotrba home and also with other relatives.

Sunday Mrs. Clayton Lolland and Jeremy and Marion and Steve Zavoral attended church services in Grygla at Grace Lutheran church in honor of Mrs. Lolland's nephew's confirmation, Allen Englund. After services Mrs. Lolland and Jeremy and Marion and Steve Zavoral attended dinner at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in honor of Allen's confirmation. Then later attended open house at the Galen Englund home in Allen's honor.

Friday dinner guests at the Ruth Kotrba home were Mrs. Bob Sitko of Stillwater, Mrs. George Haberman of Willmar, Grace Griffen of California and Mrs. James Sherry of Euclid.

Monday afternoon Mary Jane Mogan and granddaughter Amber returned to their home in Embarrass.

Dinner guests on Sunday at the Norman Adams home were Elaine Overbye of Phoenix and Frances Mislavic, Aaron and Eric of Detroit Lakes. Later that afternoon, Mrs. Norman Adams, Frances Mislavic and Elaine Overbye visited with their grandmother, Mrs. Anna Sherry at the Riverview Nursing home at Crookston.

Friday after school those who helped Jennifer Kotrba celebrate her birthday were Jolene Wiseth, Connie Wold and Jami Adams. That same evening Jami Adams was an overnight guest of Jennifer's at the Marlin Kotrba home.

Elaine Overbye of Phoenix, Ariz. is spending a few days visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kotrba and also with other relatives.

Alissa Lundeen spent Monday afternoon at the Clifford Johnsrud home.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Scott Pahlen, Hollie and Bryan of Roosevelt and Mrs. Mayer Holen were visitors at the David Dahlen home.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Tim Lundeen, Shannon and Alissa were supper guests at the Merle Lundeen home.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Lundeen, Shannon and Alissa and Bonnie Johnsrud were lunch guests on Wednesday afternoon at the Clifford Johnsrud home.

Tuesday forenoon Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lundeen were visitors at the Tim Lundeen home.

Sunday Lorraine Watne, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hovet and Mr. and Mrs. Obert Hovet attended a birthday party for Mrs. Jesse Anderson at the Jesse Anderson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Swanson of Grand Forks were visitors on Saturday at the David Dahlen home.

Mrs. Tim Lundeen, Shannon and Alissa were dinner and supper guests at the Clifford Johnsrud home.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Anderson and Lorraine Watne were at the Reiner Lutheran church for family night and viewed slides of Norway shown by Mr. and Mrs. James Wells from their trip to Norway.

Thursday evening visitors and coffee guests at the Norman Adams home were Frances Mislavic, Aaron and Eric of Detroit Lakes and Elaine Overbye of Phoenix, Ariz.

Sunday evening visitors and supper guests at the Gary Johnson home were Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Stucy.

Mrs. Darwin Eidelbes, Arlen, Jarod and Michelle were visitors at the Oscar Qualey home of rural Gully on Saturday afternoon.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Jesse Anderson was a visitor at the Clayton Lolland home.

Mrs. Marlin Kotrba, Jennifer and Tiara, Elaine Overbye of Phoenix, Frances Mislavic, Aaron and Eric of Detroit Lakes were visitors and coffee guests at the Norman Adams home on Saturday afternoon.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Johnsrud and Mrs. Danny Johnsrud and Erica, Mrs. Hattie Markuson and Mr. and Mrs. Knute Nesland were dinner guests at the Glen Nesland home in honor of Lanae's birthday. Happy birthday Lanae.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Eidelbes, Arlen, Jarod and Michelle were visitors at the Clayton Lolland home, along with Mrs. Johnnie Eidelbes.

Mr. and Mrs. David Qualey, Nichole and Justin were visitors on Saturday at the Gene Fiedler home.

A birthday party was held at McDonald's in Thief River Falls on Friday afternoon in honor of Jessica Johnson's third birthday. Her guests there were her parents and sisters Michelle and Monica, Mrs. Jim Johnson and Elizabeth, Mrs. Merle Naeseth, Jason, Denise and Dave and Mrs. Clarence Johnson. The children enjoyed playing games. Later a lunch was served featuring a decorated birthday cake. Jessica received gifts and cards. Then on Saturday evening those who helped Jessica celebrate her birthday were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Mrs. Merle Naeseth, Joann and Jason, Mrs. Jim Johnson, Jenny and Elizabeth, her mother and sisters, Monica and Michelle. Lunch was served featuring birthday cake and ice cream. Jessica received more gifts and cards. Happy birthday Jessica.

ROLE PLAYING was one method used in teaching local elementary teachers how to use materials in the Project Charlie program to be incorporated into the local elementary curriculum this year. The program was the main focus of elementary in-service training last Thursday evening and all day Friday. Pam Carlson (left) and Carol Tranby are pictured with Dale Sinar of Crookston as they act out a situation involving peer pressure. The program involves instruction in self-awareness, relationships and decision-making for grades 1-6 and chemical use in grade six only. Project Charlie stands for "Chemical Abuse Resolution Lies in Education".

October 3, 1983
STATE OF MINNESOTA
COUNTY OF PENNINGTON
COUNTY COURT-PROBATE DIVISION
Court File No. P-83-476
In Re: Estate of Alvin T. Hyland, Deceased.
Notice of Informal Appointment of Personal Representative and Notice to Creditors
NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS:

Notice is hereby given that an informal appointment of Arlyne Goodridge, whose address is Rural Goodridge, Minnesota as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent has been made. Any heir, devisee or other interested person may be entitled to appointment of a personal representative or may object to the appointment of the personal representative and the personal representative is empowered to fully administer the estate including, after 30 days from the date of issuance of his letters, the power to sell, encumber, lease or distribute real estate, unless objections thereto are filed with the Court (pursuant to Section 524.3-607) and the Court otherwise orders.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Clerk of the Court within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

Attention: Property owners

At the regular County Commissioners' meeting held on September 27, 1983, a final report was filed by the Ditch Viewers on County Ditch No. 70. The Viewers indicated that County Ditch No. 70 and County Ditch No. 64 should be consolidated into one ditch with a common benefited area.

A PUBLIC HEARING will be held in the Board Room of the Pennington County Courthouse on FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1983, at 7:00 P.M. to view the Viewers' report and to consider the consolidation of the two ditches. All involved landowners are invited to attend this meeting to express their opinions and desires.

Kenneth Olson,
County Auditor

Resolution

WHEREAS, Pursuant to Order for reviewing the benefits for drainage supplied by County Ditch No. 70, the duly appointed Viewers have filed a preliminary report of their findings, and

WHEREAS, As a part of the reviewing report the Viewers have indicated that the County Board should take such steps as are necessary to consolidate County Ditch No. 70 and County Ditch No. 64 into one ditch with a common benefited area.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Viewers reviewing the benefited area of County Ditch No. 70 filed their final report on September 27, 1983, and provide information so that the Landowners involved can make comparisons as to the relative benefits assessed for various tracts of land, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a public hearing on the Viewers' report of benefits be held in the Pennington County Courthouse at 7:00 P.M. ON OCTOBER 28, 1983, and that pursuant to Minnesota Statutes 106.171, the County Auditor be instructed to notify all of the landowners affected by the Viewers' report of the hearing on redetermination of benefits and the Viewers' recommended consolidation of County Ditch No. 70 and County Ditch No. 64.

School Board Proceedings

October 3, 1983
Regular Board Meeting
Ind. School Dist. No. 564
Thief River Falls, MN
September 12, 1983

A Regular Meeting of Independent School District No. 564 was held at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, September 12, 1983 in the Board Room of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Arnt Aune, Paul Bortnem, Archie Cameron, Hank Hallstrom, Greg Pribula, and Harry Sjulson. Also present was Robert Block, Superintendent.

Chairman Harry Sjulson called the meeting to order and Clerk Arnt Aune established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by H. Hallstrom to approve the Minutes of the August 22, 1983 Regular Board Meeting. Motion carried unanimously.

Superintendent Block gave a report concerning negotiations with teachers, administrators, aides, confidential employees, bus drivers, and supervisors and managers. Emphasis was made and material distributed concerning fund balances and aid computation. The Superintendent informed the Board that a mediation session with teachers had been scheduled for October 6 at 9 a.m. The next session with administrators is scheduled for Friday, September 16 at 7 a.m. and with the bus drivers for Wednesday, September 14 at 5:30 p.m. It is hoped that sessions will be scheduled soon with the aides and confidential employees units. By consensus, it was agreed that a committee consisting of Board members Greg Pribula, Hank Hallstrom, and Archie Cameron would meet with the supervisors and managers to begin negotiations with each of them.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by A. Cameron to delete the names as submitted from the 1983 Lincoln High School graduation list. Motion carried unanimously.

Information was distributed indicating enrollment at the AVTI on the third day of the 1983-84 school year.

A motion was made by P. Bortnem and seconded by A. Cameron to approve the request of Mr. and Mrs. David Crowser for early entrance to Kindergarten of their child for the 1983-84 school year. Motion carried unanimously.

The Board recognized the commendation of Verne Spengler from the MVAVA for his service as President of that Association the past year and their thanks for the district's support and cooperation of its members.

The district strike plan was reviewed in the event that it would become a reality. If Board members have questions or concerns regarding the plan, they should let the Superintendent know.

A program for establishing health service volunteers in the district was briefly discussed. It is hoped that the program will be effective in contending with any head lice problem that may develop.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by A. Cameron to approve that interest be credited to the District Trust Fund based on 6-month treasury bill rates as of December 31 and June 30 and is effective for the 1983-84 year. Motion carried unanimously.

A copy of the 1983-84 revenues and expenditures budget that was published in the TIMES was distributed and briefly discussed.

Information concerning nonresidency regulations was distributed and discussed.

State Department mandates in relation to religious release time were discussed.

By consensus of the Board, a committee consisting of Arnt Aune, Greg Pribula, Frank Hamerlinck, Terry Soine, Mitt Hoff, Mike Novak, Pam Carlson, John Novacek, and Superintendent Block was approved to represent the district in meeting with representatives of the Police Department to discuss problems with chemical abuse, smoking outside of schools, what each one's part is in the problem, and what our goals should be.

A brief discussion was held concerning how substitute teachers are chosen. It was felt that no change needed to be made in the way it is handled at the present time.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by H. Hallstrom to approve an additional $3,700 for triple-glazed windows in the remodeling project at Northrop. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by H. Hallstrom authorizing the Administration to submit an application to the Minnesota State Board of Education for financial assistance in the construction of an addition to the AVTI airport facility. Motion carried unanimously.

The Superintendent asked that Board members let him know if they had any ideas for proposals for the upcoming Legislative session.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by A. Aune to approve the health contract with Intercounty Nursing Services for the 1983-84 year as on file in the Superintendent's Office at a sum of $15.00 per hour. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by A. Cameron to rescind the motion of the August 22, 1983 Regular Board Meeting allowing for the charging of a towel fee for the 1983-84 school year. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by A. Cameron directing the Administration to research the purchasing of laundry equipment for the district. A roll call vote was taken which resulted in the following: A. Aune - yes; P. Bortnem - no; A. Cameron - yes; M. Carlson - absent; H. Hallstrom - no; G. Pribula - yes; and H. Sjulson - yes. Motion carried.

A motion was made by P. Bortnem and seconded by H. Hallstrom to approve the Accounts Receivable Policy in which statements will be sent identifying amount owed and reason. If payment is not made, reminders will be sent. If account is still outstanding after the third reminder, collection action will be taken. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by G. Pribula to approve the NSF Checks Policy in which upon notice from the bank that a check is not honored, letter will be sent. If no response, reminder notices will be sent. If after the second notice, check is still outstanding, collection action will be taken. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by A. Cameron to approve the posting for a temporary half-time Accounts Payable Clerk in the District Service Center from November 1, 1983 through October 31, 1984 as replacement for Clerk on leave of absence. Motion carried unanimously.

Timberwolves Cause Loss Of Sheep At Prestebaks

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Confirmed cases of timberwolves causing livestock losses in Pennington and Marshall counties have resulted in the trapping of at least two of the predators and a recent effort to catch at least one more.

Tim Prestebak, who farms nine miles north of Goodridge and just east of highway 219, lost a spring lamb to timberwolves Monday night. It is a recurring problem for Prestebak who lost four sheep in August, found three more carcasses on September 30 and discovered two more kills Tuesday after finding the animal apparently killed Monday night.

"The pattern is the same on all of the kills and there are timberwolf tracks all over the pasture," Prestebak said. "They bite the sheep in the throat; you can find holes where the teeth puncture the skin. Then they start feeding by cutting into the carcass behind the rib cage and eating the heart and liver first."

All of this summer's losses have taken place in the pasture which adjoins the Prestebak farm yard, the most recent only several hundred yards southeast of the farmstead. To reach the pasture, the wolves have to cross half to three-quarters of a mile of open field. Easy availability of an evening meal apparently increases their boldness.

When the first kills were noticed in mid-August (they included three spring lambs and Prestebak's best breeding ewe), he contacted state conservation officer Stuart Benson who is stationed at Grygla. He confirmed the timberwolf kills and contacted Tim Meier, U.S. fish and wildlife service employee staying at the Red Lake wildlife management area, who set traps in the area. The next day he caught a radio-collared female timberwolf, which was estimated to be a year and one-half old, and two pups. The female was destroyed and depredations apparently stopped. The pups were fitted with radio collars and released, since young may not be killed under the law.

Then Prestebak found the three kills on September 30 and the other three on Tuesday. He contacted the trapper who set out to catch the other wolves which have developed a taste for lamb.

Prestebak has been raising sheep for about six years and this year had over 100 head of ewes and lambs. "I have had an occasional lamb or ewe killed in the last few years, but was never sure if it was by a wolf, coyote, fox or dog," he said. "Those killings could very well have been done by TIMBERWOLF KILL of a sheep on the Prestebak farm nine miles north of Goodridge is shown by Tim Prestebak. The spring lamb was killed within several hundred yards of the farm yard Monday night and nearly half eaten by its attacker. Further investigation revealed two previous kills since September 30 when remains of three other spring lambs were found. After Prestebak lost four sheep in August, a licensed trapper was called in and caught one timberwolf within a half mile of the pasture. Prestebak says the kill pattern on the recent sheep losses is identical to the earlier ones.

Glenn Miller Orchestra To Open Series

Glenn Miller orchestra under the direction of trombonist Larry O'Brien will open the 1983-84 concert season of the Thief River Falls concert association Thursday, October 13, at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

The band appearing here is the only musical organization legally authorized to carry the name of Glenn Miller, the only one that plays the authentic and original arrangements of the original Glenn Miller band. O'Brien has been director since 1981 and is a previous member of the band.

"Moonlight Serenade" has long been the theme song for the Glenn Miller orchestra and was written by Miller as an exercise in a course in arranging long before he organized his band. Two sets of lyrics were written for the music, but neither ever caught on and the song has retained its constant popularity as an instrumental number only.

Admission to the concert, and to the other four concerts in the 1983-84 series, will be by season membership only. Concert association officials who met last night noted that the series is approaching another sell-out. A limited number of memberships remain and will be available on a first-come, first-served basis at the chamber of commerce office.

Soo Line Plans Display In TRF

This month marks the 100th anniversary of the founding of the original Soo Line railroad. As part of the company's centennial celebration, a semi-trailer containing displays from the railroad's first hundred years is touring the country, and will be parked in Thief River Falls at the Best Western inn from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday, and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is free and open to the public.

Original Soo Line, corporately known as the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railroad company, traces its roots to Sept. 26, 1883. In that year Soo's earliest predecessor railroad, the Minneapolis, Sault Ste. Marie & Atlantic came into existence.

Although it would be more than 20 years before the Soo steamed into Thief River Falls, early construction on Soo's lines was rapid. Construction was started near Cameron, Wisc., in 1884 and spread east and west until a complete connection between Minneapolis and Sault Ste. Marie in the upper peninsula of Michigan was opened.

Soo got its start later than most railroads, but by doing so fostered competition in the Midwest. In the 1880s the only route for flour and grain traffic flowing from Minneapolis to the east coast via rail was through Chicago. Railroads at that time held a virtual monopoly on rates. Early founders of the line,

Model RR Unit Host Meet At Best Western

Thousand Lakes region of the National Model Railroad association will host a tri-division meeting Saturday at the Best Western inn of Thief River Falls. Model railroad enthusiasts from Minnesota, North Dakota and Manitoba will take part in the event.

From 9:30 a.m. to noon the model railroaders will visit Soo Line facilities here, particularly to inspect and photograph the two of four F-units stored here. The Soo Line will also have a special mobile museum here over the weekend (see separate story in this issue).

Following a noon lunch a series of clinics and movies will be presented and a buffet dinner will be served at 7 p.m. Participants will bring railway related slides for showing following the dinner. Any persons interested in model railroading are invited.

Subcommittee Of Senate To Meet Here Fri.

At the urging of Minnesota Senate majority leader Roger Moe of Ada and Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Plummer, the state senate agriculture subcommittee will hold a public, emergency farm crisis hearing in northwestern Minnesota to address the agricultural emergency situation in the region and to discuss what can and is being done by government to resolve it.

The subcommittee will hold the hearing for northwestern Minnesota at 7:30 p.m., Friday at the Northland community college theater, Thief River Falls, following a tour of farm disaster areas in the region. This meeting is open to the general public, and area farmers and local public officials are strongly encouraged to attend, Senators Moe and Stumpf added.

Legislative hearings have already been held, the first last August in Genola, to consider the range of economic crises facing farmers across Minnesota. It is the intent to consider the entire range of issues of concern to farmers over the next few months, prior to the 1984 state legislative session.

"Together with state agriculture commissioner Jim Nichols, the governor and other state officials, we are making an aggressive and concerted effort to get the federal government and Secretary of Agriculture John Block to release over $600 million in emergency farm relief loan assistance previously authorized by Congress for disasters such as that faced in our area," Sen. Stumpf said.

Sen. Moe noted that an official state delegation met with Secretary Block in Washington, D.C. last week, but that Block would not give absolute assurances that local farming areas hit hardest by severe weather over the last year would either be declared disaster areas or that those counties expected to be declared disaster areas (Red Lake and Pennington) would soon receive any emergency assistance.

"While I understand that the secretary offered some encouraging words, they are not enough," Sen. Moe stressed. "We need some federal action right now for this area, and for other areas of the state facing imminent financial collapse."

NCC Student Hired To Help Older Students

Geri Howe, a non-traditional student at Northland community college (NCC), has been hired to assist non-traditional students at NCC with questions and concerns they have. Non-traditional students often have fears about returning to college because they often have not taken courses for a number of years.

Some non-traditional students fear they may not pass their courses; others fear that they may feel out of place.

Howe has experienced all these fears and is eager to help older students.

Council Hears Of Arctco's Decision

Thief River Falls city council heard a positive report from representatives of Arctco Inc., regarding the company's intentions to stay and grow in Thief River Falls, along with a request for assistance in helping the company to dispose of unneeded real estate which they claim they were forced to buy in order to stay in Thief River Falls.

With Arctco's President Bill Ness and Chris Twomey, director of corporate affairs, present to answer questions, board of directors member Lowell Swenson served as chief spokesman for the company. He reaffirmed Arctco's desire to stay in Thief River Falls, commenting, "We've put considerable money and effort into this plant and we intend to stay." He said that they had raised money through private sources, in able to purchase the former Arctic Enterprises facility from Minstar Inc., and presently hold a 60-day option on the purchase at a firm price of $2 million.

"Believe me," Swenson commented, "buying real estate was the last thing we wanted to do at this time, but we felt we did not have an alternative if we were going to stay in Thief River Falls." He referred to reports that Minstar had received an offer to sell the property, adding that it was their understanding that the potential purchaser would not allow them to continue leasing the building which they presently use. Although the identity of the buyer remained unknown, Swenson said that he understood they intended to use the buildings for cold storage. "That would have meant very few jobs for Thief River," he added.

Although the company's agreement with Minstar requires them to purchase the entire complex, nearly 560,962 square feet, Twomey noted that Arctco's immediate need is only for 108,000 square feet. Carrying costs on the unneeded property were estimated at approximately $500,000 for the first year. Although Swenson estimated that the company had sufficient capital to maintain operations for two years, the cost of carrying the unneeded space was felt to jeopardize their ability to expand at a rate necessary for economic survival.

Noting that the snowmobile industry had changed a great deal in the last few years, they estimated that they would probably never expand beyond using more than two-thirds of the main plant, and asked for assistance in disposing of the unneeded property.

Although the possibility of the city purchasing the five remaining buildings at a cost of $1 million was suggested, no action was taken. Mayor Bob Carlson expressed optimism that the taxpayers would support a bond issue for the purchase if that was found to be a viable option, basing his opinion on support which had been shown for the issue of a million dollar federal aviation authority flight service station during last election. That project would have meant approximately 60 jobs for Thief River Falls.

City Attorney Bob Wurst noted that the issue was different however, and the legality of bonding for private property was questioned. It was determined that tax increment financing was probably the most viable method for purchasing such property; however, concern was expressed over how the area's designation as an enterprise zone would be affected by such actions, since one was intended as a method of increasing taxes and the other of reducing them.

Noting that Mark Dayton of the department of energy and economic development would be in town on October 13, council noted that alternatives could be discussed with him.

Asked for a conservative estimate of the company's projected growth, Twomey noted that they presently have about 20 full-time, 12-month

Candidates Can Still File For City Election

Only one contest has emerged so far in the Thief River Falls city election scheduled for November 8. That contest exists in the third ward, where Anthony Madunich has filed to run against incumbent Ambrose Wysoski. Affidavits of candidacy may be filed in the city clerk's office between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, until October 11.

Positions to be filled by election are all four-year terms and include the office of Mayor, presently held by Bob Carlson; first ward alderman, presently held by Milan Borsheim; third ward alderman; fifth ward alderman, presently held by Clayton Restad; and alderman at large, presently held by Jim Womack. All incumbents have filed for reelection.

Plan Meeting To Organize Drug Program

Local chapter of Chemical People will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Redeemer Lutheran church in Thief River Falls to make further arrangements for viewing of the chemical abuse telecast series November 1, 2 and 3.

Arrangements have been made to use Franklin middle school facilities for group viewing of the programs to be broadcast those three evenings on public television. The series deals with the Minnesota situation on the first night, national picture the second night and a national review the final night.

While individual viewing may be done, it is strongly suggested that greatest effectiveness in the community will result from group viewing at "town meetings" and discussion following the programs.

Aging Council Meet Changed

Regular meeting of the Pennington county council on aging has been changed from Monday, October 10 to Thursday, October 13, at 1:30 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium meeting room.

AVTI Evaluated; Graba Comments

Donna Stuntebeck

Joe Graba

Fred Ballou

Last week's evaluation of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute is viewed as a very positive happening, according to Fred Ballou, assistant director at the AVTI and a co-chairman of the evaluation with Charles Shubat of the vocational division of the state department of education.

"It was almost like a giant advisory board meeting," Ballou said of the evaluation which is conducted every five years to assess the school and its programs. "I would say the comments by evaluators were 95 per cent positive and that any criticisms were directed toward favorable changes in specific program areas."

Ballou said the evaluators were virtually unanimous in their favorable impression of qualified staff and were impressed with programs and equipment being up to date. He also said that many commented on the building being well kept and the program areas clean.

"One of the evaluators of the welding department even asked one of our local advisory board members if the

Malberg And Melander Vows Spoken At Zion

Deanna Marie Malberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Malberg of this city, became the bride of Mark Thomas Melander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Melander, also of this city, at a six o'clock wedding August 27, at Zion Lutheran church, Thief River Falls.

Rev. Richard Larson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Vi Barr, a friend of the bride, played "A Time For Us," as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. During the ceremony, Jane Mackenroth, a friend of the bride, and Bud Fontes sang "First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," "God, A Woman and A Man," "Endless Love," as the couple lit the unity candle, and "Always and Forever." Lighting the candelabra, graced with a large lavender ribbon bow, were Denny Kelly, Grand Forks, N.D., and Mike Sweeney, Fargo, N.D., friends of the groom, who also served as ushers. Kristin Hunt distributed the wedding programs.

For her wedding attire, the bride chose to wear her mother's wedding gown of white organza with allover satin embroidery featuring mini-hearts. The gown was styled with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline, long, tapered sleeves and a softly gathered skirt in waltz length. A silk floral wreath held her fingertip veil edged with lace. She carried a cascade of lavender and white roses and carnations, accented with purple stephanotis and white babies' breath.

Maid of honor was Patti Malberg, a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Celeste Peppin, Deb Joppru, Kathy Dillon and Wendy Easton, all of Thief River Falls, and Andrea Lis, Minneapolis; all friends of the bride. Their gowns of a lavender sheer were fashioned with V-necklines and puffy, elbow length sleeves. All wore pearl necklaces, gifts from the bride, and white small brimmed hats with brims turned up on the side. They carried lavender lace fans with a mini cluster of babies breath and ribbon streamers.

Wearing a short-sleeved, floor-length gown with a double-tiered skirt was the flower-girl, Crystelle Johnsrud, Goodridge, a friend of the bride. She carried a white basket filled with white daisies, matching the floral wreath in her hair.

The rings were carried by Ryan Hunt, Brainerd, a friend of the bride. Like the groom, he wore a white tuxedo with tails, and a white rose boutonniere.

Similar attire with black bow ties was worn by the ushers and fathers.

The mother of the bride was attired in a mauve long-sleeved, street-length dress with ivory collar and cuffs and ivory embroidery accenting the bloused bodice. The groom's mother wore a sheer dusty aqua street-length dress featuring a long-sleeved bodice of matching lace. Their corsages were of white roses. Their flowers, like the flowers at the wedding, were made by the groom's mother.

Honor guests were Mrs. Edith Malberg, Yuma, Ariz., paternal grandmother of the bride; Hardis Wilson of this city, maternal grandfather of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Alton Johnson, Fargo, N.D., maternal grandparents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Krohn, Williams, godparents of the bride; Dan Malberg, Driggs, Idaho, brother of the bride; and Julia Melander, city, sister of the groom, who served as the bride's personal attendant.

A wedding dinner for 250 guests, was hosted at the Country club by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Turenne. Reception hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Arve Moser, friends of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Brian Peterson, brother-in-law and sister of the groom.

Centering the serving table was a pillared, four-tiered wedding cake, iced in all-white and topped by a cherub ornament, corresponding with the cherubs that graced the second tier. On either side were white tapers in cherub candle holders. The cake was cut and served by Naomi Monroe, friend of the bride, and Marge Hanson, friend of the groom. Pouring coffee were Mary Ann Lofberg and Betty Walton, also friends of the bride and groom, respectively.

At the guest book was Cindy Moser, a friend of the bride. Ladling punch and serving the groom's cake were Karen Thompson, friend of the bride; and Carol Melander, sister-in-law of the groom. The gifts were carried by Quincy and Paul Lofberg. Kim Lofberg, Marcy and Michelle Turenne, Lisa and Lori Mackenroth, Kristi Dillon and Lou Wilson, cousin of the bride, served as waitresses.

Following a wedding trip to Duluth and the Twin Cities, the couple is at home in this city at 413 Merriam Avenue South. The bride is a 1981 graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed at the Rex Cafe. The groom, a 1979 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1982 graduate of the University of North Dakota, is employed by Home Lumber company in this city. Photo, Peterson Photo, Thief River Falls

Robyn Kaye Johnson And Timothy Meyer Married

Potted lilac mums graced the chancel at Bethany Lutheran church, rural Thief River Falls for the summer wedding of Robyn Kaye Johnson of Goodridge and Timothy Lee Meyer, Bismarck, N.D.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gary B. Johnson of Goodridge, and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Meyer, DeGraff.

Rev. Gene Broughton officiated at the ceremony with Grace Hammer playing Wagner's "Bridal March" for the processional. Mrs. Hammer also sang "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar. Other vocal selections were "Truly," and "Loves Grown Deep," by Kragh Folland, Winterhaven, Fla., a cousin of the groom. Jennifer Langen presented the flute solo "Follow Me." Acolytes were Brian Johnson, Goodridge, brother of the bride, and Kragh Folland, Winterhaven, Fla., cousin of the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. For the ceremony, she wore her mother's wedding gown styled with a fitted lace bodice, scalloped neckline and long tapered sleeves that came to a point over her wrists. Her bouffant skirt with a front lace panel was of nylon sheer bordered with lace. A Chantilly lace headpiece trimmed with pearls, held her walking length veil of bridal illusion, edged with lace. She carried a cascade of white Sweetheart roses, purple mini carnations, daisy mums and statice.

Valorie Sand, Goodridge, was the bride's personal attendant.

Maid of honor was Becky Peterson, Goodridge, a friend of the bride. Other attendants were Laurel Kelly, Rochester, sister of the groom; Marlene Johnson, Northwood, N.D., sister-in-law of the bride; Mishawn Homme, Thief River Falls, and Debra Anderson, Hibbing, cousins of the bride. All wore lilac gowns of polyester and cotton voile with bustle backs and flounced off-the shoulder bodices. They carried ivory fans with purple mini carnations, daisy mums and statice, corresponding with the flower spray worn in their hair. Their necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Sprinkling rose petals along the aisle was the flower girl, Jennifer Kelly, Rochester, a niece of the groom. She wore a lilac dotted Swiss floor-length gown with ruffled yoke and sleeves. She carried a small lilac wicker basket decorated with lilac silk flowers.

The rings were carried by Jim Wilson, Goodridge, a friend of the bride. He wore an ivory tuxedo, shirt and bow tie and a white rose bountonniere.

Tony Meyer, Bismarck, N.D., attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Tommy and Teddy Meyer of DeGraff, brothers of the groom; Bradley Johnson, Northwood, N.D., brother of the bride; and Kerry Sack, Grand Forks, N.D., a friend of the groom.

Ushers were Joe Smiri, Minot, N.D., Stuart Bell and Scott Christianson of St. Paul, friends of the couple. They wore silver tuxedos with purple mini carnations on their lapels. The groom wore a white rose with purple statice pinned on the lapel of his ivory tuxedo with tails.

The mother of the bride wore a lilac street-length dress with a lace trimmed bodice. The groom's mother was attired in a dusty rose crepe dress. Their corsages were of white roses and lilac flowers.

Honor guests were the grandparents: Myrtle Ellingson of DeGraff, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Johnson, Goodridge; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Haugen, Trail; Mr. and Mrs. Phyllis Meyer, Sebring, Fla.; and the bride's godmother, Edna Hawk of Issaquah, Wash.

Approximately 250 relatives and friends attended the reception that followed in the church parlors. Members of the Bethany ALCW assisted in serving. At the guest book was Andrea Meyer, DeGraff, a sister of the groom. Kristin Meyer, Rochester, a sister of the groom, and Karen Hitz, New Rockford, a college friend of the bride, served the punch.

The four-tiered wedding cake, supported by Roman pillars, was baked and decorated by Elva Fiedler of Goodridge. It was iced in white, decorated with cherubs and orchid flowers and topped by a crystal blown glass ornament. At the base was a flowing water fountain. Edna Hawk of Issaquah, Wash. and Lois Burstad, aunts of the bride, cut and served the cake. Ardith Kloth, Orlanda, Fla., aunt of the bride, poured the coffee.

Ken Johnson, Wyoming, Minn.; and Chad Homme were in charge of the gifts; Heather Olson, Carla Sorenson and April Johnson served as waitresses, and Leah Cleven, distributed the scrolls. The altar flowers as well as the flowers at the reception, were arranged by Mocassin Garden club members, Olga Nelson, Alice Lendobeja and Beatrice Wilson.

After a wedding trip to Apple River at Sumerset, Wis., and the Valley Fair in Minneapolis, the couple is at home in Bismarck, N.D., at 2023 North 14th Street, apartment 6. The bride is a graduate of Goodridge high school and University of Minnesota at Crookston, and is employed at Pizza Hut and Vanity. The groom, a graduate of Benson high school and University of Minnesota, Crookston, is employed by J.R. Miller company of Denver, Colo., as co-manager of Wendy's in Bismarck, N.D. Prevention Of Fires Week Is October 9-15

Fire prevention week, October 9 to 15, commemorates the 112th anniversary of the "great Chicago fire." From October 7 to 9, 1871, the Chicago fire claimed 250 lives and destroyed more than 2,150 acres of the city, resulting in property losses totalling $168 million. At the same time, another fire devasted the small lumber town of Peshtigo, Wisconsin, and within 24 hours claimed 800 lives. These two fires accounted for the largest loss of life in this country's history.

While Minnesota's 1982 fire statistics are not as staggering, they are still quite sobering, according to State Fire Marshal Wes Werner of the Minnesota department of public safety. Last year over 5,000 fires in one and two family dwellings, apartments and mobile homes were reported to the state fire marshal division. Property value was nearly $40 million. Seventy-six people died in fires.

By taking the proper precautions and doing the right planning now, you may be able to prevent your family from being included in these statistics later, said Werner. He offers the following fire safety tips:

(1) Develop an emergency evacuation plan for your home and practice it. Make sure everyone in the family knows ways out of every room in the house, especially the bedrooms.

(2) Know which fire department covers your area and post the department's emergency number on or near your phone. Use 911 where it is available.

(3) Sleep with your bedroom doors closed to help hold out heat and smoke from fires originating elsewhere in the home.

(4) Never re-enter a burning building. The fire department may end up carrying you back out.

(5) Install automatic smoke detectors on each floor where a person sleeps. These low-cost devices have proven themselves time and again to be very effective in providing early warning in case of fire.

E. Gillespie Services To Be Held Thursday

Funeral services for Ellsworth Gillespie, 63, of St. Hilaire, who died Sunday, have been scheduled.

Services will be held Thursday at 2:00 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Roy Nelson of Dilworth, a representative of the Jehovah Witness, will be the speaker. Musical selections will be tape recordings of Merrill Womach. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Delthus Casavan, Roy Erickson, Neil Gillespie, Jim Lambert, Dennis Erickson and Vincent Hesse.

Ellsworth Gillespie was born March 2, 1920 at Alvarado to Donald and Edith Hallen Gillespie, now deceased. He attended school in New Solum township of Marshall county, where he grew to manhood.

He was a veteran of World War II, serving as an Army engineer from 1943 to 1945.

He was married in 1944 to Ella Harren of Crookston. They were divorced in 1958. On Nov. 4, 1965, he married Gladys Anderson Schenke.

Gillespie was employed at Arctic Enterprises as lead man from 1965 until his retirement in 1978.

He was a long time member of the Eagles and VFW.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Gordon (Gloria) Wolf, Aitkin; two step-daughters: Mrs. Roy (Bonnie) Nelson, Dilworth; and Mrs. Paul (Gloria) Smith, Savage, 16 grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren, and two brothers: Frank and Orville Gillespie, both of Thief River Falls.

He was preceded in death by three sons and one brother.

Dale Pearson Services Set At Warroad

Dale Pearson, 46, of rural Roseau, father of Brett Pearson of Thief River Falls, died unexpectedly on Monday at the Roseau area hospital.

Funeral services for Dale Pearson will be held Thursday at 2:00 p.m., at Zion Lutheran church in Warroad with Rev. Paul Gustafson officiating. Rev. Ronald Becklund, Roseau, will assist. Interment will be in the Falun cemetery with military honors by the Warroad American Legion.

Dale Pearson was born Dec. 18, 1936 at Warroad to Peter and Matilda Pearson. He grew to manhood in the Warroad area. Following his service in the U.S. Navy, he returned to the Warroad-Roosevelt area. He was married at Warroad on Dec. 10, 1960 to Sharon Louise Kruger. The couple moved to Fullerton, Calif., where they lived for five years before returning to Warroad. He was manager of the Conoco Station in Warroad for several years. In 1977, they moved to Falun, where he had since resided.

He was preceded in death by his father and his wife, who died this summer when crushed while horseback riding.

WORLD SERVICE DAY, Saturday, October 8, has been set aside all over the world for Lions and Lionesses to do service work for other people. Thief River Falls noon Lioness club, represented here by president Octavia Jorgenson (left) and first vice president and service committee coordinator Anita Cardinal, has chosen to provide specialized electronic equipment for the handicapped as their project. Among the equipment which they now have available are this automatic telephone dialer and a telephone amplifier, either or both of which could make life better for some person who is presently unable to use the telephone because of paralysis or other condition. They also have a remote unit available for operating a television. Any person who knows of someone who could benefit from this equipment should contact any member of the noon Lioness club or call Octavia at 681-2498 or Anita at 681-2506.

Jobless Rate Drops Slightly During August

Above average seasonal gains in employment in the manufacturing, construction and trade sectors helped Minnesota's unemployment rate fall to 7.2 per cent in August, a drop of .3 per cent from the July level, Commissioner Barbara Beerhalter of the Minnesota department of economic security reported recently. However, the drop of .3 per cent from July was slightly below the average July to August decline of .4 per cent established over the past 12 years.

Comparable national unemployment rate for August was 9.2 per cent. Minnesota's unemployment rate in August 1982 was 7.9 per cent.

Rudy Pinola, director of the department's Research Office, said that a better than average increase in total employment, together with continued declines in unemployment insurance claims and benefits exhaustions, indicate steady but slow improvement in labor market conditions.

Number of persons employed in August was 2,059,000, up 18,200 from July and up 33,400 from August a year ago.

"Our forecasts show there will be continued expansion of non-farm payroll employment in the third and fourth quarters," Pinola said. "We expect fourth quarter payroll employment to peak at 2.6 per cent above the year-ago level."

Average hourly earnings of production workers in the manufacturing sector, held fairly steady from July to August, and the small increase in hours worked each week was roughly on par with the seasonal trend, Pinola said.

"However, compared with year-ago levels, the manufacturing work week was up by 1.1 hours or 2.8 per cent, and average weekly earnings of production workers was up by $25.13 or 7.1 per cent," he said.

Pinola cautioned that despite improvements taking place in the economy, unemployment still remains at a high level and employment remains substantially below the high water mark of October 1979.

Compared to August a year ago, the size of the Minnesota civilian labor force increased by nine per cent; the number of employed persons increased by 1.6 per cent; and the number of unemployed workers decreased by 7.5 per cent.

Minnesota's labor force in August was 2,219,500 persons, up 13,800 from July and up 20,300 from August last year.

Number of unemployed persons in Minnesota in August was 160,500 down 4,400 from July and down 13,100 from August a year ago.

Production workers in manufacturing were paid average weekly earnings of $377.30 in August for working an average of 39.8 hours at $9.48 per hour.

In August 1982, production workers were paid average weekly earnings of $352.17 for working an average of 38.7 hours at $9.10 per hour.

Unemployment rate pertains to the entire labor force and is not used to determine whether unemployment insurance benefits will be extended beyond the 26-week maximum. The unemployment rate among persons covered by unemployment insurance is used to determine whether the benefit payments will be extended.

Health Center Services Get State License

Chemical dependency services provided by the Northwestern mental health center's Karlstad branch at Karlstad have been licensed by the State of Minnesota, according to Garfield Erlandson, Kennedy, president of the Northwestern mental health center, Inc.

Northwestern mental health center has similarly licensed chemical dependency programs located at Crookston and Mahnomen.

Granting of the license, following an extensive on-site evaluation by state representatives, indicates that the program meets the staffing and programmatic requirements prescribed by the department of public welfare's specific rule governing chemical dependency outpatient programs, according to Roy O. Waters, program director.

Chemical dependency outpatient program at Karlstad is designed for individuals and their families who are experiencing difficulties from chemical dependency and abuse. Services in the program include individual, family and group therapy in a prescribed format. Services, though structured, are individualized to meet the specific needs of the individual patient and his or her family.

Jim Froseth, Karlstad, is the primary staff person in the program. Froseth, a graduate of the counselor training program at the drug dependency rehabilitation center, Fergus Falls state hospital, Fergus Falls, is a chemical dependency counselor with more than five years of experience in the field of alcohol and drug abuse.

Additional information about the services offered may be obtained by contacting the Karlstad Branch, 110 First Street, Karlstad, MN, or by calling 218-436-2942.

Challenges Of Aging Subject Of Workshop

Mn DOT Safety Program Will Stress Trucks

Increased effort is being made by the Minnesota department of transportation (MnDOT) to help make roads safer for the traveling public as well as for motor carriers, according to Douglas Differt, assistant commissioner of the program management division.

With the hiring of a new motor transportation enforcement supervisor, four additional motor transportation enforcement agents and one hazardous materials specialist plus stationing agents at two additional Mn-DOT offices in Bemidji and Morris, we will be able to increase our services, he said.

Services include working with motor carriers through presentation of seminars on motor carrier safety (especially handling of hazardous materials), explanation of economic regulations (operating authority and rates) and additional unannounced truck weight and safety checks throughout the state, he said.

New motor transportation enforcement supervisor, who will coordinate many of these efforts, is Gilbert "Gib" Wiedenhoeft, formerly of the Wisconsin transportation commission. He was director of the rate and tariff bureau and also of the tariff and statistics bureau. Prior to his Wisconsin service, Weidenhoeft worked for an area railroad and for a small motor carrier.

With the additional personnel, Mn-DOT will have a total of 11 motor transportation enforcement agents, two hazardous materials specialists and one supervisor. Eight enforcement agents will be based at the following cities to serve the surrounding areas: Bemidji, Detroit Lakes, Duluth, Mankato, Marshall, Morris, Rochester and St. Cloud. The supervisor, three other agents and two hazardous materials specialists will work from the transportation building in St. Paul.

Public TV Has 3-Part Series On Sexuality

Three-part series on "Teenage Sexuality, the Role of Parents" will be aired October 5, 12 and 19 at 10:30 p.m. on Prairie Public television. A guidebook to accompany the series is available for $1 from Prairie Public Television, 4500 South University Drive, Fargo, ND 58103.

Parental involvement is considered important as the years of adolescence involve changes and decisions where the wrong choice can result in getting hurt, according to program promoters.

Fall Harvest Adds Activity To Highways

Harvest time means heavy activity for Minnesota farmers, including more occasions when farm machinery travels or crosses state highways. Such slow moving farm vehicles as tractors and combines can represent a real hazard to motorists who are unaware of their increased presence during the fall, reminds the Minnesota department of public safety.

During 1982 in Minnesota farm tractors or equipment were involved in 210 crashes, including six fatal crashes and 81 crashes resulting in personal injury. Nearly half of the farm machinery-roadway accidents involved collisions with other vehicles.

When slow moving farm vehicles are operated on highways, they must follow all applicable traffic regulations including use of turn signals, observance of traffic signs and right-of-way. Vehicles designed for operation at 25 miles-per-hour or under must also display a triangular slow moving vehicle emblem. This emblem requirement also applies to construction equipment as well as farm machinery.

Farm equipment operators should attempt to make their vehicles as visible as possible. Vehicle lights should be checked and all burned out bulbs replaced. Reflectors should be cleaned or replaced as necessary. Even with these precautions, travel at night, during fog or other low visibility periods should be avoided if possible. Tractors and combines equipped with cabs should be checked to see that windshield wipers are in working condition and that windows are frequently cleaned.

"By working together we can make this a harvest of plenty, not a harvest of tragedy," said Public Safety Commissioner Paul Tschida.

Would Reduce Interest On Disaster Loans

Congressman Arlan Stangeland has co-sponsored a bill to improve relief to farmers in disaster-stricken counties by reducing interest payments on disaster loans by up to $1,000 and by carrying out an emergency livestock feeding program.

The bill (H.R. 3973) would lower the interest rate on the first $50,000 of disaster loans from five per cent to three per cent. This would reduce interest payments by up to $1,000 per farm family.

"In early September, I met with Agriculture Secretary John Block at the disaster summit conference in Chicago," Congressman Stangeland said. "One of our goals at that meeting was to persuade the administration to lower interst charges on disaster loans."

Two weeks ago, President Reagan announced that interest charges on the first $100,000 of farm disaster loans would be lowered from eight per cent to five per cent.

"That was a positive step, but this bill would add an extra $1,000 of purchasing power for farm disaster relief," the congressman added.

The bill also instructs Secretary Block to carry out the emergency livestock feeding program which has already been authorized by Congress. Producers who operate family farms in disaster-designated counties would qualify for special feed assistance.

"The success of the PIK program and the effects of the drought on pastures and forage crops have driven feed costs through the ceiling," Congressman Stangeland said. "Without a feed program, producers will be forced to reduce their flocks and herds. This will have long-reaching effects on consumers of meat and poultry."

The agriculture committee member noted that the emergency livestock feed program would not require additional funding because it would be financed by reallocating an estimated $535 million in unspent and returned deficiency payments in the USDA budget for fiscal year 1983.

"With PIK and the drought, grain prices have skyrocketed," Congressman Stangeland said. "Since there is no need for these deficiency payments this year, we ought to use those funds to help farmers weather the current crisis."

U'M' Regents Approve Pay Equity Plan

A $5.3 million plan for increasing the salaries of 8,000 non-union University of Minnesota civil service employees by four per cent and for phasing out sex discrimination in pay was approved by the board of regents recently.

Plan, which includes comparability adjustments for 2,800 workers, calls for a basic increase of four per cent or 25 cents an hour, whichever is greater, retroactive to July 1. On top of that four per cent, employees in 21 female-dominated categories will receive comparability adjustments in accordance with the state's pay equity law.

Action on the plan was almost delayed by a motion by Regent David Roe, who objected to having salaries set for non-union employees while the university is still negotiating the employees represented by two unions, the Teamsters and the American federation of state, county and municipal employees (AFSCME).

"It concerns me that the university would move unilaterally on one group of employees," said Roe, who is president of the Minnesota AFL-CIO. "It's probably ironic that if I, as a member of this board, had proposed setting salaries of these unrepresented employees separately and then moving to the represented employees... somebody might have raised the question that I might have a conflict or special interest."

In voting against Roe's motion, other regents expressed the need to approve the pay plan so people would receive their raises as soon as possible. "Here we are in September addressing a pay plan that was supposed to go into effect July 1," Regent William Dosland said Thursday. "We're woefully late."

Under the plan approved recently, comparability adjustments will range from 2.1 per cent for office assistants to 13.2 per cent for data entry supervisors. Regent Mary Schertler told the board the plan has created problems because the adjustments will leave some supervisors earning less than the employees they supervise, a problem the state is also encountering. William Thomas, associate vice president and director of university personnel, said his department is working closely with the state to remedy the situation.

"The number may be small, but the concerns are very real," Schertler said. "People are asking, 'Why did I work so hard for a promotion to be making less than the people working under me?' "

Board also reacted to a report prepared by a 23-member panel of faculty, staff and students suggesting the university can improve its contributions to the Minnesota economy by raising its academic standards and becoming more accessible to developing business enterprises that need university help. "The challenge is to raise the quality of the university without becoming elitist," Schertler said. "It's a delicate balancing act."

David Lilly, acting vice president for finance and operations and chair of the panel that wrote the report, told the board it is important that the university make itself distinct, but to cooperate with the more than 60 post-secondary institutions in Minnesota. "The whole system is faced with a loss of 20 per cent of students in the next several years... we could hurt our sister institutions (if we try to compete for students)," Lilly said.

"We don't have to speculate," said Regent David Lebedoff. "There are a lot fewer 14 year olds than 18 year olds in Minnesota. If everybody tries to maintain current levels, somebody is going to win and somebody is going to lose."

"We have to be willing to change some of our structure," said Regent Erwin Goldfine, urging the administration to work with other institutions when considering implementation of the report's recommendations. "I feel very strongly that we can't do it in a vacuum."

The panel's report was presented to the regents in August as informal recommendations for changes at the university, not as administration proposals.

Grand Knight Talk Carried On Local Radio

A special Columbus Day address will be broadcast over radio stations KTRF and KKAQ, according to Darryl Tveitbakk, Grand Knight of Our Lady of Lourdes Knights of Columbus council 4619 in Thief River Falls.

Tveitbakk stated that the address would be delivered by Virgil C. Dechant, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus. The executive will speak on "Getting Things Done" Sunday between 9:30 and 10 a.m. KKAQ and on Monday at 6:35 p.m. on KTRF.

Christopher Columbus 491 years ago completed one of most daring and courageous exploratory sea voyages recorded in the annals of mankind, the discovery of the North American continent," Tveitbakk said. "Nearly 1.4 million men of the western hemisphere, all Knights of Columbus members, join together this week in observing this the anniversary of Columbus' epic voyage."

New Computer System Adds To Flying Safety

Minnesota pilots have a new, one-of-a-kind tool to help make aviation in Minnesota even safer than it is today, the Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) aeronautics division announced.

State Director of Aeronautics Dick Keinz said, "Minnesota is the first and only state in the nation to offer this new tool, which consists of a network of computer terminals placed in 50 locations at 43 airports throughout the state, (including Thief River Falls) in an effort to demonstrate the usefulness and availability of current 'realtime' weather information to pilots operating here."

Statistics show that "nearly 50 per cent of all aircraft accidents are weather related," said Keinz, "and we hope this program can drastically reduce those numbers." Last year, 60 general aviation aircraft accidents with 12 fatalities were reported in Minnesota.

Designed to enhance safety in the air, this program is also the ultimate example of a public-private partnership, said Keinz. "This is the first program of its kind in which a state aviation department has contracted with private enterprise to provide weather information on a large scale."

Data terminals give pilots access to the meteorological division of Kavouras, Inc., Realtime Atmospheric Monitoring (RAM). RAM provides the information through its weather data base computer facilities in the federal aviation building in Minneapolis.

Utilizing the network, pilots may obtain weather information, weather graphics and computerized flight plans from the terminals free of charge. Carrying the public-private partnership concept one step further, an option also is available under the state contract for individuals to subscribe to this service on their home computers at a discounted group rate. Weather information from the national weather service and the federal aviation administration (FAA) is available to data base users on a 24-hour basis, providing pilots with the most current information.

"Safety is the ultimate goal," said Keinz. FAA flight service stations across the state, during periods of moderate to heavy weather, are hard pressed to serve all the users without delays because the telephone lines to the facilities are just too busy. When the weather is the worst, that's when the pilots need the information the most. In addition, the flight service stations cannot deliver tailored computerized flight plans, graphics or hard copy weather information as this system can," noted Keinz.

The $300,000 annual cost of the project is being paid by user taxes collected from Minnesota's aviation community, not from the state's general funds, said Keinz. "Once users of Minnesota's airspace see how valuable and usable this information is, the demonstration program may evolve into a state-local financial participation program to provide this and other weather and flight planning data in pilot briefing rooms at municipal airports throughout Minnesota."

AVTI Course On Welding Set For Thursday

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI) is offering a 10-week adult evening class in arc and oxy acetylene welding instructed by Gaylyn Magner.

Class meets this Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the AVTI, room 121. Tuition is $37.50, with a supply charge for actual welding time. Students will need to supply safety glasses and gloves.

PAT DUNNING has been chosen "Artist of the Month" for October by the Thief River Falls community arts council. A selection of her work will be on display throughout the month at Northwest regional library. These two large wall hangings, however, are not in the display, although they are among her favorites. Utilizing a variety of techniques to achieve a unique style, Pat credits the importance of God in her life for the spiritual nature of much of her work. These wall hangings are part of a set of three which she was commissioned to create for Zion Lutheran Church, with the uncompleted third picture to depict Elijah the prophet.

Pat Dunning Is Named "Artist Of The Month"

(Thief River Falls community arts council features an area artist each month, whose work goes on display at Northwest regional library in Thief River Falls for the entire month. People who would like to recommend an artist to be featured should contact the arts council by calling 681-2980.)

October's "Artist of the Month" is Pat Dunning of Thief River Falls. Pat is a teacher who works in several mediums of art both in and out of the classroom. Her display at the library includes two landscape paintings, two rosemaled trays, and a jewelry box painted in a Bavarian folk style.

Her landscapes are of this local area. One painting is of Red Lake Boulevard in Thief River Falls. As Pat painted this picture, a resident of that area commented that she had not previously realized the beauty of her own block. Pat's other landscape in the display is of a friend's country cabin in the Plummer area. Responding to comments on the beauty of her work, Pat stated, "I try to pick up the beauty that God has put there."

Much of Pat's artwork has a spiritual theme. When asked about this, she replied, "The spiritual part of what I create is because of who I am, because God is such an important part of my life."

Her work has been recognized by organizations as well as individuals. Zion Lutheran Church commissioned her to create three pictures based on Bible stories. Two of those three textile wall hangings, one of Naomi and Ruth and one of Moses and Miriam, presently hang in that church, and Pat is working on the third, a wall hanging of Elijah. Created using various techniques with fabric, the three pictures are designed so that the backgrounds flow together to create an appearance of a single work.

Pat's interest in art began in sixth grade. At that time, she entered a poster contest and won a drawing pad. That aroused her interest in art. "Anytime a skill is rewarded, it reinforces the feeling that you have some talent in that area," said Pat. She kept on with her art work and graduated from St. Cloud University with a double major in art and biology.

Outside the classroom, she has worked extensively with a variety of mediums. These include Ukranian-style eggs, silkscreen and woodcut prints, acrylic painting, rosemaling, textile wall hangings, pencil and pen and ink drawings. She says she is constantly looking for something new to do for personal growth and also to teach her school children.

To grow, however, Pat feels a studio setting is desirable. She echoed the feeling of many artists in Thief River Falls that studio space is needed in the community. She said, "art materials need to be out while an artist is working on a piece and cannot be put away every day or else much creative time is lost." Her art materials, for example, are scattered about her house since she does not have a studio. Another reason for studio space noted by Pat was a need to be around other artists. "In order to be productive," she said, "You need the sharing and feedback from other artists."

Pat utilized her creativity last year in a different way, by designing sets for two plays done in Newfolden. Before beginning the set for "The Sound of Music", she did a great deal of research on Austria. Architecture and decoration of the period in which an Agatha Christie play was set were also studied before designing that set. As she put it, "You have to start with research. A designer should always hit the books first before attempting a set design."

Besides her artwork, Pat involves herself with various other activities. She is an avid gardener and has been playing cello for six years. She was one of the cellists in last year's production of "The Messiah." In addition, she is very active in the adult program at United Methodist Church, usually leading at least one adult class each week.

Pat and her husband Dale have three children: Laura, Kara and Alice. They live in rural Thief River Falls.

Stangeland To Review Border Jobs, Fishing

Border jobs and fish resources are at issue when Congressman Arland Stangeland meets with 30 legislators from the Province of Ontario at the Canadian Embassy in Washington today (Wednesday).

Congressman Stangeland will meet with members of Ontario's legislative assembly, at the invitation of the Canadian embassy's minister of political affairs (Jeremy Kinsman) and minister of economic affairs (Jacques Roy).

"This meeting should make it clear to Ontario's leaders that we want to work with them in replenishing our fish resources in border waters and in protecting tourism jobs on both sides of the border," Stangeland said.

The Canadian legislators are the members of Ontario's standing committee on public accounts and standing committee on procedural affairs. Since Ontario's government is based on a parliamentary system, these legislators have a great deal of influence on the executives of the province.

"I will re-affirm my commitment to leading an international effort to replenish fish in our border lakes and streams," Congressman Stangeland said. Earlier this year, he presented a plan for restocking fish was was developed by the Minnesota border lakes coalition.

"At the same time, I will tell the Ontario officials that their province's continuing pattern of job harassment in the border tourism industry must be stopped," Congressman Stangeland said.

This summer, Ontario officials ordered Minnesota resorters to take charter boats to official ports of entry, as much as 45 miles away, before entering Canadian waters. Congressman Stangeland called the Canadian embassy, which wrote a letter instructing the provincial government to halt this practice.

"If Ontario continues to try to lure tourism jobs and dollars by restricting Minnesota resorters, both sides will lose," Congressman Stangeland said. "Families will decide to take vacations elsewhere."

Congressman Stangeland hopes that Wednesday's meetings will encourage Ontario to pursue a policy of cooperation on tourism. "By establishing a more positive atmosphere, both sides will be able to divide profits from an expanded tourism industry," he said.

Alma Harvest Festival Sun.

The King's Men will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, for the Harvest Festival service at Alma Lutheran Church, rural Argyle.

Program, which features a men's trio and quartet with guitar and tape accompaniment, is open to the public. Pie and coffee will be served afterwards.

Warn Farmers About Leaving Machinery Out

Harvest time means more farm equipment is left unattended in fields, making it easy picking for thieves and vandals.

Best advice from Minnesota crime watch, a program of the Minnesota department of public safety (DPS), is to not park heavy equipment unattended in the field. However, when that is not practical, some theft-deterring practices can be used. Whenever possible farmers should park equipment where neighbors can see it and behind a hill where the equipment will be hidden from the road.

Remove the distributor cap, rotor and wire on machinery left in the field, said Paul J. Tschida, DPS commissioner. Install a hidden switch that either interrupts or grounds out the ignition.

Another theft prevention tip is to use a towing chain to secure machinery by locking one or both drive wheels to the frame with a heavy-duty padlock. Chain lighter equipment to a stationary object like a tree or post.

Prevent sand or other foreign substances from being dumped into gas tanks of unattended machinery by using a locking gas cap, suggests Tschida. Batteries should also be bolted down or locked in a cover.

Crime Watch recommends these additional steps to prevent farm losses due to theft:

— Join operation identification — a free burglary prevention program available through local police and sheriff departments.

— Close and lock machinery shed doors and windows.

— Mark livestock with a brand or tattoo.

— Locate the farmyard gas tank where it can be seen from the house.

— Install a high pressure sodium light to increase visibility in the farmyard.

— Work with neighbors to practice crime prevention and watch each other's farms for suspicious activity. Report suspicious activity to the police or sheriff's department immediately.

Other theft prevention tips are in "Rural crime, don't be the next victim," a crime watch booklet available from from local police and sheriff departments.

Graba Gives Comments On AVTI Issues

welding shop was always that clean or if it had been prepared specially for the evaluation," Ballou said. "He was assured that the shop is always maintained in that condition."

One of the visitors with the evaluation team was Joe Graba, appointed August 1 as director of the state board for vocational-technical education which was created by the 1983 legislature. Graba is a former teacher in Wadena, served on the education committee in the Minnesota legislature for six years and chaired the school aids division for four years. He was also deputy commissioner of education for three years under Howard Casmey.

Graba told the Times in a special interview that the legislature was not pleased with the management of the AVTI system on the state level. It made the change in governance structure in hopes that the new board would focus more on management of the system to provide the greatest value for dollars spent.

Effective January 1, all classified personnel in the state vocational division will transfer to the new system directed by a 10-member board. One of the board members — Dr. Doug Knowlton of East Grand Forks — was also present at the local evaluation process.

"The frustration in the legislature was that the system hadn't cut programs with low enrollment and job placement," Graba said. "I believe there are programs which can be eliminated in some of those areas, but I also believe we must add programs in areas where they are needed to keep pace with our technological revolution. Our need is to detect which fields are declining and which are emerging so that we can help prepare people for jobs in the emerging areas."

The director said the vocational-technical institutes must not fear loss of some old line programs as they expand into high technology fields.

Graba said he hopes for significant increases in cooperation between the state community colleges and AVTIs, particularly in the sharing of facilities and then in support services and administration. The final and most difficult areas of cooperation will be in programs, he said. As an example, the AVTI instructional model of 30 classroom hours for students per week does not coincide with the instructional model in the college system.

"My goal will be to realize as much saving as possible without destroying the central purposes of either institution," he said. "I am personally convinced that more students come to Northland community college and the Thief River Falls AVTI today because they are two distinct schools than would come here if the schools were merged," he said.

"The clarity of missions is of value in attracting students," he added, "and the goal of higher education is to get as many people as highly trained as possible. I believe in wringing every ounce of gain out of the voluntary cooperation effort — joining of support areas and improvement of services — before mandating merger of the systems."

He called local control of higher education "a distinct mixed blessing." The legislature has centralized responsibility but has failed to centralize authority, he said. Conversely, he is convinced that local control through district boards of education has meant more local involvement in programs than if entirely state operated.

"Vocational education has to accept that the employment picture is changing and that we will see greater turnover in programs than in the past," Graba added.

Equal Opportunity

Among the evaluators at the Thief River Falls AVTI was Donna Stuntebeck of Hibbing, the Title IV director and special needs counselor for the past four years in that school district. She met with administrators and the local committee.

The majority of educators are alive to the issues of equal opportunity, she said, but the same situation does not always extend to the work place. "I would like to see more cooperation with the community on employment," she said, adding that the opinion was general and not directed specifically to Thief River Falls.

Her evaluation here was to see how courses not only accepted both male and female students but how courses are presented to potential students, and what the experience of students in what is now considered non-traditional classes has been.

"The time is coming when we won't have traditional programs," Stuntebeck said. "Training will simply be available and no attention will be paid to whether the student enrolling is male or female."

But she noted that it is impossible to separate education from social issues and that the acceptance of people in all fields of work has to start in the lower grades. People can change attitudes with education, she said.

Stuntebeck said she doesn't believe in the "hard core approach" to equal opportunity. "Change has to come through knowledge and experience," she said, "and the need for a few good role models can't be overemphasized. A sense of humor also helps a lot."

While she was concerned with education evaluation here, Stuntebeck said that job placement is the real issue. "It doesn't do any good at all to train people for the job market if there is no market for them," she said. "The first step is the most important in acceptance of people in so-called non-traditional fields. Employers should be looking for the best worker, not the best male worker or female worker."

Within the next two months, Charles Shubat of the vocational division will return to Thief River Falls to present the evaluation report to the Thief River Falls board of education. Shortly thereafter, local AVTI director Dr. Orley Gunderson and assistant Fred Ballou will go to St. Paul for a review with the higher education coordinating board.

CROWNED QUEEN of the Plummer high school homecoming at special ceremonies Monday evening was Connie Westlake. Other senior class candidates were Robin Delage (left) and Sheila Sorenson. Homecoming activities are continuing throughout the week and will conclude with a football game and dance on Friday evening and a volleyball tournament on Friday. Football game opponent will be McIntosh.

including William D. Washburn, a prominent Minneapolis flour miller and first president of the Soo, determined that a new rail route to the east, exclusive of Chicago, was needed to bolster competition and lower freight rates.

They chose the route from Minneapolis to Sault Ste. Marie, where trains could connect with the expanding Canadian Pacific railway system and move through Canada to the east coast. Railroad soon became known as the "Soo Line", drawing from the phonetic pronunciation of Sault Ste. Marie.

First train from Minneapolis to Sault Ste. Marie connected with the Canadian Pacific in January 1888, and the new route was officially opened. As expected, Soo's new competitive service meant lower grain rates.

In that same year the Minneapolis, Sault Ste. Marie & Atlantic, along with three other roads which participated in early construction, merged to form the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railroad Company, which would retain its corporate and popular Soo Line names continuously into the 1960s.

Soo wasn't content, however, to exclusively serve customers on its first line. Between 1888 and 1913 the company expanded westward through Minnesota and the Dakotas to the Canadian border. A branch line west into Montana terminated just 60 miles into the state and a grand plan at one time to complete the Soo to the Pacific coast was abandoned.

Route to Thief River Falls was opened in 1904 to the border at Noyes. Completion of the line meant the Soo had connections with the Canadian railroads at three border points; all at locations suited to handle international traffic between the U.S. and Canada.

A short time after its mainline reached Thief River Falls, an expansion westward from the city was started. Eventually, lines from Thief River would extend through an extensive grain growing region of the Dakotas and take on the designation "Wheat Line", which remains today.

Fortunes of the Soo were closely linked to grain. Farmers' success was Soo's success. Failure meant the railroad would have a poor year.

As years passed however, Soo diversified its traffic base. Forest products, chemicals, potash, liquified petroleum gases, paper products and products of manufacturing plants made the railroad less dependent on grain. It is fitting, however, that during its centennial year the Soo achieved a milestone in grain movement during August, originating more grain from country elevators during a single month period than during any other single month in its history.

Prospects for the Soo were greatly strengthened in 1961, when it joined with the Wisconsin Central railroad company and the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railroad company in a merger to form the present Soo Line railroad company. It quickly became more efficient and most important, profitable.

Soo today operates more than 4,400 miles of line in seven states. Its trains carry a variety of materials closely related to agriculture, forests, mining and manufacturing. Company employs nearly 4,000 people system-wide and in 1982 generated $284 million in revenues.

Although a Century has passed since the original Soo was built, and technology and commodity mix have significantly changed, the reason for its existence remains the same. Founded to provide competition, the deregulated railroad industry of today strives to improve competition and strengthen their position as major freight movers for the country.

Council Hears Positive Arctco Report Tuesday

employees and about 75 employees who work for four and a half months. He estimated that they would have 25 full-time employees and between 140 and 170 employees working for five or six months next year. Next year's payroll was estimated to be in excess of a million dollars, with another million spent on local purchases.

Swenson noted that Arctco was firmly committed to purchasing the site when their 60 day option expires on December 1, noting that all they were asking from the council at this time was a "vote of confidence" that they would support the company in whatever way they could.

"We want to do what we know best," he said, "and that's building snowmobiles. We don't want to be in the real estate business." He noted that anything the community could do to reduce their overhead would help the company to survive and bring jobs here. Council promised its support.

Meeting was adjourned to 8:15 Tuesday, October 11, when council will meet with Minnesota department of transportation personnel to review its new approach to the Third Street project. Public hearing on the project will be held October 17.

Timber Wolves Cause Loss Of Area Livestock

some animal other than a timberwolf."

But last October Prestebak turned his sheep out to forage in a newly-combined sunflower field and lost 12 animals in one night. "They were killed in the same manner as the ones this summer and fall," Prestebak said, "and were fed on in the same pattern. "But the hired man plowing the field didn't know what to do with them so he plowed them under."

If the sheep had been killed by dogs, coyotes, foxes or other predators, the loss would be his alone. But if the kills are confirmed as caused by timberwolves — federally protected as an endangered species — he is entitled to compensation for his losses. He recently received a check for $240 for the four sheep he lost in August — fair market value as determined by the county extension agent. Prestebak can file claims for his most recent losses as well.

Prestebak said he saw three timberwolves last winter on highway 219 just west of his farm and one last summer near the Eckvoll wildlife management area. His parents also saw one last year which was wearing a radio collar.

Conservation officer Craig Backer of Thief River Falls said the Prestebak farm is not in his area, but he believes the wolves involved are from what he called the "Agassiz pack". That pack became established on the federal refuge and has apparently since moved to state land east of the Prestebak farm. Backer said he has seen numerous timberwolf tracks in the winter on new snow in the area and knows that the pack hunts heavily in that area in the winter. Manager Joe Kotok at Agassiz refuge said the pack had been believed to include eight or nine wolves.

Backer also said that two confirmed timberwolf kills took place earlier this summer in eastern Pennington county. The same wolf was involved in both incidents and apparently came off the Red Lake Indian reservation to the east. The animal killed a calf of the Leonard Johnson farm in Star township, then eight days later killed one hog and severely injured another four miles south on the Jack Rindahl farm in Hickory township.

In both cases, the wolf had come into the farm yard and gone into the barn to make its kills. At the Johnson farm it killed the smallest of three calves in a pen in the barn, dragged it into the farm yard and fed on it there. At the Rindahl farm it had gone into the barn, killed one hog and bitten another so severely it had to be destroyed. It was trapped three days later about 200 yards from the Rindahl farm yard and destroyed.

Jack Rindahl said he and his wife saw the wolf leaving the barn about 6 to 6:15 a.m. the morning the hogs were killed. He said the hogs were 100-pound animals and the one killed had been partially eaten by the wolf. The dead hogs were left in the farm yard and the wolf returned to feed on the carcasses. The Rindahls saw it the third night — apparently the same night it was trapped.

The wolf was estimated to be a two-year-old, large but very thin. It had an old bullet wound in the chest area. Rindahl said the hogs were the first loss of livestock he has had killed by wolves and has had no trouble since the one wolf was caught. Early this spring he did lose two cattle which drowned in a stock pit, and he believes they were pursued by wolves since there were wolf tracks in the pond area.

Minnesota department of natural resources has been attempting for some time, to have control of the timberwolf returned to the state from its present federal control.

Right now it is illegal for a livestock raiser to kill a timberwolf even if he catches it in the act of destroying his property. Would such a law prevent Tim Prestebak from protecting his sheep?

"I would probably shoot it," he admitted thoughtfully. "But I wouldn't advertise it."

Women's Auto Mechanics Class Starts

Auto mechanics class designed to help women learn and understand the automobile and many of the problems it can have has been scheduled to begin tonight (Wednesday). Class will meet from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the AVTI, room B101 for seven consecutive Wednesdays. Tuition is $26.25.

Norm Halsa will teach this class which will cover how to change a tire, replace lights and fuses, change oil, understand a carburetor, fuel pump and other parts of a car, and what to do in times of stalling and emergencies.

Pre-register by contacting adult education, AVTI, 681-5424.

Peat Session At BSU Offers Special Papers

Five individuals associated with Bemidji state university authored papers to be presented at the second international peat symposium October 11-13 in Bemidji.

Speaking at the symposium will be Dr. Wallace J. Wanek, professor of biology; Dr. Robert C. Melchior, professor of earth science; and Dr. Fu-Hsian Chang, Dr. Charles H. Fuchsman and Julia Dady of the center for environmental studies.

Wanek co-authored a piece on "The Structure and Community Dynamics of an Orchid Bog." The structure composition and environment of a secluded 73-acre orchid bog were studied to explain why a large population of rare plants, including the showy lady slipper and 10 other orchid species, were growing there.

Melchior's presentation will be "Observations on a Petrified Peat from the Paleocene Sentinel Butte Formation in North Dakota." In his paper, Mechlor applied previous experience in fossil pollens and spores to describe and identify plant structures that appeared several thousand years ago.

Dady, a former graduate assistant at BSU, will present "The Effect of Salt, Sucrose and Humic Acids on the Biomass Yield of Candida Tropicalis." This looks into the effects of variables on the ability to raise high protein yeast intended for cattle feed from peat.

Chang's is the "Study of Growth Factors of Candida Utilis on Peat Hydrolysates." This paper outlines the attempt to raise a yeast with the purpose of creating a high protein feed for livestock.

Fuchsman will present "The Humic Acid Problem and the Prospects of Peat Utilization."

This will be an historical review and criticism of contemporary theories of humic acids. The suggestion is that our understanding of peat should best be viewed from biochemical or biological perspectives and peat should be considered as a living system.

The second international peat symposium will bring scientists from 10 countries to Bemidji state university in an effort to address the problems of energy and non-fuel uses of peat from a number of international perspectives.

Water Crisis Attacked By Durenberger

Senator Dave Durenberger has joined forces with five other members of Congress today to combat the growing threat of a major national water crisis.

The National Water Alliance, which will be co-chaired by Durenberger, was formally announced at a news conference in Philadelphia on Friday.

"Not enough people are interested in environmental matters until there is an irreversible crisis at hand. We're setting the stage for a national water crisis with our inadequate planning of conflicting resource demands. I believe the National Water alliance will provide the forum for debate on key water supply and water quality issues, and I'm proud to be a part of that effort," Durenberger said.

"Our primary goal is to create a national water policy by the spring of 1985. Right now, no such policy exists.

"We're invited experts to help us conduct educational seminars across the country, with the possibility of one such seminar being held in Minnesota. Part of the seminar's task will be to assess the specific water problems of different regions in the country — from supply issues to pollution problems such as ground water contamination."

Durenberger is a member of the Senate environment and public works committee.

The National Academy of Science will host the alliance's first seminar on October 1 in Philadelphia.
